VOL. XLVII — ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, IND

REVIVAL MEETING

Revival meetings will start at the Concord Methodist Protestant Church on Sunday, January 8 and will continue for at least two weeks. Rev. Forrest Kuhn, of Detroit, will be the evangelist. He has been greatly blessed of God in mission work and as an evangelist. His messaages will be of interest and help to everyone. Pray for the services and come. Meetings Sunday mornings at 10:30 and every night but Monday night at 7:00. Church services will be dismissed at St. Joe and Harlan during the time of the revival. Music will be furnished by the Community Male Quartet on Sunday evening.

FORT WAYNE WIFE SUES

Mrs. Grace M. Ginther of 447 Baker Street began action in superior court No. 1 for a two-year limited separation from Albert L. Ginther, averring that since their marriage his conduct toward her has been abusive and "very annoying." She further charged that he has been in the habit of becoming intoxicated, and failed to make suitable provision for her support. — Sunday Journal Gazette.

SAMUEL MORR GETS INFIRMARY APPOINTMENT

Samuel C. Morr, of Concord township, was appointed superintendent of the county infirmary Tuesday afternoon by the county commissioners for a four year term. Mrs. Morr was made matron of the home.

The combined salary of Mr. and Mrs. Morr will be $1,500 a year. The present superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Leighty, have been receiving a total of $2,000 a year.

The change in management of the infirmary will take effect March 1. Mr. and Mrs. Leighty will move into a new house they own near the county farm.

The members of the county organization and other party workers petitioned the commissioners to appoint Mr. Morr, who has been active in the party for years.

The county board also appointed Ray Miller of Stafford township, as county drainage superintendent, succeeding John S. Wing of Waterloo. His pay will be $1 a day.

Dr. Harold Nugen, of Auburn, was made county physician, succeeding Dr. C. P. Fox of Garrett. The salary is $190 a year.

Wm. Stonebraker was reappointed court house custodian at a salary of $125 a month. Mrs. Ella Johnson was reappointed court house matron at $40 a month.

W. W. Sharpless will act as county attorney at $400 per year.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS

Effective January 1, 1933, all quarterly billing of Telepone rental will be changed to monthly billing. This makes it necessary for all subscribers, both city and rural, to pay their Telephone rental on or before the 15th day of each month to secure their discount. Signed:

Indiana Standard Telephone Co.

GRANT BALTZ PROVEN PEST HUNT WINNER

Beyond all doubt, when the total score of the pest hunters was revealed, Grant Baltz and his gang put it all over Lester Coburn and his hunters.

The Baltz gang captured 2 owls; 43 crows; 1 red squirrel; 176 barn rats; 155 starlings; 2476 sparrows and 48 mice, giving them a total point score of 66,320.

The Coburn gang captured 4 owls; 1 crow; 2 red squirrels; 176 barn rats; 76 [illegible] 2596 sparrows and 80 mice, making a total point score of 49,730.

Plans for the losing squad to supply the feed have been made for Thursday night at the school house.

P. T. A. MEETING

An unusual feature of i[t] to parents and teachers [p]resented next Tuesday e[v]ening, January 10 at the regular [P.] T. A. meeting.

The Chinese wor... cestors, but American... spend the money they leav...

If everything got lost as easily as a good pipe, everything would stay lost most of the time.

There is just so much worry for everybody. If you dodge your share, there is more for your creditors.

The people are as good as ever. They just seem lawless because laws are passed so rapidly they can't keep up.

COIN OF THE REALM

Caesar caused the Roman money to be stamped with his likeness, thereby including it among "the things that are Caesar's." In ancient times the emperor owned not only the money but all the substance of his realm, including the lives of his subjects. The same is true today in all those countries in which the government is still an absolute monarchy. The coin of th realm has peculiar interest in that it bears the likeness of the rules of the nation.

The coin of the United States is not a departure from this rule, although all the figures depicted thereon are symbolic. Upon most of the coins is the goddess of liberty. The eagle, symbol of strength and courage, is also upon most of them. In only one case is the head of a particular individual imprinted upon an American coin—the head of Lincoln on the cent.

THE OPTIMIST

One of the encouraging evidences of the sanity of the public mind is the growing impatience with so-called "Pollyannaism." Genuine optimism does not consist in disregarding the unpleasant parts of life. Neither is it a thoughtless satisfaction with the preseent conditions without thought of the future. Still less is it that state of mind that distinguished Mr. Micawber, who

Emotionally the nation is ever under high pressure. The motion picture compresses into two hours the whole range of human adventure and excitement for thousands. The radio is concentrating millions on one thought and at one time Huge stadiums throughout the country gather with ease and safety crowds numbered in hundreds of thousands, permitting them to enjoy the magnetic thrill of concentrated mass emotion.

All this speed and size is an accepted part of the atmosphere of the American city. It causes people unconsciously to quicken their pace and to feel themselves part of a huge confederation. Is it any wonder that "high-voltage" temperaments are becoming common? What more ... fruit for a "high-voltage" ... bear?

"HORSE SENSE" RULES

A life insurance company has offered seven "horse sense" rules for keeping fit. The rules are not given as cure alls but a plan for cooperating with nature in her ceaseless efforts in prolonging life and preserving health.

The seven "horse sense" rules are: Learn to play; don't eat too much; take proper exercise; don't work too hard, either mentally or physicaly; don't worry, fuss or lose your temper—the best tonic in the world is optimism and cheerfulness; seek some healthful amusement that diverts the mind and exercises the muscle; once a year have your family doctor examine you for health, not for disease.

Ordinarily seven rules of conduct would not be so difficult in observance but here are given seven rules which regulate every act of every day of our lives. By the exertion of a little will power we would probably not find them much worse than a stern taskmaster in spite of the broad field they cover.

How many men and women past 30 know how to play? Are there any in this community who never overeat? Regular exercise is observed by only a small minority. Most people work too much or not enough. The most optimistic among us worry too much and lose our tempers too often for the good of our health. More people are, to be sure, participating in too many diversions, fads and amusements offered them by modern civilization and yet too many do not. And as for the seventh rule, where are there men and women who think of the doctor when they are well?

WILL THEY DO IT?

Failing in their efforts to repeal the 18th Amendment, the wets are trying a new method of attack.

This they are trying to do by centralizing their efforts to enact a beer bill, that will stand a Constitutional test.

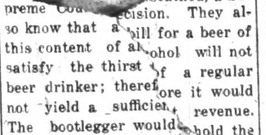
They have made the first hur... ...passage ...ttle likeli... ...hood ...scathed, a Su... ...preme Co... ...cision. They al... so know that a ... ill for a beer of this content of al... ...ohol will not satisfy the thirst of a regular beer drinker; there... ...ore it would not yield a sufficien... revenue. The bootlegger would ... hold the trade of his regular custome...; home brewing would continue as ... before.

It is utterly silly, absurd, ... this quibbling over what cons... tutes a non-intoxicating bevera... when all know the present ra... of ½ of one ... non-intoxica... in...

...toxicating, to be non-intoxica...

Thus, it is proposed, that, by mere fiat, government change the very laws of nature. Thus should the government say. "Crows are white," white they would be.

It may be that the incoming administration will find a way to get around this question, but, looking at the proposition from every conceiveable angle, we cannot see a prospect of real beer, unless brought about by nullification of the Constitution. Will they do this?



BOB JUDSON went down to breakfast New Year's morning with his shirt cuffs dangling. He had watched the old year out and the new year in at his young sister's party and had promised to go skating with the "crowd" by nine in the morning.

"What in thunder do you mean by swiping my cuff buttons, Peggy?" he said to his sister.

"Only this," cooed Peggy, who was eighteen and uncommonly pretty. She held up her hands, showing the cuffs of a blouse of masculine cut. "I needed them, dearie, so before you were awake I came in and got them. Don't be huffy, sweetheart, it's New Year's day."

"Well, you needn't be so absurdly good-natured," growled Bob.

"No, dearest!" said Peggy. "But it's New Year's day and I've made some resolutions. One's to be very good-natured. And I'm beginning on you. I have made out some for you, too," she added.

Tom read in small, rather childish writing, these resolutions thought by his little sister to cover his besetting sins:

Not to flirt.

Not to be scrappy.

...e to be late for dinner—"It an... ...k so."

Not ... be hoggish—This had special reference to neckties, fountain pens, cuff buttons, etc.

Not to get engaged before the next New Year's day. "Because unattached men are scarce and we need you to the bunch to piece out with."

"Bobby, dear," resumed Peggy, "I've ...sked some of the girls to come in this ...ening to practice a new dance step. ...re a man short. That is we are a ...extra. Sally's bringing her cousin." ...continued.

...b's social engagements in his own ...his sister's set kept him until ...ness had begun to settle. But, as ...reflected, it was only half past five, ...d with half an hour to get home and ...ner at half past six, he would be in good time. He could boast to Peggy ...hat he had kept all his resolutions at ...t for the day.

...e was aware of the fact that there ...a young woman walking hurriedly ...beside a man on the opposite side of the street. Then he saw the young woman quickly cross the street. She waved her hand and fairly pounced upon him with a "Why, Marmaduke, dear, how glad I am to see you!"

Tom remembered the first resolution given by Peggy, "Not to flirt."

"I thought it was you, Marmaduke," said the girl, walking beside him and laughing gayly. "Of course, you were on your way to our house. We half expected you, but I didn't know you would come this way." It seemed to Tom that the girl was talking very loudly. And then in an aside she said, ...along first." ...now what was ...off the girl's ...his muscles ...ed without volition. The next ...te he had struck out toward the annoying stranger, and with the third blow the stranger was prone on the path.

"Take me home," whispered the girl, hoarsely. "It's 26 Bedford street. Can you find it?" They hurried on. The man was soon following them again as they proceeded.

Tom stood with her on the porch of the house marked 26 until a servant came to the door. "May I see you again ...

"O... ...d the girl. "It would seem ... ...been very impertinent if we ... again. But I shall always be grateful." Then the door closed and Tom in much confusion traced his steps homeward. It was a quarter to seven when he reached home.

"Tom, you have broken one of your resolutions the first thing," chirped Peggy.

"I've broken more than one," said Tom dismally. "I've flirted with a girl, knocked a man over, I've felt as if I wanted something all to myself, and if I get half a chance I'll be engaged before next year. Say, Peggy, Sally lives somewhere in Bedford street, doesn't she?"

"Twenty-six," said Peggy. "And I shouldn't wonder if you'd better remember that, because you'll have to see Sally's cousin home. You see, she's the extra girl tonight."

Then the telephone bell rang and Peggy was absorbed for many minutes. She burst in upon Tom in the dining room, where he was finishing dinner alone. "Tom, hurry. I am afraid you'll have to get Sally and her cousin. Burton James was going to meet them here and they were coming alone, but the cousin—Madge is her name—had the most awful experience, perfectly awful. A man followed her. They walked along and then he took her arm, wanted to make a date with her and everything. Madge didn't know what to do, it was so dark and lonely. But she says the nicest man came along and saw her difficulty and knocked the man down and took her home, then left without letting her know who he was. Wasn't that splendid? Now the girls are afraid to come alone for fear that other man will meet them."

Of course, Tom hastened to 26 Bedford street, and of course the affair ripened into a romance, and long before the year was out announcements were made of the engagement of Madge and Tom.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

HOME BUREAU

The ladies of the Home Bureau enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Hattie Draggoo. The home was decorated with the streamers of the season's colors and a miniature Christmas tree. Mrs. Draggoo was assisted by Mrs. Hattie Johnson, Mrs. Clara Foltz, Mrs. Carrie Morr, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, Mrs. Nelia Morr and Mrs. Diadem Bone.

At the noon hour the ladies served roast chicken, mashed potatoes, coffee and gravy, added to this the different viands which each member contributed made a real Christmas dinner. The favors were a miniature Santa Claus.

The meeting was called to order by the president. Christmas carols were led by Mrs. Laura Washler; bible reading by Mrs. Vada Wyatt; Christmas story by Mrs. Hattie Draggoo; a discussion about "Gifts I am Making" was led by Mrs. Maud Jenkins. The Christmas exchange was in charge of Mrs. Nelia Morr, who in a very clever manner presented each member a gift.

Mrs. Grace Sheffer, project leader, gave a demonstration on the making of various articles with celophane paper. Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick in a few well chosen words thanked the ladies for their splendid cooperation during her four years as president and the club gave her a vote of thanks for her efficient and faithful service to the club.

SERMON FOR TODAY

Ralph Knisely.

Text: Matt. 15, 11. "Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth the man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man."

Also we read in Matt. 15: 19, "For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witnesses, blasphemies."

Most people try to tell us that smokin, will not keep you out of heaven. Well, maybe not, but, anyway, a man or woman pulls a cigarette or cigar out of their pocket, puts it up to their lips and begin to draw in the poison smoke, then they will puff up their chest and blow out the poison smoke again.

It is the same with people of today, they get a few poison words in their ears and then it keeps rolling out of their mouths in a more poison form.

What does Matt. 15: 19 say? Alright, if a man thinks of these things, according to Jesus, he has them in his heart. And again Jesus said: "Out of the heart are the issues of life," and if a person has these thoughts in his heart what kind of a life is he going to live? We read again, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Some people think that joining the church will get you to heaven, others think that shaking hands will get you there, others think that signing a card will get you there. But, Jesus said: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."

We have too many church members, too many Sunday christians and Monday devils, and not enough preachers who will warn their people to "Be pure in heart," "For out of the heart are the issues of life."

Gives Graphic Account of Doolittle Plane Accident

Art Kassel, Chicago Bandmaster Traveling With Famed Flyer, Tells of Recent Forced Landing in Louisiana Swamp.

Art Kassel.

CHICAGO.—Art Kassel, famed band leader of this city and composer of the theme song "In 1933" for A Century of Progress (World's Fair, Chicago), who was a guest passenger of Major James H. Doolittle on his recent record breaking flight which was suddenly terminated when a propeller blade broke on his "Shellightning" transport plane, resulting in a forced landing in a southern Louisiana swamp, gave a graphic account of his exciting experience here today.

The mishap occurred on the first leg of Major Doolittle's proposed 10,000-mile nation-wide flight as official air ambassador of the World's Fair. The flight was sponsored by the Shell Petroleum Corporation of St. Louis—of which Doolittle is manager of the aviation department—as its contribution to publicizing the exposition throughout the United States.

"We took off from Chicago at 7:04 a. m. in what was considered 'the world's fastest transport plane,'" Kassel said. "The plane lived up to its reputation as Major Doolittle made the 405 mile trip from Chicago to Kansas City, buck...ing a strong head wind, in the record time of two hours, 14 minutes.

"Leaving Houston at 2:28 p. m., we headed for New Orleans, where we were due at 4:30 p. m.

"About 4:09 p. m. my companion, Art B. Helberg, asked if I would read off some figures from a chart he had kept during the trip. At that moment we were flying more than 200 miles an hour at 2,8...0 feet.

"Suddenly the motor stopped, the plane shot up and started to vibrate quite perceptibly.

"Presently we heard, through our headphones, Major Doolittle calmly announcing over the mic...he had a two-way radio in the plane...that he was coming down in a swamp...ty minutes (air speed) west of New Orleans. Directly beneath us was a large lake and a seemingly endless expanse of woods dotted with small lakes and streams. But we knew that doubtless the greatest pilot in the world was at the controls, so we centered our interest in watching how he would solve the problem.

"We noticed the air speed and altitude indicators were dropping rapidly. By this time we had cleared the lake and were over a forest. But we observed to our left a small swamp that looked like a speck in the wide expanse of woods and water.

"Major Doolittle headed for the swamp, at about the same speed he had made all his landings throughout the trip. As we neared the swamp, we saw it was covered with razor-like shafts of grass seven to eight feet high. Just before Major Doolittle set his ship down in the muck, he lifted its nose and we landed perfectly on the plane's stomach. The plane slid a short distance, with water and mud gushing up around it and then stopped abruptly. The impact shook us up a bit, but we instantly realized a masterful landing had been made.

"The plane, 'Shellightning,' a low-winged Lockheed-Orion powered by a Wright Cyclone 700 horsepower engine, was practically undamaged, save for the broken propeller.

"We had no sooner landed than Major Doolittle opened the door of our cabin and greeted us: 'How are you, boys? Can you take it?'

"All this had happened in less than three minutes' time!

But presently we heard voices far in the distance. We tied a handkerchief to a rod, stood on top of the cockpit and called, at the same time waving our flag of distress.

"After about 30 minutes we heard someone in the distance call: 'We're coming,' and presently three strapping young fellows, who called themselves Cajans (Arcadians), came into view.

"While they were guiding us out of the swamp we frequently sank up to our waists in the mire and it required nearly an hour to travel the scant 500 yards to the Cajans' boat.

"By 8:30 p. m., we were being taken by boat across Grand Lake to Charenton, La., where we found a man with a car who took us to Franklin, twenty-five miles away. We reached Franklin at 10:30 p. m., telephoned friends we were safe, and drove on to New Orleans, arriving at 5 the following morning."

VOL. XLVII — ST. JOE, DeKALB

REVIVAL MEETING

Revival meetings will start at the Concord Methodist Protestant Church on Sunday, January 8 and will continue for at least two weeks. Rev. Forrest Kuhn, of Detroit, will be the evangelist. He has been greatly blessed of God in mission work and as an evangelist. His messanges will be of interest and help to everyone. Pray for the services and come. Meetings Sunday mornings at 10:30 and every night but Monday night at 7:00. Church services will be dismissed at St. Joe and Harlan during the time of the revival. Music will be furnished by the Community Male Quartet on Sunday evening.

FORT WAYNE WIFE SUES

Mrs. Grace M. Ginther of 417 Baker Street began action in superior court No. 1 for a two-year limited separation from Albert L. Ginther, averring that since their marriage his conduct toward her has been abusive and "very annoying." She further charged that he has been in the habit of becoming intoxicated and failed to make suitable provision for her support. — Sunday Journal Gazette.

SAMUEL MORR GETS INFIRMARY APPOINTMENT

Samuel C. Morr, of Concord township, was appointed superintendent of the county infirmary Tuesday afternoon by the county commissioners for a four year term. Mrs. Morr was made matron of the home.

The combined salary of Mr. and Mrs. Morr will be $1,500 a year. The present superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Leighty, have been receiving a total of $2,000 a year.

The change in management of the infirmary will take effect March 1. Mr. and Mrs. Leighty will move into a new house they own near the county farm.

The members of the county organization and other party workers petitioned the commissioners to appoint Mr. Morr, who has been active in the party for years.

The county board also appointed Ray Miller of Stafford township, as county drainage superintendent, succeeding John S. Wing of Waterloo. His pay will be $4 a day.

Dr. Harold Nugen, of Auburn, was made county physician, succeeding Dr. C. P. Fox, of Garrett. The salary is $190 a year.

Wm. Stonebraker was reappointed court house custodian at a salary of $125 a month. Mrs. Ella Johnson was reappointed court house matron at $40 a month.

W. W. Sharpless will act as county attorney at $400 per year.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS

Effective January 1, 1933, all quarterly billing of Telepone rental will be changed to monthly billing. This makes it necessary for all subscribers, both city and rural, to pay their Telephone rental on or before the 15th day of each month to secure their discount.

P. T. A. MEETING

An unusual feature of interest to parents and te[a]chers will be presented next Tuesday evening, January 10 at the regular P. T. A. meeting.

Several reels of pictures pertaining to health problems will be shown, and without doubt will be very beneficial. Besides the pictures there will be a short talk by a prominent doctor. All parents are urged to take an active interest in this meeting, for at this season of the year we need plenty of knowledge for keeping ourselves and our families well.

Music for this meeting will be furnished by the Community Male Quartette. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30.

"Bobby, dear," resumed Peggy, "I've ...ked some of the girls to come in this evening to practice a new dance step. We'll ...e short. That is we are a ...ir ex... bringing her cousin," she continued.

Bob's social en...gements in his own and his sister's set kept him until darkness had begun to settle. But, as he reflected, it was only half past five, and with half an hour to get home and dinner at half past six, he would be in good time. He could boast to Peggy that he had kept all his resolutions at least for the day.

He was aware of the fact that there was a young woman walking hurriedly beside a man on the opposite side of the street. Then he saw the young woman quickly cross the street. She waved her hand and fairly pounced upon him with a "Why, Marmaduke, dear, how glad I am to see you!"

Tom remembered the first resolution given by Peggy, "Not to flirt."

"I thought it was you, Marmaduke," said the girl, walking beside him and laughing gayly. "Of course, you were on your way to our house. We half expected you, but I didn't know you would come this way." It seemed to Tom that the girl was talking very loudly. And then in an aside she said, "Marmaduke Butler's your name."

Then Tom realized that the man who had been talking to the girl had caught up with them.

"Say, who are you?" said the young man, well dressed, but with his hat drawn over his eyes.

"Why, I'm Marmaduke Butler," stammered Tom.

"I don't believe it," snarled the stranger. "We don't neither of us know her. And I came along first."

Tom did not wait to know what was coming next. He shook off the girl's hold, his fists clenched and his muscles tightened without volition. The next minute he had struck out toward the annoying stranger, and with the third blow the stranger was prone on the path.

"Take me home," whispered the girl, hoarsely. "It's 26 Bedford street. Can you find it?" They hurried on. The man was soon following them again as they proceeded.

Tom stood with her on the porch of the house marked 26 until a servant came to the door. "May I see you again?"

"Oh, no," said the girl. "It would seem as if I had been very impertinent if we ever met again. But I shall always be grateful." Then the door closed and Tom in much confusion traced his steps homeward. It was a quarter to seven when he reached home.

"Tom, you have broken one of your resolutions the first thing," chirped Peggy.

"I've broken more than one," said Tom dismally. "I've flirted with a girl, knocked a man over, I've felt as if I wanted something all to myself, and if I get half a chance I'll be engaged before next year. Say, Peggy, Sally lives somewhere in Bedford street, doesn't she?"

"Twenty-six," said Peggy. "And I shouldn't wonder if you'd better remember that, because you'll have to see Sally's cousin home. You see, she's the extra girl tonight."

Then the telephone bell rang and Peggy was absorbed for many minutes. She burst in upon Tom in the dining room, where he was finishing dinner alone. "Tom, hurry. I am afraid you'll have to get Sally and her cousin. Burton James was going to meet them here and they were coming alone, but the cousin—Madge is her name—had the most awful experience, perfectly awful. A man followed her. They walked along and then he took her arm, wanted to make a date with her and everything. Madge didn't know what to do, it was so dark and lonely. But she says the nicest man came along and saw her difficulty and knocked the man down and took her home, then left without letting her know who he was. Wasn't that splendid? Now the girls are afraid to come alone for fear that other man will meet them."

Of course, Tom hastened to 26 Bedford street, and of course the affair ripened into a romance, and long before the year was out announcements were made of the engagement of Madge and Tom.

...people ...asing velocity of prod... business and living. Mod... devices to hurry up the body, ...nsify the emotions and accel... the mind have come into general use. Business works a network of telephone and tele... graps wires. Automatic book-keeping machines, typewriters and card indexes enable individuals to control vast areas of industrial operation, involving billions of dollars. Even in the home and on the farm electrification and the gasoline motor have quickened the pace.

Emotionally the nation is ever under high pressure. The motion picture compresses into two hours the whole range of human adventure and excitement for thousands. The radio is concentrating millions on one thought and at one time. Huge stadiums throughout the country gather with ease and safety crowds numbered in hundreds of thousands, permitting them to enjoy the magnetic thrill of concentrated mass emotion.

All this speed and size is an accepted part of the atmosphere of the American city. It causes people unconsciously to quicken their pace and to feel themselves part of a huge confederation. Is it any wonder that "high-voltage" temperaments are becoming so common? What more logical fruit for a "high-voltage" age to bear?

"HORSE SENSE" RULES

A life insurance company has offered seven "horse sense" rules for keeping fit. The rules are not given as cure alls but a plan for cooperating with nature in her ceaseless efforts in prolonging life and preserving health.

The seven "horse sense" rules are: Learn to play; don't eat too much; take proper exercise; don't work too hard, either mentally or physically; don't worry, fuss or lose your temper—the best tonic in the world is optimism and cheerfulness; seek some healthful amusement that diverts the mind and exercises the muscle; once a year have your family doctor examine you for health, not for disease.

Ordinarily seven rules of conduct would not be so difficult in observance but here are given seven rules which regulate every act of every day of our lives. By the exertion of a little will power we would probably not find them much worse than a stern taskmaster in spite of the broad field they cover.

How many men and women past 30 know how to play? Are there any in this community who never overeat? Regular exercise is observed by only a small minority. Most people work too much or not enough. The most optimistic among us worry too much and lose our tempers too often for the good of our health. More people are, to be sure, participating in too many diversions, fads and amusements offered them by modern civilization and yet too many do not. And as for the seventh rule, where are there men and women who think of the doctor when they are well?

WILL THEY DO IT?

Failing in their efforts to repeal the 18th Amendment, the wets are trying a new method of attack.

This they are trying to do by centralizing their efforts to enact a beer bill, that will stand a Constitutional test.

They have made the first hur... ...says the Fre... ...mont Eagle; which paper furnished the quotation from the Christian Century; "Mr. Hoover can hardly afford for his administration to go into history, with a deliberate nullification of the Constitution."

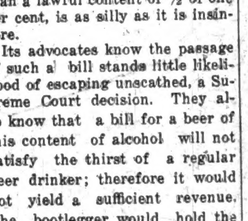
All this talk of beer for revenue; a beer tha contains more than a lawful content of ½ of one per cent, is as silly as it is insincere.

Its advocates know the passage of such a bill stands little likelihood of escaping unscathed, a Supreme Court decision. They also know that a bill for a beer of this content of alcohol will not satisfy the thirst of a regular beer drinker; therefore it would not yield a sufficient revenue. The bootlegger would hold the trade of his regular customers; home brewing would continue as before.

It is utterly silly, absurd, all this quibbling over what constitutes a non-intoxicating beverage, when all know the present rate of ½ of one per cent, is, in fact, non-intoxicating. But no; the incorrigible uncompromisings wets will have it no other way, they must have a beer with a "kick" in it, and propose that government must decelare that three or four, or even a greater amount of alcohol, which, in fact, is intoxicating, to be non-intoxicating.

Thus, it is proposed, that, by mere fiat, government change the very laws of nature. Thus should the government say. "Crows are white," white they would be.

It may be that the incoming administration will find a way to get around this question, but, looking at the proposition from every conceiveable angle, we cannot see a prospect of real beer, unless brought about by nullification of the Constitution. Will they do this?



BOB JUDSON went down to breakfast New Year's morning with his shirt cuffs dangling. He had watched the old year out and the new year in at his young sister's party and had promised to go skating with the "crowd" by nine in the morning.

"What in thunder do you mean by swiping my cuff buttons, Peggy?" he said to his sister.

"Only this," cooed Peggy, who was eighteen and uncommonly pretty. She held up her hands, showing the cuffs of a blouse of masculine cut. "I needed them, dearie, so before you were awake I came in and got them. Don't be huffy, sweetheart, it's New Year's day."

"Well, you needn't be so absurdly good-natured," growled Bob.

"No, dearest!" said Peggy. "But it's New Year's day and I've made some resolutions. One's to be very good-natured. And I'm beginning on you. I have made out some for you, too," she added.

Tom read in small, rather shildish writing, these resolutions thought by

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

HOME BUREAU

The ladies of the Home Bureau enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Hattie Draggop. The home was decorated with the streamers of the season's colors and a miniature Christmas tree. Mrs. Draggoo was assisted by Mrs. Hattie Johnson, Mrs. Clara Foltz, Mrs. Carrie Morr, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, Mrs. Nelia Morr and Mrs. Diadem Bone.

At the noon hour the ladies served roast chicken, mashed potatoes, coffee and gravy, added to this the different viands which each member contributed made a real Christmas dinner. The favors were a miniature Santa Claus.

The meeting was called to order by the president. Christmas carols were led by Mrs. Laura Washler; bible reading by Mrs. Vada Wyatt; Christmas story by Mrs. Hattie Draggoo; a discussion about "Gifts I am Making" was led by Mrs. Maud Jenkins. The Christmas exchange was in charge of Mrs. Nelia Morr, who in a very clever manner presented each member a gift.

Mrs. Grace Sheffer, project leader, gave a demonstration on the making of various articles with celophane paper. Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick in a few well chosen words thanked the ladies for their splendid cooperation during her four years as president and the club gave her a vote of thanks for her efficient and faithful service to the club.

SERMON FOR TODAY

Text: Matt. 15, 11. "Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth the man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man."

Also we read in Matt. 15: 19, "For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witnesses, blasphemies."

Most people try to tell us that smoking will not keep you out of heaven. Well, maybe not, but, anyway, a man or woman pulls a cigarette or cigar out of their pocket, puts it up to their lips and begin to draw in the poison smoke, then they will puff up their chest and blow out the poison smoke again.

It is the same with people of today, they get a few poison words in their ears and then it keeps rolling out of their mouths in a more poison form.

What does Matt. 15: 19 say? Alright, if a man thinks of these things, according to Jesus, he has them in his heart. And again Jesus said: "Out of the heart are the issues of life," and if a person has these thoughts in his heart what kind of a life is he going to live? We read again, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Some people think that joining the church will get you to heaven, others think that shaking hands will get you there, others think that signing a card will get you there. But, Jesus said: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."

We have too many church members, too many Sunday christians and Monday devils, and not enough preachers who will warn their people to "Be pure in heart," "For out of the heart are the issues of life."

Gives Graphic Account of Doolittle Plane Accident

Art Kassel, Chicago Bandmaster Traveling With Famed Flyer, Tells of Recent Forced Landing in Louisiana Swamp.

CHICAGO.—Art Kassel, famed band leader of this city and composer of the theme song "In 1933" for A Century of Progress (World's Fair, Chicago), who was a guest passenger of Major James H. Doolittle on his recent record breaking flight which was suddenly terminated when a propeller blade broke on his "Shellightning" transport plane, resulting in a forced landing in a southern Louisiana swamp, gave a graphic account of his exciting experience here today.

Art Kassel.

The mishap occurred on the first leg of Major Doolittle's proposed 10,000-mile nation-wide flight as official air ambassador of the World's Fair. The flight was sponsored by the Shell Petroleum Corporation of St. Louis—of which Doolittle is manager of the aviation department—as its contribution to publicizing the exposition throughout the United States.

"We took off from Chicago at 7:04 a. m., in what was considered 'the world's fastest transport plane,'" Kassel said. "The plane lived up to its reputation as Major Doolittle made the 405-mile trip from Chicago to Kansas City, ducking a strong head wind, in the record time of two hours, 13 minutes.

"Leaving Houston at 2:48 p. m., we headed for New Orleans, where we were due at 4:30 p. m.

"About 4:00 p. m., my companion, Art B. Helberg, asked if I would read off some figures from a chart he had kept during the tour. At that moment we were flying more than 200 miles an hour at 2,830 feet.

"Suddenly the motor stopped, the plane slid up and started to vibrate quite perceptibly.

"Presently we heard, through our headphones, Major Doolittle calmly announcing over the air—he had a two-way radio in the plane—that he was coming down in a swamp thirty minutes (air speed) west of New Orleans. Directly beneath us was a large lake and a seemingly endless expanse of woods dotted with small lakes and streams. But we knew that doubtless the greatest pilot in the world was at the controls, so we centered our interest in watching how he would solve the problem.

"We noticed the air speed and altitude indicators were dropping rapidly. By this time we had crossed the lake and were over a forest. But we observed to our left a small swamp that looked like a speck in the wide expanse of woods and water.

"Major Doolittle headed for the swamp, at about the same speed he had made all his landings throughout the trip. As we neared the swamp, we saw it was covered with razor-like shafts of grass seven to eight feet high. Just before Major Doolittle set his ship down in this muck, he lifted its nose and we landed perfectly on the plane's stomach. The plane slid a short distance, with water and mud gushing up around it and then stopped abruptly. The impact shook us up a bit, but we instantly realized a masterful landing had been made.

"The plane, 'Shellightning,' a low-winged Lockheed-Orion powered by a Wright-Cyclone 700-horsepower engine, was practically undamaged, save for the broken propeller.

"We had no sooner landed than Major Doolittle opened the door of our cabin and greeted us: 'How are you, boys? Can you take it?'

"All this had happened in less than three minutes' time!

"After Major Doolittle unsuccessfully attempted to signal New Orleans by wireless, we resigned ourselves to remaining in this dismal place overnight. But presently we heard voices far in the distance. We tied a handkerchief to a rod, stood on top of the cockpit and called, at the same time waving our flag of distress.

"After about 30 minutes we heard someone in the distance call: 'We're coming,' and presently three strapping young fellows, who called themselves Cajans (Arcadians), came into view.

"While they were guiding us out of the swamp we frequently sank up to our waists in the mire and it required nearly an hour to travel the scant 500 yards to the Cajans' boat.

"By 8:30 p. m., we were being taken by boat across Grand Lake to Charenton, La., where we found a man with a car who took us to Franklin, twenty-five miles away. We reached Franklin at 10:30 p. m., telephoned friends we were safe, and drove on to New Orleans, arriving at 5 the following morning."

THE OPTIMIST

One of the encouraging evidences of the sanity of the public mind is the growing impatience with so-called "Pollyannaism." Genuine optimism does not consist in disregarding the unpleasant parts of life. Neither is it a thoughtless satisfaction with the presecent conditions without thought of the future. Still less is it that state of mind that distinguished Mr. Micawber, who ...easily ...pl... ...ything would stay lost most of the time.

There is just so much worry for everybody. If you dodge your share, there is more for your creditors.

The people are as good as ever. They just seem lawless because laws are passed so rapidly they can't keep up.

A HOME OR JUST A HOUSE?

Lillie M. Saunders

"June," said Mrs. Dennis sharply to her fifteen-year-old daughter, "I told you to put the salt and pepper shakers and the creamer and sugar bowl on the buffet. Now do it."

"But, Mother," protested the girl, "they make it look so mussy and old-fashioned. Can't I put them in the cupboard, please?"

"No, you can't. I want them on the buffet, and I'm going to have them there. This is my house and I'm boss here yet awhile."

"All right. Mother,' said June, flushing with embarrassment at being spoken to so sharply before Mrs. Drake, a caller whom she liked very much. She left the room as quickly as possible after her evening task of drying the dishes was finished.

When she was out of hearing, her mother, still busy with the evening work, said to her friend, "June has reached the age when young people now-a-days want to run everything. I don't propose to be bossed by my own daughter as some mothers that I've seen are. I insist on buying her clothes, too. She doesn't always like them, but she can wear them or do without."

Mrs. Drake hesitated, then said, "Since you have opened the subject, would you care to know what I think?"

"Why, yes," replied Mrs. Dennis.

"Very well, then, I think you are making a mistake. June should be made to feel that this is her home, too. She has seen how things are done in the homes of her litle friends whose mothers follow modern practices and she has learned at school the accepted way of doing things. She knows it is considered old-fashioned to have the buffet loaded down, however pretty the silver may be. Now is the time when she is supposed to be in training for home-making. She is a sensible girl with good taste and judgment. Should she not be allowed to exercise it? Should she not be allowed to choose her own clothes, too, or part of them at least, and to go with you when you are buying the others?"

"But she isn't old enough, yet, to know what is best for her to have in the way of clothing," protested Mrs. Dennis.

"Well, perhaps she could not yet buy her coats, best dresses and shoes, alone, but she most certainly should be allowed to help choose them. She has to wear them, you know. You will be surprised at the taste and judgment she will show. Anyway, can she learn without practice? And how," continued the defender, "can you expect her to take an interest in things in the home if you keep telling her it is yours? If you were in her place would you not feel almost like a homeless intruder?

"I have noticed that boys and girls who are constantly reminded of the fact that the home in which they live belongs to their parents, leave it just as quickly as they possibly can for what they hope will be a home of their own. This often results in unsatisfactory early marriages, many of which end in the divorce court. If young people are made to feel that the house in which they live belongs in part to them while it is their home, they are not going to leave it without thoughtful consideration."

Mrs. Dennis was silent a moment, then said, "Thank you. I will think this over."

ST. JOE HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Three victories for St. Joe

After winning three games December 23 all the players and fans went home with easy minds to enjoy a Christmas vacation.

The Hicksville boys were large but they failed to be fast enough to hold down the St. Joe squad. The game ended 22-29 in favor of the home team.

The girl's game was too easy to be interesting. The St. Joe team won over the Hicksville six 40-6.

The Junior High team, coached by Eddie Collins, won their first game of the year. They played Newville in the preliminary December 23. St. Joe was trailing at the half 8 to 2, but the opponents failed to make a point during the last half, while St. Joe scored 13 more points making the final score 15-8.

The boys team lost to the Alumni last Saturday evening 20-47. Looks bad for the high school but maybe it was because three of the regular fellows were absent.

Winners Entertained

The winning side of the newspaper contest was entertained by the losers at the home of Miss Borthwick Wednesday evening, December 21. Those present enjoyed a game called Santa Claus and the winner, Earl Kinsey, had the honor of playing Santa Claus and passing out the presents.

Refreshments consisted of pop corn balls, apples, nuts, and candy canes. The party broke up rather eanly because of examinations the next day.

The P. T. A. meeting was postponed until January 10 because the moving picture man representing the State Board of Health, was unable to show the health pictures until that night.

The school schedule is being rearranged a litle this semester. Advanced algebra and a junior business courses are being offered instead of solid geometry and commercial geography.

If anyone has garments that can be made over in clothing class see Miss Ditmars.

The Home Economics girls are taking Related Art and Clothing instead of Home Nursing and Foods.

It must be that St. Joe players are rough—or maybe it is their opponents. In the games with Hicksville Keith Dailey broke his little finger and Eloise Draggoo broke her arch. Violet Baker has taken the splints off her thumb but she will still be unable to play for ten days or so.

Gereldine Thornton had a very pleasant vacation. She accompanied her folks to McComb, O., and later went to Forest Park, Ill.

Both teams play Ashley on the home floor next Saturday night, January 7. We are all hoping for a couple more victories.

The sponsors of the four upper classes received lovely Christmas gifts from their respective classes.

The Penland family have moved from the vicinity of St. Joe.

A number of pupils and teachers have been sick with influenza and chicken pox, but most of them are back in school again and feeling fine.

WHAT A POSTAGE STAMP SAYS

By Henry E. Hodge

I represent my country.
I am always ready for service.
I go wherever I am sent.
I do whatever I am asked to do.
I stick to my task until it is done.
I don't strike back when I am struck.
I don't give up when I am licked.
I am small, but I carry great messages.
I am necessary to the happiness of the world.
I keep up to date.
I am crowned with the cross-mark of service.
—The Watchman-Examiner.

OUR NATION'S FLAG

"To be born under the American flag is to be the child of a king and to build a home under the Stars and Stripes is to establish a royal house. Alone of all flags it expresses the sovereignty of the people, which endures when all else passes away. Speaking with their voice, it has the sanctity of revelation. He who lives under it and is loyal to it is loyal to truth and justice everywhere. He who lives under it and is disloyal to it is a traitor to the human race everywhere. What could be saved if the flag of the American Nation were to perish?"—Calvin Coolidge.

How time drags for the young! How it flies for the old!

1932 is about gone; never to be revived. We are about ready to hang up the new and clean 1933 calendars, each with twelve big clean sheets. May each of us keep our new records clean.

We learn by doing—and by being done. A small talent well used is better than a great one wasted.

"I'd rather hear amateurs play music that I like, said George Gershwin, "than to hear professionals play music that they like."

And fashion decrees that the shoes must shine but the nose must not.

For the eighty-eighth time in the last three years, Meyer Freedman, a Philadelphia milkman, has given his blood to save the lives of others. During this time Mr. Freedman has given a total of eleven gallons of blood and has never received compensation for a single drop.

Persons who carelessly use headache powders, tablets, medicines or certain other temporary reliefs for pain take chances with serious illness and death, according to Dr. F. J. Cullen, chief of drug control, Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Our annual expenditures for veterans' relief, according to General Hines, head of the United States Veterans' Bureau, amounts to $2,668 per annum for each United States soldier dead or wounded during the World War. That of Great Britain amounts to $58 per annum and that of France to only $51.

The time for payment of seed loans made to northwest farmers by the Government in 1930, 1931, and 1932 has been extended to 1933.

It take a little more than fifty bushels of good corn to produce the same amount of heat as a ton of Illinois coal, according to a bulletin recently published by the Illinois Departmente of Agriculture. Therefore, it is uneconomical to use good corn as fuel at the present prices.

According to the United States Census Bureau, there are 4,283,753 people over ten years of age in this country who cannot read and write.

It seems that the amount of enjoyment that one gets out of living is largely due to his mental attitude. "I am glad that I live," says one man. "I am sorry that I must die," says another."

The average American farmer is not bothered with income tax reports because his annual income is less than $400.

After all it isn't the credit for doing a good piece of work that counts—its the cash.

A sign on a Southern yard gate reads, "We are vegetarians, but our dog is not." Is that "Southern hospitality?"

It's no wonder as cheap as meat and vegetables are that most waiters present the check face down.

Just pick up any daily paper if you want to read about the following: "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," "The 1932 Baby Stars," "3.2 Per Cent Beer," and "Will the State Claim the Life of Expectant Mother?"

Report show that during the first nine months of last year the General Motors Company paid an earning of $2.08 on each share of stock, but this year during the same period the earnings were only eight cents per share.

On an average the American dollar will buy twice as many Japanese products as before Japan deserted the gold standard.

There is a general epidemic of the influenza in the United States. It started in the South and West and has now reached the North and East. Perhaps, the number of cases exceeds that of the World War times but fortunately the disease is rather mild this year and there have been camparatively few fatalities.

In normal times the American hotel waiter received an average of $2.28 in tips daily.

A quart of good milk of average richness supplies two-thirds of the total energy required per day by a year-old child; about one-half of the energy needed by a child of five; and about one-fourth of that needed by a man moderately active.

Governor Henry Horton of Tennessee gave eighty mighty acceptable Christmas presents when he issued that number of pardons to state and county criminals.

Watch your weight. Those over-weight are more subject to heart trouble, kidney diseases and cancer.

"When Noah sailed the waters blue, He had his troubles, same as you. For forty days he drove the Ark, Before he found a place to park."

One-half of the taxes assessed for state, county and school purposes are due and payable on or before the first Monday in May, 1933. The second installment is due and payable on the first Monday in November, 1933.

In case either installment is not paid when due, it becomes delinquent and is subject to a penalty of three per cent, and eight per cent interest until paid. Administrators, guardians, agents, and others, who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are requested to settle such taxes before the last few weeks, as it takes time to make divisions and make separate receipts therefor. All persons should be careful to examine their receipts and see that all property they wish to pay taxes on is included in their receipts.

THE TREASURER WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE

For the penalty and charges and delinquent taxes resulting by reason of any omission of the person paying such taxes to state definitely on what property, in whose name, and in what township or corporation it was assessed. Persons are liable for taxes on all property owned by them on the first day of March, 1932. Property will appear in the same name for payment of the second installment as for the first installment each year. Call on the auditor for errors or reductions claimed in taxes. The treasurer cannot make such reductions. No extention will be given after the FIRST MONDAY IN MAY, 1933. County orders will not be paid to anyone owing delinquent taxes; all persons are warned against purchasing such orders. The annual sale of delinquent lands and lots will take place on the Second Monday in February, 1933.

Auburn, Ind., December 15, 1932.

REVIVAL MEETING

Revival meetings will start at the Concord Methodist Protestant Church on Sunday, January 8 and will continue for at least two weeks. Rev. Forrest Kuhn, of Detroit, will be the evangelist. He has been greatly blessed of God in mission work and as an evangelist. His messaages will be of interest and help to everyone. Pray for the services and come. Meetings Sunday mornings at 10:30 and every night but Monday night at 7:00. Church services will be dismissed at St. Joe and Harlan during the time of the revival. Music will be furnished by the Community Male Quartet on Sunday evening.

NOTICE TO TELE. PHONE SUBSCRIBERS

Effective January 1, 1933, all quarterly billing of Telepone rental will be changed to monthly billing. This makes it necessary for all subscribers, both city and rural, to pay their Telephone rental on or before the 15th day of each month to secure their discount. Signed:

Indiana Standard Telephone Co. 1t2.

SPENCER TOWNSHIP HOME BUREAU MEETING

Every lady of Spencer Twp. is cordially invited to an all day meeting of the Home Bureau to be held at the home of Mrs. Bernice Wilder of Coburn's Corners on Tuesday, January 17. Pot luck dinner and the ladys are requested to wear house dresses. A prize will be given to the one wearing the cheapest and most practical. Please bring table service. If your neighbors and friends have not heard it invite them for the committee. Zona Abel, Erma Howey, Berneice Wilder.

GETS HAND BADLY INJURED SATURDAY

L. D. Young, station agent here for the B. & O., while attending to his duties at the pumping station Saturday afternoon, was seriously injured.

He was oiling the mixing machinery to eliminate a squeaking noise, and when he finally located the noise, he thought he would give it another shot of oil, reaching down below the cogs, his glove caught and pulled his right hand into the gears. Seeing what was to happen, he pulled out with much less injury than he expected.

He ran out of the pumping station and called to Wm. Hamilton, who drove him home, and after first aid was hurried to Dr. Hull at Hicksville by Zay Sailer. He is getting along fine, although he will be off duty for some time.

HARLAN BANK CASHIER SHORT OF FUNDS

Frank H. Miller, of Harlan, former cashier of the Harlan State bank, is at liberty under $5,000 bond following his arrest by deputies of Sheriff Fred G. Lunz of Allen county on a charge of embezzlement contained in a grand jury indictment. Miller, who is accused of embezzling funds from the bank amounting to more than $4,000 over a period of several years, submitted to arrest at the sheriff's office. When the Harlan man and several others were indicted by the grand jury about 10 days ago, he was seriously ill and confined to his home. An affidavit made by a physician stated that if Miller were taken into custody it would endanger his life. As a result, making of the arrest was deferred until after his recovery.

P. T. A. ENJOY HEALTH PROGRAM

The P. T. A. meeting Tuesday evening afforded a program of unusual interest. The community was highly favored and honored to have as guest speaker Dr Cornell of the Duemling Clinic. The meeting was well-attended and a quiet, attentive audience which included many children enjoyed the Health program. The Rev. Walter Coburn conducted devotional exercises suitable to this program.

Dr. Cornell gave a most heartening address on "Chile Nutrition,' 'incidentally dropping several bombs into the camp of diet faddists. He stressed the urgent need for variety in the diet of the school child. He said the child needs milk, eggs, meat and vegetables which grow above the ground and also those which grow below the ground in order to have a balanced diet.

The Community Male Quartette favored their hearers with two pleasing numbers. Miss Eol, County Red Cross nurse introduced Mr. Bifield of the State Child Hygiene Department. He showed several reels of pictures which emphasized the care of the teeth, importance of good posture, value of sunshine and other health projects. After the business session the association was adjourned to meet in February for an afternoon meeting.

Mrs. Lela Northrup spent Friday in Fort Wayne.

The county commissioners Wednesday fixed the dog tax for 1933 as follows: males and spayed females, $1; unspayed females, $2; and each additional dog, $3. The rates for 1932 were $2, $4 and $5.

CHARLES CURIE DIES IN AUBURN

Charles H. Curie, of east of St. Joe, died Tuesday morning at 5:30 o'clock at the Souder hospital in Auburn. Mr. Curie had been a patient at the hospital since last Friday afternoon and was in a serious condition when he entered the institution. He had been suffering with influenza when a severe attack of appendicitis set in. The appendix was ruptured and gangrenous, necessitating an emergency operation. For two days he had been given oxygen for the purpose of keeping his lungs clear.

Mr. Curie would be 31 years old on next Monday. He was born in St. Joe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie. He attended the St. Joe public schools and graduated, afterwards completing a course at the International Business college at Fort Wayne. He was an accountant by occupation. Prior to his death Mr. Curie had been active in the church at Coburn's Corners and in that community.

On May 28, 1923, the deceased was married to Mildred Gee of St. Joe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee, at that time teacher in the Hicksville, Ohio, high school. They have two children, Harold Gee Curie, aged 4 and Joan, one year old. Their married life was spent on the Gee farm, 2 miles east of St. Joe.

Besides the parents, widow and children, there survive two brothers, Herbert of Garrett and Franklin Jr., of St. Joe; and five sisters, Mrs. Kathryn Jump of near Edgerton, and Lucille, Grace, Mary and Ruth at home.

The deceased was a member of the Lutheran Church at St. Joe and of Mentor Lodge, No. 591, I. O. O. F. of Auburn.

The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 from the Coburntown Church and burial will be made in the cemetery at St. Joe.

THANKS TO NEIGHBORS

We wish to express our most grateful appreciation to the 33 friends and neighbors of Newville Center, Coburn's Corners and the home neighborhood, who so kindly expressed their sympathy by gathering at the Chas. Curie home early Monday, to husk and haul the corn and fodder, and to cut wood. Words are inadequate to express the appreciation of the family for this proof of their kindness. We hope when this is read they will know that their neighborliness is appreciated and will never be forgotten by us here.

Girls Win Over Ashley

The St. Joe girls won over Ashley last Saturday night 16-31. The game was quite close the first quarter, but the home team ended the first half wih a score of 14 and the first half with a score of 14 and their opponents with 8. There during the last half.

The girls were all glad to see Violet get back in the game after being out for four weeks with a broken thumb. The crowd gave the team more support than usual, and the girls played an exceptional game.

The boys lost to Ashley 20-35. Keith Dailey played part of the game although he was handicapped by his broken finger. The boys missed a number of shots and it seemed that the Ashley boys made them just as easy as St. Joe missed them.

Both teams play Leo this Friday night.

The band will play for the County Teachers Institute January 21 at Auburn. It might be interesting to know that the band ranks highest among the school bands in the county.

A meeting of all the music teachers was held in Auburn last Wednesday. A county festival was planned instead of a county contest. Each school will be represented by the girls chorus which will sing two numbers. Also a county chorus composed of various school units will furnish four numbers on the program and will be directed by the music supervisor of Garrett schools.

Miss Ditmars and Miss Poland have exchanged English classes this semester, Miss Ditmars teaching the Juniors and Seniors and Miss Poland teaching the Freshmen.

Visitors of the fifth and sixth grades last week were Miss Virginia Frye of Hobart and Mrs. Parlia Hull.

Burl Rude is absent from school with chicken pox.

The Sophomore English class wrote some interesting short stories last week.

The following people got an average of 90 or above for the first semester (not arranged in order of their ranking:) Ethelmae Freeburn, Beatrice Storer, Violet Baker, Enid Curie, John Woodcox, Keith Dailey, Glenn Likes, Virginia Shull, Geraldine Thornton, Eloise Draggoo, Jean Goodwin, Earl Kinsey, John Kaellner, Gertrude Kitchen, Bonnie McSorley, Evelyn Dermott, Effiebel Freeburn, Eileen Gaff, Norma Richard, Beulah Storer, Helen Washler, Ronald Borthwick, Leonard Curie, Ersa Reidenbach, Robert Ridlen, and Kathryn Young.

The hot lunch for the week of January 16-21 will be tomato soup Monday;; cocoa, wafers and tomatoes Tuesday; meat loaf, green beans and bread Wednesday; creamed dried corn and escalloped potatoes Thursday; sandwiches and tomatoes Friday.

A kitchen as bright and cheerful as a SUNROOM

WOULDN'T you like to have your kitchen so light and free from shadows that work seems to hurry itself along? You can quickly have such a kitchen. Securing it is neither difficult nor expensive. Simply put a new 150-watt Edison MAZDA Daylight lamp in the central ceiling fixture (which should be of the totally enclosing type) and a 60-watt Edison MAZDA lamp in the shaded fixture above the sink* and in the one above the range.*

*If you haven't these fixtures, ask us to tell you how little it will cost to have them installed.

Now even washing dishes will be easier and less tiresome. For now you can see clearly, quickly and easily. What's that? You'd like to try it? Well, we're ready.

Lt us hope that 1933 got out on the right side of the bed.

In many sections the only spring thaw this year will be in a pan of ice cubes under a faucet.

If 1933 finishes with as much prosperity as it began with accidents and crime, all will be rosy.

There seems to be some question whether often is pronounced of-ten or offen, as in "I got it offen you."

Why fret about the passing of the old livery stable when you can get the same atmosphere in some of the new humorous magazines?

MAKE TAXATION HURT

One need not be an advocate of the general sales tax to appreciate that it would have one desirable effect: It would make taxation hurt. It would give every citizen, regardless of income, a new understanding of the gigantic cost of the government.

All of us pay taxes. But comparatively few of us pay them directly—and a great many persons who pay indirect taxes think they are escaping taxation altogether.

We pay a tax when we cook and eat a meal, turn on a light, attend a movie, buy clothes, go for a ride, or do almost anything else. These taxes may be concealed in the cost of necessities and pleasures, but they are there nevertheless.

No business can pick money from bushes—every cost of operation, whether it be labor, supplies or taxes, must be passed on to the customer.

If more of us felt taxes directly, the chance for really obtaining economicad and efficient government would be tremendously improved.

If the sales tax comes, government extravagance and expansion will have again added to the cost of the things we buy—and when it hurts all the people, they may then demand a lower cost of government.

Before considering a sales tax, however, or any other new and increased taxation, public officials would do well to remember that in seeking office at recent state and national elections, they, one and all, stressd the need for economy in public affairs, reduced taxation and, in a number of instances, promised a 25 per cent cut in the cost of government.

MORTUARY

BOREN

Jacob E. Boren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Francis Boren, was born in DeKalb County, Indiana, October 10, 1862, and departed this life at his home near Harlan, January 5, 1933, aged 70 years, 2 months and 25 days.

On October 5, 1882, Mr. Boren was united in holy matrimony with Almeda McKinley, to this union was born one son and two daughters. Mrs. Boren departed this life on May 13, 1898.

He was again united in marriage to Miss Hattie Elizabeth Bathurst July 11, 1899, to this union was born one son, Lloyd Elwood. Mr. Boren was a resident of Springfield Township for 30 years.

He united with the United Brethren Church at Hopewell April 17, 1897. His membership was transferred to the St. Mark's Lutheran Church at Harlan, Indiana, April 17, 1927, where he was a faithful member in attendance until his illness kept him away from the services.

Surviving are the sorrowing widow, Mrs. Hattie Bofen; two daughters, Mrs. Sarah Funk and Mrs. Minnie Fry; two sons, Albert and Lloyd, all of Harlan; a step-daughter, Mrs. Alice Gochenour, of Fremont; a brother, Otha Boren, of Fort Wayne; one sister, Mrs. Alice Copp, of St. Joe; 7 grandchildren, five great grandchildren, and a host of friends, who will miss his smiling face.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. A. K. Mumma in the Harlan Lutheran Church Sunday afternoon and burial at the Cedar Chapel cemetery. Oetting and Son funeral directors.

HART

Annabelle Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hart, was born May 2, 1916 near Spencerville, Indiana, and passed away after a long illness on December 27, 1932, aged 16 years, 7 months and 25 days.

She lived all her life in this neighborhood and took the part of a bright normal girl in its school and church affairs. She united with the Christian Church at Coburn's Corners on July 7, 1929, under the ministry of J. N. Scholes, and at the time of her taking sick was active in the work of the Bible School.

She leaves to mourn her departure besides her devoted parents, five brothers and three sisters, Leoral, Henry, Jesse, James Andrew, Lucile, Leota, Walter and Margaret Donna, all who are still with their parents. Her grandfather Hart and grandmother Mann also survive.

Beside these who are so close to her there are numerous other relatives and many friends of the school and church.

Pilgrim Fathers' Lives Sustained by Hominy

Hominy, golden grain of the pinmed Indian maize beaten into coarse meal. Gift of welcome to the Pilgrim fathers from their red neighbors. Among the dishes of early American cookery, what the Cabots and Lodges are to the sons and daughters of the American Revolution.

Of hominy as a food of the Colonists, wrote Captain Smith in 1629. "They commonly fed upon milke hominl, which is bruised Indian corne pounded and boiled thicke, and milke for the sauce."

"Their ordinary diet is poane and omine, both made of corn," wrote Lord Baltimore; and William Penn. "Their diet is maize, sometimes beaten and boiled with water, which they call homine." One waggish scribe relates, "Our entertainer made him (a newcomer) own that a plate of hominy was the best rice pudding he did ever eat."

Today we commonly refer to the coarse meal made of white corn kernels, from which the rough fibrous part and the germ has been removed, as hominy grits. Hominy is the term more generally applied to the whole corn grains hulled by lye immersion.—Exchange.

Writer Has Some Doubt About Weather Control

A scientist thinks that weather eventually may be controlled by electricity. We contemplate with awe the bringing on of a thunderstorm by pressing a button. Will powerful sirens warn the people of the storm's approach so they will stop the superfluous watering of their lawns and shut the northwest windows? For we do not suppose that the electrical rainmakers will so far defy established natural laws as to bring rainstorms from unheard of directions.

The rains should be quite orderly and never freakish. Ruskin said: "As men do not walk on their heads, there are natural laws that clouds do not disobey." We have always thought that man would, one of these days, determine when rain should fall and when it shouldn't, and electrical control may be the secret. But we have profound doubts of his being able to do a thing when a Gulf of Mexico hurricane comes ashore.—F. H. Collier in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Water Freezes

There is no difference between the freezing point of water that has been heated and that which has not been heated if the water is pure. In the case of tap water which is nearly pure but contains dissolved air, heating the water may drive out some of the air. This has no considerable effect on the freezing point, but may make a difference in the character of the ice produced. Hot-water pipes are reported to burst from freezing more often than cold-water pipes. This is not because of a difference of freezing point of the water, but is probably because the water in cold-water pipes contains dissolved air, which separates on freezing and forms slushy ice; while when water in a hot-water pipe freezes, it is more apt to become under-cooled and then freeze rather suddenly, forming compact ice free from bubbles, which is more apt to break a pipe.

Composed Famous Song

A negro year book says that Richard Milburn was the composer of "Listen to the Mocking Bird." Mr. Septimus Winner, composer and publisher, induced Milburn to whistle this song before him while he wrote down the birdlike notes. The song was afterward published by Mr. Winner in Philadelphia in 1855, and during the years 1855 to 1865, it was popular with minstrel companies and serenading parties. The front of the piece reads "Words by Septimus Winner—Music by Alice Hawthorne." "Alice Hawthorne" was one of the pseudonyms used by Mr. Winner on his title pages.

Magna Charta Reminder

The organization known as the Society of the Daughters of the Barons of Runnymede was organized in 1915 by Mrs. Robert G. Hogan of Catonsville, Md., who conveived the idea of an organization for women similar to a men's organization, the Baronial Order of Runnymede, which was organized but undeveloped on account of our entry into the World war. The membership is limited to those who can truce their ancestry in a direct line to a baron who in the year 1215 A. D., compelled the signing of the Magna Charta by King John at Runnymede. The organization is American.

The Danger

The football game guests reached the house before their host, and Mary was just getting the doorkey out of its known hiding place, when David protested:

"We'd better not go in before they come. They have a dog, you know."

"Oh, yes, I know," she returned nonchalantly, "but the dog has a lame leg. He won't hurt us!"

"Well," returned her escort, "I was afraid he might bite us, not kick us!"

Today's Tasks First

Today is the appointed time to get your job done. Never put it off until tomorrow, for tomorrow will never come. Inertia is one of the greatest of our sins. Do today what should be done today—tomorrow will find its own tasks.—Grit.

"The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.

THE REAL TEST

Viahnett S. Martin

"And anyway," stormed Betty Jo with her brown eyes flashing, "I don't take other people's pennies. So there!"

Ernest stood still—stricken. "I don't take people's pennies either. I did—just take one—but I earned another penny and paid it back—and—" He choked a little.

Then the other children took up the jeering. They were very much put out with their little boy neighbor because he wouldn't do as they wanted. They'd show him!

Ernest never cried over "bumps;" he was conspicuous for his childish bravery. But now the tears welled up in his big blue eye, and his proudly carried head drooped a bit. He ran home.

After a few minutes his mother opened the back door and asked, "Will you go to the store for me, Son?"

Ernest raised his head from the Airedale's shaggy shoulder and said he would go. He ignored his own tears and following his mother into the house, stood by her as she wrote her list down.

Then she reached out and slipped a loving arm about him. "Was it a hard 'bump,' dear?" I thought you never cried—even if a stone hit you?"

"Wasn't a stone!" Ernest dug his toe into the rug. I'm never going to play with Betty Jo and Phyllis again — never!" Wrathfully he dug his toe still harder into the rug.

"Oh, but it was a stone, dear. I heard it all. It was the biggest stone Betty Jo could find. I was so glad you didn't throw back. I was proud of that! But you cried because it hurt — "

"Why she never threw a stone at me, mother!" Ernest stared at his mother in astonishment. What was she thinking of? — a stone!

"The stones that bump the hardest, dear, are the unkind reminders of things we have done mistakenly and are sorry for. Things we have tried to make right and will never do again! But even after you have tried to make a thing right—as in earning and paying back the penny you took that time—that is only part of it. The rest, and the hardest part, is in being BRAVE when people remind you of the mistake. That is the real test, Son,—being brave and steady and not picking up a 'stone' and throwing back."

Ernest was used to listening to little stories like this that explained. He understood at once. "I get you, Mother," with a six-year-old's delightful slang, "I get you!" and his ready smile came back.

"Wash your face, Son, and get these things, please, from the store. You may take the bag of of apples over and share with the other children if you wish, afterwards."

A little later four happy children sat in a row on the top step, munching apples.

"Gee, this apple is good," said Ernest.

"I'll say it is," said Betty Jo. "Ernest—I—didn't mean to—say that. I know you wouldn't EVER take a penny any more."

"Aw, that's all right," said Ernest, "we all make mistakes."

One-half of the taxes assessed for state, county and school purposes are due and payable on or before the first Monday in May, 1933.
The second installment is due and payable on the first Monday in November, 1933.

In case either installment is not paid when due, it becomes delinquent and is subject to a penalty of three per cent, and eight per cent interest until paid. Administrators, guardians, agents, and others, who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are requested to settle such taxes before the last few weeks, as it takes time to make divisions and make separate receipts therefor. All persons should be careful to examine their receipts and see that all property they wish to pay taxes on is included in their receipts.

THE TREASURER WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE

For the penalty and charges and delinquent taxes resulting by reason of any omission of the person paying such taxes to state definitely on what property, in whose name, and in what township or corporation it was assessed. Persons are liable for taxes on all property owned by them on the first day of March, 1932. Property will appear in the same name for payment of the second installment as for the first installment each year. Call on the auditor for errors or reductions claimed in taxes. The treasurer cannot make such reductions. No extention will be given after the FIRST MONDAY IN MAY, 1933.
County orders will not be paid to anyone owing delinquent taxes; all persons are warned against purchasing such orders. The annual sale of delinquent lands and lots will take place on the Second Monday in February, 1933.

Auburn, Ind., December 15, 1932.

MERRITT M. MAXWELL,
TREASURER OF DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

CULTURE CLUB

Last Wednesday night, January 18th, the husbands of the Culture Club delightfully entertained their wives at a two-course dinner served in the Domestic Science room by the P. T. A. Hot Lunch committee.

The tables were beautifully decorated with the club colors, purple and gold and were lighted by tall tapers in the same colors.

The favors were pink and white carnations. The banquet was perfect in appointment and unexcelled in culinary skill.

After the banquet theatre parties were formed, part of the crowd going to Fort Wayne and part to Auburn.

HOME BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau held the first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Beulah Coburn, January 20. The meeting was opened with an organ solo, "Rose Petals," played by Mrs. Borthwick. Opening songs were led by Mrs. Harriett Johnson. Mrs. Arline Koch acting in the capacity of presiding officer, took charge of the program, presenting in turn each new officer with a bit of clever original verse of introduction.

In reply each officer responded in original verse, asking the help and co-operation of the club members, and pledging themselves to the same.

Mrs. Millie Shull, a former president, acting the part of the dignified chief justice, administered the oath of office, and swore in the officers, with the Home Bureau creed, admonishing club members and officers, alike to work together, and co-operate for the best good of the club. The officers then sang a song, "What's the Matter with Our Club," written especially for this occasion. Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, another former president, gave a history of the founding of the club, and a review of the work of the ten years of its organization. During the ten years four presidents have served, Mrs. Hattie Widney three years, Mrs. Millie Shull one year, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton two years and Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick four years. A golden key to the club with former presidents names writen on it, was presented by the out-going president, Mrs. Borthwick, to the new president, Mrs. Mary Krise, with instructions for using.

Mrs. Lois Carper, County Home Bureau president, was present and gave a short talk, adding a few notes to the history of the club, giving a few high-lights of her trip to Purdue, and urging co-operation of club members and townships.

Mrs. Krise then took charge of the business session. Secretary's report was read and approved. Twenty-nine members responded with roll call with "My duty to the club." Mrs. Hazel Nichols, assistant project leader for the past year, gave a short report of her trip to Purdue. The hostess, Mrs. Coburn, assisted by her committee composed of Maude Jenkins, Anna Baker, Mayola Kinsey, Mary Ridgway, and Doris Yeiser, served a dainty and appetizing luncheon. Mrs. Lois Carper and Mrs. Abner Trostle were guests.

R. H. C.

The Rural Housewives' Club met Wednesday, January 18th at the home of Mrs. Inez Hadsell. The time was spent in sewing. A very enjoyable luncheon consisting of nut-bread sandwiches, perfection salad and coffee was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Hart.

EDITORS MEET AT ANGOLA LAST WEEK

About fifteen editors of this section of Indiana, met last Thursday evening at the Hotel Hendry at Angola, to talk over their difficulties and as well, their successes in this time of economic struggle.

Ray and Ed Willis, editors of the Steuben Republican and W. H. Morley, editor of the Herald, were hosts to the editor friends and a very enjoyable evening was spent with our Angola friends.

The next meeting will be held in a few weeks at the Auburn Country Club, when the DeKalb county editors will act as hosts.

The ladies that were present took in a picture show while the men talked shop.

CHICKEN THIEVES ABROAD

Thursday evening, during the high wind which prevailed here, some culprit forced an entrance to the Adam Shilling barn and took seven laying hens and one rooster from the roost. This loss will be felt by Mrs. Shilling as she labored faithfully to raise these hens and depended upon their egg production to assist in their grocery supplies. The matter is in the hands of the sheriff and things are getting pretty warm.

A cynic is a man who mistakes cheerfulness for ignorance.

A kitchen as bright and cheerful as a SUNROOM

WOULDN'T you like to have your kitchen so light and free from shadows that work seems to hurry itself along? You can quickly have such a kitchen. Securing it is neither difficult nor expensive. Simply put a new 150-watt Edison MAZDA Daylight lamp in the central ceiling fixture (which should be of the totally enclosing type) and a 60-watt Edison MAZDA lamp in the shaded fixture above the sink* and in the one above the range.*

*If you haven't these fixtures, ask us to tell you how little it will cost to have them installed.

Now even washing dishes will be easier and less tiresome. For now you can see clearly, quickly and easily. What's that? You'd like to try it? Well, we're ready.

GROUNDHOG'S DILEMMA

This topsy turvy winter has given Bre'r Groundhog something to worry about that will wrinkle his silver brow with care.

On Groundhog Day he is supposed to come out of his hole, look around for his own shadow and if he sees it, returns to his hole for six more weeks of winter.

Not a difficult task, that, in a normal winter but this one has been anything but normal. Sunny (?) California will track him to his lair and lunch him if he prophesies six more weeks of the abnormal weather it has been experiencing. In the Middle Atlantic States to which winter has always come before there has been no winter, so the groundhog's shadow means nothing here. How can there be six weeks "more" of something of which there has been none? The groundhog will have to be a sophist to answer that one.

Freak weather conditions such as have been almost universal this winter do not win converts to the groundhog day superstition. They are something not even this legendary weather prophet can combat. All he can do is stick to his story and wait for a winter that meets all the requirements of the tradition.

The shadow may hit it right this year. Snow was impossible in Southern California yet it snowed there this winter. June temperatures were impossible in Pennsylvania and New England in January yet both had a week of them this month. Why then might not six more weeks of winter come to the land of perpetual sunshine and summer come to the temperate East in February?

SEED CATALOG TIME

Whether the seed catalog time is a superstition or a bad habit is a much disputed question and worthy of the consideration of the Wednesday Night Debating Club, but that it is as inevitable in January as New Year's Day is indubitable.

Next to a certain mail order house catalog and before the almanac it is the most read of the family shelf of free literature. It might be suggested that it is also the most popular picture book on the sitting room table.

What visions of giant corn stalks, balloon size cabbage, overpopulated potato hills, tender lettuce, dazzingly beautiful flowers and trim hedges are reared in the mind's eye of dad and mother when the new catalog from the seed company arrives. They pore through its leaves selecting the varieties they will plant in the backyard garden in the spring.

And the kids are not immune from this seed-mania. They fight for the new seed catalog and thumb through its pages in search of good things to eat and the plants and vegetables they will have in their gardens in the spring. With the seed catalogs the kiddies extend the planting, cultivating and harvesting over all 12 months of the year with the best results attained when the garden patches of the grown-up folks are lying idle.

The erroneous impression that spring fever is first contracted in the spring from the early buds or the twitter of the north-bound birdlife is corrected every January when the mail man delivers the first seed catalog, with its appetizing pictures of fresh garden vegetables, early flowers, corn on the cob, red lucious strawberries, mellow canteloupe, and ripening fruit. The mail order seed houses know their business as well as man's failings.

Some husbands are happy, other's wives won't stay at home.

If a girl's face is her fortune there's billions in a drug store.

Boys Have Successful Weekend

The boys traveled to Farmer Friday evening and won by a score of 50-30. St. Joe scored the first basket but Farmer was in the lead at the half. In the last half St. Joe started scoring and Farmer was unable to stop them. Bob Wiers was high point man, getting 15 points to his credit. The whole team played a very good game.

The girls, playing under several handicaps, lost to the Farmer girls 29-16.

Saturday evening both games ended with a tie with Harlan, the girls having 23-23 and the boys 26-26. The state laws prohibit the girls from playing off a tie, but after three minutes overtime the boys won 28-29. The Harlan boys led throughout the game until the last quarter, but St. Joe forged ahead until they were 2 points in the lead. Then Harlan made the last basket which tied the score.

The boys have won the last five games and everyone is waiting anxiously for them to win the game next Saturday night with Spencerville.

Dorotha Wasson was walking on crutches last week because of some torn ligaments in her foot which were received in the game with Leo.

The young people of the Newville Christian Church held a party at Wilma Lyon's home January 19th.

Lewis Walter has been absent from school because of sickness.

Iris Jackson has been sick with the chicken pox.

The men entertained the women of the Culture Club last week with a wonderful supper in the Home Economics room of the school house.

The band entertained the fans at the last ball game and started the teams off with enthusiasm.

Iris Wilmot was absent all last week with a cold.

The Freshmen girls are having their trying moments while learning to use the thimble in Home Economics class.

In the boys health class last Friday the Juniors beat the Seniors in a game of volley ball.

The girls health class is divided into two divisions, the Dare Devils with Connie Harter as their leader and the Go-Getters with Gertrude Kitchen their leader. They have been competing in a number of stunts, relays, and games. At present the Go-Getters have the most points.

Several of the High School girls are going to enter the County Chorus.

Mr. Shull visited the school last week.

The girls chorus will sing for Farmers Institute at Spencerville some time in February.

The hot lunch for next week will be bean soup Monday; cocoa, apple betty and tomatoes, Tuesday; creamed beef on toast and tomatots, Wednesday; spanish rice and string beans, Thursday; buns and weiners, Friday.

SPENCERVILLE H. S.

In order to be listed on the honor roll for the semester, a pupil's average in each subject of study must be 90% or above. In addition said pupil must be neither absent nor tardy.

The following are on the semester's honor roll for the Spencerville school:

Grade 2: Wilma Hensley, Evelyn Shook, Martha Hart, Mrs. Einsiedel, teacher.

Grade 5: Robert Max Hafner, Berniece Furnish, Walter Coburn. Mrs. Glawe, teacher.

From the junior high are listed William Erick, 8th, Robert McInturf, 7th. In the high school proper are Carol Gerig and Warren Rectenwall, freshmen; Frank Hamilton, junior; and Loyd Laux, senior. A few from other grades were kept off on account of absence due to illness.

The junior high boys held a meeting and organized for base ball with the following results:

William Erick, captain; Loren Laub, secretary-treasurer; Harold Kagey, student manager.

They decided to begin practice early and go out to win.

The girls Three R's Club is to hold an initiation birthday meeting at the home of Lillian Kling on Friday night of this week. Several new members are to be taken in.

The basket ball team has played two games since their vacation and won one of the two. The first game was with Harlan and the second was with Hicksville. The boys lost to the Harlan boys with a score of 20-22. Both teams were in a deadlock at the end of the first quarter, then at the half Spencerville team came out with a lead of two points, making the score 7-9. They still had the lead at the end of the third period of the game. The S. H. S. boys lost the game the last quarter by substitution.

Friday the 18th did not seem unlucky for the S. H. S. boys when they met with Hicksville on the opponent's floor. Although it did seem unlucky until the last few minutes or even seconds when Hicksville was leading 24-25 and Spencerville's star player found out where the basket was located and dropped one field goal thru the net. The game was well played and clean. C. Kimes, Spencerville's new player for the 1932-33 season, came out and showed the boys how it was done. He made the S. H. S. boys 12 points, which they appreciate very much.

CORRECTION

A slight error was made last week by statement to The News that music at the Chas. Curie obsequies was furnished by the Wittenberg Brotherhood Quartet, instead of Community Men's Quartet.

COUNTY HOME MATRON LOSES IN SUIT

The county commissioners acted without legal authority when they made a contract for four years with Mrs. Betty Leighty to act as matron of the county infirmary, Judge Endicott ruled Friday afternoon.

The court sustained a demurrer to the complaint by which Mrs. Leighty sought to mandate the county council to appropriate sufficient money to meet the terms of the contract. She was paid the full amount, $780 a year, for the years 1929 and 1930, but the council reduced the pay for 1931 to $600 and for 1932 to $500. Mrs. Leighty brought suit to require the council to allow her a total of $460 more.

The court found that while the law gives commissioners power to make a contract for four years with the superintendent of the infirmary, it says only with reference to other employes that they "shall be employed." The court held that the commissioners could not make a four year contract with Mrs. Leighty in the absence of an appropriation from the council.

EARLY CHICKS

(By Prof. H. D. Munroe)

Crowded conditions in brooding chicks is the most common trouble-maker. Crowding of chicks not only causes heavy mortality due to disease but helps to develop bad habits such as picking. With our present equipment, crowding can be eliminated and more satisfactory results obtained by a few changes in management.

Instead of having one brood of 500 chicks in March, get 250 chicks in January and 250 in April. This arrangement will prevent crowding, will produce more uniform growth and will eliminate a lot of disease and vices.

By having two broods of chicks three months apart, no additional equipment will be necessary. The January hatched pullets will be laying during the early fall when egg prices are high and the her flock is falling off in production. These early hatched pullets will probably molt in the late fall or early winter. When they are molting the late hatched pullets will be in production. These early hatched pullets, after molting, will make good breeders and because of their molting will lay later the following summer.

This form of brooder management will not only produce better pullets but will tend to result in more uniform egg production.

ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL

In your left-hand trousers pocket you have the sum of fifty dollars. In your right-hand pocket is another fifty. For a period of time you spend entirely from the left pocket, until the fifty suffers alarming depreciation. Then you begin spending from the right pocket. Would you consider this economy and reduction of expenses? You certainly would not. It is unimportant whether the dollar comes from one pocket or another, whether your left hand or your right passes it out.

But, when tax commissions and politicians announce a program of tax reduction, it usually does precisely what has been described above.

It takes a dollar off the property tax and puts another dollar on the income tax. It shifts burdens from an inheritance tax to a sales tax. It discovers intangibles taxes— supposed to lower some other tax, but increases the total volume of tax money taken from individuals and industry. And so it goes.

The average tax reduction program is a farce and misrepresentation. It robs Peter to pay Paul. It does not recognize the fact that there is but one way to lower taxes— to spend less money.

TODAY

Sure, this world is full of trouble
I ain't said it ain't.
Lord; I've had enough and double
Reason for complaint.
Rain an' storm have come to fret me,
Skies were often gray;
Thorns an' brambles have beset me
On the road—but, say
Ain't it fine today.

What's the use of always weepin',
Makin' trouble last?
What's the use of always keepin'
Thinkin' of the past?
Each must have his tribulation,
Water with his wine,
Life it ain't no celebration.
Trouble? I've had mine—but Today is fine.

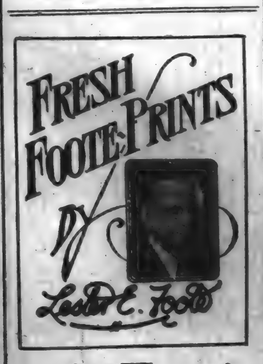
It's today that I am livin',
Not a month ago,
Havin', losin', takin', givin',
As time wills it so.
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way;
It may rain again tomorrow,
It may rain—but, say,
Ain't it fine today.



One dare not admit prosperity for fear of being hounded by neighbors and friends.

About the only encouragement that we are able to offer to farmers is the fact that the occupation of the farmer or the farm laborer is the healthiest of all occupations. The average age at the time of death among farmers is 58.5 years. The most hazardous occupation is that of bookkeeper or office assistant whose average age at the time of death is only 36.5 years. The bookkeepers worst enemy is tuberculosis. This information is furnished by the United States Department of Labor.

MORTUARY

TIMBROOK

Bonnie Jean Timbrook, was born on September 28, 1927 at Harlan, Indiana. After bringing sunshine and happiness to others she left this life at 11:30 P. M. January 11, 1933, at the age of 5 years, 4 month sand 13 days.

She leaves to mourn her early departure her mother, father, one sister, Phyllis, her grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dean, her grandmother, Mrs. Ella Gruber, and many relatives and friends who loved to see her.

Funeral services were held for her at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Jan. 14, at the Harlan M. P. Church with the Rev. V. O. Harrold officiating.

FORKNER

Martha Nicholls Forkner, daughter of John B. and Lydia Layman Nicholls, was born in New Market, Rockingham County, Va., September 20, 1844, and died January 16, 1933, at the home of her niece, Mrs. S. D. Gee, at the age of 88 years,

On May 22, 1878, she was united in marriage to G. H. Forkner. To this union was born one child a daughter, Mary, dying in infancy.

She came with her parents to DeKalb County, Indiana, where she spent most of her life. In her earlier life she was a teacher in the public schools. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church in Auburn and was active in other social work.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 1:00 P. M. from the Kinsey Funeral Home, with Rev. A. H. Fabianske officiating. Burial in Woodlawn cemetery at Auburn.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all those who so kindly assisted in the death and burial of our beloved Aunt, and for the words of sympathy spoken by the minister and for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. S. D. Gee and Family.

WATSON

Samuel Watson was born in Allen County, Indiana, July 10, 1947 and died at Fort Wayne January 20, 1933, at the age of 85 years, 6 months and 10 days. He was the oldest of a family of 13 children, all deceased but one brother William Watson, of near Spencerville.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Walter funeral home, Rev. Howard Brown officiating. Burial was made in White City cemetery.

ZERBY

Patricia Alverta, infant daughter of Frank and Lucile M. Zerby, was born November 12, 1932 and closed her eyes for her eternal rest, January 21, 1933, at the age of 10 weeks. She leaves to mourn their loss beside the parents a brother, Robert, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Zerby and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McQuown, and a host of relatives and friends.

The fuheral was held from the Kinsey funeral home Monday afternoon with Rev. Moore, pastor of the Newville U. B. Church, officiating. Burial was made at Payne, Ohio.

The Zerby family reside on the Nicholls farm, across the river from Newville.

THE RELIGION OF JESUS FOR TODAY, TO BE THEME FOR PREACHING MISSION

Final plans for the "Preaching Mission" to be held at the Spencerville Methodist Episcopal Church during the week of January 29 to February 5, have been completed according to an announcemet by Rev. Howard Brown, the pastor in charge.

The program for the week follows: Sunday evening, "Nason, the Blind Disciple" a religious drama presented by the Epworth League of the Auburn Methodist Church. Monday, the services will be in charge of Rev. F. A. Ruder, who will speak on the subject, "Why We Need the Christian Faith Today." Tuesday evening, Rev. Don Bailey from McCordsville will take as his sermon topic, "What Has Jesus to Offer Today?" Wednesday, Rev. J. C. Bean from the Wallen Methodist Church will take for his text, "I Am The Way." Rev. E. W. Wickersham from the Auburn Methodist Church will preach on Thursday night and Dr. J. T Bean, the superintendent of the Fort Wayne District of the Methodist Church will deliver the message on Friday and will be in charge of the Communion Service to be observed on that night. Rev. Howard Brown will preach on Sunday morning, February 5, using the text, "The Common People Heard Jesus Gladly."

Each of these men will bring a different message but all will circle around the idea of, "The Religion of Jesus for Today." We recognize that all people do not like the same kinds of food, it would be utter foolishness to expect that they would all respond in the same way to various types of preaching. The broadminded man is he who can realize that what may not appeal to him may be the very thing his neighbor sorely needs. It is the hope of those in charge of planning this Preaching Mission that everyone will be able to find in this week of services that type of preaching and that message that he needs for times like these.

There will be special music at all services. The Young People of the Spencerville Church, under the direction of Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall, will sing at two of the services, the Wallen Choir will be present on Wednesday evening.

All services will begin at seven o'clock except the final service on Sunday, February 5, which will begin at 10:00 A. M. There will be no collections, except the regular Sunday offerings. Everyone is invited to join in this week of services.

SPENCERVILLE

Isadore Badiac and sons, of near Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Emila Gloyd.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will meet February 1, at the home of Mrs. Ruth Butler.

Attendance at the Spencerville M. E. Sunday School last Sunday was 65, collection, $2.97; Lutheran Sunday School attendance, 76, collection, $3.17.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitacre, formerly of Richmond, stopped here in the home of the lady's parents, R. U. Bowser and wife, enroute to their new home at Highland, Ind., where Mr. Whitacre has accepted the position as principal of the school at that place.

The C. C. Club was very pleasantly entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ruth Butler. Owing to the resignation of the president and vice president, Mrs. Ethel Bowser and Mrs. Golden High were elected. James Butler very pleasantly entertained the ladies with vocal solos and the mouth harp. One guest, Mrs. Appleman, was present.

Mrs. Wilson, of Auburn who has been assisting in the care of Miss Eine Boots, fell last week at the Boots home and injured her foot.

Rev. and Mrs. Howard Brown entertained the Live Wire class at their home on Friday evening. There were 38 members present to enjoy the evening.

Rev. A. K. Mumma and son, David, of Harlan, installed electric wiring in the building formerly occupied by Bert Davis, for the Farm Bureau Hatchery last week.

Mrs. Janice Bowser and sons, Jimmy and Jerry, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wade and family at Adrian, Mich., returned home Friday evening.

The Friendly Bible class of the Lutheran Sunday School was recently entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller. There were 31 guests present to enjoy the pot luck supper.

An all day meeting of the Home Bureau was enjoyed at the home of the president, Mrs. Bernice Wilder at Coburntown. Twenty-three ladies enjoyed the pot luck dinner and three guests came in for the afternoon. A prize was won by Mrs. Gladys Hart for having the best and chepest house dress.

The Cheerful Workers class of the Methodist Sunday School met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cora Steward. After the business meeting the ladies elected officers for the year as follows: president, Mrs. Cora Steward; vice president, Mrs. Alice Watson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Minta Rhodes. The guests were Rev. and Mrs. Howard Brown and Mrs. Cleo Reed.

HOG SKIN FOUND

A hog was slaughtered underneath the Dills river bridge last week some time, at least the pelt was found by George Hart, Saturday. The hog was white and had been skinned, and the refuse left on the bank. Just where the animal came from, no one knows.

PREACHERS PLAN FOR EXCHANGE OF PULPITS

The DeKalb County Ministerial association met in monthly session Monday morning at the Y. M. C. A. at Auburn. The meeting was in charge of the president, Rev. Ernest Lewellen of Waterloo. A most delightful meeting was enjoyed by about 15 of the pastors of the county. Plans are being worked out for a general exchange of pulpits some Sunday evening in the near future, all exchange preachers speaking from the same text. The Rev. William Mygrant spoke most helpfully to the other preachers, all much younger than he, on the subject, "As Paul would Talk to Timothy."

FARM PRODUCTS MARKETING SCHOOL

The Marketing School to open Monday night February 10, at the Court House Assembly Room will give special consideration to DeKalb County products.

There will be no expense to those attending and any who wish to be present are welcome.

The meetings will open at 7:30 P. M. and dismiss at 9:00 so that those from a distance who attend may get home in reasonable time.

Many questions of interest to producers will be discussed and a better understanding of marketing will result.

MRS. VIOLA CARPENTER PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock, the end came to the life of Mrs. Viola Carpenter, 66 years old, at her home at Coburntown, after only a short illness with erpsipilas.

Mrs. Carpenter was the daughter of the late S. L. Widney, and has been a resident of this community most of her life time.

Surviving are three sons Carl and Paul of St. Joe and Darrell of Butler, and two brothers, Byron Widney of St. Joe and Otto Widney of Hicksville, Ohio.

The funeral services were held from the St. Joe M. P. Church, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. J. N. Scholes, Rev. Walter Coburn, and Rev. V. O. Harrold, with burial in Riverside cemetery.

The complete obituary will appear in the next issue of The News.

B. & O. MOVES TO CONSOLIDATE OFFICES

The superintendent's offices and seven clerks of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad have been moved to Akron, Ohio, effective Wednesday morning, February 1.

John E. Fahy, who has served as superintendent here for the B. & O. lines, will go to Akron.

The transfer of the divisional offices is being made in the interest of economy for the railroad, it was announced. The railroad has been slashing expenses in operations for sometime to meet a 50 per cent drop in business during the depression, Mr. Fahy said.

The local freight has been changed also, instead of a local crew going east one day and west the next, all of the freight is arranged in a car and sent east on a fast train and each afternoon a local train will dispense the cargo going west, to the several towns along the line. This is a daily service that no one can object to.

LUNG AND CARPER HEAD FARMERS' MUTUAL

All officers and directors were re-elected by the members of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of DeKalb county Saturday afternoon. The annual meeting was held in the court house assembly room in Auburn.

There was some opposition to the election of the president, Noah A. Lung, of Union township and Philip S. Carper of Jackson township for secretary. The former received a majority over John Dannenberg of Keyser and William Potter of Franklin township and Mr. Carper won over J. C. Hodges of Franklin, E. E. Turner of Grant and Claud Miller of Butler township. Mr. Lung will enter his eleventh and Mr. Carper his thirty-first year of service for the company.

C. H. Bangs of Richland township was re-elected actuary without opposition.

Three directors were re-elected, Claud Fitch of Butler township, William Potter of Franklin township and Albert Thrush of Butler township. The holdover members are Ira Williams of Union township and George Harmes of Fairfield township.

The fire rate last year was 30 cents on the $100.00.

The insurance carried in Concord township is $571,060; Spencer township, $553,750; Newville township, $391,620 and Jackson township, $1,212,010, with a total of $12,173,630 in the county.

P. T. A. PROGRAM

The February P. T. A. will be on February 7. in the afternoon. Preceding the meeting, the town patrons are entertaining the rural patrons at a two-course luncheon at twelve o'clock. All country patrons are urged to come and spend the time between the luncheon and the meeting visiting the school.

Since the teachers will be present also, along with the guests, it will be necessary to serve the luncheon promptly at twelve, in order that the teachers may get back to their work. May we ask your cooperation in this? Be sure to come and bring your country neighbors.

The program itself, which will begin at two o'clock, will be of great interest to mothers and fathers, and the committee is hoping for a large crowd.

A kitchen as bright and cheerful as a SUNROOM

WOULDN'T you like to have your kitchen so light and free from shadows that work seems to hurry itself along? You can quickly have such a kitchen. Securing it is neither difficult nor expensive. Simply put a new 150-watt Edison MAZDA Daylight lamp in the central ceiling fixture (which should be of the totally enclosing type) and a 60-watt Edison MAZDA lamp in the shaded fixture above the sink* and in the one above the range.*

*If you haven't these fixtures, ask us to tell you how little it will cost to have them installed.

Now even washing dishes will be easier and less tiresome. For now you can see clearly, quickly and easily. What's that? You'd like to try it? Well, we're ready.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR AUTO LICENSES

Period for Legal Use of 1932 Plates Continued by Head of State Bureau

Indianapolis, Jan. 31. An indefinite extension of time for the legal use of 1932 automobile license plates was ordered today by James Carpenter, head of the license bureau.

"There will be an announcement sent to the United Press. They have not decided for how long."

Deadline for use of old plates Tuesday but only half new licenses have been purchased.

MORTUARY

STURGIS

Martha E., daughter of Florence and Mary Rush Buchanan was born July 14, 1875 at Auburn Indiana, and departed this life January 26, 1933, following a brief illness in the Christ Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio.

She was united in marriage to John E. Sturgis October 31, 1895, and to this union were born two children, Dean L. of Houston, Texas, Mrs. W. J. Syders of Norwood, Ohio, and Ralph L., Melba and Jimmy of Cincinnati, Ohio, all of whom survive her. She was a member of the order of Eastern Star at Butler, Indiana.

When a girl she made the choice of a Christian life, accepted Christ as her Savior and united with the Methodist Protestant Church in Concord, until after her marriage when she transferred to the First Christian Church of Butler, Indiana.

She was a devoted wife and a patient and loving mother and no higher tribute could be expressed of her devotion and loyalty to her loved ones and friends than that one word immortalized by Balington Booth, "others."

She leaves to mourn, the husband, five children, one brother, H. L. Buchanan of Kalema, Oregon, one sister, Mrs. W. F. Rhoads of Spencerville, Indiana, and two grandchildren.

Through suffering she breathed not a murmur
For the Comforter stood by her side
And whispered "Fear not, I am with thee,
With me shalt thou ever abide."
On the river a pale boatman hastened,
She heard the soft dip of his oar;
Then from earth and sorrow he bore her
Across to that beautiful shore.

The funeral service was conducted from the St. Joe Lutheran Church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. J. N. Scholes, officiating. Interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

YOUTH HAS MORE TIME

In all ages idleness has been accounted by the wise as the parent of crime. The truth of this is more evident now than formerly because there is more idleness especially among a certain type of young men.

American boys of two or three generations ago had home duties of some sort, tasks expected of them like bringing home the cows in the evening or doing the barn chores or helping in the garden. Vacation time found them indulging in innocent recreation in the woods and water and fields—fishing, hunting, swimming, outdoor games and sports. In these they expanded their youthful energy and gained vitality and character thereby. They were mischievous, perhaps, for that has been a trait of adolescents since time began; but they had less incentive and temptation to viciousness and evil courses.

Indolence and weakness of character seems to be two of the common by-products of our changing mode of living. Young boys, especially in cities, have too much time lying heavily on their hands for their own good and for the safety of parked automobiles and other private property. They need such a safety valve as the chores that fell to their lot when every family had its own one-cow dairy, truck garden and horse.

However, it must be said in defense of modern youth that many of its "crime" and "delinquencies" were "harmless pranks" in the days before swiping corn and raiding orchards became heinous offenses in the eyes of the law and all farmers.

CONFISCATORY TAXATION

When an effort is being made by State legislature to balance their budgets, about all we hear, is some new tax proposition. We have heard of hundreds of harebrained schemes, by a large number of State members of Congress, to inflict upon an already overtaxed people some new form of nuisance tax.

Gasoline has been taxed to the extent, that the tax constitutes one-third of the amount on the cheaper 16 cent gasoline.

We are becoming fed up on this thing of new taxes, or new things to tax. It is about time that legislators awaken to the fact that we want no new taxes, or more taxes, but some sound legislation, based on the common sense proposition that the only sensible, the only just way to balance the budget, is to reduce our public expenditures, which can be done by a drastic paring down of governmental salaries, reduction of the vast number of governmental commiasions, boards, and secretarial positions, the secretaries who are paid for work for which legislators are supposed to draw their salaries. Do away with all overlapping of duties, all of which has to be paid for by toil and sweat of labor, and, too, that labor which has received drastic pay cuts.

Our legislators have not deemed it expedient to take a cut in their salaries. Most people are willing to see wages cut, when it affects the other fellow; believe in economy, when they are not asked to practice it.

We vote for public highways, hard surfaced, yet, expect lowered taxes. No one kicks when a bond is raised, provided it is to finance a paved road passing our door.

No sensible man will "kick" on improvements, nor yet on taxes, when they are reasonable, and borne equitably. We must have taxes to pay costs of government, and for improvements. There seems to be an idea, cherished by many, that all that is necessary to balance a budget is to enact a new tax law. These deluded ones do not take into consideration the fact, that there is a "law of diminishing returns," that is as inexorable as the law of nature, and this law, not man's making, will eventually, effectively, thwart man's purpose.

Men will easily find ways to evade such impositions. Witness the fact that the increased postal rates have resulted in a falling off of postal revenues.

The proposed sales tax, the income tax, are flagrant examples of a tax of this kind, they fall under the same category. The only result of these laws will be to pass the tax on to the ultimate consumer in the form of higher priced goods. You can not, will not escape this.

Legislators who are not alive to these conditions, whose hearts are calloused, to adamantine hardness, or are felicitating themselves with the thoughts that Americans will never rise in revolt, are hugging to their breasts a vain delusion, and are standing on the brink of a volcano. Their wanton disregard and contempt for the many, their arrant selfishness and superciliousness, if not checked will bring on a crisis we shudder to contemplate. "Where there is no vision the people perish."

LIKE THE HORSE

If anything could forcibly illustrate the law of diminishing returns resulting from increasing costs beyond a reasonable figure, the three-cent letter postage has turned the trick.

Postal revenue has been lost which will never be regained from the same class of mail, for the simple reason that the public has devised ways to use third-class mail instead of first.

The same thing will take place with gasoline. As gas taxes are shoved up beyond reasonable figures, smaller cars will be used, or larges cars will be used less, and the volume sold will diminish, thereby producing less revenue for the state.

The same thing will take place with property. Beyond a certain point, the owner cannot pay taxes. When that day comes, he will let the city, county or state take it and the tax rolls will be flooded with unsalable property, and tax deficits will mount.

The public is no different than the horse. You can lead the horse to water, but you can't make him drink. You can tax the public beyond its ability to pay, but you can't make it pay.

The political subdivisions of this nation, from the smallest hamlet to the Federal government, should readjust the tax bill and public expenditures to fit the ability of the people to pay.

The papers are filled with reports of meetings of tax experts, state tax commissions and other organizations of "tax spenders" who are in a large measure to blame for the present taxation problems of the people. As advisers on the financial affairs of the people, they have for years taken the easiest course, acquiescing in public demands for extravagant public expenditures without raising their voices in protest or showing where exorbitant spending was leading the people.

Even today, most of the "tax experts," instead of recommending drastic cuts in public expenditures, are hunting ways and means to increase existing taxes or find new methods of taxation.

The same thing is going to happen to every city, county, state and the nation itself, that has happened to millions of families—they are going to have to get along on less money than they thot was possible a year or two ago. Instead of increases in taxes or new methods of taxation to balance public deficits, there is going to have to be decreased taxation and decreased public demands on a balanced scale, which will eventually wipe out the deficits.

Families are paying up their bills now on reduced income simply by reducing their expenses below their income. Governments will have to do the same thing.

THE RESPONSIBILITY IS YOURS

You, the reader of this article, control the nation's fire loss.

What you do about it will determine the size of the loss this year and for all the years to come. If, as in the past, you are careless and ignorant, fire waste will continue to cost ten thousand lives and half a billion dollars annually. If, on the other hand, you take the little care, learn the few lessons, go to the small expense that will outlaw fire SO FAR AS YOUR OWN PROPERTY IS CONCERNED, loss will drop to a fraction of former levels.

Perhaps your electric wiring hasn't been expertly examined for a long time. Perhaps there are piles of rubbish in your garage or attic or basement. Perhaps your heating plant and flues are in need of overhauling and repair. If so, you are "asking" for a fire. It may be a smal fire or a great one—but it will cost you money, as well as every other citizen. You will pay through insurance rates through taxes, through loss of business and employment.

Fire is never an individual matter. It touches the whole community, the whole nation. It's individual only so far as control is concerned — and that's where you, as an individual, can do an invaluable work.

city as he increases his use. A great part of the expense to the Company of serving a residence customer does not vary with the number of kilowatt-hours the customer takes and, consequently, when he takes only a small quantity of current each month for lighting his unit cost is much higher than it need be if he would only use more service. Our records show that customers who have one of more of the three devices listed are paying an average rate per kilowatt-hour for combined lighting and domestic service of less than 5 cents, while those who have installed both range and refrigerator are, in practically all cases, having an average rate for the total use of less than 4 cents per kilowatt-hour. The addition of an electric water heater, under existing rate schedules, would still further reduce the rate per kilowatt-hour.

"We find today throughout our territory that there is full public acceptance of the electric refrigerator and the business has become so extensive that in every town that we serve there is now established a merchant or merchants who sell reliable electric refrigerators. It is apparent, therefore, that there will be no inconvenience to our customers if we discontinue the sale of this appliance and so we have taken this step. In general, throughout our property, there are not now available sufficient dealers who handle electric ranges and water heaters and who provide an equitable plan for financing them so that we will continue to sell these appliances which add so much to the comfort and convenience of our customers.

"We wish to assure all of our customers who have purchased refrigerators from us that we will maintain our service department and will be prepared to continue the servicing of the machines which they have purchased under the terms and conditions of the purchase contract."

Were you to the get-together meeting for the members of the Church of Christ last Thursday evening? What! You were not? Well, you missed something if I am any judge.

At six o'clock a delicious pot luck supper was served. After a period of relaxation old hymns were sung, stunts were performed and each repeated an old poem that he had learned in school. At an early hour the meeting adjourned and all went home with a smile on their faces.

Last Sunday evening the young people of the Churches of Christ in the county held C. E. meeting here. The young people of Garrett were in charge of the meeting and discussed the topic, "What Good is Our Church Doing?" Special numbers were given by the Newville, Ashley and Garrett societies. A large number of young people were in attendance.

Two hundred and fifty attended the union church service with a delegation from every Church of Christ in the county. Price Roberts of Garrett, read the scripture lesson, Revs O. R. Keller of Auburn gave the prayer and Rev. Walter Coburn the benediction. The Men's chorus sang several numbers, the Trumpet quartet of the Garrett Church sang two numbers. Rev. J. O. Rose of Angola preached a splendid sermon on, "Unity of the Church."

St. Joe Wins Over Spencerville

Spencerville lost a hard fought game last Saturday night to the St. Joe boys. The home team started off with a bang making the first basket—for the other team. John Dilley got the baskets confused and hit the wrong one. However St. Joe soon gained the lead and the half ended 12-15. Spencerville was in the lead only twice during the whole game and the final score was 40-30 in favor of St. Joe. The scoring was divided chiefly among three boys, Kenneth Gaff making 15 points, John Dilley 14, and Robert Wiers 10. One man from each team was put out on fouls.

The Junior and Senior boys played a preliminary game of volley ball Saturday night. The Seniors were victorious, winning two out of three.

A fine crowd attended the Spencerville game. Next Saturday night the girls play Auburn and the Junior High plays Altona. The admission has been reduced to 10 and 15 cents for the remaining games.

Miss Opal Poland returned to her home for the weekend.

The Seniors are still undecided on the question of having caps and gowns for commencement.

The fifth and sixth grades are making English posters. Some very clever ideas have been worked out.

Bonnie McSorley was shopping last Saturday at Fort Wayne.

Instead of the hot lunch for Friday of this week, the Juniors will give another chicken dinner similar to the one before. The price will be fifteen cents.

BROTHERHOOD MEETS AT BUTLER FEB. 8

Wittenberg Brotherhood, February eighth meeting is to be held at the U. B. Church at Butler, Ind. Chairman requests all attending to come early that the meeting may be started prompty at 7:30 P. M. This meeting is the yearly family night when all members and their families are urged to attend.

Dr. S. E. Bruester of the Christian Church at Hicksville, Ohio, a speaker of note will deliver the main address of the evening.

Male quartette from the Presbyterian Church of Auburn, also a male quartette from the U. B. Church at Waterloo, will appear on the program.

Others will appear on the program not yet definitely arranged for.

The ladies of the church will serve a cafeteria luncheon in the basement after the meeting to all who may care for refreshments.

This should be the largest meeting of the year as well as the most cordial and enjoyable. All are urged to attend and enjoy the entertainment and social time together.

Miss Grace Curie is numbered among the sick.

SPENCERVILLE H. S.

Hamilton	There	Feb. 10
Leo	There	Feb. 17

Due to a miscopy from the records there is a mistake in the honor roll as published last week. The name of Fred Steward, freshman, should also have appeared in the high school list. We sincerely regret the mistake and hereby offer apology.

Tests for the first month of the second semester are over. Results vary considerably. However, both pupils and teachers are relieved when the siege is over.

Several pupils were absent from Junior High classes last week due to the flu.

The seniors have begun the important task of choosing their play. The juniors, also, have been holding several important class meetings. Spring festivities are looming on the horizon.

The Reverend Fabianske of the local Lutheran Church spoke at Chapel services on Tuesday morning of last week. Several negro spirituals were sung by the assembly, then Rev. Fabianske read in character fashion a negro sermon, explaining the origins of some of the negro beliefs and spirituals.

The following games are yet on the schedule: Hicksville, Leo, Flint, Hamilton.

CONVENTION GOES TO BUTLER ON 16–17

The 68th County Sunday School Convention will be held in the United Brethren Church of Butler, February 16 and 17, and promises to be one of the most interesting ever offered to the Christian people of the county. The members of the local council feel that they have been unusually fortunate in securing outstanding leadership for this year's convention.

Miss Nellie C. Young will have charge of children's work thru the entire convention. Harry G. Rowe will represent the young people's work and has promised, on Thursday evening, to deliver his lecture, "The Challenge of the Change of this Hour;" also on Thursday evening the convention is to be treated to a new address by Judge Clyde C. Carlin, "The Faith of Our Mothers." Mrs. Linda Stage will have charge of the music at this evening's meeting and has promised us an orchestra along with her fine leadership. Mrs. Hilda Funk will preside at the piano during the entire convention and the leadership in song will be furnished by representatives from several schools.

The convention banquet will be served at 6:30. If you want to be sure of a seat at the evening meeting attend the banquet as seats will be reserved for all who buy banquet tickets. The banquet program will be unlike that of former years :an 'address will be given by Jesse Fleming. Mr. Fleming has spent most of his life in educational work and is one of the 70 accredited teachers of religion in Indiana. His fine leadership can not fail to please you. His subject will be "The Art of Christian Living. He will also talk to a special group on Thursday afternoon.

On Friday afternoon Rev. O. B. Norren of the Lutheran Church of Auburn will represent the County Ministerial Association speaking on the subject "A Complete Christ for a Confused World," and Miss Young will bring her closing message "The Uplifted Hand."

A N "AVERAGE GIRL" A N - SWERS MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROSEVELT

The following open letter to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was written by Osta M. Underwood, an 18-year-old student in Nashville business college, Nashville Tennessee. In a note to American Issue, Miss Underwood says:

"I cannot hope for my letter as wide publicity as Mrs. Roosevelt's statement received. I beg that you will help voice the protest of the "average girl" of the United States by giving this space in your paper."

Nashville, Tennesee.
December 14, 1932.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor's Mansion, Albany, New York.

Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

An article in our morning paper saying that a statement of yours brought forth a "shocked protest" from a group of women leaders in Topeka, brings forth an equally shocked protest from me. You are quoted as saying that "the average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whiskey and gin and sticking to the proper quantity" . . . . . If you have been correctly quoted, you surely do not know the "average girl of today." I would not undertake to inform you were I not an "average girl of today."

I am 18 years of age, I was graduated from a standard high school a little more than a year ago, and I am now attending the National Business College. I cannot remember one instance when I have seen a girl of my own age under the influence of liquor, and I can remember seeing but three boys of my own age intoxicated, or even "drinking." I am a member of no dry organization. I am no prig. I am merely an "average girl" who is indignant at hearing girls accused of something of which they are not guilty.

Instead of drinking, we "average" young people are planning in due course of time to run our respective communities and the United States, while the drinking low-down-high-ups are reaping their crop of wild oats.

Drinking and such things went out of style with the "post-war" group of young people. Drinking and many other things of which we are accused are frightfully old-fashioned. The young people of today are interested in athletics and many other things that require a strong body, a clear brain, steady nerve and quick thinking, and all of those things drink destroys. The girls and boys of today enjoy sports and games that challenge the mind. Girls of today are going into the business field because they like it. You can't be successful in the business field if you are in the habit of drinking. No stenographer can take dictation or do typing who has a "hang-over" headache, nor can she perform many other duties well. Our pride makes us want to do things well.

It is true that in some groups in thickly populated sections, in some large cities in some communities, such conditions as you spoke of do exist—but you said "average."

Some wet agitators have said they want legal liquor for the sake of the young people—that they are drinking any and everything now—that at least it would be pure if it were legal, government-inspected liquor. Let me tell you—we don't need liquor for the sake of the young people. We don't even like the taste of it. We don't like the effects it produces. If the older people want it, let them say so; but they should at least have the courage to say THEY want it, and not try to hide behind a false statement that it is for our sakes. If we, the young people, were allowed to vote on the question, the proposition to legalize alcoholic beverages would be defeated by an overwhelming majority. If the people of voting age can withstand the wet wave just long enough for us, the average boys and girls, to get our vote, you many be sure that alcoholic beverages will never again be legalized. We cannot afford to hazard our future for drink. We do not want it.

You don't know the "average girl," Mrs. Roosevelt. To get the average you must take all of us the country over, and doing that you will find that we may not be saying much, but we have our opinions—and they are NOT in favor of legalizing alcoholic beverages, and they are not in favor of the illegal stuff usednow. No, the "average girl" does not have to learn early how much she can drink, and she doesn't keep within that quantity because there is no need. We do not drink the stuff at all.

Sincerely yours,
Osta M. Underwood.

The Bureau of Prohibition actually costs the Federal government nothing to operate, according to a report of Col. A. W. Woodcock, National Director of Prohibition. He says: "After deducting from the appropriation made, the amount received in fines, penalties, and sale of confiscated property, a net profit to the government or savings of about $160,000 is returned to the treasury."

"The thesis of technocracy," says the New Outlook, "is that we have developed labor saving machines so fast that there is less and less work for men; that our output of all kinds of things is increasing beyond public consumption; and scientists and engineers will plan a nice balance of machine production and human consumption so that everybody will have both necessities and luxuries for his family by working only three or four days a week. In order to accomplish this, the present price and profit system must be abolished and some new motive, or reward, for work must be set up.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA. THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1933 NUMBER 6

TO DISTRIBUTE SCHOOL REVENUE IN DEKALB COUNTY

The semi-annual distribution of common school revenue and congressional school fund interest was made this week by County Auditor Frank E. Lyon.

DeKalb county's apportionment of common school revenue is $10,792.43 and the congressional interest is $530.52. The distribution is made on a basis of $1.65 plus per capita for 6,830 children of school age.

The apportionment by units within the county follows:

Waterloo, $469.16; Auburn, $1,964.52; Butler City, $575.27; Garrett, $2,130.81.

Butler township, $371.35; Concord, $436.01; Fairfield, $457.56; Franklin, $456.85; Grant, $192.31; Jackson, $538.79; Keyser, $668.10; Newville, $237.07; Richland, $407.83; Smithfield, $663.13; Spencer, $326.59; Stafford, $175.73; Troy, $207.23; Union, $530.50; Wilmington, $505.64.

BELLING AND SHOWER

On the 21st of January a genuine old time belling took place at the home of Ed Langston, of Aboit township, Allen county, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Furnish.

The belling almost resulted in a calamity by one young man throwing a six inch fire cracker in the house, burning one man and a boy slightly. The young people were invited in the house and treated to cigars and candy. There were about fifty present.

On Friday evening the 19th a shower was held in their honor by the Coburntown community, and they appreciate greatly the many useful gifts. Pop corn and candy were served by the community organization.

GOOD CROWD AT RESTAURANT OPENING

The opening of the Dew-Drop Inn, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty, in their newly arranged restaurant, last Sunday, proved quite successful when they served 39 chicken dinners to local people. The Leightys are well satisfied with their opening and the public can be served frequently to special dinners from time to time. An ad in The News will tell you about it as their plans are completed.

IS APPOINTED TO SETTLE ESTATE

Darrell W. Carpenter was appointed in the DeKalb circuit court Saturday as administrator of the estate of the late Viola J. Carpenter of Spencer township, who died January 29. There is $7,500 in personal property and a like amount in real estate. The heirs are three sons, Darrell W. Carl D. Carpenter of Butler, and Paul L. Carpenter of St. Joe. The administrator filed $15,000 bond, with his brothers as sureties. The legal announcement of such action will be found in this paper among the other legal notices. Read this column, it may be of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City, spent Sunday with Mrs. Alice Copp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cox and son, Dean, spent Sunday at the Simon Mutchler home at Brighton.

EARL J. SMITH OF PARIS IN HOSPITAL

A letter received from Earl Smith by Merritt Sechler, yesterday, stated that he had arrived in the United States from France and was in the Walter Reed Hospital at Washington, D. C., for an operation, and would be there for 6 or 8 weeks. He did not know whether he would get to come on to St. Joe before returing to his family in Paris

SPENCERVILLE LADY IS IN HOSPITAL

Charlotte Miller was rushed to the Robert Long hospital for women at Indianapolis Monday morning, in the Kinsey ambulance, where she will remain for treatment. For the past year she has been failing in health and continues to weaken. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Coburn made the trip with her.

NOW IN OPERATION

The harness and shoe repair shop at St. Joe, being operated by Artie Baughman, is now in full swing. The machinery was started Saturday by a representative of the company and Mr. Baughman says work is already coming in. Hand bills were printed this week for Mr. Baughman for distribution and he will endeavor to work up a business that will prove beneficial to the community, and this enterprise ought to be encouraged. New and modern electric equipment has been installed.

Joe Foltz is suffering an attack of the flu.

Mrs. John Scott and grandson, Walter, of Auburn, were over Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland.

Fred Meese, of Philadelphia, Pa., was operated on Sunday of last week for appendicitis and gall stones. Word received by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meese, is that he is slowly improving.

Court Theatre, Auburn reduces admission prices. Clip the coupone appearing in this paper every week and save money. This coupon and 15 cents will admit you to a balcony seat and the coupon and 25 cents to a seat on the main floor.

The probate work done by Judge Endicott during the December term of the DeKalb circuit court, which closed Saturday, included the approval of twelve final and eight partial reports in estates and seven final and fourteen current reports in guardianships.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keesler at Auburn, February 2nd, and his name is Duane Lee. Announcements of his arrival came to town Saturday.

MORTUARY

CARPENTER

Viola J., eldest daughter of Samuel L. and Mary A. Widney, was born July 7, 1866 on the old homestead of her parents north of St. Joe, Indiana. There she spent her girlhood days attending the district school near by, helped with the numerous household and farm duties until the family moved to St. Joe in the fall of 1889. It was during this fall that she united with the M. P. Church under the pastorate of Rev. S. S. Stanton and has retained her membership ever since till her death.

October 9, 1895 she married D. L. Carpenter and they at once went to Kansas where they lived for a period of about two years. She and her husband then returned to St. Joe, Indiana, where they bought a part of the old homestead. Here they lived till about 10 years ago when they moved to the late home in Coburntown. The husband died August 13, 1928.

To this marriage were born three sons, Darrell Carl and Paul. These sons with their wives and five grandchildren mourn the loss of a devoted mother and grandmother. Besides the immediate family she leaves two brothers, Byron E. and Otto L. Widney and a host of relatives and friends.

Her last illness was brief. She died January 29, 1933 being 66 years, 6 months and 23 days old.

Fueral services were conducted from the St. Joe M. P. Church on Wednesday afternoon with Rev. J. N. Scholes officiating, assisted by Rev. Walter Coburn and Rev. V. O. Harrold. Interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to our many friends and neighbors our sincere thanks for their assistance about the home and sympathy extended the family, and for the floral offerings.

The Children.

ZENT

Isaac M. Zent, a former Auburn citizen, and known all over our county, died Saturday morning at Vandalia, Illinois, at the home of his mother, where he went to spend Christmas. While there he took sick with pneumonia, recovering so as to be about, later suffering a relapse and died.

He left Auburn about 8 years, ago, having been prominently connected with many Auburn industries. In 1882 he was made Wabash station agent at Auburn and served 28 years there, and in 1910 was appointed postmaster. Mr. Zent was very active politically, serving a number of years as treasurer of the Republican committee.

The body was returned to Auburn Sunday for burial.

VALENTINE DAY

Once a saint does not mean always a saint. As recently as four years ago the Church of England evicted several saints from the calendar. That some should be added was to be expected; that some should be promoted is a natural step; but even the secular world, to which some of the saints in the ecclesiastical calendar are dear, is shocked when saints are virtually decanonized, recalled from their sacred niches and strippd of their halos.

Among the honored and celebrated names no longer in the calendar is that of St. Valentine, the patron saint of lovers whose anniversary is being observed today throughout a large part of the civilized world in spite of the vacant place in the ecclesiastical calendar.

Vain fellows those churchmen, if they imagined their iconoclastic edict would end for all time the celebration of this most picturesque and whimsical of anniversaries.

St. Valentine may not have been a Roman bishop and few of his converts may know of his martyrdom under one or another of the Roman emperors, but immortality is his whether or not he deserves it.

There ought to be more Valentine Days and more valentines. Perhaps if there were more exchanges of affection and friendship there would be fewer exchanges of hate and envy.

He who possesses the true spirit of St. Valentine's Day can see in a comic valentine a kind thought and a message of friendship.

About all a rolling stone gathers is momentum.

Speaking of farmers and the allotment plan, has anybody explained just how the idea of birth control is going to be sold to the hogs?

We haven't heard what became of the flocks of robins that have been coaxed out of the balmy south by the weather man. No doubt this recent storm made the birds put on their California tops. Its tough to visit in such weather as this.

Yes sir, by gum! Just watch me. Wait till I land my next job and watch me salt away a few dollars for a rainy day. Oh Yeah! When prosperity comes again there will be nothing hanging around to remind you of just what you promised the world. Anyway you know what happens to those resolutions every year. Everhearitbefore?

One of the most telling and convincing arguments ever made without the use of words, is now being spoken by the acts of the American people. We refer to he patience of our masses during these times of cecession of prosperity or dislocation of business—so-called. The United States has no standing army kept in ever readiness to suppress insurrection. No intelligence service to detect plots meant to over throw our government from within, no adverse warring religious factions, no labor revolutions, etc. This tendency of peaceful resignment on the people's part, in times as these, show the handiwork of the two great factors in government construction—religious and liberal education. Here we have mankind struggling to make the best of the situation—regardless of feeling or emotions. We have had a demonstration of cause and effect of religious and civil education.

A FEBRUARY GARDEN

February is an especially satisfying period for the ameteur gardener. It is the season when he begins to plan for the next summer's plot in the backyard. A half dozen catalogs, a comfortable chair, a warm room and a credulous imgination constitute the equipment needed for growing a splendid garden—in winter.

The results of one's efforts are much mor nearly perfect now than will be possible next summer. One needs merely to look at the vegetables, fruits and flowers portrayed in the catalogs and let fancy have free play. The advantages now over endeavors later lies in that one does not have to spade refractory soil, does not have to contend with frosts' effect on tender plants; there are no blights on gardens in imagination, floods do not drown or dry weather wither, bugs do not consume nor do the forays of neighbors' chickens exasperate. It is the only perfect season for a garden.

Only at this season can one hope to reach perfection in products which the catalogs portray. One's hopes steadily vanish as one progresses from the anticipation to the realization, therefore let anticipation have free play now. Realization will be enough of a disappointment at best "Aim high" is an old maxim. Surely the seed catalog designers do not offend in not placing the goal high enough. Their standard often outlofts the lofty.

As spring comes and one takes up the practical phases of the problem of a garden the prospect will appear less romising. It is easier to plan hard labor than to perform it. There is no excellence without great labor, the old-time copybooks told us, and that is the reason February, or thereabout, is the best time for growing a garden. It doesn't require much labor. Next summer it will be different. Do it now.

In this country hospitals are forced to close, due to lack of funds, at the rate of more than two per week. There are only three ways for a hospital to balance its budget and these are as follows: Turn away the sick poor, lower the standards of medical care, or seek contributions

A NEW WAY TO REDUCE TAXES

In a Western state that faces a tax crisis and inability to meet its obligations from visible income, a legislative proposal is made for a $65,000,000 state developed power plant, bonds to be authorized by the public. More electric power is now developed in that state, under public regulation, than can be used for years to come. Why talk tax reduction and at the same time advocate such unnecessary state obligations?

It is now feared that Indiana may engage in some just as foolish a thing, that of manufacturing cement for use in state construction. In order to do anything of this character the public would have to be bonded, and competition has brought the price of cement to its lowest level in years, that is before the depression prices were effective.

A state is no different than an individual in one respect. For an individual to reduce his expenditures when his revenue is cut off, is to retrench, quit spending.

At a time like this, when every individual and business enterprise is at its lowest financial standing in years, no new tax or investment should be attempted, that would involve the state for years to come. Public ownership is always an expensive venture, there are too many hangerons.

PENNY MANAGERS ADVISED TO USE NEWSPAPER

BOSTON, MASS.—A strong argument for newspaper advertising and its results recently was sent by the advertising department of the J. C. Penny company, operators of a national chain of retail stores, to its store managers. The message follows:

"(1) Do you want to be certain of reader interest? Then use the newsappers. Many a circular receives only a glance, while the local newspaper, with hundreds of general news items is read thoroughly from first to last page.

"(2) Do you want representation in the same 'shopping window' as the other merchants of your town use? Then use the local newspaper. Women, the purchasing agents of the home, read newspaper advertising daily, where as many a circular is tossed into the waste paper basket without a glance.

"(3) Do you want fast action? Then use the newspaper, The ad you run today, if it contains real merchandise news, will bring immediate results tomorrow. You can receive and sell out a consignment of merchandise with newspaper advertising in less time than it takes to prepare a circular.

"(4) Do you want to be recognized as a factor of importance in your community—a real hometown store? If you do, use the newspaper—it undoubtedly is a strong factor in the building of good will, and acceptance by the whole town as a good place to trade."

On Saturday afternoon, February 4, 1933, the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Warner gathered at the old homestead to celebrate their 50 years of married life, which took place on February 3, 1883; which was officiated by the Rev. John F. Winter, who is still living with his companion in Galion, Ohio. There being only one present that was at the wedding except the aged couple, which are both in their 73rd year and are the oldest couple living in the entire community. The couple stood in their same foot prints where they stood 50 years ago and were reunited by the Rev. Charles A. Warner, of Dayton, Ohio, and Rev. Rupnow as assistant. Those present were the three sons and their companions, four grandsons, one granddaughter, two great grandsons, a bereavd son-inlaw, Mr. Earl E. Wyatt, Mrs. Wm. Boger of Auburn, who is Mr. Warner's only sister, Mrs. Wm. Oberholtzer of Springfield township, Cozy Oberholtzer and Rev. and Mrs. Rupnow.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner were born and raised on adjoining farms and have lived in her home all those 50 years. She still has the appearance of not more than 45 years while Mr. Warner is compelled to stay in the house until warmer weather.

Teams Lose at Avilla

The boys and girls journeyed to Avilla last Saturday night, and each team lost by four points. Both games were close and it looked as though St. Joe might win even up until the last minutes of the game. The girls were rather disheartened by the incompetent officiating, but perhaps they will have the good luck of having a referee more experienced with girls' basket after this.

The boys' game ended 26-30, and the girls' score was 18-22.

Next Saturday night both teams will meet the Pleasant Lake teams on St. Joe's floor. Don't forget the reduced rates.

One Lose and One Victory at Hicksville

The boys first team lost to Hicksville 12-29 last Friday night. St. Joe held them down fairly well the first half, but because of the low beams and inability to connect with the baskets the game ended with the score more than doubled in favor of Hicksville.

The second team won their tilt after a close game 9-15.

The Hicksville Junior High also won an easy victory over the Newville Jr. High team.

Because of conflicting contracts the girls will not play the Auburn girls any more this season. The date of that game conflicted with the one of Avilla, and the Auburn girls were not able to come to St. Joe on any other weekend.

Another five weeks has rolled by and the pupils are recovering from the shock of having such hard tests. Grade cards are due this week — probably another shock.

The Sophomore English class wrote some long themes this semester and one story from each side has been chosen to be printed in the paper. The following is the beginning of the first story:

Pierre's Revenge

One frosty morning in December, Evelyn Darling could be seen skiing down a mountain slope in northern Canada. She was a rich heiress residing in New York, and spending her winters in Canada at Hotel DeChambre on the summit of Mt. Victoria. She had dark curly hair, alluring blue eyes, and a fair complexion.

When she reached the base of the slope, she paused to tighten the laces of her skiis. Behind her a dark, swarthy, French Canadian crept stealthily toward her with an ominous looking pistol in his hand.

"Pierre wishes you to go with him," said the Canadian.

"Don't touch me, you fifthy Indian," cried Evelyn in a commanding though terrified tone.

"Pierre won't harm you just now is you'll take off your skiis and come with him," he uttered in a threatening tone.

Pierre was a French Canadian outlaw who continually plundered the country side but always managed to evade the police.

Judge Darling, Evelyn's father, had been a famous judge in New York and had sentenced Pierre's brother to the penitentiary for life. Pierre had vowed to avenge his brother's life, but Judge Darling died before Pierre was able to fulfill his vow. Pierre decided to take vengance on the Judge's daughter, Evelyn. This was the reason for Pierre's sudden and unexpected kidnaping of Evelyn.

The next morning a large limousine drew up in front of Hotel DeChambre. Larry Randolph, Evelyn's fiance, was a tall, slender blond with soft, brown eyes. He had just arrived from New York where he had been studying law. Larry was hoping to be with Evelyn for a few days in the crisp, mountain air.

Upon entering the hotel, Larry went to the clerk and asked, "Is Miss Evelyn Darling here?"

The clerk replied, "Yes, Miss Darling has been staying here, although she went out yesterday morning and has not returned yet."

Larry was very excited and asked, "Did you see her leave? Which way did she go? Was she alone?"

Larry's questions puzzled the clerk and he wondered if Larry was related to Evelyn. After some hesitation he replied, "She went out alone yesterday morning and was last seen skiing down the slope of Mt. Victoria. It might interest you to know that Pierre, the outlaw, has been seen in this vicinity lately."

"What!" damanded Larry in surprise.

"Yes, Pierre was seen lurking about the hotel building only a few days ago."

Larry walked from the hotel meditating on the astonishing although alarming news. Larry was wondering if Pierre was the same man that had threatened to take Judge Darling's life.

A kitchen as bright and cheerful as a SUNROOM

WOULDN'T you like to have your kitchen so light and free from shadows that work seems to hurry itself along? You can quickly have such a kitchen. Securing it is neither difficult nor expensive. Simply put a new 150-watt Edison MAZDA Daylight lamp in the central ceiling fixture (which should be of the totally enclosing type) and a 60-watt Edison MAZDA lamp in the shaded fixture above the sink* and in the one above the range.*

*If you haven't these fixtures, ask us to tell you how little it will cost to have them installed.

Now even washing dishes will be easier and less tiresome. For now you can see clearly, quickly and easily. What's that? You'd like to try it? Well, we're ready.

In the meantime, Pierre had taken Evelyn to his lonely and forsaken cabin in the wilderness, which he shared with Nanook and Chickewa, who were French Canadian brother and sister.

Nanook had sleek, black hair, and large, black eyes. Her complexion was darkly tanned and contrasted sharply with Evelyn's fair skin and blue eyes.

"Pierre wants you to get some thing to eat for Evelyn, while he goes out to search for Chickewa who has not returned from hunting a deer," said Pierre.

"How did you know my name?" asked Evelyn.

"Pierre knows lots of things that you do not think he knows," he sneered.

"What are you going to do with the girl?" asked Nanook.

"Pierre hasn't decided yet, but it will be pleasant, very pleasant."

"Are you going to leave me here?' queried Evelyn, fearfully. "The police will be looking for me in a few days."

"Pierre has considered that, but I am afraid they will be too late. Now I will go to find Nanook's brother who has been lost for two days. When Pierre comes back he wants Nanook to have our horses saddled so we can go on a little journey."

"Where are we going, and what are we going to do with Miss Darling when we go," asked Nanook.

"Miss Darling can stay here and keep the cabin in order. Oh, my dear, don't be alarmed. I am sure you won't be lonesome, for there are several packs of wolves in this section of the mountains."

CONVENTION GOES TO BUTLER ON 16–17

The 68th County Sunday School Convention will be held in the United Brethren Church of Butler, February 16 and 17, and promises to be one of the most interesting ever offered to the Christian people of the county. The members of the local council feel that they have been unusually fortunate in securing outstanding leadership for this year's convention.

MISS NELLIE C. YOUNG

Miss Nellie C. Young will have charge of children's work thru the entire convention. Harry G. Rowe will represent the young people's work and has promised, on Thursday evening, to deliver his lecture, "The Challenge of the Change of this Hour;" also on Thursday evening the convention is to be treated to a new address by Judge Clyde C. Carlin, "The Faith of Our Mothers." Mrs. Lida Stage will have charge of the music at this evening's meeting and has promised us an orchestra along with her fine leadership. Mrs. Hilda Funk will preside at the piano during the entire convention and the leadership in song will be furnished by representatives from several schools.

The convention banquet will be served at 6:30. If you want to be sure of a seat at the evening meeting attend the banquet as seats will be reserved for all who buy banquet tickets. The banquet program will be unlike that of former years :an address will be given by Jesse Fleming. Mr. Fleming has spent most of his life in educational work and is one of the 70 accredited teachers of religion in Indiana. His fine leadership can not fail to please you. His subject will be "The Art of Christian Living. He will also talk to a special group on Thursday afternoon.

On Friday afternoon Rev. O. B. Norren of the Lutheran Church of Auburn will represent the County Ministerial Association speaking on the subject "A Complete Christ for a Confused World," and Miss Young will bring her closing message "The Uplifted Hand."

When rabies are suspected in a dog he should not be killed at once because evidence of rabies can not be discovered in heads of animals until rather late in the course of the disease. A dog thought to be rabid should be securely tied and observed for a period of two weeks. If the dog is alive and healthy at the end of that time the question of rabies may be dismissed. However, if he dies, his head should be carefully detached, packed in ice, and sent to the State Department of Public Health, where the head will be properly examined and a report wired to the sender.

MICHIGAN CAR GOES INTO DITCH

A Michigan car, driven by a Mr. Baughman, went into the ditch at the Jenkins farm Saturday afternoon, without injuries to the occupants but damage to the car. Wilbur Yeiser answered the S. O. S. call and found it was necessary to replace a wheel, straighten the steering arm and repair windshield. After a delay of a few hours the parties continued their trip to Paulding, where they were called by sickness.

Martha Miser had to be pulled out of the ditch Monday morning, west of Jackson Center, enroute here to school.

Chas. Cochran and Ray Herrick collided on the icy streets Saturday, with their automobiles. Damage was done to both cars. Mr. Cochran was turning around in the street and neither car could stop.

Many other accidents were reported all about here.

COMES OUT DEMOCRATIC

The Hamilton News, under the editorship of Cliff M. MONTHLY REPORT OF COUNTY RED CROSS NURSE

The Red Cross Nurse during the month of January made 26 visits to schools in the county, including 24 visits to class room and 5 re-visits to rooms. 658 children were inspected, out of this number, 118 were found with no defects, 115 had poor vision, 18 defective hearing, 132 dental defects, 51 some throat infection, 62 swollen glands, 50% of pupils suffering from colds. An invitation from the nurse, and copied by the teacher, was sent to the parents inviting them to visit the school at the time of her visit. Two fathers and 2 mothers responded. Miss Ferrier gave volunteer service to the nurse for 5½ days in the schools and Miss Yarian gave 2 days in the office and in the schools.

Fifteen home visits were made to school children, 4 to sick adults, 2 to an infant. 10 calls in the interest of T. B., 1 meeting was attended, 200 form and five individual letters and 10 postcards written, 25 calls made in behalf of general activities, 50 office interviews for general activities and 35 in behalf of patients.

The Nurse assisted Dr. Teal at the Infant Clinic held in the Library, and Dr. Murduck at the T. B. clinic held in the City Hall T. B. room. She attended a patient who was taken to the Irene Byron and at the same time visited four patients in this Hospital.

A conference for public workers held at Kendallville was attended with Mrs. Jackson, the school teacher at Coletown in Newville township. The latter gave a talk on "The Teacher Looks at the Nurse."

The answers given to a questionnaire distributed to the teachers at their county institute were interesting and enlightening. Out of 78 teachers 46 had taken a physical examination during the last 12 months, 70 had a good method of handwashing in their school. Sanitation of toilets was good in 32 rooms, poor in 31, very poor in 3, excellent in 4. 12 rooms are serving milk and 10 rooms serving lunch, 54 children are in need of clothing and 23 in need of food, and the trustees and Red Cross Representatives in these various localities were aiding these needy ones. So, I believe, that in DeKalb county, all those in need of food and clothing are being helped. The greatest need at the present time is financial assistance for the correction of defects, especially for the children with poor vision and defective teeth.

Respectfully submitted,
Catherine E. Boll,
Red Cross County Nurse.

BORAH SAYS A MOUTH FULL

A plea that the senate abandon efforts to consider the 18th amendment repeal at this session and concentrate on relief legislation to prevent spread of "revolution" in the United States was uttered in the senate Tuesday by Senator Borah, Repn. Idaho. "If something is not done thousands will lose their homes or will be compelled to hold them by force." Borah calmly warned the senate in the first speech in debate over the Blain motion to make repeal the senate's unfinished business. —This statement smacks with good judgment and we hope that our officials at Washington will do this thing. Relief is what is needed not beer or repeal.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Washington's birthday is never a useless holiday so long as it keeps before the public just one thing,—his matchless patriotism. More impressive than his presidency, the military leadership of his continentals, his statesmanship was the unhesitating almost reckless plunge of himself and his fortune into the dubious gamble of national independence.

As a Virginia patrician, possessed of lands and other treasure, faced with a very strong attachment for England, he might well as did others of his social standing, have chosen to live as lord of the manor and leave to others with less to lose and more to gain the bitter struggle for self-government.

Life for Washington was very genial. The income from his estates was adequate for a very comfortable existence. He was revered highly by his neighbors. He had served the mother country so well in earlier battles with the French and English that he stood high in esteem at London. With less humanity, less patriotism he might have chosen to live on as a gentleman of the colonies.

The fact that he did not do it makes his memory so tenderly revered today. He thrust comfort aside. He placed ease behind him. He lay on the alter of patriotism not only his goods but himself. And he did all this because he believed in the common good rather than his own selfishness. He did it because he wanted to serve his fellow man and a cause that to him seemed just. The tug of heart-strings across the seas meant nothing to him. His own fortune was trivial compared with the greater stakes in the game. His own safety was not to be considered in the face of a great principle.

How he used his own private funds to pay his troops and buy cannon, how he suffered with his men at Valley Forge, how he bore the taunts of tories, all these are familiar to school boys and girls, but neither the young nor the old can ponder too long over the willingness of this great patriot to set himself aside that he might be of service to others.

So long as this impressive example can be given the American people on this or any subsequent day, Washigton's birthday will remain a mighty date in the calendar for his example has to do not only with patriotism but with service to humanity which manifests itself in a hundred different ways.

His life is a rebuke to the hypocrits, to the politician who uses public service to enrich himself, to the business man who thinks only of himself, to the citizen who is indifferent to charity and social service to the employer and the employe who look upon each other as enemies, to all the sundry who put self above everything else. Washington is a classic antithesis of selfishness, a great model of unselfishness.

The exodus from the city to the farm—in direct opposition to the trend of a few years ago—has swelled the farm population to 32,000,000, close to the 1910 peak. Some farm communities object, as new school facilities and relief funds thus become necessary. However, a compensating factor is that a wider market for farms is provided.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks, and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

Under present business conditions, no news is apt to be good news. While business is showing no particular improvement, the decline has apparently been interrupted and a measure of stability reached. It is hoped that political moves during the next few months will have a helpful effect on business in the future.

Last summer the country underwent a time of financial liquidation with strengthening of our financial structure. This was followed by a similar period of commodity liquidation, which seems now coming to an end. The next step will doubtless be further commercial liquidation and readjustment to put many of our industries on a basis to show earnings in normal times.

Since 1929 there has been a decline in foreign markets for American agricultural products but last year the decline showed a tedency to slacken. It is believed that once the problems of disturbed monetary systems and trade barriers are partially settled, the trend will be reverse and larger quantities of our farm products will reach foreign lands.

Domestic demand for produce is naturally awaiting industrial recovery. Even a slight change for the better in business generally, should cause marked improvement in farm markets.

Potential bank credit is the equivalent of the money existing in the country. At the moment, this credit supply is unusually large. Member banks of the Federal Reserve have $600,000,000 of excess reserves, and it is stated that these banks could expand their credits by $9,000,000,000 without borrowing from the Federal Treasury. Interest rates on money are at unprecedented low levels.

Latest reports on major industries show:

Motion Picture—A new alignment of the motion picture industry is forecast with Rockefeller interests a large factor. The industry's principal difficulty is in real estate carrying charges on theatres built during boom years.

Textiles—Future has hopeful appearance, with cloth demand steady.

Oil—Refiners breaking even, despite low gasoline prices.

Cigarettes—December showed gain in consumption, as compared with decline in most other months of 1932.

Tires—Price-cutting has broken out again, with resulting disturbance.

Meat Packing—Outlook good for moderate profit during coming fiscal year.

Automobile—Sales continue to improve, with January well over a year ago. It is interesting to note that price reductions have resulted from improved efficiency, and not by reductions in dealer margins or in quality.

In an effort to check rapidly diminishing passenger revenues, the railroads of the country are planning various classes of rate reductions designed to bring back lost business. February 1, western roads made marked passenger fare cut. The seasonal decline in freight car loadings is showing a tendency to moderate, as compared with the same period a year ago.

With an estimated $1,500,000,000 at stake in the form of mortgaged debt in nine states, midwest farmers are sticking resolutely to their campaign against foreclosure sales. In a growing number of instances, groups of farmers have prevented open auctions of properties and bought them in at extremely low figures. Various public officials are tending to aid in preventing foreclosures.

NEWS AND—NEWS

It's a peculiar thing, this operation of a newspaper. A fellow will live in a town for a while and sometimes forget there is such a thing as news items and sometimes even becomes hostile toward a newspaper. But the first time he gets into trouble of any kind he hot-foots it over to the newspaper office and wants to keep a record of his miscalculations out of print. Most folks like these have the idea that the editor gets a lot of pleasure and a big kick out of recording some sordid adventure that is a heartache to a mother or loved one, but of course this is not the case, because we are human as much as the ordinary person. It's a heap more pleasant to write something good about a person than it is to tell of the evil things he has done. Both are news and must be treated as such but we will always prefer to write a story about success rather than the failure of any person or project.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

The faithful are less faithful in inverse ratio to the population of the community in which they live, a survey of church attendance has disclosed. In rural communities 71 per cent of the church members are regular in their church attendance; in communities up to 5000 the percentage is 61 and in towns up to 10,000 the attendance is 46 per cent. From that point as the cities grow larger the regularity of church attendance continues to drop off to a low of 30 per cent in the larger centers of population.

These telltale figures have started the committee which compiled them on a hunt for the reasons for the disparity and for ways and means to correct the condition. If it is willing to face the facts its search will be brief.

There is nothing mysterious or inexplicable about the higher percentage per capita and greater regularity of church attendance in the rural center than in the urban center. Community life centers around the church in the small town and farming settlement. There is where the entire family finds its social life as well as release for its religious emotions. The church has a strong appeal for the rural type and temperament.

It is different in the large city where the individual is starved for solitude rather than for social intercourse and uses his Sundays to steal away from the milling mob for a few quiet hours. Whether the urbanite is less religious than his country cousin none can say with certainty.

If the cit ychurches propose to lure the straying lambs back to the fold by cushioned pews, better ventilated churches, shorter sermons and other popularized schemes, their efforts will end in failure.

MONEY TALKS BACK

"I am money. Since the dawn of history, I have been worshipped as a god; men by the millions have given themselves unto me in voluntary slavery; there is no race that has not coveted my favors.

"You have called me a tyrant, saying that I have driven men to sell their souls, debauch their own kindred and prostitute the most beautiful womanhood.

"You have accused me of corrupting governments, driving nations to war, grinding the needy and the poor under the wheels and breaking the bodies of little children in the mills for gain.

"But you do me wrong! I am but a servant. I go on errands for men. I make no laws; I only execute the orders given me.

"True, I have built guilded palaces in which men have sinned, but I have also built hospitals and havens of refuge. For my sake men have committed every crime known, but also with my help they have rendered every service possible within the power of man.

"Give me permission and will build in every community a hospital, where the sick and suffering may be nursed back to health and strength; I will erect laboratories and school houses instead of battleships; I will provide milk and food for babies instead of poison gas for their fathers; I will build a school within the reach of every child, and put beauty before the eyes of every mother.

"I am money. I stand before the judgment bar of God and deny the terrible accusations made against me. I am no master, I am a slave. If I have done wrong, then judge my masters."

WHAT A BARREL OF WHISKEY CONTAINS

A barrel of headaches, of heartaches, of woes.

A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows.

A barrel of sorrow for a loving, weary wife.

A barrel of care, a barrel of strife.

A barrel of unavailing regret.

A barrel of cares, a barrel of debt.

A barrel of hunger, of poison, of pain.

A barrel of hopes all blasted and vain.

A barrel of poverty, ruin and blight.

A barrel of tears that run in the night.

A barrel of crime, a barrel of groans.

A barrel of orphans' most pitiful moans.

A barrel of serpents that hiss as they pass,

That glow from the liquor in the bead of the glass.

A barrel of falsehoods, a barrel of cries,

That fall from the maniac's lips as he dies.

Frank and J. H. Leighty have been spending their spare time cutting on one tree, for the past two weeks. The tree is in the Frank Tustison river bottom and was one of the largest elm trees along the river. The tree is so large that one of the boys stands on the top while the other is on the ground, sawing. At the present time it takes an hour to get one cut off and two hours to split the block up. It is of the twisted variety of elm, and it's almost impossible to work up. It really affords the boys good exercise.

Indiana highways are under the direction of a new state highway commission. The members are James D. Adams, Columbia City, director; Evan B Stoltzenberg, New Albany, and John W. Wheeler, Crown Point. They replace the old five-man commission, a part time body and each receives a salary of $5,200 a year for full time attendance. Adams is a publisher, Stoltzenberg an attorney and Wheeler a road contractor. They are expected immediately to begin dismissal of a number of highway department employes.

Secretary of State, Frank Mayr, Jr., said Tuesday that the legal limit for using 1932 automobile license plates "probably will be extended. Actually, we have no right to extend the time after Feb. 15," he said. "But local and state police officers could be instructed to make no arrests for the time being." Mayr said he and James Carpenter, head of the state license bureau, would hold additional conferences on the matter Wednesday. We anxiously await their decision in the matter as there are many who do not have the 1933 license plates. As we go to press we learn that the time has been extended to March the first.

DUTCH RIDGE

On Saturday afternoon, February 4, 1933, the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Warner gathered at the old homestead to celebrate their 50 years of married life, which took place on February 3, 1883, which was officiated by the Rev. John F. Winter, who is still living with his companion in Galion, Ohio. There being only one present that was at the wedding except the aged couple, which are both in their 73rd year and are the oldest couple living in the entire community. The couple stood in their same foot prints where they stood 50 years ago and were reunited by the Rev. Charles A. Warner, of Dayton, Ohio, and Rev. Rupnow as assistant. Those present were the three sons and their companions, four grandsons, one granddaughter, two great grandsons, a bereavd son-inlaw, Mr. Earl E. Wyatt, Mrs. Wm. Boger of Auburn, who is Mr. Warner's only sister, Mrs. Wm. Oberholtzer of Springfield township, Cozy Oberholtzer and Rev. and Mrs. Rupnow.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner were born and raised on adjoining farms and have lived in her home all those 50 years. She still has the appearance of not more than 45 years while Mr. Warner is compelled to stay in the house until warmer weather.

Dale Trostel is driving a Nash car.

Mrs. Paul Martin is reported quite ill at her home in St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Morr, of Elkhart are visiting in the Glen Cole home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kinsey of Auburn spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kinsey. Mr. Kinsey is bedfast with the intestinal flu.

The Home Builders class of the Coburntown Sunday School met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Place last week, and 17 members enjoyed the pot luck supper, games and social evening.

A social movement will prevail if it meets the needs of the people and is in the direction of their aspirations. A sound economic tendency will become a movement through its own merit.

Willard Hurni and his gang of men have been busy putting up ice off the Harry Kees gravel pit. The ice is about 8 inches thick and is being stored in the Geo. Willmot property north of the grist mill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland, Durwood Ridgway and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dorsey Mrs. Glen Wineland, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baker and Miss Vivian Richmond of Newville, helped Mrs. Glen Freeburn celebrate her birthday anniversary Sunday.

E. R. Kinsey is confined to his bed with an attack of heart trouble. His physician says he will be in bed for three weeks and it will be necessary that he remain quiet for speedy recovery. With all his business responsibilities this will be a hard thing to do, but here is hoping that he will.

The death of Martin C. Sheets, one of the best known farmers in DeKalb county, took place Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock at his home a short distance south of Auburn on state highway No. 427. Cancer, from which he had been a sufferer for more than a year, was the cause of his demise. Mr. Sheets has been in failing health since entering the Sacred Heart hospital at Garrett on March 22, 1932, where he was operated on for cancer.

The farmers institute in session at Spencerville this Tuesday and Wednesday, is quite successful and good crowds are in attendance. The play by the St. Joe Dramatic Club on Tuesday evening drew a full house, and was one of intense interest throughout, the players were up to their usual standard. The institute will close Wednesday evening with a play by the Spencerville group, all of which creates a wide spread interest in the annual event.

Leading People and Reliable Firms in DeKalb County

MR. and MRS. M. E. LEIGHTY

Supt. and Matron DeKalb County Home

Conducting an institution of the size and importance of DeKalb County Infirmary requires an order of ability not possessed in the average man and woman. Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Leieghty are Superintendent and Matron, respectively of this institution and they are filling these offices with unusual success. It is particularly pleasing to see a man and his wife working together so ideally in perfect co-operation, co-ordinating their efforts in a manner that makes the administrative machinery run so smoothly. Figures show that their management is not only efficient but also economic, saving the taxpayers large sums of money that would otherwise be expended, under a less able management. Beside, the inmates are kept happy and contented and they are treated in a manner that permits them to preserve their own self respect and identity. Cleanliness throughout is something else again to merit commendation. In fact in a word the various departments which come under the two offices of superintendent and matron, are in every way conducted so perfectly that nothing but favorable comments are ever heard and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Leighty therefore well deserve these few words of praise in this special feature column.

Bishop's Auto Body Service

John M. Bishop, Mgr. Wrecked Cars Rebuilt, Repainting, Body Glass, Upholstering

Nothing is so valuable to an establishment as an established trade name—a designation by which one may identify many years of effort conscientiously as well as intelligently applied. We hear a great deal more about autos than wagons today, for the wagon is a back number. The rebuilding of bodies for autos and trucks is something in which the practical and experienced body rebuilder excels.

John M. Bishop has his modern and well equipped headquarters located at 600 W. 15th St. in Auburn, where he is surrounded with every facility for the efficient and expeditious handling of all work. All of his employes have been selected for their skill and this selection has been based on actual experience and performance which is a large contributing factor to the excellence of the work done at this establishment, and this in turn accounts for the flourishing condition of the enterprise.

John M. Bishop's success proves that a man's career depends upon his being a specialist and upon doing the task he has on hand in a manner that permits no criticism. His achievements have received recognition to such an extent that the patronage he enjoys is considerably on the increase.

E. E. WINELAND

Supt. Municipal Water and Light Plant, Auburn, Indiana

that have served the city well, regardless of personal loss or gain. Mr. E. E. Wineland, who holds the important office of Superintendent of Municipal Water and Light Plant in Auburn is one of the most representative officials who are present among us to receive a little of the praise due him.

Out of the large circle who are privileged to call him friend, there are but few who know how big his actual accomplishments and achievements are. Every step of his career to preeminence as a gifted and talented public official, has come by his own, hard earned efforts and not as the results of any "pull." After attaining to an office he straightway set about to make the most of that office. Not in the sense of personal gain or aggrandizement but he made the most of it for the interests of the people. That he has succeeded in his goal is well exemplified in the success that has atended his efforts and the high esteem and confidence of the people he had acquired.

The position he holds in the eyes of the tax payers did not come by accident. It is the direct result of his having done so well by those people Auburn can never have too many men of Mr. E. E. Wineland's type in office and we hope to see this capable public servant go on to bigger and better public service which he so well deserves.

G. A. LAWRENCE

Fire Chief, Auburn

Man may erect splendid buildings that are veritable monuments to human progress and attainment, yet those achievements are as nought if not protected against the ravages of the elements. Providing safeguards for the little home of the worker is as vitally necessary as guarding the tall office building of the industrial or banker. The greater the precaution against loss of life and property, the higher standing the community receives in the state and national ratings. This makes the activities of Mr. G. A. Lawrence extremely important. He is chief of the Auburn Fire Department and through his expertness and well applied efforts, he has made a splendid reputation for himself and his fire fighting forces.

Auburn is known for its low fire losses for a city of its size and thus it enjoys low insurance rates in keeping with the efficiency of its fire department. Chief G. A. Lawrence is one of the ablest fire fighting executives in the state and is so recognized. Besides being a master fireman, he has the happy faculty of inciting his force to the maximum of efforts in emergencies, saving the community thousands of dollars. Chief G. A. Lawrence well merits the designation as one worthy of the highest commendation.

T. E. MEYERS

DeKalb County Agricultural Agent

When T. E. Meyers took over the reins of the office of County Agricultural Agent he took an inventory of coditions and made a lot of changes. Instead of being criticised, as is so often the case when one seems to do anything revolutionary, he made friends where ever his duties carried him. Firm and with the courage of his own convictions, he could never be swerved from the path he had set for himself, by any man or set of men; but he had a genial manner of smiling and explaining the situation in hand in a few brief, but well chosen words, and the man who had come to him with a political axe to grind and who had not g ten what he had come for felt isfied and friendly. That ta tact but it also requires genu sincerity.

Mr. T. E. Meyers always l known what he is doing and t it was right—and he has alw been right too. That, of cou made it easier to explain matt for his words were always fou ed on fact and good judgm Thus T. E. Meyers became one the most popular officials in community that does not feel t a better man to serve the of of County Agricultural Ag could not be found. That is deed a real achievemen.

Girls Win Over Pleasant Lake

After a long struggle the St. Joe girls won over their opponents last Saturday night. The first quarter ended 5-0 in favor of St. Joe. At the half it was 11-11, and during the last two quarters the game was very close. The score was tied with only a minute to go and Bob Storer succeeded in making a foul shot which made the score 16-17 in favor of St. Joe. That last minute was a long one.

The Pleasant Lake boys won an easy victory. They led throughout the game, but not until the third quarter did they get a large lead. Kenneth Gaff sprained his ankle the last half which weakened the team considerable. The game ended 22-34.

The Junior High team played two games last week after school. The first, with Altona, they lost, and the second, with Newville, they lost. St. Joe will be represented in the Junior High Tournament this year.

The girls and boys have two hard games this week end. Friday night they play Waterloo and Saturday night they play Harlan here.

Twenty-four pupils made the honor roll this first five weeks. In the order of their ranking they are Violet Baker, Ethelmae Freeburn, Earl Kinsey, Hilda Medley, Ersa Reidenbach, John Kaellner, Jean Goodwin, Effiebel Freeburn, Virginia Shull, Helen Washler, Geraldne Thornton, Violet Brunson, Enid Curie, Evelyn Dermott, Gertrude Kitchen, Norma Richard, Beatrice Storer, Beulah Storer, Eloise Draggoo, Josephine Bachtel, Eileen Gaff, Bonnie McSorley, Merlin Simanton and Mary Stewart.

Pierre's Revenge

The Story So Far: Evelyn Darling a rich heiress from New York has been kidnaped by Pierre, a French Canadian outlaw, who has a grudge against her father. Larry, Evelyn's fiance, is searching for her. As the story opens, Pierre, is leaving Evelyn in his hut with his sister, Nanook.

"I want you to see that Miss Darling doesn't escape while I am away, Nanook. Here is my gun and if you need it, use it. If you let Miss Darling escape, I will attend to you when I come back."

Nanook trembled beneath Pierre's onslaught of threats, for she knew that her life depended on guarding Evelyn carefully.

Pierre, upon seeing Nanook's terrified visage and trembling figure, turned on his heel and left the room with an evil laugh.

When Nanook turned from the door, she discovered Evelyn huddled in a shivery heap by the fire.

"Miss Darling, you are not ill?" exclaimed Nanook hurriedly.

"No, I am only tired and hungry from my tiresome journey and I would apreciate a hot cup of tea if you please," replied Evelyn in a tearful voice.

While Evelyn sipped the hot tea, she fixed a terrified gaze on the snow outside the window as if she saw some terrible phenomena, but she was only thinking of the unknown fate which awaited her when Pierre returned.

Nanook was the first to break the silence. "I am sorry that Pierre has treated you so rudely, Miss Darling."

"If you are so sorry for me, why don't you let me go?" asked Evelyn furiously.

"I wouldn't dare to allow you to leave the cabin for Pierre has threatened to kill me if you escape while he is gone," answered Nanook.

"I am afraid you will be sorry that you didn't let me go when the police find me. They may not be far from the cabin at this very minute," said Evelyn hopefully.

Pierre would take revenge on Chickewa and me if you were not here when he returned."

Just then the door flew open and Larry Randolph stood on the threshold. His face beamed with delight as he saw Evelyn by the fireplace, but darkened again as he noticed Nanook with the gun across her knees.

"I've been on your trail for two days," explained Larry, "for I thought Pierre must have been at the bottom of your disappearance."

"He was at the bottom and the top as well," giggled Evelyn hysterically, for Pierre's threats had made her nervous.

"Here, Evelyn, slip into this warm coat and we'll try to reach some other shack before dark. If we don't want to be snowed in by this blizzard, we'll have to leave this cabin pronto."

"I'm sorry, but I'll have to detain you. I would be only too glad to allow your escape if my life didn't depend on my keeping Miss Darling in this cabin," interrupted Nanook.

Evelyn and Larry turned to discover Nanook standing by the fireplace with the muzzle of Pierre's rifle pointed threateningly in their direction.

"Stand against the wall," demanded Nanook.

As they were obeying Nanook's orders, the door of the cabin opened to reveal Pierre standing on the threshold with a gleeful grin on his swarthy face.

"Ha, ha, some little fools trying to escape under my nose, eh? I'll soon fix you young critters for trying to leave my headquarters."

"You don't dare to harm us, for I told the police I was coming to this shack and they are following me with reinforcements if I don't return this afternoon," warned Larry.

"It may be so, but Pierre don't think so. Nanook, get some food on our pack horses, and be ready to leave in half an hour," ordered Pierre.

"I think I'd better take care of Mr. Randolph first, for he looks rather dangerous with both his hands loose. Now, little boy, don't get angry with Pierre, for he only does what's right," laughed Pierre.

"Cut the funny stuff, and get a line of this," growled Larry, as he landed a hard punch in Pierre's stomach.

Pierre didn't seem to mind Larry's efforts at resistance, and only laughed at Larry's attempt to box.

"What are you going to do with Larry," queried Evelyn anxiously.

"Pierre hasn't decided what he'll do with him yet, but I will assure you that he will be taken care of," answered Pierre with an evil grin.

Miss Irene Webb returned home Saturday after visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thad Brown at Hamilton, Ohio. Miss Postle Wait and Mr. Brown returned home with her and spent the week-end.

The cold weather last week set pretty hard on people and live stock alike, yet there were no human fatalities. Kenneth Miller of south of Spencerville lost a calf, and a cow had her leg broken by the cattle jamming, making it necessary to kill her.

The marriage of Miss Florence Steward, only daughter of Mrs. Hazel Steward, of this place, and Harold Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker of north of St. Joe, was announced recently. The young couple were married on New Year's eve at the Methodist parsonage by the Rev. Howard Brown.

Readers having court work to do for which newspaper legal advertising is necessary, will confer a favor on the St. Joe News by asking that the legal notices be inserted in this paper. You will be helping the home paper and meeting the law's requirements just as well as having the legal advertising done some place else, and then we can reach the people that will be most interested.

DEPRESSION DINNER SERVED SUNDAY

Saturday, Chas. Koch was busy about noon, delivering invitations to friends, to come to the Koch home, Sunday at 12, to a depression dinner party. The invitation was written partly with pencil and partly with ink, the paper was torn from an old ledger in a very irregular manner. So far it was O. K. But Chas. had to drive his car in delivering the invitations, which made the men guests think that the depression was not so very effective after all.

When the guests arrived at noon, there were W. B. Cox, wife and son, H. G. Hursh and wife, and F. B. Leighty and wife. Mrs. Koch made it plain that the dinner would consist of soup and more soup if the guests so desired, and begorrah she kept her word, which was served in the kitchen.

The plan worked perfectly and Chas. Koch, who is a very liberal provider, was not so well satisfied as if it had been a chicken dinner, and he expressed himself as not being altogether satisfied.

Shortly, Mrs. Hursh left the table and without making an excuse asked the party to come to her home in a little while, and of course the men saw through such a sudden departure. Oh, yea.

On going to the Hursh home, sauer kraut, browned potatoes, ple butter were served in the dining room with the table spread with the comic section of the newspapers. When this was devoured the men were still hungry so they went to the Leighty home and were served a salad on paper plates, then on to the Cox home, where they were again seated at the kitchen table and dessert and coffe were served. By this time everyone was full up to the neck and unable to go any further.

After all the men enjoyed the treat in this novel way, and the ladies enjoyed it more possibly, because they did not have to arrange a full dinner.

The complete arrangement was a surprise to the husbands, but Chas. made the promise of a chicken dinner, and all that goes with it.

RE-ELECT JACKMAN AS COUNTY PRESIDENT

Ward Jackman, of Auburn was re-elected president of the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education and Miss Sadie Coy of Auburn wa again the choice for secretary-treasurer at the closing session Friday afternoon in the Butler U. B. Church.

Other county officers elected are: first vice president, W. C. McBride, Auburn; second vice president, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe; superintendent of children's department, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, St. Joe; superintendent of young people's department, Miss Rose Smith of Corunna, and assistant, Miss Helen Manrow of Corunna; superintendent of the adult department, Mrs. Will Franks of Garrett; superintendent of the educational department, Stanley Means of St. Joe, and superintendent of the administrative department, Luther Higley of Butler.

Every township in the county was represented by delegates.

RELIEF CALL AGAIN MADE TO PUBLIC

Into every community there has come, because of a long period of unmployment, calls for food and clothing. The larger communities have their organizations, and a big drive is put on and large sums given to support a community chest, or some organized charity work. St. Joe and Concord township have no such fund to draw on, yet we have the same unemployment situation and a growing need for relief. We have had flour, yard goods, and some ready made garments from the American Red Cross. This organization with the co-operation of the township trustee has tried to handle the situation, but calls for food, fuel and clothing become more numerous, and such supplies must be paid for by the tax payers of Concord township.

The clothing proposition however may be largely taken care of by donations. Almost every hame has "hung away" clothing, outgrown shoes, garments outgrown, which could be made over and mended and made to give a lot more service to those in need, and in times like these, it is the christian duty of every public spirited person to help the less fortunate and out of employment.

So, let us all gather up all useful clothing, hose, and shoes which may be remade or repaired, leave all such at Hurni's store, later we will call for a few days of sewing by the ladies of the township, and we will be able to handle this as a community, without it being an added burden to the tax payer, as all relief given through the township must eventually be paid by the tax payer.

Gertrude Borthwick,
Local Red Cross Chairman.

FORMER ST. JOE RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

Word was received here, Tuesday of this week, of the death of Charles A. Bills, of Elkhart, Ind. Charles will be remembered as the son of Edwin Bills, who, at one time resided on what was known as the Samuel Lawhead farm, a mile north of St. Joe. Charles was married to Hattie Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hart.

Later on Charles moved to Auburn, where he was employed as foreman of a body works factory, from there he moved to Elkhart, where he has lived for a number of years and was employed as a pattern maker and designer of auto bodies. The illness which resulted in his death, was of short duration.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, Mrs. Sam Keesler and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey were at Fort Wayne Tuesday afternoon

Two sizes of G. E. bulbs now selling for only 10 cents each. Where can you buy them? At The News office.

James Howard, weight ten pounds, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shilling west of town, on Monday morning.

Rev. Geo. D. Stoll, of Evans City, Pa., is in the vicinity calling on friends. This is his first return visit since leaving the charge about a year ago.

Miss Thelma Bachelor, of St. Joe, a patient in the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital for three weeks following a major operation, was discharged Saturday and was brought to her home.

Friends of L. D. Young, advised us that he had his arm lanced last Friday. Readers will remember that he was injured at the pumping station here, while acting as B. & O. agent. Blood poison set in, and after recovery, they moved to Hicksville.

Fire was discovered at the Roy Zimmerman home Saturday, but was put out by their son, Chas. without having to call the department. Sparrows had gained an entrance under the roll roofing and a spark set fire to the straw carried in for a nest.

At the sale of the restaurant property of Chas. and Pearl Cochran at Auburn, Saturday, M. C. Blue was the successful bidder. Frank Akins made several bids and was determined the purchaser, but before any writing was done, the bid was raised to $300.

The terms of republican postmasters will not be curtailed by the incoming democratic administration, according to unofficial word received by democrat congressmen who have interested themselves in postal patronage. Incumbents will not be disturbed, except for cause, in the period for which they are commissioned.

Any person who has given a mortgage on his real property, can make a very substantial tax reduction by filing a mortgage exemption, and all of this can be taken care of by calling at The News office and filing such papers as are necessary by law. In spite of all the publicity given regarding exemptions, many still refuse to take advantage of this saving. Don't do this any longer, when you fail on this, there is double taxation, both the mortgagee and mortgagor pay this tax.

An exchange says: "How would you like to be the editor of the home paper and sit at your desk six days out of the week, four weeks a month, and twelve months out of the year, and have such copy as the following to edit: Mrs. Jones, of Cactus Creek, let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry. Joe Doe climbed on the roof of his house last week looking for a leak, and fell, striking himself on the back porch. While Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise home from the church social Saturday night a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. Green four times in the public square."

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

According to R. G. Dun & Company, stability in many branches of industry is more sustained than at any time in the past three years. A survey by Standard Statistics indicates that, while trade outlook for the immediate future is irregular, a number of major lines are strengthening. It is interesting to note that food products are making a much better showing than industry in general.

The belief is widely expressed that a clear-cut legislative program at Washington would probably do more to initiate trade activity than any other single development at the moment. The present congress has created the impression in business that almost anything may happen, thus forcing industry to be extremely cautious.

The Boston News Bureau observes: "All of the factors now at work may make for further shrinkage in purchasing power, but it brings into closer readjustment the various factors that will ultimately make for stability. And the more rapidly investment confidence is strengthened the sooner will the processes of financial revival be stimulated."

The index of farm prices reached a new low on January 15th, standing at that time at 51 per cent of the pre-war average. (A year ago the index was at 63 per cent.) Eggs took a drop larger than the seasonal conditions warrant. On the other hand, small advances have been recently registered by apples, horses, wheat and cotton.

Continued severe weather, coupled with damage to crops from other factors, plus a favorable export situation, gives rise to the hope of substantial improvement in wheat prices later on. Qualified observers also foresee the possibility that within the next year domestic consumption of wheat may balance production, thus eliminating the need for foreign markets to absorb our surplus.

It is held that the farm mortgage situation, while bad, gives no cause for the hysteria that has been sweeping over the country in recent weeks. Foreclosures for the present year, if they increase in the same proportion as in 1932, will total about 267,000. This is only 4.3 per cent of the number of farms in the country. Another favorable sign is that insurance companies and banks have been following an extremely liberal policy in the matter of farm mortgages, only foreclosing when no other course is possible. The present acuteness of the situation is, also, mainly sectional.

Great interest is expressed in Roosevelt's plan for providing jobs. It is to be a huge experiment, and is expected to give employment to 200,000 men in the Tennessee Valley alone. It includes: Reforestation, creation of flood control basins, reclamation of fertile bottom lands for agricultural use, etc. Mr. Roosevelt believes that the entire project will be selfsustaining, and can be financed through bonds.

Recent reports on major industries show:

Rayon—Leading viscose producers reported booked solid for March. January shipments at new high for that month for several concerns.

Men's Clothes—Prices low, improvement in sales expected.

Steel — Production increased. Manufacturers feel turn for better has taken place.

Oil—Ability of California oil industry to stave off price collapse this year, in spite of internal strain and breakdown in Midcontinent markets, source of much comment.

Rubber—Price cuts emphasize intensely competitive situation within the industry. Tire buyers can fill their needs below cost.

Farm Equipment — Manufacturers realize that special inducements to farmers must be made to maintain present trade position.

Budget increases of about 10 per cent have been registered by Congress. The greatest increase, of $130,000,000 was for the executive office and independent establishments. Other marked increases were registered by the departments of agriculture, interior, postoffice, war, commerce, with decreases by the treasury, state, justice and labor. Is this the way economy pledges to the tampayer are to be kept?

Mexican crop outlook better than last year, as is retail trade. Outlook slightly improved in India. Bolivia and Cuba situations unfavorable. In most countries abroad there has been little change in any direction of late.

HOME BUREAU

The February meeting of the Concord Township Home Bureau was held at the home of Cora Fetters. The meeting was called together by the president. Harriet Johnson led in the singing of of several patriotic songs. The Home Economic Creed was then read in concert; roll call to which four members responded with patriotic verse; Maude Jenkins read a short sketch of Washington's life and Millie Shull read an interesting article, "The Book Washington Always Wanted." Then a paper of Lincoln's life was passed and read by each member in turn. This proved to be very entertaining to all.

A motion was made and carried to have our county president come to the gym some afternoon in the near future to give us a talk on shrubbery and landscaping. Also a date is set for a soap demonstration to be given in the Domestic Science Room, March 14 in the afternoon. All ladies interested are invited.

Mrs. Fetters, assisted by her committee, Mabel Baker, Pearl Simanton, Pauline Simanton, Diadem Bone and Clara Foltz served a very tempting luncheon, consisting of vegetable salad, angel food cake, and coffee.

We had four guests present. All pronounced it an enjoyable afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley, Susan Sechler and Mrs. Mary Sechler were Friday guests of Mrs. Anna Dilley in the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. T. Osburn at Ashley. Mrs. Dilley is reported quite lame.

Men! Only a Few More Days in which to Buy a $20 Overcoat for Only $1.00

Thrifty men for miles around are attending this sensational sale at SUEDHOFF & BUTLER'S, that popular men's wear store at 1011 Calhoun, just a few doors south of Washington street in Fort Wayne. And no wonder it's so popular—you buy a suit at its regular price ($15 UP) and take your choice of their entire stock of $20 Overcoats for only $1. Here is how the plan works:

Buy a $15 Suit, choose a $20 O'Coat for $1
Buy a $20 Suit, choose a $20 O'Coat for $1
Buy a $25 Suit, choose a $20 O'Coat for $1
Buy a $30 Suit, choose a $20 O'Coat for $1
Buy a $35 Suit, choose a $20 O'Coat for $1

It is not necessary that both garments be the same size. If you can't use both a suit and overcoat yourself, bring along a friend, each choose one garment and divide the cost. The suits and overcoats are all this season's styles—all regular stock, not specially purchased—in sizes and types for every man or young man. Remember, this sale continues for only a few more days—come in as soon as possible.

Some men are wise, some otherwise.

Weather forecast: More or less winter.

If we could all do as we please who would wash the dishes?

The flapper thinks a grand piano is one that plays by pushing a button.

Fine motto: Don't look for wider fields until you cultivate those you have.

And yet we doubt if red theories have done more to retard civilization than red tape.

Expediency: The polite name for a bit of crookedness that seems essential to a profit.

THE MOVING SEASON

It is estimated that quite a few families in this community will have changed their habitation when the moving season is ended. This is a sufficient volume of shifting of residence to have an appreciable effect on the community.

Moving is expensive. There is a saying that three moves are equal to a fire. That is, in changing residence three times one loses as much as one would were household goods consumed. Yet by no means are all changes unprofitable. Some move from rented quarters into homes they have bought. That is advantageous. Others move from old houses into better ones. That denotes prosperity. Of course moving is dictated by a great variety of reasons.

ITS BENEFITS UNIVERSAL

Many people have not learned to look upon advertising in the light of the realistic rhymster of an olden time who penned this famous verse on advertising:

"Go forth in haste; with bills and paste
Proclaim, to all creation,
That men are wise who advertise
In every generation."

In large part the public regards advertising as being of possible advantage to the advertiser for which the consumer pays, and yet the facts prove otherwise. Time and again has it been shown that well judged, properly conducted and persistent advertising inures to the benefit not only of the person who attracts attention to his wares in this manner, but also of the community.

After interviewing large numbers of distributors as to the economic effects of advertising, a committee of the national distribution conference reports:

"Broadly speaking, it would seem that where the advertising creates an increased demand for products of a certain class a wider distribution of such products —in other words, makes new business, bringing about lessened distribution costs and lessened production costs owing to increased demand—there can be no doubt as to the value of advertising, not merely to the concerns that pay for it but also to the public that consumes the goods."

"Bills and paste" have given way to newspapers and magazines and those "who advertise" are not only wise but altruistic and philanthropic, for by helping themselves they are helping others.

ON A TELEPHONE POLE

All of a sudden, when the earlier sun wakes you on a March morning, your mind unfolds to a sense of change. The room's the same: The task of filling out your income tax blank still taunts you, you remember that the leavings of the twelfth ton of coal won't last the week out—but something is different. Not exactly that, but something is there that wasn't there yesterday. Nor is that just it. Whatever it is, it's like a memory come to life—a delightful memory.

You trace it to the tip of a nearby telephone pole—and the clear trills and rills of the song-sparrow send thrills all through you, and you know the birds are beginning to come back.

Some other morning soon the chorus will be full enough to waken you—song will outdo the sun. As it grows from day to day, you'll hear it in a promise of no more tending the heater—for six months—and no more trudging through snow and slush; no more cough drops, camphorated oil or mustard soaks. Also more fresh vegetables, and motoring along country roads fringed with a green mist, and dandelions—which no longer are allowed to linger, and cherry and green apple pies, and magnolius things without number.

"How fine to have the birds back," you'll say to yourself. Have you ever stopped to think what would happen if they didn't back? Well, in a season or two it would mean the end of life on this planet. That's all.

NOTHING FOR CHARITY

When our government was considering resumption of specie payment after the Civil War, Sherman is credited with saying that the only way to resume is to resume. That applies now. Everywhere the prevalent thought seems to be, What can I do to cut down? Whom can I fire? and so on.

Commenting on the statement that "investment and employment are cheaper than charity," F. V. Keesling, attorney of San Francisco, says: "Unless there be continuous investment and employment, there will be nothing for charity."

"There is an unfortunate attitude among the people. For instance, at the golf links the other day one of the members decried the fact that there were several men employed in planting trees. When he was told that it seemed to be a highly desirable thing under the conditions, so long as the club could afford it, a clearer vision gave him a proper reaction."

You can't pile up public debts, increase taxes, discourage industry and create unemployment, without destroying the capital and earning power of the nation.

This destructive process has been going on for three years. No good fairy is coming out of the clouds and create employment. The people are going to have to create it for themselves. The good fairy will be their own desire to do something.

Every day that those of us who can afford to, delay in furnishing employment for needed and necessary work, our national wealth is reduced, taxes are increased for charitable enterprises and the day draws nearer when there will be nothing left to give for charity, and government itself will face bankruptcy through inability to collect taxes. There are millions of individuals and industries whose premises are sadly in need of repairs. The time to do that work is now. Delay is expensive "economizing."

"A VISION OF TAXATION"

The following verse was sent to the Chicago Daily News by G. A. Haywood.

Each day you may see me working out on the farm.
I have a little forty, a chicken
coop and barn.
I love to work upon the farm and keep it neat and clean,
But when I'm in bed at night, I have such awful dreams.

I see taxes on the ceiling, I see taxes on the wall,
I see taxes in the kitchen, I see taxes in the hall,
I see taxes in the dining room, I see taxes on my plate,
I believe I can taste taxes in everything I eat.

I believe in paying taxes, I believe in being sane,
I believe these unjust taxes are taxation of the brain.
I see taxes on my children, I see taxes on my wife,
I see taxes on my income, I see taxes on my life.

The next bum rap that we predict
with no other can compare;
It's a meter on our windpipe, then tax us for the air.

A VICIOUS ATTACK

The reading public were startled by glaring headlines in last week's dailies, announcing the attempted assassination of president-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. The attempt resulted in failure, as regards its objective, that of the doing away of Mr. Roosevelt, but resulted in the wounding of four other persons. At the present writing all are in a fair way toward recovery.

For this attempt upon the life of Mr. Roosevelt, and the resultant wounding of others, this criminal minded alien was given an eighty year sentence.

In view of this attempt upon the life of our president to be, and the wounding of Mr. Cermak, Mayor of Chicago, we are reminded this is the fifth attempt to take the life of a chief executive of the United States. Three attempts, those by Booth, Guiteau and Czolgoscz upon the persons of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, resulted fatally. The unsuccessful efforts, were directed upon two men of the same name; Roosevelt. Of these crazed fanatics, real and potential assassins, two, at least, were of foreign birth. Czolgoscz and the perpetrator of this latest outrage, Joe Zingara, a wild eyed fanatic from that home of anarchists, New Jersey. He is a native of Italy.

To any reader who has been observant of names in their connection with crime, it will become truly obvious that foreign names constitute, by far the greater number on the list of crimes perpetrated in our country.

While some prohibitive measures have been taken to safeguard the public, as well as to protect American labor from cheap competitive labor of Europe, in the way of restricted immigration, many feel that during the stress of poverty, as a result of unemployment, much remains to be done by further restrictions. These unassimilable aliens have no real conceptions of the American spirit, of American ideals. And it is to be greatly deplored, that many, calling themselves Americans, truckle to these foreigners, who visit our shores, and deliver diatribes against all things which are fundamentally American. With cheap sophistry we are reminded that "America is the melting pot of the world. A haven for the poor and oppressed of all nations." Theoretically, this sounds fine; practically, it does not work. They don't flux.

While we cannot exonerate all native born citizens from crime, nor yet, complicity with criminal intent, yet, it is not sufficient to say, foreigners should not be barred on the ground that they do not commit all the crimes.

America should not be imposed upon whether we suffer these outrages through disinterestedness, purely altruistic, offer this country as a haven; or through the more mercenary motives of our rich employing class, we displace the native American with the pauper hordes of Europe.

"It is much easier to be critical than correct."

"There is no man suddenly either excellently good, or extremely bad."

Last year, according to Judge Fred E. Bale, of Columbus, Ohio, 68,000 girls were repohted misaing in the United States. The majority of these girls were from good families.

R. J. Ripley is reported to be touring the world in search of his "Believe It or Not" items. He expects to visit 122 counties before his return to the United States.

The United States is using four times as much timber annually as it is growing.

The number of boy babies born in the world is estimated to be slightly more than the number of girl babies. The ratio is about 105 boys to 100 girls.

Asparagus is believed to be the oldest known plant used for food.

Women are said to be more adept in learning foreign languages than are men.

No part of Scotland is more than forty miles from sea water.

In a pound of honey there is said to be concentrated essence of 60,000 flowers.

The cunning coyote destroys more domestic animals than any other predatory beast.

A ragpicker who appeared in a London court admitted that his earnings sometimes amounted to as much as $300 per week.

No! You haven't read everything. There is an average of 85 new books published in the English language each day.

There are about 200 women graduating each year from American colleges and universities as Doctors of Medicine.

Bulgaria has a system of maternity insurance, giving the woman insured care during child birth and a cash benefit for the following three months.

Popcorn is served as breakfast food in many hospitals.

Ogden Mills, Secretary of Treasury, was willed a $12,000,000 estate by his father under a singular condition that he spend at least two weeks each year in the state of California.

Evidence shows that the Insull family made a profit of $1,752,160 off securities purchased from one Insull controlled company, held ten days and then sold to another Insull company.

Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long, of Louisiana, was charged by his brother, Earl Long, with bribes totaling $10,000 in a congressional election fraud hearing held in New Orleans. This just makes us believe stronger than ever that these Longs are the kind of a family we thought they were.

A. C. Crawford, of Chicago, enclosed his check for one dollar in the following letter to Secretary of Treasury Ogden L. Mills: "Rather than buy or drink the stuff or place it lawfully where others may obtain it, as one of the 125,000,000 Americans, I am enclosing a check for my share of the $125,000,000 Congress hopes to derive from the sale of beer and other intoxicants. Also rather than that the lawless liquor traffic again gain control, I would willingly pay many times as much."

The quail were hit a terrible blow during the recent heavy snow, in the middle west. The Illinois Department of Conservation ordered the game wardens to feed the quail.

"Just keep your standard flying,
And don't give up the game!
The Second place, with honor,
Beats any first—with shame."

NOW WHAT?

Congress has completed its vote, in the House of Representatives, on the question of repeal of the 18th Amendment.

The vote was: for repeal, 289; against repeal 121. The Senate and House having disposed of the question, it goes before the people according to the manner prescribed in the Constitution.

Under this provision for the first time in history, the convention method will be used. Prior to this time the legislative system has been followed.

Under the terms, thirty-six states of the forty-eight must ratify to remove the 18th Amendment from the Constitution, and, this too, within a period of seven years, otherwise, it is ineffective.

Just Try

Our lives aren't made up of enjoyment or pleasure; it has deep worries, sorrows, and cares. We must realize this and try to overcome the difficulties of life. Just try to smile bravely at trouble and you will go a great deal farther on the road to happiness. Bear your burdens bravely, try to smile at your sorrows. Do a kind act for your neighbor at classmate, and answer their questions with a smile. It may not seem to you to be a good deed or anything worth while. Hold out your hand and help to keep your friends from leading the wrong kind of life. It will be recorded by Him above and you will receieve your reward. So just try your best, and know the meaning of success.

—Mary Jane Chapman

Vol. 1. No. 21. Thursday, February 23, 1933

Noted Lecturer Visits St. Joe

Mr. Guy Detrick from Ada, Ohio, gave a talk on the subject of History Monday afternoon in the school gymnasium. Spencerville came to St. Joe to hear him and many patrons of the school heard the lecture. Mr. Detrick has visited 2,000 schools in the last twelve years and presented this lecture. He has told it to over 300,000 pupils since 1930.

The speaker started his description of the rise and fall of empires and nations by describing primitive man in the pre-historic age and how he sought to appease the wrath of the gods by burning fire He led on to the time of the first known man in history in Egypt, 5,000 years B. C. He described the religion, art and craftsmanship of the people of that nation, also the Babylonian religion in which the people carved images out of stone and offered sacrifices of smoke and steam to appease the God of Fear.

He went on to the time of the patriarchs, of Jacob and Abraham and the birth of Moses. He described the civilization of ancient Rome and Greece where the idea of government was started. Alexander the Great who sought to rule the world and through his conquering of the nations spread civilization to Asia, Europe and Africa, then to the burning of Rome, the death of Caesar and the birth of Christ, and the wiping out of all previous superstitions and teachings as light came to the world.

The establishment after the death of Christ of the church at Rome from which came teachers, ushered in another epoch in which civilization spread across the Alps mountains and covered Europe. Paganism disappeared and christianity took form. Then came the fusion of tribes, half barbarian and half civilized, the dark age, then Luther and the entire change of human thought.

The discovery of the new world, the birth of George Washington, the forming of the first republic in the world and a new education and religion followed. The eventual climbing to the top of the world's nations as did Rome and Greece in their day was the history of the United States. "Rome and Greece fell. "Will we fall?" asked the speaker as he neared the close of his address. His answer was, "We will never fall as long as we conform to religion and education."

A chart 60 feet long helped the listener to understand more readily and to follow the speaker.

Teams Battle Without Success

Both teams lost to Waterloo Friday night and to Harlan Saturday night. The girls seemed to be a match for Waterloo the first quarter, but they lost out the last half, and the score was 17-33 at the end of the game. The boys lost 11-35.

Saturday night the boys fought hard with Harlan and gained the lead several times, but luck wasn't with them and they lost 24-26. The girls lost 11-25.

Both teams will play their last game of the season next Saturday night at Hamilton.

Everybody is saving up their pennies for the Senior's dinner to be given Friday in the Home Economics kitchen.

The teachers attended the Institute at Auburn last Saturday.

Miss Opal Poland spent Sunday with her parents in North Manchester.

Many students attended the Farmers Institute last week.

The biology students are trying to dissect earthworms. The girls certainly are enjoying it. Drawings are being made to look as nearly like the earthworms as possible.

Thursday of this week will be State Health day. The entire day will be used for health lectures, talks, and pictures on health. State men and state speakers will furnish the material and entertainment.

Pierre's Revenge

The Story So Far: Miss Evelyn Darling, rich heiress from New York, has been captured by Pierre, an outlaw. Larry Randolph, her fiance, has found her in a cabin with Nanook, Pierre's sister. As the story opens today, Pierre has returned and is preparing to tie them up and leave them in the cabin while he and Nanook escape.

Pierre picked Larry up is if he were a small child, and bound him to a large stake in the middle of the cabin, although Larry kicked and fought furiously.

"Miss Darling, you are the next victim," sneered Pierre as he left Larry and strode toward Evelyn.

"Be careful with Evelyn, and don't treat her like a box of soap. Remember she's a woman and not as tough as an outlaw I know," warned Larry.

"What could you do about it if I killed her before your eyes," taunted Pierre.

"I'll, I'll—" stuttered Larry.

"Yes, yes, you'll invent a new machine tied to a stake in a Canadian cabin, no doubt," laughed Pierre.

"Please, Pierre, these ropes are hurting my wrists," begged Evelyn.

Now, now you shouldn't mind a little thing like that," said Pierre, and only drew the ropes tighter.

"After Pierre had succeeded in tying Larry and Evelyn to the stakes, he stood back and looked at them with an evil grin of satisfaction.

"Well, my friends, I am going to go on a long trip and much to my disappointment I'm afraid we'll never meet again. In case any visitors come and you don't feel obliged to leave them in I'll leave the door open," said Pierre as if he rather enjoyed this ceremony.

"But, Pierre, we'll get cold. We'll freeze all tied up with that door open," screamed Evelyn.

"And in saying goodbye, I might inform you that this region is infested with wolves. For the lady I hope the cold comes before the wolves, but for Mr. Randolph I hope the wolves come first," said Pierre.

With these last taunts, Pierre sprang into his saddle beside Nanook, and they clattered off down the trail leaving their doomed victims behind.

Larry was the first to break the silence.

"Evelyn, what are we to do? Must we stand here helplessly, and watch our death approach? If I see a pack of wolves approaching, I am afraid I shall die of heart failure."

"Oh, Larry, to think that a man could be so cruel and cowardly as to tie us up for the wolves and cold without giving us even a fighting chance," said Evelyn contemptously.

"Evelyn, do you think it's possible for you to get one of your hands loosened enough to untie some of those knots, or reach that knife on the table?" asked Larry tremulously. "If we aren't able to leave this shack before morning our lives are doomed. Either the cold or the wolves will have finished us by that time."

"I'm sorry, Larry, but it is hopeless. My hands are tied so tightly that my wrists are bleeding," answered Evelyn.

On Wednesday evening at the Farmers Institute which was held in the Lutheran Church last week, the Young Ladies Social Club held a mock wedding, following the second act of the play, "Sally's Ship Comes In," given by a local group. The ladies were assisted by Paul Hensley, who acted the roll of Miss Depression.

Readers having court work to do for which newspaper legal advertising is necessary, will confer a favor on the St. Joe News by asking that the legal notices be inserted in this paper. You will be helping the home paper and meeting the law's requirements just as well as having the legal advertising done some place else, and then we can reach the people that will be most interested.

FARMER'S INSTITUTE A SUCCESS

Success crowned the efforts of the officers and committees in charge of the Tri-Township Farmer's Institute held at the Spencerville Lutheran Church, February 14 and 15. The program committee is to be especially congratulated on the excellent program which moved along without any confusion or disturbance. Every number on the two day and two night program was first class and well worth the time of those attending. The keynote of the addresses was along the line of further retrenchment for the farmer. Mr. Ralph Harvey brot out the fact that the pencil is the most important tool on the farm today. He also pointed out that when the citizens of this country support the government instead of being supported by the government, this notion shall prosper. Mrs. Retta House clearly defined the need of a larger co-operation in the home, school, church, community and nation.

The special musical numbers furnished by the local schools were excellent and gave evidence of earnest training.

Cash premiums amounting to $28.75 were paid out for best displays of farm produce.

Awards of $5.50 were given to boys and girls for best posters advertising the institute.

Paid up membership for next year consists of 314 adults and 47 juniors. Newville township will have charge of the arrangements for next institute.

The new officers are:
President, Clarence Killian.
Vice Pres., Guy Platter.
Sec.-Treas., John Washler.

SURPRISE PARTY

The Men's Bible class of the Lutheran Sunday School, taught by J. R. Shilling, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Armstrong on Tuesday evening, February 28, the event being in honor of Mr Armstrong's birthday.

Games and jig-saw puzzles were the order of the evening, after which the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. S. S. Wyatt, and Mrs. Ray Reasoner, served weiner sandwiches, doughnuts, pickles and coffee. Merritt Sechler then entertained the company with contests.

Fourteen members, including the pastor, Rev. Fabianske, and one guest S. S. Wyatt, were present. All departed at a late hour after wishing Mr. Armstrong many more happy birthdays.

DEKALB COUNTY BANKS LIMIT WITHDRAWALS

DeKalb county banks Tuesday morning went on a moratorium, limiting withdrawals to amounts not exceeding five percent of deposits.

The moratorium is only temporary and will be lifted as soon as business conditions justify. The action was taken by the DeKalb County Bankers Association after like moratoriums were declared in all of the principal cities and many of the counties in Indiana. DeKalb county is one of the last in the state of Indiana to limit withdrawals but was forced to do sc after cities like Fort Wayne and Indianapolis adopted such a procedure.

Several of the DeKalb county banks were correspondents of Ft. Wayne and Indianapolis institutions and had money on deposit in these banks and cleared their checks through these sources. Restrictions were imposed at Fort Wayne and Indianapolis institutions after their deposits in Detroit and Cleveland banks were placed on a moratorium basis.

Naturally when the funds of the local banks were tied up by moratoriums in the larger institions, the banks in DeKalb county were unable to continue their business in the usual way.

Banks in many counties of Northern Indiana have been on a moratorium for nearly a year and the fact that DeKalb county institutions have resisted this procedure so long indicates their strength and ability to weather any depression, no matter how severe.

Money on which the withdrawal restrictions now apply, it was pointed out, will be unavailable only temporarily and will continue to remain in the depositors' acounts. The restrictive rule, it was explained, serves as added insurance against further unsettled conditions in the banking field.

The restrictions, however did not apply to new sums of money deposited Tuesday and on which the individual banks may assure full privileges of deposits and withdrawal.

FINAL P. T. A. FOR SCHOOL YEAR

The final meeting of the school year of the P. T. A. will be held at the Community Gymnasium next Tuesday evening, March 7th, at 7:30.

The speaker of the evening will be Mr. Underwood, of the State Bureau of Drivers' Licenses and Public Safety, whose address will be of interest especially to all automobile drivers.

The preliminary part of the program will be a one-act play, "Borrowing Trouble," presented by the St. Joe teachers.

As this is the final meeting of the school year, the business will be of importance. Final reports of committees will be heard, bills presented, and election of officers for next year will be held. Every one interested in the welfare of the school is urged to attend.

HICKSVILLE BANDMASTER DIES FRIDAY

O. V. Hart, 61, widely known organizer, director and leader of orchestras and bands, died unexpectedly at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at his home in Hicksville, Ohio, following a heart attack. He had been ill of influenza for a week. Mr. Hart was a lifelong resident of Hicksville. Earlier in life he had operated a jewelry store but he retired from that to give his entire time to the direction of bands. He had taken bands on tours through the United States and one summer toured Nova Scotia. While he played many instruments, his specialty was the clarinet.

Mr. Hart was married to Hattie Dills, who at that time lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dills, on the farm now known as the Erick farm, south of town. Mr. Hart was well known here.

SPENCERVILLE YOUTH FORGED SEVERAL CHECKS

Virgil Kimes, 21, of Spencerville, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge Endicott Saturday on a charge of forgery.

The youth's father and other residents of Spencerville, pleaded with the court to suspend the sentence. The officers informed the court that during the last year Kimes has forged about a dozen checks for a total of $307. He signed the name of Raymond U. Bowser of Spencerville, to all of them.

Judge Endicott told the elder Kimes that if all losses resulting from the checks were paid the sentence would be suspended. The youth was taken back to jail while an effort is made to meet this requiremeent.

Kimes was arrested last Tuesday while trying to pass a bad check at the City National bank at Auburn.

A strenuous effort is being made by the father, Chas. Kimes, and a number of citizens of Spencerville, to secure a number of signatures that will make it possible to relieve the young man of being compelled to serve the sentence.

INJURIES FATAL TO CATHERINE NICHOLLS

Mrs. Catherine Nicholls, 95 years of age, died Sunday evening at 9:45 at the family residence, one and one-half miles southeast of Newville. On February 16 she fell and broke a leg.

The deceased was a life long resident of Newville township and resided on the farm her parents entered from the government in 1837.

Mrs. Nicholls was the last charter member of the Newville United Brethren Church where the funeral service was conducted on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 by the Rev. O. P. Givens.

Surviving are one son, Robert Nicholls of Orangeville, Ind.; three daughters, Mrs. Eva Landers of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Martha Stanley of Buffalo, N. Y., and May Nicholls at home.

The husband and one daughter preceded her in death.

DEADLINE EXTENDED TO MARCH 15

Another 15 day extension for the use of 1932 automobile license plates was granted upon request of Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

He said the action was taken because many motorists had money tied up in banks which have place restrictions on withdrawals of deposits.

February 1 was the original dead line but two previous 15-day extensions have been granted.

McNutt said drivers will be requested to purchase 1933 plates by March 15.

SURVEYOR KAIN TO MANAGE COUNTY ROADS

The supervision of the maintenance of the DeKalb county highways was assigned by the county commissioners Saturday afternoon to Calvin C Kain, county surveyor.

The board acted in accordance with a law recently passed by the state legislature. Mr. Kain will on Wednesday, March 1, take the place of E. E Turner, who has held the position of county highway superintendent.

Mr. Turner's pay is $4.76 a day. Mr. Kain will not receive any additional compensation as road supervisor for the balance of this year excepting 5 cents a mile for expense. However, effective next year his salary of surveyor will be reduced to $1,530 and he will be paid from $2 to $3 for each mile of the county highway system, the commissioners having the duty of fixing the rate. The system contains more than 700 miles.

The commissioners had the option of making Mr. Kain the supervisor or appointing another man, but in the interest of economy decided to give the work to Mr. Kain.

The board also appointed the following as assistants to the county supervisor: Wm. Keeler of St. Joe; Elmer Johns, Butler; Lester Casselman, Auburn; Edgar Barley, Auburn, and C. P. Martin, Garrett.

Ernest Steward of Spencerville, was reappointed mechanic, Fred Rosenberry of Auburn, tractor driver and Chas. Johnson of Auburn, grader driver. The pay for all of these employes remains at 35 cents an hour except the mechanic, who is paid 40 cents.

Before adjournment of a special session Saturday afternoon, the county commissionrs fixed the compensation of County Surveyor Calvin C. Kain as county highway supervisor at $2 per mile of county roads. The mileage is approximately 740, making the pay $1,480. However, by the terms of the law, the surveyor will actually not draw any additional money from the county. The commissioners completed the staff of assistant supervisors by naming Jay Bunge for district No. 4 at Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham visited in the homes of J. E. Cox and C. J. Foltz of near Miller City, Friday of last week.

Any person who has given a mortgage on his real property, can make a very substantial tax reduction by filing a mortgage exemption, and all of this can be taken care of by calling at The News office and filing such papers as are necessary by law. In spite of all the publicity given regarding exemptions, many still refuse to take advantage of this saving. Don't do this any longer, when you fail on this, there is double taxation, both the mortgagee and mortgagor pay this tax.

To Our Depositors and Customers:

In view of the fact that the Banks of Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, South Bend, and other financial centers of Indiana together with the Banks of the States of Ohio and Michigan have, with the approval of the Federal and State Banking Commissions, declared a temporary moratorium upon the withdrawal of funds from said Banks, it has become impossible for the Banks of DeKalb County to carry on their banking business in the usual way.

Therefore for the protection of the depositors and to insure the equal treatment of all depositors, the DeKalb County Bankers Association has declared a partial moratorium upon all deposits as of the close of business on February 27, 1933, as to all Banks in DeKalb County.

Under the terms of the said partial moratorium the withdrawal of funds by any depositor shall be limited to 5 percent of his or her total deposit until further notice. HOWEVER ALL DEPOSITS MADE ON AND AFTER FEBRUARY 28, 1933 SHALL BE WITHDRAWABLE AT ANY TIME AND IN ANY AMOUNT THAT THE DEPOSITOR MAY DESIRE.

This bank deeply regrets that surrounding circumstances and conditions in financial circles have forced us, together with the other Banks in DeKalb County, to take this step for the protection of depositors, and we hope that surrounding conditions may adjust themselves at an early time and thus permit us to resume banking in the customary manner. This Bank greatly appreciates the confidence shown in this Bank during the present depression, and we hope that our customers and depositors will continue to extend to us the same confidence and good will to the end that conditions may be worked out to the mutual advantage of our customers and depositors and the community in general.

The best argument against race suicide is that your very next child may be a film wonder.

It is especially difficult to control a temper that faces an unarmed man 40 pounds lighter.

Once the capitalistic system is gone the world will be quieter. There won't be any dinner bells.

The ancient expression, "sound and fury," is just highbrow for the modern talkies and critics.

Doctors who advise folks how to live long probably include in the instructions "stay off the highways."

There's no way to get the worth of an old car except to get it in front of a big one driven by a rich man.

Every year science enables us to get there quicker. Now if it will only provide something to do when we get there.

Under date, Indianapolis, Feb. 26, we learn the Senate passed the liquor control bill, and the Wright "bone dry" law repeal measures by big majorities.

Senator Elias Swihart, of Elkhart, democrat, made a dramatic appeal for defeat of the control bill.

"God forbid that I ever do a thing to bring sorrow, poverty and crime into the American home as I saw it in the days before the present regime," he said. "Because men have violated the prohibition law, does that require you and me to change the law?" Senator Swihart demanded.

Larry Brandon was angered by a statement of Senator Weiss, "that the senators were 'bound by honor' to vote for the control bill."

Mr. Brandon, an Auburn man, declared that he had appealed to the voters as a dry. I told them that they could take me as I was or leave me," he said, "I told that I was against repeal." Senator Brandon represents DeKalb, Steuben and Lagrange counties.

Senator Shull and Senator Perkins also were loyal to the dry cause, Perkins said the proposed repeal would "amount to nullification."

We are glad that Senator Brandon, and the others enumerated, had the moral stamina and the hardihood to refuse to sanction the repeal movement. If, and when, the mad nullification craze receives its set-back, by the refusal of the States to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, some of these dry appeal advocates, are going to be hanging to a limb, no doubt, (to dry.)

BELOW COST

There is one commodity obtainable in the United States at less than the cost of production. It is higher education, the actual cost of which is about three times what the student pays for it.

There are 1,071 colleges and universities, having a total operating cost of over half a billion dollars a year. Of that vast sum only 25 per cent comes from tuition fees and 10 per cent from student payments for board and lodging.

Taxpayers, through government appropriations to institutions of higher learning bear 26 per cent of the educational burden and the remaining 25 per cent comes from private contributions and endowment funds.

This explains why more than a million young men and women can go to college. To ask the student the full cost of his education would close many colleges and universities and greatly reduce the enrollments of all. Thousands cannot even pay the third charged the student, getting through on scholarships and with the aid of part time employment.

Does placing advanced education on the bargain counter pay, it is frequently asked? Few take the negative side in the debate. It is a broad question not to be decided by "actual cases."

EVILS OF PRICE CUTTING

Price cutting covers a multitude of sins. It has been abused and exploited by unscrupulous merchandise until much with glittering prices is not gold in one's purse.

All business has had to cut prices. Manufacturers and merchants with reputations for fine quality and high prices are selling for less today just as the maker and seller of the cheap and shoddy are doing. Prolonged and widespread unemployment made this an economic necessity. It is no disgrace today to mark down goods but there is a dishonest minority element in business which has disgracfully reduced the quality of merchandise out of proportion to the lower prices.

Price cutting has become a racket in some quarters, a racket made possible by universal price reduction. One cannot conceive of such a thing in normal times when the public considers price in relation to quality and satisfaction. Today unfortunate economic circumstances force millions to ferret out the lowest price regardless of quality or fitness. The racketeers in business recognize this fact and are making the most of it to the injury of the buying public.

A $10 suit is poor economy when it is really only a $6 suit. Spoiled food is no bargain at any price. Automobile tires subject to blow-outs when new are criminal as well as uneconomical.

So it behooves the buyer to beware of the price tag which seems too good to be true.

BETTER BE A BOOTLEGGER THAN A BOOTLEGGER'S CUSTOMER

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 25.—A pardon will be given to all persons serving sentences in the state prisons, the state penal farm and the state reformatory for violation of the famous bone dry act which the Indiana legislature has repealed, Governor Paul V. McNutt announced this afternoon.

The announcement was made as the governor awaited arrival of the repealer for his signature.

It was estimated that more than five hundred liquor violators will be given the executive clemency.

"As soon as I sign the repeal bill I shall regard those persons serving sentences for violating the dry act as political prisoners and shall pardon them," Governor McNutt said.

"Each case will be taken up on its own merits. The general policy shall be however, to free such prisoners.

"No clemency will be shown, however, to any persons serving terms for drunken driving or public intoxication."

The executive clemency will apply to all persons serving sentences for selling liquor, manufacturing liquor and transporting liquor.

The majority of these prisoners was believed to be in the state penal farm at Putnamville.

Governor McNutt indicated he expected the repealer to reach him late this afternoon and that he would sign it immediately.

As a specimen of brilliant (?) statesmanship, we commend for your earnest consideration, the above Indianapolis political news clipping.

"The executive clemency will apply to all persons selling liquor, manufacturing liquor and transporting liquor. No clemency will be shown, however, to any persons serving terms for drunken driving or public intoxication."

Just what is the logic of this proposed discrimination, we must leave the reader to guess. When it is a crime to drive an automobile while intoxicated, or, to appear in public while in an intoxicated condition, and not a crime to manufacture, sell, or transport, an intoxicating beverage, we wonder where our wise public servant, and his co-adjutors, gleaned their store of imperishable wisdom, that resulted in such a glorious decision.

There surely is a connecting link, between those who sell, and those who drink. If 'tis not wrong to sell, then by all laws of logic, the drinker, too, should be shown the same clemency shown the vender of the drink.

Another thought, in connection with this act of the State Legislature in regard to executive clemency. It may be rightfully questioned, this power of the State administration to pardon malefactors of our liquor laws. The Eighteenth Amendment is not yet repealed, and, until this is done, an executive order of this kind is a high handed piece of impudence and nullification upon the part of the State's solons, and its chief executive. The seeming drift of sentiment toward the wet side, of the wet press are to be credited, has, apparently gone to the heads of our newly intrenched public servants.

MERCHANDISE TAKEN FROM HURSH STORE

Friday night, an entrance was gained to the Harry Hursh store in St. Joe, and approximately $40 worth of shirts, ties, belts, ladies hosiery, foot wear and toilet sets were taken from the cases, and possibly other goods not yet missed from the stock.

The front door was pried open by a pointed instrument, as injuries on the door indicated this treatment.

The boxes were all left in their places but the contents lifted, thus making it difficult to determine the exact loss before a complete checking is made.

Authorities were here seeking evidence or clues that might lead to the apprehension of the robbers.

Only a short time, before moving the stock from Spencerville, the Hursh store was broken into.

Mrs. Lizzie Milliman spent a few days in Fort Wayne last week with her daughters.

Envelopes, tablets for letter writing, ink and whatever you need for you correspondence can be purchased at News office. See our line.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Zimmerman had as Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. James Moody and children, Jimmie, Betty, Jackie and Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zimmerman and children, Billy and Bobby. Vernie Smith was an afternoon caller and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dorsey and wife evening callers.

MARRIED FOR FORTY-NINE YEARS

A complete surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. F. B. Leighty, Sunday, the event being in honor of their forty-ninth wedding anniversary. Guests began to arrive about noon with their baskets, and when congratulations were being extended the couple, they did not understand why they should be the recipients of such an ovation, and when they were reminded of their wedding anniversary, they were shocked.

The attractive center piece was a beautiful anniversary cake, decorated in pink, bearing the words Mother—Father, 1884–1933.

Those in attendance were Wm. Miller and wife, Wm. Quance and family, Fred Quance and wife and Mary Quance, of Auburn, and Charles Quance, and family of Fort Wayne.

Dr. S. E. Brewster, of Hicksville, Church of Christ, has tendered his resignation but will continue his residence there.

Extensions for one year of Indiana city and town officials' terms was being considered by democratic administration leaders in the legislature. Primaries now are scheduled for May in municipal elections. Mayors and other city officials are scheduled to be elected this year in 102 cities, and 421 towns are due to elect town board members. Should the law pass election will be held in 1934.

FRESH FOOTE-PRINTS

By Lester E. Foote

During the last 120 years the United States has had more immigrants from Germany than from any other country.

Lest we forget—In 1893 over 150 railroads went bankrupt and in 1857 soldiers guarded the National Treasury against raids.

"It is twice as dangerous for a child under five years old to have diphtheria," says the Illinois Health Messenger, "as for a child above that age."

At Ferndale, California, a herd of twenty Jersey cows beat all national dairy records by producing an average of over 550 pounds of butterfat each year over a period of four years.

5,341 miles without stopping is the new distance record made by Gayford and Nicholetts of the British Royal Air Force.

Ivar Krueger, once known as the Swedish Match King, was the master embezzler of all time. American investors invested about $225,000,000 with Krueger. Most of this is now lost.

Thirty-five is the average age for member of the white race to start turning gray. If you are past age thirty-five and have no gray hairs you are "holding your age" exceedingly well.

You will remember that the Prohibition Amendment went into effect on January 29, 1919. This amendment will stay in effect until 36 (three-fourths) of the states ratify the repeal. There are now forty-two states' legislatures in session and two others will be in session before the first of April. It is possible but not probable that the beer predicted for last Christmas will get here for the Fourth of July.

In Nebraska, Governor Charles Bryan has signed a bill abolishing the party circle from all ballots for the election of public officers.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde suggests a plan to solve the problem of agricultural surplus as follows: "The Secretary of Agriculture should be given authority to lease during the next crop year, about 50,000,000 acres of land out of the 355,000,000 acres of total cultivated area now devoted to the production of cotton, wheat, corn and other cereals ad keep these fifty-million acres out of production for one year."

A real thrill is in store for those World's Fair visitors who try the "Skyride." It consists of moving cars hung from a suspension bridge 200 feet above the water.

It is 2,750 miles across the United States from east to west at its greatest length.

A girl can be called a girl until she is thirty, according to the rule laid down by John D. Rockefeller in donating a home for young people in New York City.

It is estimated that there are over one half million war widows in Germany.

One out of every 100 persons in the United States earns his livlihood by retail selling.

The United States loaned $11,000,000,000 to foreign nations during the World War. England got five billion of this amount and France over three billion of it.

2,000 secret service men will occupy seats in the grandstand during inaugural ceremony at Washington March fourth.

Marlene Dietrich, our German film queen has introduced a trouser wearing fad for women. A leading Chicago Store displays three piece outfits consisting of coat, shirt and trouser for women who desire the popular manish appearance at $17.50. A leading style expert recommends that the shirt be worn to this manish outfit for street and boulevard wear but the smart pleated trousers for all country activities.

While two Chicago police left their squad car to go inside to investigate a burglary, their car was stolen.

COLOMBIA ADOPTS MODERNIZING PLAN

NEW YORK—Keen interest is being evinced by American financiers, importers and world travelers in recent modernization developments throughout the Republic of Colombia, the nearest South American neighbor of the United States.

Most of the Colombian cities are being transformed from ancient colonial settlements into modern metropolitan centers having both the aspect and conveniences of those in the United States. In addition, important railroad lines and motor highways are being extended and river channels opened to facilitate the movement of products from the inland to Barranquilla and Cartagena on the Atlantic, and Buenaventura on the Pacific coast of Colombia.

These transportation improvements have become imperative because of the rapidly increasing volume of exports from that country. Approximately 400,000,000 pounds of coffee, 11,000,000 stems of bananas, 18,000,000 barrels of petroleum, $9,000,000 worth of gold and $1,750,000 of platinum are exported from Colombia to world markets annually.

Coffee is Colombia's principal export product, as well as being a very important factor in the life of the country in general. More than 90 per cent of the annual crop of Colombia, which is the second largest coffee-producing country in the world, is exported to the United States.

COFFEE CONSUMPTION IN U. S. DOUBLES SINCE '13

Coffee, which has been used throughout the ages for widely diversified purposes, such as food, wine and medicine before it found its real place as a world beverage, has shown marked increase in popularity during the last twenty years.

This is particularly true in the United States, in which consumption of coffee has almost doubled since 1913. Much of this extraordinary increase is attributed by authorities to the greater use of the world's finest full-flavored coffees, which are produced in Colombia, in American blends and brands.

COLOMBIA—THE TREASURE LAND OF SOUTH AMERICA

Republic Is a Large Producer of Emeralds, Platinum, Gold, Oil and Coffee.

One thousand miles south from the tip of Florida is a treasure land, covering an area about the size of the State of Texas, which is rapidly coming into prominence in the world of commerce.

This "El Dorado" is the Republic of Colombia, South America. Within its boundaries—the Atlantic ocean, on the north; Ecuador, Peru and Brazil, on the south; Venezuela and Brazil, on the east, and the Pacific ocean on the west—there are nearly a half million square miles of fertile land productive of not only a great variety of food products, but of gems and minerals of inestimable quantity and value as well.

Colombia ranks first in world production of emeralds; second of platinum; third of bananas; is the largest South American producer of gold, and is one of the largest prospective oil producers of the world. It also raises large quantities of tobacco, rubber, sugar cane, cotton, wheat, rice, pineapples, peaches—in fact, all the crops common to both the temperate and tropic zones. Cattle raising is an important industry of the republic, there now being more than 7,500,000 head on its spacious ranges.

Coffee Leading Product.

The most outstanding product of the country, however, is coffee. Colombia is the second largest coffee-producing nation, and its coffees are recognized as the finest in the world. That these coffees are rapidly gaining popularity in the United States is evidenced by the fact that Colombian exports of its famed grades, known as "milds," to this country have increased 30 per cent since 1927. According to statistics compiled by the United States Department of Commerce, Colombian coffees now represent 35 per cent of the value of the product imported into this country from all sources during 1931. America consumes more than nine-tenths of Colombia's entire coffee crop annually.

Although it lies in the tropic zone, Colombia enjoys practically every climate in the world—from summer heat to perpetual spring or perpetual winter. The country is crossed by three ranges of the Andean mountain system, which are designated as the Eastern, Central and Western Cordilleru.

Iced Coffee Becoming Popular Summer Drink

Because of its refreshing and invigorating qualities, iced coffee is becoming more popular every summer. If properly made, it is a delightful beverage.

Freshly made, steaming hot coffee should be poured into glasses filled with cracked ice, and either served clear or with cream and sugar. To compensate for the dilution caused by the melting ice, the coffee should be made a little stronger than usual, about 1½ tablespoons per cup suiting the average taste.

Coffee, because of its general appeal, also is being used in countless recipes, for the making of mousse, cakes, gelatine, salads and desserts.

Doubtless due to these varied new uses, as well as its increasing popularity as an all-year-round beverage in America, coffee consumption in the United States last year was 14.2 pounds per capita, the highest figure in history. Practically all of the coffee consumed in this country is grown in South America. More than one-fourth of the coffee imported for domestic consumption is grown in Colombia, which is the world's largest quantity producer of grades known as "milds," and ranks second in point of total production.

Vol. I. No. 22. Thursday, March 2, 1933

The hot lunch menu for the week of March 6 to 10 will be noodle soup and crackers Monday, cocoa and pudding Tuesday, roast pork and escalloped potatoes Wednesday, spanish rice and green beans Thursday, and buns and weiners Friday.

The girls lost their last game of the season to Hamilton 10-22. The St. Joe girls really played a better game of ball than their opponents, but strange baskets kept them from running up much of a score. The Hamilton girls are the champions of Steuben county so it isn't such a disgrace to lose to them.

The boys lost to Hamilton 15-35. Their next game will be at the tournament with Ashley next Friday afternoon at 1:00. The tournament will be at Garrett. St. Joe has a good chance of winning their first game. Let's give them our support.

The Junior High boys lost to the North Kaiser boys at the Junior High Tournament at Ashley by one point. After the boys had played two overtimes the final score was 14-15.

The Seniors are beginning to plan the closing events of the school year.

The Senior dinner last Friday was quite well patronized. All those attending reported an abundance of good eats.

The continued story, "Pierre's Revenge," which has been running in this column, will appear in the next issue.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

L. L. C.

The members of the Ladies Literary Club were very deleightfully entertained last Wednesday evening, when, escorted by their husbands or friends, they enjoyed a dinner party at the Hotel Butler.

The table appointments and menu were suggestive of Washington's birthday. While a very delicious dinner was being served and eaten, the guests were entertained by the famous "Jug Quartet," of Auburn, and later, by readings by Miss Helen Mayfield, also of Auburn. Miss Mayfield's selections included a one-act play concerning George Washington, and were very, very much appreciated.

After dinner the ladies and their hosts spent a pleasant hour recalling incidents, descriptions, family life, mititary prowess, and other things about George Washington. The party broke up at a late hour, and the ladies have decided that their husbands are still equal to carrying off a very successful party.

DEKALB TO HAVE THREE VOTES AT REPEAL CONVENTION

DeKalb county would be entitled to three delegates to the proposed state convention to pass on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by the terms of an administration measure pending in the general assembly.

The total number of delegates would be 414. Each county is given one delegate and "one additional delegate for each 10,000 population of such county, or major fraction thereof." Population figures are to be based on the 1930 census.

Allen county would have 16 delegates, Noble 3, Steuben 2, Lagrange 2, Whitley 3, Kosciusko 4, Adams 3, Wells 3, Lake 27, St. Joseph 17, Marion 43, Vigo 11 and Vanderburg 12, with other counties in proportion.

The bill also provides that the governor shall call an election to select delegates prior to May 20. The delegates would meet at the state house on the twenty-eighth day after the election.

FAREWELL FOR MR. AND MRS. S. C. MORR

A most delightful time was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Morr on Friday evening, February 24th, when a large number of friends and neighbors from the vicinity of Concord gathered to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Morr, who will on March 1st, become the new superintendent and matron of the DeKalb County Infirmary.

Music was enjoyed throughout the evening and at a late hour a delicious pot luck lunch was served, after which each guest wished Mr. and Mrs. Morr success with their new work.

SILBERG LOSES IN SUIT TO COLLECT NOTE

A finding for the defendants was entered in the DeKalb circuit court late Friday after a hearing on the suit of Frank W. Silberg against Walter W. and A. J. Custer and Walter Williams on a note.

The action involved a deal for a truck that the plaintiff sold to Walter W. Custer twelve years ago and for which he and the other defendants gave a note for $500. The defendants claim the plaintiff never delivered a certificate of title as agreed upon and that therefore a license to operate the truck could not be procured. The vehicle was not used.

Hartzell & Todd and Atkinson & Husselman are attorneys for the plaintiff, while Capt. W. T. Stump and W. W. Sharpless represent the defendants.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1933 NUMBER 10

ASKS RECEIVER FOR BUTLER FACTORY

A receivership for the Fur Products Co. of Butler, is demanded in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court by Lyston C. Harding and Capt. H. C. Springer.

The plaintiffs also are demanding an accounting of the corporation from the president, Ralph J. White, the secretary, Henry L. Tess, and the treasurer, Carrie E. White.

The capital of the concern is $10,000, of which the plaintiffs each own $1,500 and Ralph J. White, Henry L. Tess and Carrie E. White the balance. The products manufactured are leather jackets, blouses, slippers and other leather goods.

The complaint alleges that the defendants held an illegal meeting in September, 1931, without notice to the plaintiffs and voted to increase the salary of Ralph J. White from $125 to $200 a month and that of Henry L. Tess from $60 to $75 a month. This was done, it is claimed, regardless of the fact that the corporation was then operating at a large loss.

HARLAN METHODIST PROTESTANT REVIVAL SERVICES

The revival services which have been going on at the Harlan Methodist Protestant Church for the past two weeks, will continue for this week also. There will be services each evening at 7:30. Children's meetings will be held Wednesday, Friday, and Sunday evenings at 7:00. The Lord has graciously blessed in these services. A number have been saved and there has been good attendance. Help by your prayers and attendance.

GEORGE HART GIVEN A SURPRISE

The DeKalb County Jersey Cattlemen had a surprise party on George Hart at his home near St. Joe Wednesday, March 1st. Mr. Hart has been confined to his home all winter because of a broken arm and had been unable to attend any of the county meetings, so it was decided to surprise him and hold a meeting at his home. A potluck linner was served at noon.

In the afternoon a meeting was held and plans for the year's program and county show was discussed. It is thought that the show will be held at Butler again this year. In addition to the classes of cattle exhibited last year, there will be Dairy Herd class composed of one male of breeding age, two cows in milk and two heifers of breeding age, also a calf herd composed of three heifers and one bull under one year. There is some talk of also adding the three year old class of bulls. These classes will aid considerably to the show and will give the exhibitor a much better chance of showing the quality of his cattle.

Those attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. John Yarde, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ginther, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Myers, Frank Weller, Elias Ladd and Harry Steele.

BOY IN HANDS OF TRUSTEE RHODES

Virgil Kimes, of Spencerville, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of forgery Thursday afternoon, but Judge Endicott suspended a sentence of two to fourteen years in the reformatory.

Kimes was arrested Feb. 25 when he attempted to pass a bad check for $40 at the City National bank in Auburn. The check was drawn on the Spencerville bank in favor of Frank Johnson and purported to be signed by R. U. Bowser.

The youth admitted he had passed a number of other forged checks. His father and some friends asked the court to suspend the sentence and this was agreed upon provided restitution were made to those who had suffered losses. Money was secured for the purpose.

Before allowing Kimes his freedom, Judge Endicott warned him against playing cards for money or otherwise misbehaving. He was released into the custody of Frank Rhodes, trustee of Spencer township, to whom he will be accountable.

EX-HICKSVILLE MAN SUICIDES AFTER ARREST

Funeral services were held at Hicksville Monday at 2:30 for Wayne K. Hughes of Buffalo, N. Y., former Hicksville hardware dealer, who committed suicide by hanging himself in a cell at the county jail in Jefferson, Ohio.

Hughes, held by Jefferson authorities for Cattaraugus county, New York police on a charge of grand larceny, improvised a noose from his belt, according to authorities. He had been arrested in Jefferson Thursday.

The body of Hughes reached Hicksville Saturday, and his wife, a son, Vance and a son-in-law, Elbert Larkin, arrived previous.

Services were held at the Hosack funeral home, Dr. S. E. Brewster officiating. Burial took place in the Hughes vault at Forrest Home cemetery.

Mr. Hughes was in business in Hicksville for many years. Eight years ago, after bankruptcy proceedings, he left for Clarence, N. Y., later going to Buffalo. He was graduated from Hicksville high school in 1902.

STANLEY HOLLABAUGH WEDS CHICAGO LADY

Stanley Hollabaugh, who resides on the Wm. Hollabaugh farm, east of the Dills bridge, was recently united in marriage to Mrs. John Bronis, of Chicago, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Peckhart at Auburn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cravens of the Presbyterian Church.

Friends and neighbors gathered at the Hollabaugh home Monday evening and gave the couple an old fashioned belling, and wishing them the best of luck, and in return, candy was served to all the friends.

BANKING CONDITION LOOKING BETTER

With the removal of the last banking moratorium as issued by the federal banking department having been made Tuesday afternoon, we are now permitted to issue checks on deposits made since February 28, thus releasing some of the funds on deposit. But all moneys on deposit prior to the 28th, remains tied up, according to previous rulings.

P. T. A.

The final meeting of the P. T. A. was held in the Community Gymnasium on Tuesday evening of this week.

The speaker slated for the evening, Mr. Underwood, and who is of the State Bureau of Driver's Licenses and Public Safety, was unable, an account of sickness, to be present. Mr. Moeller, at the earnest solicitation of Prof. Cox, spoke in his stead, on a subject of vital interest to the school bus drivers as well as to those potrons whose children are dependent on this method of transportation to the schools. Of the five bus drivers but two were in attendance. Mr. Moeller called attention to the fact that 35 miles per hour is the limit allowed to drivers; and, furthermore, they must stop at all state road intersections, railroad and interurban crossings. He also stressed the importance of strict discipline being maintained over the conduct of his passengers by the driver, as boistrous conduct has led to dangerous consequences, by diverting the driver's attention from his duty of watching the road. In unloading his passengers, he should do this in a manner that will allow him to observe each and every passenger at all times.

Before the delivery of this talk, a highly amusing one act comedy was given by the faculty of the school, the title of which was, "Borrowing Trouble." To complete the cast required, Joe Woodcox assumed one of the parts.

At the conclusion of the entertainment feature, a short business session was held, in which the ordinary routine of business was followed.

The nominating committee, O. K. Shull, Mayola Kinsey, Miss Ditmars and Gertrude Borthwick, presented the following names:

For president, H. K. Schondelmeyer; 1st. vice president, Grace Dilley; 2nd. vice president, principal of high school; secretary, teacher of 5th. and 6th. grades; treasurer, Roy Reidenbach. There being no opposition, these persons were declared elected to serve the school term of '33 and '34.

ST. JOE COUPLE MARRIED AT McCOOL

Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, occurred the marriage of Mrs. Maude Monroe to Chas. A. Cochran, of St. Joe, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. E. Fifield, near McCool, Indiana. For the past four months, Mrs. Cochran had visited her sister and on Sunday they returned to her home in St. Joe, arriving about 6 o'clock. They have the very best wishes of the St. Joe people.

Monday evening the young folks gave them a belling and of course were treated.

"A pretty home wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at seven o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. Eugene Fifield, in Portage township, when her sister, Mrs. Maude Monroe, became the bride of Charles Cochran, of St. Joe, Ind. Rev. Williams, pastor of the Wheeler-McCool Methodist Churches, performed the ceremony in the presence of twenty-five relatives and friends. The couple was attended by Attorney and Mrs. Walter Crisman, John Fifield and Miss Evelyn Samuelson. A reception followed the ceremony, and refreshments were served."—Valparaise Videt.

THOU CANST NOT BEAT IT

Consider the editor: A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in town. The physician getteth 10 plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremo.

Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in the paper a sthweil piece. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdow of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she, and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor gets a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate. Like heck he does.

And the daughter goeth on a journey, and the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picketh one and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and gettetn away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold, the bids are fashioned in a far city.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth his bit.

The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof of the dead, and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. He has to apologize, and they pulleth out their ads and conceleth their their subs, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations.

FAIR AND REASONABLE

There is nothing to prevent business from governing itself by agreed rules. All that is required is the will on the part of those involved. If men in business really wish to settle their own disputes, and manage their own affairs without appeal to courts of law, there is no reason why they can not do so. But there is the rub.

As a nation we have fallen so completely into the habit of looking to government departments, commissions, boards, courts, or other devices to regulate everything, that we are predisposed not to exert ourselves. We want somebody to assume our responsibilities.

Perhaps it would be a good thing for business to assume the job of its own regulations. A little less wishbone and a lot more backbone might be a valuable alteration, not only for Amercan business, but for the millions of people of America.

FAMILY REUNIONS

Time was when a family reunion was a matter of long preparation and much planning. Nowadays the member charged with the secretarial duty sends out the postcards, the women of the households get busy with the picnic dinner, and on the morning of the appointed day the various scattered families hitch up their old flivvers and hop to it. The Family Reunion is more popular than the Sunday School picnic.

Pride in a family name is usually back of these gatherings of the clans. As our American civilization takes on age, men think more of their forefathers and the part they played in the building of the great structure we call America.

Sometimes the descendants and relatives by marriage go back to the ancestral home, assembling at the call of the secretary for a day of jollification each summer in the open. College professors and farmers pitch quoits as partners. The woman of fashion sits down to talk over family affairs with her cousin the seamstress. There is such a mingling of personalities and social ranks as makes for good democracy, and those who participate are the better Americans for their annual reunions with those of blood relationship whose walks in life are usually so far removed they never meet except on these occasions.

THE POOR DRUGGIST

Al G. Feeney, temporary excise director under the new State liquor control act, received, by mail more than 250 requests from Indiana druggists for state permits to dispense medicinal whiskey.

"These druggists must obtain their federal permits before state permits can be granted," says Feeney.

Many people, it can be seen, by the large number who have applied for this permit, have a wrong conception of the powers of state to act upon this matter.

The acts of federal legislators, as well as of those of the state, is but the initial step toward repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and, until this is accomplished by the Constitutional Conventions, called by the several states, the Eighteenth Amendment, and all statutory acts of Congress pursuant thereof, remain in force as the law of the land.

Many druggists do not wish to become dispensers of medicinal whiskey, even under the law. Far more, it would seem, do wish that privilege. It is not unfair, we believe, to assume the reason is easy to ascertain, in view of the past record of some druggists who dispensed this beverage, in the halycon days of the wet regime.

To assume that many druggists would not violate a law that calls for the filling of bona fide prescriptions, for medicinal use only, is tantamount to saying, that they have experienced a change of heart, something that would severely tax the credulity of the most ordinary men.

We do not hesitate to say, that, by far and large, the greatest number of those who seek the enthronement of liquor, after the years of banishment, do so from purely mercenary motives. All signs point to this as the objective, the ultimate end.

HEADLIGHTS

Headlight blindness is one of the most dangerous hazards of night motoring, a hazard not only to the occupants of automobiles and to property, but to the pedestrian. In fact, walking at night along state roads or even the more remote thoroughfores is a matter of taking one's life in one's hands and might well be termed "The Suicide Club."

To the conscientious driver of an automobile glaring headlights are a source of torment. He sees two moons approaching him down the road. On they come growing into two shafts of light and finally lose their individual identities as they bear down upon the tense driver. For a matter of seconds there is nothing visible before him but a fog of light. That interval of light blindness is enough, however, to leave death and destruction in its path.

Few drivers in these times are so careful that they will bring their cars to a stop at the approach of glaring headlights. It is not to be wondered at that there are so few, for a pilot cautious enough to stop for the passage of blinding lights would soon find that he had better stayed at home so far as progress on his journey was concerned.

Despite crusades against the glaring headlight the menace continues.

RIGHTS AND DUTIES

Our faith in freedom is based on the belief that every human soul has its own sovereign rights—rights that are not merely granted by society but are an essential of the human character. Since society is nothing apart from the men and women of which it is fashioned, it can never ignore this right of freedom without courting its own destruction.

Yet this freedom is not the freedom for men to do as they please. Even in primitive society this freedom is denied, and the complex demands of civilization deny it in a thousand ways. When men agree to live together for the sake of work or happiness, they set limits to their behavior and agree to live beneath a code and law.

Yet the right of freedom remains. It a right not to natural but to spiritual freedom. Its most vital doctrine is that men have the right to think as they please.

Man as a member of society has duties rather than rights. As an individual his rights are supreme. The problem of society is to appoint to each man his duties while scrupulously protecting his rights. For in the right of men to think as they please lies the only hope for the endurance and perfection of society.

Chicago will elect a new mayor in June. This is made necessary by the death of Mayor Cermak, the victim of an assassin bullet, fired by Guiseppe Zangara, Feb. 15, at Miama, Fla., aimed at President elect,Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Many DeKalb county farmers were surprised when cutting their corn last fall to find that they had a more serious infestation of cinch bugs than they had had for several years. Cinch bugs live over the winter along fence rows and in other places where there is sufficient cover to protect them. Farmers who had trouble with cinch bugs last fall should plan to burn their fence rows this spring in order to kill the cinch bugs.

Despite repeal of the state prohibition law, Elkhart, Ind., will remain dry, Mayor William P. Krau and Prosecutor James R. Nyce declared Thursday. The two officials said that violations of the national prohibition act will be reported to federal prohibition agents and will not be tolerated. They declared that city police and deputy sheriffs will be instructed to co-operate with the federal dry agents. And what will Governor McNutt say to this?

Many farmers looking for supplies of fence posts at less cost, are asking the State Agricultural colleges about the best species of trees to plant. Farmers are showing unusual interest in preserving and developing farm woodlands to Maintain supplies of lumber, fuel, and posts for farm use, and in this way keeping the cash outlay for these materials. Among the species recommended for planting for post timber are black locust, mulberry, Osage orange and red cedar.

The salary of the DeKalb county prosecuting attorney was fixed at $2,000 by the terms of a bill that passed the state senate Saturday. The salary at the present time is $1,703, having been reduced from $1,800 by action of the legislature last summer. The legislatur recently passed a bill to raise the salary to $2,325, but an amendment adopted Saturday makes it $2,000. The salaries of all the prosecutors in the state are affected by the new legislation, reductions in pay being made in many of the larger districts of the state.

In the hospitals of the United States there are more patients suffering from mental diseases than all other diseases combined, according to an article in the Reader's Digest. Also, according to this article, if you are past age fifteen there is about one chance in twenty that sooner or later you will be an asylum patient. And, the average length of each patient's life is seven years.

When an average automobile travels at the rate of 55 miles per hour it uses seven times as much oil as when driven thirty miles per hour and, according to the Chicago Motor Club, the gasoline consumption is one-fourth more. Last year in a very careful test, a friend of ours driving a 1932 model of a standard make automobile found at 25 miles per hour his car made 21 miles to the gallon of gasoline; at 45 it made 14 miles, and at 65 to 70 miles per hour only 11 miles per gallon.

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 60 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months; 2 pounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk 3 to 4 feet high, and just loaded with leaves.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Saburijima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation, often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 30 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent feed for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 18 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.
Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—5 Pkts. 50c—dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

PRODUCTION OF FINE COFFEES NATIONAL PRIDE OF COLOMBIA

Weeding Plantation (above); Transplanting Coffee Shrub (right).

CHICAGO.—Fine coffee growing is to the Republic of Colombia what thoroughbred horse raising is to England—a national pride.

There are now more than 400,000,000 coffee trees, which bear close to a half billion pounds of the product annually, in that republic, which is the largest producer of the world's finest grades, known as "milds."

The seeds for new growths are selected with scrupulous care and the most modern cultivation methods are used by the coffee planters in Colombia. Coffee experimental farms have been established throughout the republic by the National Federation of Coffee Growers to benefit the planters in solving cultivation problems.

The coffee is first planted in a seed bed, later transplanted in a nursery, and finally when about 1½ feet high the growths are placed in prepared groves at a distance of 6 to 10 feet apart. Colombian coffee groves are located in altitudes ranging between 2,500 and 6,500 feet above sea level. Permanent shading of the groves—a highly important factor—is provided by the use of "guamo" and acacia trees, which absorb very little moisture from the soil and permit the penetration of sufficient sunlight so essential to coffee growths.

The coffee trees, which grow to a height of 14 to 20 feet, are kept pruned to 6 to 8 feet. They begin to bear when five years old. In Colombia, only the ripest (deep red) cherries of the coffee trees are harvested. The cherries are hand-picked, not stripped, from the branches. They are then cleaned and prepared for market by washing.

Practically all the better blends and brands of coffee depend upon their Colombian content for flavor and aroma. The United States imports approximately 350,000,000 pounds of Colombian coffee annually.

"Iron Crown" of Italy

The ancient crown of Lombardy is a broad circle of gold set with large rubies, emeralds and sapphires on a ground of blue and gold enamel. A narrow band of iron three-eighths of an inch wide and one-tenth of an inch thick is attached around the inside of the circle and is said to have been originally one of the nails used in the cross on which Christ was crucified. Empress Helena, said to be the discoverer of the cross, gave the nail to her son Constantine to protect him in battle. This bit of iron, exposed for 1,500 years, has not a trace of rust on it. The earliest notice of this famous crown is that it was used to crown a king of Normandy in 591. Napoleon crowned himself king of Italy with it in 1805.

Spelling of "Hare-Brained"

The original and correct form of the word is "hare-brained." It means flighty, skittish or reckless and refers to the characteristics of a hare. "Mad as a March hare" had a somewhat similar origin. A wild, heedless, foolish, volatile or giddy person is said to be hare-brained because he has or shows no more brains or sense than a hare or rabbit. The word is sometimes incorrectly written "hair-brained," even by reputable writers, and that spelling, which began to occur before the year 1800, has led many to seek a different origin of the term.

Death by Electricity

It usually takes a tenth of an ampere through the vital organs to kill a man, but under some conditions a current of electricity only one-quarter as strong will do so. There is a wide variation in the amount of current necessary to kill for different individuals. To electrocute criminals 4,000 volts are used. If the skin is wet, a much lower voltage may have this effect. Many cases are known in which 110 volts applied to the wet skin, so as to produce a current through the vital organs, have caused death.

Unfeminine Occupations

The census bureau lists many occupations in which it is unusual for women to be employed. Some of these are: Blacksmith, baggage man, boilermaker, brakeman, butcher, conductor on the railroad, coppersmith, electrician, locomotive engineer or fireman, fireman in the fire department, forester, garbage man, hostler, pilot, plumber, railway mail clerk, stone mason, street cleaner and tinsmith.

Five-year-old Dorothy, who was a frequent visitor at a neighbor's home, was telling of a new plaid dress that her mother was making. When asked what her new dress was going to be trimmed with she replied:

"With the scissors, of course."

Cousinly Relationship

If one starts out right, the reckoning of cousin relationship is really quite simple. A cousin is one collaterally related by descent from a common ancestor, but not a brother or sister. Children of brothers and sisters are first cousins to one another. The children of first cousins are second cousins to one another; children of second cousins are third cousins to one another, and so on. The child of one's first cousin is a first cousin once removed; the grandchild of one's first cousin is a first cousin twice removed, and so on. And vice versa, the cousin of one's father or mother is a first cousin once removed, etc.

Edison's Wonder Work

When Edison entered the jungle of earth's elemental forces, the carbon arc-light of Sir Humphrey Davy and Faraday was sending its first uncertain blue flashes across the world's night. It sputtered like a short circuit and sometimes behaved as temperamentally as lightning. The night of the world, except for this crude device, was lighted by tallow, oil and gas. All of earth's illuminants, compared with sunlight, were no more than a burning match.—Exchange.

Orange Juice for Heartburn.

The nicest remedy yet found for heartburn or indigestion is a glass of orange juice sipped slowly. The stomach says "thank you" the minute it greets the first mouthful. Try it instead of soda and get the habit; it will never be one that you will care to break.

DUTCH RIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yoder will locate in Huntertown in the near future.

Mrs. L. H. Rinehold is not improving as her case is very serious.

The church and Sunday School have had a good attendance during the entire winter.

Everybody should appreciate the moderate winter weather which is saving on the coal pile, and spring is in the near future.

The assessors are making their drive and are reducing valuation on all property but horses which are golden images this spring, as they are very scarce and in great demand.

Everybody should extend their congratulations to the new President of the United States with honor and respect as he has got a man's job to care for under present financial conditions in general. Many mothers have seen their sons go to prison or electric chair, but what joy for Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt to see her son take the Presidential Chair.

Somebody looted the Ridge Church recently and took the pulpit bible, a Coleman lamp and some coal. They are useful property.

The maple syrup season is on but not very extensive as fuel is expensive and the price will be reduced according to everything else.

The Twelfth District of the Indiana Congress of Parents and Teachers will hold an all day conference on Parent-Teacher work at the Consolidated School, Avilla, Wednesday March 15.

The morning session, devoted principally to reports of work will begin at 9:30. Luncheon will be served at 12:00 o'clock. During the afternoon, the state president, Mrs. W. J. Music will be under the direction of Mrs. Lida Stage of Butler.

The number of Parent-Teacher members in Indiana is steadily increasing. Superintendents and teachers over the state are realising more and more the benefits to be derived from the co-operation between the home and school. Our present membership is over 36,000; an increase of more than 15,000 in the last six years.

Mrs. M. E. Regedanz, of R. R. 3, Fort Wayne is chairman of the district and any one interested in Parent-Teacher work may write to Mrs. Regedanz for information. Other district officers are: Mrs. C. O. Krise, Auburn, vice chairman and treasurer; Mrs. E. B. Noble, Fort Wayne, secretary.

Washington, D. C., March 4th.—Immediately after the inauguration of President Roosevelt Congressman and Mrs. David Hogg left this city for Fort Wayne.

Mr. Hogg, in leaving Congress said: "I believe the new administration will do everything possible to better conditions. In my judgment, a Federal guaranty of bank deposits such as passed the House of Representatives, the elimination of the non-taxable bond evil as provided for in my proposed amendment, a return of just bank credit, and a reduction of local, state and national expenditures, and a square deal for the farmer will do much to hasten the return of prosperity."

Congressman Hogg will engage exclusively in the practice of law with Judge George H. Leonard, who for several years was Judge of the Supreme Court in Allen County.

SMITH

Ira Smith, 81, of Spencer township, died Tuesday at his home east of Spencerville from influenza. Surviving are the widow, three children, Elmer Smith, William Smith and Mrs. Hattie Bauman, all living near Spencerville. The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Scipio M. E. Church with J. N. Scholes of St. Joe in charge. Burial will be made in the Scipio cemetery.

Vol. 1. No. 23. Thursday, March 9, 1933

The basket ball season is over and the players will turn their attention to classes for a time—until baseball season opens. St. Joe lost to Ashley in the tournament 31 to 20. Now all the worries and pleasures of basket ball are over for another year.

Robert Wiers won in the foul shooting contest for the boys and Beatrice Storer won in the girls contest. As a reward, Robert received a gold basket ball and Beatrice a silver one.

The non-basket ball group have not completed their contest but the winner of that will receive a bronze basket ball.

Several new scholars have been enrolled in the St. Joe school. Gwenere Jenkins has entered the first grade, George Harris the fifth, James Harris the sixth, and Marjorie Gee the seventh.

The Sophomores lost one of their members when Kitchens moved into Spencer township. Gertrude will be missed by her classmates and friends.

Miss Helen Ditmars and Miss Priscilla Borthwick enjoyed the weekend in Chicago with friends and relatives.

Pierre's Revenge

The Story So Far: Miss Evelyn Darling, a rich heiress from New York, has been kidnapped by Pierre, the outlaw, and left tied with her fiance in a cabin. As the story opens today Pierre and his sister, Nanook, have left the cabin with the doors open so that the couple will freeze.

As they were talking to each other in an effort to make themselves believe they would be rescued before it was too late, an eerie howling was borne to the cabin by the wind.

"Larry! What was that? Are those howls made by a wolf pack?" asked Evelyn.

"It's nothing but the wind, dear," said Larry hurriedly in an effort to draw her attention from the howling.

"What is that grey shape by the door? Oh, Larry, I feel like screaming, laughing, and crying all at once," whispered Evelyn.

Just as she finished speaking, a shot rang out, and the grey figure at the door crumpled and fell in a limp heap.

"Who could that be? It is impossible for the police to be here yet, and there isn't another shack within a day's walk," reasoned Larry.

As he finished speaking, Nanook appeared in the doorway with a smoking rifle in her hand.

"Nanook, you? I thought you rode away with Pierre," said Evelyn wonderingly, as if she could hardly believe Nanook wasn't a ghost.

As Nanook cut their bonds with her hunting knife, she said, "While Pierre slept tonight, I got on my horse and came back to ask you if you knew where my brother is."

Nanook, you must be brave. You're brother was found in a snowbank three days ago with a knife in his back, and Pierre is wanted for his murder," said Larry haltingly.

"Are you sure there is no mistake, Mr. Randolph?" asked Nanook anxiously.

"No, the police have definite evidence of Pierre's guilt. Now that your brother is dead, and Pierre is gone would you like to go back to civilization with us?" asked Larry.

"Here, Larry, put on these snowshoes and let's start for the hotel," begged Evelyn.

As they bent to lace their snowshoes, Nanook slipped from the cabin and galloped away.

"Why, where is Nanook? She was here a moment ago. Where could she have gone," asked Evelyn breathlessly.

Larry answered thoughtfully, "I don't think you'll need to worry about Nanook. She's gone to take revenge for her brother's murder, and when they find Pierre, I think it will be too late."

ITEMS ABOUT ST. JOE

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Lillian Buckingham Thursday afternoon. A cordial invitation is extended to every lady in the church.

We understand that the universal hunting and fishing license law passed the legislature last week, making it compulsory for every person fishing or hunting to carry a license.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. P. Church will meet Thursday in an all day session at the home of Mrs. Elnora Blue. Pot luck dinner will be served at the noon hour, and the ladies of the church are especially urged to attend.

Signs of spring are many: On every hand the robin is hoping about, cheerful, fat and industrious; farmers are plowing; trash is being burned or hauled away; yards raked of the winter's debris and some have made a little garden.

Mrs. Lillian Buckingham was a Friday guest of Mrs. Gladys Cox.

PAY TAX ON INTANGIBLES NEXT MONTH

First collection of the tax on intangibles imposed by the Indiana General Assembly at its 1933 session will be made early in April according to information received by Chas. Miser, DeKalb county Assessor, from Philip Zoercher, chairman of the state board of tax commissioners.

Stamps to be used in payment of the special tax on intangibles will probably be in the hands of county treasurers of the state by April 1. The owners of intangibles must purchase the necessary number of stamps and affix them within ten days after the stamps are received by the treasurer. Stamps amounting to 25 cents for each $100 of value of the intangibles must be affixed. Intangible property is to be exempt from general taxation as a result of the special tax.

Text of Communication

Following is the letter received by Mr. Miser from the tax board chairman:

"The first page of the personal property schedule form No. 1, lists all intangible items of personal property. All items on this page are to be disregarded by assessors as the Intangible Law, passed by the Legislature, effective February 28, 1933 provides for the taking of intangibles by another method.

"Item No. 51 on the third page of the personal property schedule lists stocks in foreign corporations and this item is to be disregarded and considered as an intangible.

"Within 10 days after the intangible tax stamps have been distributed to the county treasurers, the taxpayer will be required to pay the tax by affixing the collection of the stamps and an affidavit filed with the assessor by the taxpayer that such tax has been paid. The board hopes to have the stamps in the hands of the county treasurers about April 1."

WATERLOO DAIRYMAN HAS HIGH HERD

Arthur Grogg, of Waterloo had high herd for the month of February. His 11 Jersey cows produced an average of 787lbs. of milk and 41.1lbs. of butter fat.

Mr. Chas. J. Aldrich, of Corunna had second high herd. His herd of 16 Guernsey cows and heifers produced an average of 824lbs. of milk and 39.3lbs. of B. F. for the month.

Larry Brandon & Son had third high herd for the month. His 12 Jrseys averaged 724lbs. of milk and 38.9lbs. of B. F.

F. E. Weller & Son had high cow for the month. Their "Daisy" cow produced 1451bs. milk and 65.3lbs. B. F.

Oak Husselman, of Auburn had second high cow. His "Pretty" cow produced 1086lbs. of milk and 61.9lbs. of B. F.

There were 16 cows in the association that produced 50lbs. or better of butter fat for the month.

Larry Brandon & Son had first and second high heifers for the month. Their "Julip" heifer produced 42.5lbs. of B. F. and their "Trilby" heifer produced 41.5lbs. of B. F.

The association produced an average of 565lbs. milk and 31.2lbs. B. F. for the month of February. This is a very good average for the short month.

OBITUARY

On February 22, 1852 in Portage County, Ohio, there was born to Levi and Harriet Robb Smith a son, Ira Eugene. At 2 years of age, he with his parents, came to live on the "Smith Homestead" now owned by Warren Smith, nephew of the deceased.

On September 17, 1876 he was united in marriage to Lois Darliska Moore. To this union were born three children, Mrs. Harriet D. Bauman, William L. Smith and Elmer E. Smith, all of Spencerville, Ind. Over fifty-five years of married life were spent on the farm where he passed into eternity on March 7, 1933, having reached the age of 81 years, and 13 days.

To bring joy and fill with interest, to this home were given four grandsons, three granddaughters, five great granddaughters and one great grandson. One granddaughter and one great grandson preceded him in death. We realize more than ever, God will not leave us comfortless. The wife, sons and daughter, grandchildren and great grandchildren and many friends can still say, "Thy will, not ours, be done."

The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock from the Scipio M. E. Church with J. N. Scholes of St. Joe in charge. Burial was made in the Scipio cemetery.

Why must I weep, when others sing?
"To test the depth of suffering."
Why must I work, while others rest?
"To spend my strength at God's request."
Why must I lose, while others gain?
"To understand defeat's sharp pain."
Why must this lot of life be mine
When that which fairer seems is thine?
"Because God knows what plans for me Shall blossom in eternity."

CARD OF THANKS

We express our hearty thanks to our neighbors and friends for their many kind acts, shown us during our bereavement.

The Family.

OUR MISTAKE

In reporting the marriage of Stanley Hollabaugh last week, The News had him married to the wrong lady, and of course in order to make him absolutely sure, we make the correction. The fortunate lady's name was Mrs. Emily Doubraw, of Minnesota, and the name of her daughter, Mrs. John Bronis, was used as the bride, and she already has a husband. In order to square ourselves with all three of the parties, we apologize.

There is one thing about being an editor, he prints his mistakes and hurls them into the face of the world, while mistakes of others are sometimes buried.

IT'S NOT FLY TIME

Commentinng on the slimness of daily newspapers, Monday is slim because of nothing on Sunday, people can't afford to drive their cars, hence, no news for daily papers; today, because of bank vacation, Wm. Randall said: "Look how thin this paper is. You couldn't even swat a fly with it."

Mr. and Mrs. George Haverstock and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Canaan and two children, of Elkhart, Ind., were Sunday guests of Mrs. Viena Rude and family.

JUNIOR DRAMATIC CLUB ORGANIZE IN ST. JOE

For the past years St. Joe has had a dramatic organization, that has attracted attention in the surrounding community, and now we have a junior organization, ages ranging from 10 to 15 years. The officers were elected last Friday night at the Ersa Reiednbach home as follows:

President, Jean Ridgway.
Vice President, Clara Wiers.
Sec.-Treas., Eloise Coburn.

The membership dues were placed at 5 cents and the weekly dues at 1 cent. The organization will meet weekly on Friday evenings and have programs, with a ten minute play each time. At present they have ten members, and all members below 12 years are initiated when joining the organization.

Tomorrow night the girls will meet with Christina Zonker as hostess, assisted by Jean and Eloise.

HEAVY RAIN STORM

The heaviest rain in years visited here Monday afternoon and evening. Cellars were flooded, tile drains were taxed to their capacity and every stream was soon over its bank. The bottom land at the east side of town is a regular lake, the first in several years. To give an idea of the amount of rainfall, the pool in the editor's back yard contained 16 inches of water, and when full 22 inches brings it to the overflow—some rain. The gravel and state roads were ruined in many places, trains were running late due to damaged tracks. A slight hail storm came in the evening at the close of the shower. Wind damages were reported near Fort Wayne, when the Missionary Church and grain elevator at Yoder, were completely destroyed.

Mrs. Viena Rude and two children spent Sunday evening with Dewey Miller and family at Newville.

DuWayne Kinsey was home from Bloomington over Sunday, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey.

The selection of Congressman J. I. Farley of Auburn, as a member of the house banking and currency committee was an unusual recognition for a new member of congress. The committee promises to be one of the most important of the present extra session.

Mrs. Alice Lewis, of Auburn, celebrated her 80th birthday Friday. She served dinner to a number of her friends and others called in the afternoon, among them was Mrs. Jennie Sechler of St. Joe. The ladies had an enjoyable time together. Mrs. Lewis is well known here.

BANKING SITUATION CLEARING RAPIDLY

With the opening of the larger banks of the nation being ordered daily by the government, confidence is being restored. Their opening will be in the order of their importance to the nation and states busines in generaly, and it is only natural that the smaller banks will be the last to receive permits to operate.

With the new permit to open the banks, depositors can rest assured that their money will be intact at all times, and must be available at all times, subject to the customer's check or withdrawal, thus the bank is acting for such deposits as a trustee only. Should the deposits become excessive, as we understand, the bank may purchase government bonds, so that ready cash may be secured, almost immediately, in case of necessity.

When the banks are permitted to open, all deposits will be kept separate from the customers previous account, until the restrictions are fully withdrawn by the government.

All the speed you want when you COOK ELECTRICALLY

TODAY'S electric range, like the automobile, has been accelerated to meet present-day requirements . . . electricity is the fastest thing in the world and years of engineering research have finally released this magic speed for cooking purposes.

The modern electric element brings glowing, intense heat into direct contact with the cooking utensils with a minimum of lost heat. One turn of the control switch and the high speed units almost instantly respond.

This year's automobile has stream lines for wind resistance and the modern electric range has automatic control for drudgery resistance. Time to do the things you want to do while your meals cook—perfectly—speeds up your whole list of accomplishments and opens a world of new pleasures for the housewife.

The new ranges are here! Come and see them.

To Our Depositors and Customers:

We deeply regret that financial conditions, now national, have forced us, together with all other banks, to conduct business with great restrictions, and we hope that conditions may adjust themselves at an early time and thus permit us to resume banking in the customary manner. This Bank greatly appreciates the confidence shown in this Bank during the present depression, and we hope that our customers and depositors will continue to extend to us the same confidence and good will to the end that conditions may be worked out to the mutual advantage of our customers and depositors and the community in general.

Mr. Cox Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. Gladys Cox served a delicious chicken dinner to the high school teachers last Thursday evening in honor of her husband's thirty-fifth birthday. The teachers passed a very enjoyable evening, and wished Mr. Cox many more happy birthdays.

Several more new scholars have entered the St. Joe school. Don Monroe, a Sophomore, and Willis Monroe, a Freshman, will come from Butler; Frances Close, a member of the 7th grade, has moved from Ashley; and Virginia Poper, from Jackson, Michigan, will also enter the seventh grade.

Mr. Price, Superintendent of Butler High School, called on Mr. Cox at the school Monday morning.

The Seniors are ordering their invitation cards from the local printing office. The present list of Seniors that are planning to graduate this Spring are Enid Curie, Mary Jane Curie, Kenneth Gaff, Walter Gee, Marshall Morr, James Reddy, Reign Schondelmeyer, Ned Shull, Beatrice Storer, Dorotha Wasson, Robert Wiers, and John Woodcox.

Miss Helen Goodwin, spent over the weekend with Miss Iris Jackson.

The twelve basket ball girls who finished this season were invited to the home of Miss Borthwick last Sunday for a chicken dinner. There seemed to be nothing wrong with the appetites, and everyone had her fill of chicken.

After dinner the girls took their coach to Auburn to a show. Needless to say, everyone had a good time.

The Hot Lunch for next week will be potato soup on Monday, cocoa and custard on Tuesday, roast beef, dressing, and green beans on Wednesday, chili and sandwiches on Thursday, and buns and weiners on Friday.

Distance lends enchantment to a debt.

No woman is an old maid until she admits it.

No self-made man ever left out the working parts.

Misery loves company. They come and go together.

Spring always visits a few times before coming to stay.

A man who falls in love with himself never has any rivals.

Best way to improve the postal service is to stop mailing bills.

A perfect lady never chews tobacco in public or shoots any man unless he is her husband.

Our prediction of the hottest summer ever is based on the fact that all summers are that hot.

BIRTHDAYS

On the household calendar there is no more important event than birthday anniversaries of the children. Times and customes change and it is said the home is not what it used to be, but a child's birthday anniversary still remains a red-letter day.

Of course there are birthday presents and great confusion during the administration of one spank or tug of the ear for every year the little heir or heiress has been in the household. And sometimes the occasion is celebrated with a birthday party.

Every fond parent knows it is out of tune to punish Little Bobby on his birthday, so the day is inaugurated with solemn vows that no matter what he does there are to be no scoldings or whippings that day.

Unfortunately the juvenile hero of the day has more reasons for being naughty on his birthday than at other times. He is excited and full of energy. He cannot understand why he cannot have his own way since it is his birthday party. And he is quick to discover that the bars of parental discipline have been lowered for this day.

Youthful minds do not distinguish between liberty and license. Nor do they realize that there are other rewards for being good than security from punishment. If the parental vows of the morning are broken one usually knows where to place the responsibility.

A birthday anniversary without temper or tears is ardently to be desired, but seldom realized. For though the honored one may have been a gift from the gods, his conduct is most human even on the anniversaries of his presentation.

FAT AND SKINNY

Getting thin or getting fat. How those two bugaboos do hang over the American people. Verily no blue law could cause more discomfort.

Mary adores chocolates, but she'll tell you mournfully that she can't eat them because she's getting too fat.

Dad doesn't mind his big paunch, but so darned many people say, "You aren't so slim as you used to be, are you Jim?" that in desparation he takes to gym, suffers the tortures of using long unused muscles, and lives on a slice of toast and water just to put the silencer on that "getting fat" speech.

And how the fat ones do envy the thin ones who the doctor orders to drink lots of milk, eat beefsteak and all the candy they want.

But suppose you are a thin one and hate milk? Still you will suffer the nauseating stuff just so you won't have to hear people say "My goodness, girl, you're nothing but a wraith."

Somehow or other, one can't help thinking that old Gibbon, who wrote "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," is to be envied for his courage. The doctor told him, so far the story goes, that he'd die if he kept on getting fatter. He required a specially built chair big enough for two ordinary folk. But he said he'd be darned if he'd give up eating the way he wanted to, and so he died, glorying in his fatness.

THE SPRING HABIT

Spring is an untiring miracle, no less so today than when men were more inevitably concerned with the seasonal moods of mother earth. The ancient mystery is renewed each year by which rich life and color and eager growth spring again from the winter-locked land. A few days of kindly sun and the resurrection is begun, the life restores, the world renewed with beauty.

Life endures the winter but blossoms with the spring. All things good and full of promise answer the warm welcome of a friendly sun. Because nature is grown again, the world is once more fruitful.

From this seasonal certainty we may pick a lesson. Men likewise grow better and work better in good weather. Hard times and harsh discipline, whether of men or circumstances, may test and toughen endurance and stiffen courage and fiber, but growth and usefulness flourish better in the warmth of good will and kindliness. These are the spring tonic of human life, which can awaken all its hidden powers and riches. We grow better, work better and are in all ways happier in the habit of mutual encouragement and the widespread warmth of genuine good will.

OH, HOW LONG!

How long will it be until there is no longer even free air? Until we all must pay for the privilege of breathing of Indiana's atmosphere? Until we will see people on the streets with clothespins on on their noses and know they are on the delinquent tax list and have had their air shut off?

VISITS RELATIVES IN ILLINOIS LAST WEEK

News that is news is news, and Mrs. Addie Koch claims to hold that record. She had not been out of town for months until last week when her father, Mr. C. E. Thorpe came from Toledo and took the Kochs on a little trip to Gillman and Kankakee, Ill., and by return to South Bend, where they visited relatives. It's the unusual things that make news.

TWO WEEKS SPENT IN EASTERN OHIO

Mrs. Susie Scholes is home after a two weeks visit in eastern Ohio, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ulm of Butler. They first visited East Sparta, Ohio, where Rev. and Mrs. Hubert Smith live. Mrs. Smith will be remembered as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ulm. They visited Frank Ulm at Mansfield, O., found him working every day, and also visited a sister, Mrs. Minnie Circle at Springfield. Other points in Ohio were visited by Mrs. Scholes in visiting her relatives. She returned home considerably worn out but thoroughly enjoyed every day of the trip.

SPENCERVILLE MAN IS HURT

Auto Accident Nearly Proves Fatal to C. G. Appleman, Principal of Spencerville High School

PULLED FROM CAR AS DEAD

Rushed to Souders Hospital—Rallies at Times and Hopes for Recovery Entertained

Walker's Corners, east of Auburn, on the Auburn-Butler road was the scene of another bad automobile accident at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

C. G. Appleman, 40, a teacher in the Spencerville high school is in a serious condition at the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital in Auburn. He was nearly scalped in the accident and he received some concussions of the scalp.

At 4 o'clock the condition of Mr. Appleman was extremely critical. His chances for recovery are believed slight. He was unconscious. His physician would make no prediction as to the outcome but stated that he had hopes that the injured teacher might show some signs of rallying if he survived the day.

Mr. Appleman, driving a 1930 Chevrolet coupe to which was attached a four wheel trailer, was going north. From the east Albert Albright, a mechanic employed at the Buick Sales at the corner of Eighth and Jackson Sts. in Auburn, was driving his 1927 Buick sedan. Mr. Albright had the right of way. The two cars crashed at the center of the intersection. Both were thrown to the northwest corner of the intersection where they stopped at a fence. The Buick struck the Chevrolet directly in the middle.

It is said that Mr. Appleman apparently disregarded a slow and stop sign on the north and south road at the dangerous crossing where a number of serious accidents have occurred. Mr. Albright tried to stop his car in order to avoid the crash as marks on the road show where his Buick skidded about forty feet before it hit the other car. Mr. Albright was not injured.

Chief of Police Charles Davis was called from Auburn and he called over long distance telephone to Lagrange. The permit in the container in Mr. Appleman's car showed that his residence was in Springfield township, Lagrange county. The police chief learned from Lagrange officers that Mr. Appleman was teaching in Spencerville and that his wife was there. Dr. Ben O. Shook of Spencerville, the county coroner, was summoned by persons thinking Mr. Appleman had been killed.

The Chevrolet was taken to the Holben Auto Co. on East Seventh Street a complete wreck. The front end of Mr. Albright's Buick was badly damaged. The radiator was jammed back, the left front fender was buckled and the entire left side of the body and the two doors are out of alignment.

Trustee Rhodes stated he thot perhaps Mr. Appleman was enroute to Lagrange farm, to get some grain for his poultry feeding, as he was raising chickens at his Spencerville home.

Mr. Jesse Flemming, of Auburn was secured by Mr. Rhodes to assume the principalship of the school, possibly for the remainder of the school term. Mr. Flemming had previously taught in the Spencerville school and is acquainted with many of the patrons and students.

MURRAY ERICK WRITES FROM LOS ANGELES

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Erick, of Spencerville, this week received a letter from their son, Murray, who is a consulting engineer at Los Angeles, located at 811 W. Seventh St., and were kind enough to offer it for publication. Since the quake, many have been wondering about the conditions, and these lines will be authentic:

Thursday A. M., 6 o'clock.
Dear Dad and Mother:

"Hope you haven't been sitting on pins waiting to hear from me since the quake near here and to some extent here.

"At six minutes of six P. M. last Friday we were at dinner when we felt it. I went to Long Beach that evening getting there about 9:30 and got back home about 3:00 A. M., and again went to Long Beach the first thing Saturday A. M.

"A great deal of damage was done, of course, but only a small part of the newspaper reports or radio broadcasts can be relied upon. Surveys are being made to determine the damage which will probably be close to 40 or 50 million dollars.

"However, practically no class A steel or concrete frame buildings were damaged except plaster tile and brick cracks. Those can all be repaired and the buildings will be absolutely sound.

"The brick and wood buildings were badly damaged and many must be torn down. Wood frame houses were damaged very little. We have no cracks or any damage in the house.

The quake was quite severe and I think that our records from instrument wsill show it to have been about as bad as the San Francisco quake, but no fires of any consequence followed this quake.

"I have, of course, been extremely busy since that time, altho much of my work is in lending aid and advise and not remunerative business. Was out on a report job all night last night and have not been home and am pretty tired but glad to be busy again.

"We tried to wire you Friday night but all telephone connections to Western Union were swamped with calls and people in line at the offices placing wires and I couldn't wait. There is no need for any alarm on your part as it is very seldom that further severe quakes follow the first one. They gradually become of lesser amount after the first heavy one.

"There is no school this week due to the necessity of making a complete examination of each of the city school buildings before permitting children to enter.

"We are all feeling fine but doing very little that requires the expenditure of money as things have been awfully quiet. I think though that more optimism is being shown by people in general.

"I hope this finds you all feeling well and hope that conditions are brighter there than at the time of your last letter."

CALL FOR REPEAL VOTE MAY BE ISSUED THIS WEEK

A proclamation calling for a state convention to consider ratification of repeal of the 18th amendment may be issued some time this week, Gov. Paul V. McNutt said Monday.

Under the law passed by the last legislature setting up machinery for such a convention, the election of delegates must be held within 60 days after issuance of the proclamation and the convention be held the first Monday after the election.

If the governor issues the proclamation this week, Indiana's stand on the repeal question will be a matter of record by the last of May.

HICKSVILLE MUSICAL ORGANIZATON TO CONTINUE

Hart's girls band will be continued, with Mrs. Kathleen Daugherty of Manhattan, Calif., daughter of the late O. V. Hart, as leader. Mrs. Daugherty has been here since coming a few weeks ago for the funeral of her father, under whose leadership the girls band made several extensive tours. She expects to remain in Hicksville. Mrs. Daugherty has had a number of years musical exprience in various organizations from coast to coast. She is planning to conduct the band in the Hicksville street concerts this summer.

MAKES THIS A RULE FOR DAILY LIVING

Commander W. H. Hannen, of 1101 Lake Avenue, Fort Wayne, an old friend of The News, sends us the following for publication, taken from his day book carried for many years, and which he stated he is trying hard to live:

William Penn to His Sons In Politics

"Be lowly, diligent, and tender, fearing covetousness, let justice have its impartial course and the law free passage tho to your loss. Protect no man against the law, but the law is above you, live therefore the lives yourselves you would have the people live, and then you have right and boldness to punish the transgressor. God sees you, therefore do your duty, be sure you see with your own eyes, and hear with your own ears. Entertain no lurchers, cherish no informers for gain or revenge, use no tricks, fly no devices, let your heart be upright trusting in the Lord above all contrivance of man and none shall be able to supplant you."

ROOSTER WEIGHS ELEVEN POUNDS

Eleven pounds for a rooster, seems to be the record, at least the Hicksville Produce says so. Only a few days ago they bought one from Mrs. Eva Miller and report it as a record cockerel. The fowl was sold to a Hicksville restaurant and placed in its window for advertising a chicken dinner. It was then given away in a guessing contest. The bird eat 125 kernels of corn in the given time. Some bird and some eater.

GOVERNOR CHANGED HIS MIND

The legal cork that held Indiana's jugged bootleggers will not be pulled.

Governor Paul V. McNutt did think he would uncork the four state "jugs" and let the bootleggers out. But he has decided they are "political prisoners."

Sunshine suddenly had burst into the bootleggers' prison cells when the governor signed the liquor control bill. He announced then that henceforth men incarcerated for liquor law infractions were "political prisoners." They were in line for immediate release whether they had served their minimum sentences or not, he said.

But quite suddenly the clouds gathered again. The hope of freedom passed away in the gathering gloom. Prison guards, who figuratively at least, were fitting their keys into the cell door locks to release the bootleggers, shipped the keys back into their pockets with a sickening rattle.

As a result of conferences with Philip Lutz, attorney general, the governor decided that terms of the liquor control bill do not make possible the immediate release of the bootleggers.

The decision means that about three hundred and fifty prisoners serving sentences in the four penal institutions—state prison, state reformatory, state farm and woman's prison—will be required to serve their sentences just as if beer hadn't been legalized in Indiana.

ASKS $10,000 DAMAGES OF I. & M. ELECTRIC CO.

Mrs. Mary Dau of Leo Wednesday filed suit in the DeKalb circuit court against the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company for $10,000 damages for injuries to her minor son, Jesse.

The youth, who was 15 years of age at the time, was hurt in an unusual way. He and other boys were flying kites from a field near Leo on April 2, 1932. He seized a kite string made of copper wire and it came in contact with high tension wires belonging to the defendant.

The boy was burned and shocked and has since been unable to work, according to the complaint. It is alleged that the defendant was negligent in not having the wires insulated and in not giving notice of the danger of contact with them.

RAILROAD SETTLES FOR CROSSING CRASH

Judgments of $250 each were entered by agreement in the DeKalb circuit court Friday afternoon in the complaints of Pearl Keesler of Auburn, administratrix of the late Philip Rigg, and Princess K. Zonker of St. Joe, administratrix of the Henry W. Krabill estate, against the Wabash Railway Co.

Mr. Rigg and Mr. Krabill met their deaths when an automobile was struck by a passenger train at a crossing three miles southwest of Butler March 18, 1932. Damage suits were instituted Wednesday of last week.

Atkinson & Husselman were attorneys for the Rigg estate and C. E. McClintock represented the Krabill estate. Capt. W. D. Stump entered an appearance for the railway company.

INTEREST REDUCED ON COUNTY LOANS

Owners of real estate against which the counties hold mortgages, welcome the new law passed by the legislature.

The law provides for the reduction of the interest rate on the money now loaned or hereafter loaned from 6 to 5 per cent beginning April 1, 1933. The interest is payable annually at the end of the loan. All loans of school funds existing April 1, 1933, and the mortgages securing them are extended for a period of five years from that date, conditional on the owners of the property filing with the county auditor a written acceptance of the terms of the act within six months from April 1. Such extensions are to be made without appraisement of properties and regardless of appraised or assessed valuations, and without cost to the mortgagors.

If interest payments are delinquent a very liberal plan has been arranged for payments.

With the exemption up to $1,000 this will bring interest down considerable.

AUTO BREAKS LEG OF HORSE IN PASSING

Garth Shull was breaking a team of horses, Tuesday, for A. J. Allen, and when near the Shull home in returning from a drive around the square, a car came up behind them, signals to pass, and the horse swerved so that the car struck its leg, and broke it.

The animal had to be killed and we learn the owner had been offered $200 only a short time ago for this horse. The car was driven by Clarence Hart of near Ossian, a former resident of this community.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

At the moment all news has necessarily been obscured by the bank situation. A brief resume seems to be in order at this time.

Holidays started with the closing of all Michigan banks by order of the governor, in order to prevent the potential collapse of Detroit's larger banking institutions. Reverberations from this took the form of unusually heavy withdrawals in other states. A bank holiday was declared in Maryland, then in California, Oregon and Washington. Within a few days the holiday took in a heavy percentage of the states. Restrictions varied in stringency. In most instances banks met payrolls, permitted withdrawals of sizable sums when good cause could be shown, and the withdrawal of small sums to meet current needs. In a few instances percentage withdrawals—usually 5 per cent of the total on deposit—were permitted.

The Presidential proclamation came as no surprise. Rumor was that it had been foreseen weeks ahead, and had been delayed until the new Administration could take charge, in the belief that this would have a stabilizing effect on the public morale. That seems to have been the case.

The federal proclamation was extremely stringent, providing that all banks should be closed during the holiday; that all transactions except those specifically ordered by the Secretary of the Treasury, should be suspended; that no bank could accept deposits, make loans, transfer credits abroad or deal in foreign exchange; that the Secretary of the Treasury might take control of the issuance of clearing house certificates during the holiday, etc. Heavy penalties were provided—maximum of $10,000 fine and ten years in prison—for violation.

Talk of Federally backed scrip became widespread, and at one time the Administration stated that some move in this direction would be made. Later, it was announced that no Federal scrip would be issued. Banks continued to meet necessary withdrawals. In a few instances local scrip, good among local merchants, was issued.

Culminating event was the Presidential announcement that all sound banks would be opened for business as usual on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 13-15—those in the 12 Federal Reserve cities on the first day, those in cities with Federal Reserve branches on the second, those elsewhere on the third. The problem thus resolves itself into finding a solution for unsound banks, minimizing so far as possible losses to depositors. Stricter banking regulatory laws are inevitable.

During the first week of the holiday, money in circulation rose to more than $6,700,000,000, the greatest expansion in history and a new high. Monetary gold stocks of the country declined $116,000,000.

Excellent sign was the public attitude. It was, on the whole, serene and confident. The holidays were accepted casually—even humorously. There was no panic, no disturbance. Practically universal support of Administration policies was heard.

The belief is expressed on every hand that the holidays were the final event in preparing the way for recovery. Sentiment is that the bottom has actually been reached, that the up-climb, slow as it will be, is at least in sight.

Interesting and important phase of the situation is the Administration's drive gainst gold hoarding. The amount of gold thus held is unknown, but those in a position to estimate believe it to reach almost unbelievable heights. Various means for eliminating this condition are suggested. One would be publicity which would, in effect, characterize gold hoarders as "public enemies." Another is a stiff tax on hoarded gold. It is possible that a law making the hoarding of gold a crime may eventually be passed. This has been done in crucial times in other countries. Universal public support of this drive may also be expected.

All in all, the logical conclusion to be drawn is that the holidays were necessary, were definitely in the interest of depositors, the public and honest banking, that the situation has been properly and aggressively handled by those in charge, that the work done will mean much to the national future.

Another great event of the week was the amazing power given President Roosevelt by the new Congress. It is the greatest individual power ever held by a peace-time president,—indeed, it may be even greater than was Wilson's during the War. Many of the troubles of the last Administration are traceable to an always difficult and often unfriendly Congress. The new Administration will have none of these. The President speaks, Congress acts—and the public generally, weary of Congressional ineptitude and sloth, approves overwhelmingly.

AN EDITOR'S QUALIFICATIONS

A young man asked us our opinion about entering the newspaper field, we answered this wise:

If he can listen with a smile to tiresome things he's heard oftimes before; if he can refuse to do what three or four people ask him to do without making them mad; if he can write in a way to make people laugh when he feels like cussin', or in a way to make them weep when he feels like cracking his heels together and laughing out loud; if he can remain silent when he feels like he'll burst wide open if he does not talk; if he can argue without getting mad or making the other fellow mad; if he can refuse a woman's request for free publicity without making all the members of her set mad at the paper; if he can react to the loss of a good news story and catch a better one on the rebound; if he can explain a typographical error without using up more than thirty minutes' time; if he can concentrate and write intelligent copy while three different conversations are going on around him, several typewriters clicking away and the telephone ringing and the subdued hum of the presses in the next room drumming on his ears; if he can explain why Mrs. Janes' poem on "The Sylvan Depths of October Woods," did not appear in the paper without her husband stopping his advertising; if he can take a foul-line story and spread it to a column or take a two-column story and condense it to two paragraphs; if he can read proofs without overlooking an error and write headlines without murdering the king's English; if he has a nose for news, an itch for writing and an inclination to work fifteen hours a day, then we'd advise him to get into the game.—Mineral Wells (Texts) Index.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY

On Wednesday evening, March 15, the ladies of the Culture Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Elnora Blue.

Each member on their entrance was given an Irish name written in a shamrock, which was used in a game during the evening.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Esther Bowman, followed by roll call, the response being an Irish story, reading or song, most of which deserves mention.

Following the roll call the meeting was turned over to the committee, Mesdames Cora Price, Lula Armstrong, Pluma Hamilton and Elnora Blue, each one dressed in white. Program consisted of a vocal duet, "Where the River Shannon Flows," Mrs. Dale Hart and Mrs. Pluma Hamilton; reading "Pigs is Pigs" by Margarett Hamilton Thomas; duet" My Irish Mary Moore" Mrs. Esther Bowman and Catherine Bowser, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lena Meek; contests were conducted by the committee. The ladies were then asked to retire to another room, where they were entertained with a "Bible" base ball game. Then to the tune of "My Father and Mother Were Irish" the committee invited the ladies to find their names which were attached to pretty little green baskets filled with after dinner mints, gum drops and gum which helped to decorate small tables scattered through the large living room. The center piece of each table was a genuine Irish "pig and piggie" forming a candle stick for the green candles which lighted the room.

After the first helping of a pot luck supper, the ladies all sang "All You Eta" after which they were all ready to go back for the second helping.

The club members were all pleased to have with them Mrs. Eva Sheffer, now an associate member, after being an active member for so many years. By request of the president she gave a short talk.

At a very late hour the ladies bid the hostess and all good nite.

A HOBBY DERBY

During the County Convention of Womens Clubs, to be held at the Lutheran Church in St. Joe, April 6, 1933, the Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe will sponsor a hobby derby.

Now, a hobby derby (in case there's anyone who wonders) is an exhibit of all kinds of hobbies. Now all you people who have hobbies that you would like to see exhibited, please get in touch with any member of the Ladies Literary Club. Exhibits will include hooked rugs, quilts, fancy work, antiques, ship models, pottery, or what have you. Everything exhibited will be carefully checked and guarded.

The exhibit will be open to the public at certain hours. Such details will be announced fully later, through this paper. Please watch for further information, and don't forget to cooperate with us in making this event successful. We want the rest of the county to know that St. Joe is no back number.

HOME BUREAU

The March meeting of the Concord Township Ladies Home Bureau was held at the home of Harriet Johnson. The meeting was called to order by the president. Mrs. Borthwick, accompanied by Grace Sheffer with harmonica, led in the singing of several Irish songs. Secretary's report was read, thirty-two members responded to roll call with Irish jokes. Cora Curie then gave a Bird's Eye view of Ireland, which was very interesting to all.

Our county chairman, Mrs. Carper, gave a short talk of the different clubs she had visited, also gave some highlights on the care of peonies, tulips and iris. The soap demonstration which was to have been given March 14 was voted on to be given in May. A duet, My Wild Irish Rose, was given by Cora Curie and Gertrude Borthwick, accompanied by Grace Sheffer with harmonica. This was followed by another duet given by Harriet Johson and Cora Curie accompanied by Grace Sheffer with mandolin. These were enjoyed by all. Two very interesting contests were given. The chairman, Harriet Johnson, with her committee served a tempting luncheon consisting of pineapple fluff cake and tea. The two colors, green and white being in honor of St. Patrick's day. Ten guests were present.

R. H. C.

Mrs. Claud Laub entertained the R H. C. last Wednesday afternoon.

Games and contests were enjoyed after which the hostess served a luncheon consisting of sandwnches and pickles, cake and cocoa. Guests present were Mrs. Bertha Coburn of Garrett, Mrs. Marvin Poper and Mrs. Love.

AUBURN LAD SHOOTS SELF IN HEAD

Despondent over his failure to meet a $10 payment on his Chevrolet roadster which was to have been re-possessed Tuesday, William Church, Jr., aged 19, committed suicide early Tuesday morning. The tragedy took place shortly after breakfast time in the barn at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Church of Clark Street, Highland Addition, East Auburn.

After making several attempts to borrow the $10, he went to the barn and shot himself, telling his parents he was going to shoot rats.

Mr. Church, the father, is in bed in a very serious condition. The Church family lived at St. Joe some years ago.

All the speed you want when you COOK ELECTRICALLY

TODAY'S electric range, like the automobile, has been accelerated to meet present-day requirements . . . electricity is the fastest thing in the world and years of engineering research have finally released this magic speed for cooking purposes.

The modern electric element brings glowing, intense heat into direct contact with the cooking utensils with a minimum of lost heat. One turn of the control switch and the high speed units almost instantly respond.

This year's automobile has stream lines for wind resistance and the modern electric range has automatic control for drudgery resistance. Time to do the things you want to do while your meals cook—perfectly—speeds up your whole list of accomplishments and opens a world of new pleasures for the housewife.

The new ranges are here! Come and see them.

"Even this shall pass away."

All the states in the union now impose a gasoline tax which ranges from two cents to seven cents a gallon.

Back in 1921 our Federal Commissioner of Education stated that due to the shortage of teachers, 300,000 children in the United States were unable to attend school. This year, however, conditions have reversed, and due to a shortage of schools there will be about 30,000 teachers without teaching positions.

The story that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked a lantern over and started the great Chicago fire in 1871 was denied in a death-bed confession of Michael Ahern, a Chicago newspaper man, who claimed to have invented the famous explanation. The fire was probably caused by spontaneous combustion in the O'Leary haymow.

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 40 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months; 2 pounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk, 3 to 4 feet high, and fast loaded with leaves.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakurijima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 30 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These giant north radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 22 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.
Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—4 Pkts. 50c—dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

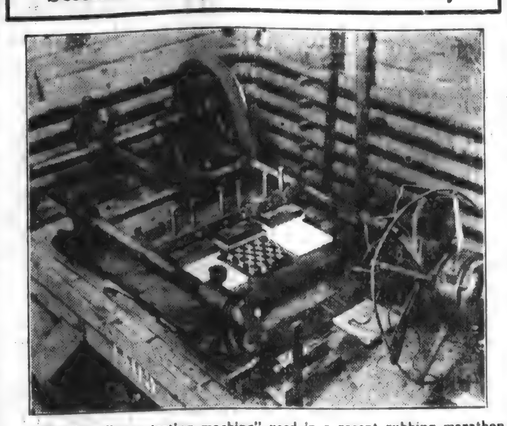
Science Tests Fabrics for Durability



This is a "wear testing machine" used in a recent rubbing marathon to find out how long different kinds of motor car upholsteries and other fabrics would wear. Mohair velvets and velmo were consistent winners.

MOHAIR WINNER IN RUBBINGMARATHON

Scientific Tests Show Durability of Different Kinds of Fabrics.

In the laboratory of a large seat manufacturing company, a flat plate slips back and forth, back and forth across a square of upholstery material which has been securely attached to a solid base. A strange endurance contest is under way, a scientific and accurate test to show how long the sample of fabric will resist the constant wear of the sliding plate. Count is kept of the number of "rubs" the sample receives and when the piece begins to wear out, the machine is stopped and another "racer" is entered in the interesting endurance "marathon."

This, briefly, is one of the tests applied to mohair velvet or velmo as well as to other materials before the manufacturers select the kind of upholstery they wish to place on the seats they are making. Previous experience has already told these men much about the durability of the materials considered but the chief object of the test is to do in a brief time what would otherwise require months and years so that selections can be made more readily and inferior materials quickly eliminated.

Of all the upholstery fabrics entered for these strange "marathons," mohair velvet or velmo has been consistently among the dependable winners. "Racers" are given wear numbers to indicate how well they stand up under the test. Some of the materials are so fragile that they win a score of fifty or less while practically all the mohair samples submitted for test score a count of 6,000 to 8,000.

These wearing tests help explain why automobiles upholstered in mohair frequently bring from $25 to $100 more than similar cars upholstered in other fabrics at the time of re-sale or trade-in. The upholstery is in good condition after years of service. It is clean and bright, the colors have not faded and the mohair upholstery helps assure the prospective purchaser that the car is good for many more miles of duty.

Mohair is made from the hair of the Angora goat. Mohair velvet or velmo is a pile fabric, that is, it is composed of thousands of small fibers so woven that they stand on end, thereby presenting a soft, resilient but durable surface that will withstand years of hard service. In case the pile flattens down after severe and prolonged use, it is quickly and easily refreshened by placing a damp cloth over it and allowing the cloth to dry or by steaming.

For years, velmo has been the favorite travel fabric in automobiles and in railroad cars. It is especially suitable to summer use in vehicles and on furniture as well for its fast colors do not fade or rub out even when moistened by perspiration so that garments are not stained in hot weather. An added reason for its summer popularity is the fact that it is cooler than other materials. The spaces between its many fibers permit a certain amount of air to circulate between the person and the seat, thereby reducing excessive body temperatures.

Odd Reasons Given for Crushing of Eggshells

Solomon Reinach is a learned man, a deep thinker, but he is surely mistaken when he traces the habit of crushing an eggshell, after a soft-boiled egg has been eaten, to primitive people who were snake worshipers, Philip Hale asserts, in the Boston Herald. "As snakes were fond of eggs," he says, "it was considered disrespectful to leave an empty shell and so disappoint the family snake." All other well-informed persons have known that the shell should be crushed so that witches cannot sail in it, nor can they draw or prick on it the name of the person they wish to injure.

The early Italians believed that witches used shells for drinking. After the egg was eaten, the shell was crushed and thrown into a running stream.

If thou art a witch,
Go, O devil's daughter!
And be borne away
On the running water!

As for witches sailing in eggshells, they had the power to enlarge and diminish the shell at will. Miss Mellon, the actress, who became at last the duchess of St. Albans, always made a little hole at the ends of the shell, "so that the witches might not find shelter there, otherwise they were permitted to haunt with an incubus the luckless wight who had eaten the contents without taking that salutary precaution."

Lemmings Once Thought to Come From Clouds

The Scandinavian Bishop Olaf, who lived in the Sixteenth century, left an account of a plague of lemmings, rodents about the size of our common rat, which devour most of the green things growing in their haunts. At fairly regular intervals these mammals have invaded certain parts of Europe in vast armies, and their appearance is so sudden that many of the country-folk believe that they drop from the clouds. Bishop Olaf himself concluded that this was their means of arrival, and he also noted that with the coming of these pests, their enemies, such as foxes and owls, increased to a corresponding extent.

The lemmings being smaller than the fox have a shorter reproductive span, and increase more rapidly, until the time comes when they must move to new grounds for food. Their enemies follow them, and plenty of food means that they produce larger litters, but even then the lemmings outrun their enemies, until another enemy, disease, steps in, and brings them below their normal numbers. Their enemies, finding the food supply giving out, die off in corresponding numbers, and so this strange cycle of life goes on.

Bottles in History

The first bottles probably were made of animal skins. In ancient Egypt bottles were made out of such materials as stone, alabaster, porcelain, ivory, gold, silver, bronze and glass. The Phoenicians and Romans also made glass bottles. Earthenware bottles were possessed by the Egyptians and Hebrews, and still are used in the East. Venice held the monopoly of the manufacture of glass bottles in the Middle ages. In China, beautiful bottles of various forms, and substances such as jade, agate, and rock crystal, have long been known. Bottles made of the dried rind of gourds are used by Italian peasantry. The first bottle-blowing machine was invented by an Englishman named Ashley in 1882. The first fully automatic machine was invented by Michael J. Owens in America, between 1899 and 1902.

When Truth Isn't Spoken

Lying is a pleasure, and speaking the truth a painful necessity. How true that is, especially when applied to woman! Does woman lie to please herself or through necessity? Certainly in society lying is as necessary as breathing. Truth does not come out of wells but from the mouths of guests out of earshot of their hostess. They dilate on the scantiness of the refreshments and the boring afternoon they have spent. Every truth is good to express except those which one hides from one's hostess.—Maurice Dekobra in the London Saturday Review.

Bad Cooking and Crime

We have seen it written a good many times that bad cooking was at the bottom of a large portion of the world's crime; and we have never found any reliable statistics to support the claim. Why don't the indefatigable researchers and surveyors go about among our criminals and delinquents and ask them how the cooking was in their homes? Personally we think, and have often said, that this would be a better world if there were more good apple pie than there is, but we cannot prove even that.—Boston Herald.

The law passed in 1932 fixing a filing fee of 50 cents per hundred on mortgages, and thus the holder would be exempt from further taxation, has evidently been repealed as the County Recorder, O. L. Waterman, has been ordered to issue refunds of money collected. The sum of $844.50 was collected during January and February, constituting 148 receipts.

Fred I. King, of Wabash, Ind., will be ousted as secretary of the public service commission and replaced April 1 with Peter Dawson, of Frankfort, it was learned Monday. King is a republican and Dawson is a democrat. The political axe has fallen in DeKalb county, when only recently O. J. Burnier, court house employee, was dismissed and a democrat took up the work.

Come to think of it, there isn't anything perfect. Just take a glance here and there and you can see how you would have everything improved. Even the hotdogs don't taste as they should; your newspaper isn't just what it ought to be; the preacher doesn't always pray to suit you; your neighbors don't do just what you think they ought to. So why be surprised that you are not what you ought to be.

Any person who has given a mortgage on his real property, can make a very substantial tax reduction by filing a mortgage exemption, and all of this can be taken care of by calling at The News office and filing such papers as are necessary by law. In spite of all the publicity given regarding exemptions, many still refuse to take advantage of this saving. Don't do this any longer, when you fail on this, there is double taxation, both the mortgagee and mortgagor pay this tax.

TWO CHARACTERISTICS

Two outstanding characteristics mark the average individual, who recommend the repeal of our dry laws.

1st. is their disregard for logic, which is shown in all their arguments for the furtherance of their pet scheme of anullment.

2nd., and contingent upon the first, is the utter disregard they show for all law, as enacted, contrary to their personal wishes, or opinions. These are not mere statements, but sustained by facts, as any man may prove to his own satisfaction, by the perusal of most any daily newspaper, and the greater number of current magazines. In regard to the first statement, to show the wets lack of logic; you are no doubt aware, they have long and loudly proclaimed that the dry laws "cannot be enforced," yet with brazen effrontery, claim the new laws they have enacted, when and if, the Volstead law becomes a dead letter, will protect the dry states; those who elect to remain dry, from the incursion of intoxicating liquors within their borders. If they are sincere in this, they at once, and at the same time, indict themselves as either untruthful, or derelict of duty. That "it cannot be enforced," is a lie; or, if it is a truth, their promise of enforcement in the dry regions is a lie. Can you conscientiously dispute this, the logic of the assertion? At any rate, they have palpably blundered.

Another example of their unparalelled logic, is their contention that liquor, if permitted under the law, will yield a revenue sufficient to balance the budget.

How will it do this, let us ask, when under present conditions it harasses us to meet ordinary expenses? Do they contend we can drink ourselves in a condition of prosperity? Will the county take care of the needs of families made still more indigent, by the drinking habits of its head provider? If so who will provide the county with the necessary funds?

The chief violators of the liquor laws, are, and have always been, those by habit and inclination, opposed to all repressive measures. Liberty, to them, has always meant but one thing, license. They have no comprehension of the word liberty, other than an unrestricted right to do as they please, an interpretation that admits but one conclusion, a state of anarchy! Then they audaciously acclaim the law to be vile, as though a law is responsible for its own violation.

Viewed in the light of wet logicians, the Ten Commandments are vile, inasmuch as they prohibit many things the anarchistic minded conceive to be their natural rights. Liberty within the law, only is honest. To the violator, there should be no law, but their likes and dislikes

Representative Sweeney (Dem.) of Ohio, former police court judge, said in Congress the other day: "This is the opening wedge of the destruction of intolerance and fanaticism. The preacher can now go back to his pulpit and preach Christ crucified instead of Volsteadism deified."

This is a fair sample of the doctrine of the wet apostles. They would have Christ's servants deliver a few high sounding platitudes, deliver a sermon that covers everything, and, like the old fashioned Mother Hubbard wrapper, touches nothing. But they must say nothing in regard to drink, unless it be Paul's admonition to Timothy, or Christ at the marriage feast at Canaan. All reference to Christian citizenship, or to the "Righteousness" that "exalteth a nation" is taboo, as is all allusions toward moral questions in the affairs of state.

There is a way whereby righteousness can be applied to affairs of State, and that way must be found, or this nation will be as one with Nineva or Tyre.

BIG HITCH EVENT

At a recent meeting of the DeKalb County Horsemen, it was decided to hold a Big Hitch Demonstration Tuesday P. M., March 28, on the farm of Jess Hetrick, located three miles south and three-quarters mile east of Auburn. P. T. Brown, Extension Horseman from Purdue, will be in charge. Various size hitches will be demonstrated ranging from a three horse to an eight horse hitch. Mr. Brown will by these methods show the best way to hitch horses so that one can accomplish the work of two or three men. Every farmer should be interested in this demonstration whether he has a large farm or not.

Vol. 1. No. 25. Thursday, March 23, 1933

The Seniors have decided not to have caps and gowns for commencement.

The Juniors had a class meeting last Monday to decide what their colors, flower, and class motto would be. They decided to have blue and white for their colors, the American Beauty rose for their flower, and "Start right and right away" for their motto.

The Juniors are giving the Seniors an informal reception April 15.

Mary Close, a former pupil of Ashley, has entered the fourth grade.

The Sophomores are giving a three act play, "The Girl Who Forgot" the first week in April. Half of the proceeds are to be used for school expenses and the other half will be kept in the Sophomore treasury. The Freshman class will be responsible for the entertainment between acts.

The play is being directed by the Sophomores' sponsor, Miss Borthwick, and the pupils who will take part in the play are John Kaellner, Earl Kinsey, Berlene Beree, Violet Baker, Eloise Draggoo, Merlin Simanton, Keith Davis, Bonnie McSorley, and Keith Wilmot.

News from Alumni and Former Students

Miss Idalena Dressel, a former student of St. Joe, has tied with another girl for Senior honors at Holgate this year.

Miss Hazel Storer, a Senior at Purdue, will teach Home Economics at Spencerville next year.

A number of the graduates are in college this year. Miss Eloise Bowman is a Senior at Indiana State, Frank Miser is a Senior at Purdue, DuWayne Kinsey is attending Indiana State and Virginia Ginther is at Indiana State.

Word from Russell Borthwick, who is aboard the U. S. S. Tennessee, is to the effect that he is safe, and was ashore at Long Beach within an hour after the quake, seeing the destruction. The Navy boys have been assisting in every way in caring for the wounded and helping clear up the cities in the stricken areas. Russell states that he had only had his clothing off for three hours since the quake, having had only that short time for rest.

The members of the Girls' Chorus will sing in the County Chorus Friday, March 31.

At present John Woodcox heads the Seniors in scholarship having an average of 93.8, Beatrice Storer is next with an average of 93.3, and Enid Curie is third with an average of 93.1. Another average will be made at the end of this semester for the final average.

The Honor Roll for the second period of this semester includes, in the order of their ranking, John Kaellner, Effiebell Freeburn, Helen Washler, Hilda Medley, Ethelmae Freeburn, Earl Kinsey, Ersa Reidenbach, Enid Curie, Jean Goodwin, Glenn Likes, Eileen Gaff, Beatrice Storer, Beulah Storer, Violet Brunson, Helen Like, Robert Ridlen, Virginia Shull, Walter Boger, John Woodcox, Eloise Draggoo, Flossie Inlow, Norma Rickard, Merlin Simanton, and Charles Hart.

Miss Opal Poland spent the weekend at home.

The Sophomores beat their upper classmen, the Juniors, in an exciting game of volleyball last week, and the girls class the Dare Devils beat the Go Getters.

The hot lunch for next week will be vegetable soup on Monday, fruit salad and cocoa on Tuesday, sausage, escalloped potatoes, and tomatoes on Wednesday, baked beans and cold tomatoes on Thursday, and sandwiches on Friday.

New Continued Story To Start

The girls' continued story has ended and now the boys are starting one. The following is the first installment of their story.

The Ghostly Three Notes

A knock was heard on the door.

"Come in," said Mr. Morgan as he laid down the evening paper and returned to puffing his pipe. Mr. Morgan was very cautious as to whom he gave such a liberal welcome, because he was an employee of Scotland Yards. But this particular evening, was the evening when Mr. O'Conner came to listen to Mr. Morgan relate one of his Scotland Yard mysteries. So of course he was expecting Mr. O'Conner, and that accounts for his being so liberal to invite him in.

"Well," said O'Conner after he had removed his wraps and was relaxing in a large, comfortable chair, "I presume you are aware of the fact that this is Wednesday evening, and what that calls for?"

"Yes, I have been thinking about it," answered Morgan as he came from the bedroom where he had taken O'Conner's wraps. "I hope I have chosen a mystery which will be of interest to you."

The story is as follows:

In the outskirts of London was a very large estate, known as the Bancroft Estate. In the center of the grounds was a large English mansion surrounded by trees and shrubs.

As was the custom of all the wealthy people he had a large force of servants, and a private valet.

Mr. Bancroft was an exceedingly happy man in one sense, and just as sad in another. He was happy because Mrs. Bancroft had just presented him with an eight pound baby boy, but he was sad because Mrs. Bancroft was not recovering at the rate she should. Mr. Bancroft did all in his power to help his dear wife. He secured doctors from various cities all over Europe, but all was in vain, for on June 2 she passed into her haven of rest, her heavenly home.

Two years passed. Then one evening at a bridge party Mr. Bancroft met a very charming lady, Miss Berk. Miss Berk and Mr. Bancroft retained a courtship for a year or so, and then were united in marriage.

As the new Mrs. Bancroft, otherwise known as Barbara, and Mr. Bancroft, whose name was George, were returning from their marriage, their attention was attracted by a child on the corner, who was yelling very loudly.

"Paper, paper, read all about the great Bancroft marriage."

George just chuckled about it saying, "Seems as though the news of our marriage spread quite rapidly."

"Yes," replied Barbara. I would rather not have it spread at all than by a low street urchin."

"Why Barbara, you talk as though you didn't like children."

"I don't,' answered Barbara, still enraged by the shouts of the newsboy. "To me they are as horrifying as wild animals."

A very puzzled look came over George's face after Barbara had expressed herself regarding children. He supposed that any woman with such a pleasant disposition would be kind and loving to children. However, he had found just the opposite, and was to discover more.

Barbara was very hateful to Jerry and continued to mistreat him until finally the climax came one day when he slid down the banister and broke a priceless imported vase. She heard the crash, and came rushing into the hallway. When she saw what had happened she became so enraged by the mishap that she seized Jerry by the neck choking and shaking him severely. The cries of Jerry were heard by George, who was in the front yard. He came hurriedly into the house and found Jerry blue in the face and nearly unconscious. George, enraged, and realizing that he must choose between Barbara and Jerry once and for all times, ordered Barbara to leave.

She hurriedly packed a few necessary articles and started toward the opened door. As she stepped across the threshold she turned and snarled between her cruel, close set jaws, "George Bancroft, you will be sorry for this."

Fish and Game Club Information

Legislature of 1933

The net results of the recent session of the legislature, so far as concerns fish and game, are the following laws passed by the General Assembly and signed by the Governor, none of which carried an emergency, and all of which will come into force upon the distribution of the Acts of proclamation of the Governor:

H B 85—Removes the length limit on yellow perch.

H B 206—Makes it unlawful to remove or dislodge any domesticated raccoon in any manner from any hole, den, pocket, cavity or hollow in any tree or in the earth or in or among any rocks wherein such raccoon has secreted itself for security or protection or in which it maintains its nest or den.

S B 205—Amends the license law by striking out the provision that persons may fish in their own county without license, thus requiring all persons to have license to fish. The law retains the other exemptions as in the original Act, that is landowners, tenants, persons under 18 years of age and ex-service men. An exemption to army nurses is added.

H B 255—Grants to every nurse who served as such during the world war with any of the armed forces of the United States and who was honorably discharged from service and who is a resident of the state of Indiana, all the benefits, rights, privileges and immunities which are conferred by the law of the state of Indiana, and which are held and enjoyed by honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the world war.

Brood Fish Needed at Hatcheries

It has been discovered after a careful check up of the parent fish on hand at the five state fish hatcheries that at Bass Lake and Riverside there is a scarcity of both small-mouth bass and rock bass breeders. Donations of spring caught fish of either species by sportsmen living in the neighborhood of these two hatcheries will be appreciated. Call the foreman of the hatchery and a tank truck will be sent for the fish. Small-mouth bass should be at least twelve inches and rock bass at least seven inches in length.

Killing the Crow

Several sportsman's clubs in the state have included in their game protective program the killing of crows. We have not received reports from all of the clubs but the report of the Marion County Fish and Game Association is interesting and demonstrates what can be done to control a most destructive species of vermin.

During February the Marion County Club members killed, by shooting into night roosts, more than 3,000 crows. In one night, from one roost, between 1,000 and 1,200 were killed. Each week since February 1 such a shoot has been held and all have been successful. A similar program of all clubs in the state would mean the saving of thousands of quail and pheasants as well as song birds.

Game Warden Statistics

For February the statistics of the warden service show: Arrests 8, convictions 5, cases pending 0, cases dismissed 3, fines and costs, $178.40.

MAY PAY TAXES WITH BANK CHECK

With only five weeks remaining until the close of the spring taxpaying period on May 1, County Treasurer, Merritt M. Maxwell disclosed Monday that less than 10 per cent of the current tax had been paid at his office.

The amount of 1932 tax due for payment this spring is approximately $350,000 and the collections up to Monday were $30,610.

Mr. Maxwell is urging taxpayers to settle with him as early as possible, as the new law requiring the computation of interest on delinquent tax up to the date of payment causes some delay and there is bound to be a congestion in the office in the last week or more.

The treasurer also states that owing to the unsettled banking situation he is unable to accept checks in greater amount than the tax being paid.

Mr. Maxwell calls attention to a new law authorizing the acceptance of checks for taxes drawn on banks from which withdrawals are restricted. Such a check must be accompanied by a statement signed by an officer of the bank showing that the restricted balance to the credit of the taxpayer upon the date of the issuance of the check is equal to or in excess of the amount for which the check is drawn. No receipt may be issued by the treasurer, however, until the deposit is released and the check paid. The taxpayer shall also deliver to the bank a statement from the county treasurer showing the amount of the tax and the amount of the check he proposes to draw and the taxpayer shall give the treasurer an affidavit stating that he has not the cash of the means of procuring the cash with which to pay his taxes and the check may be taken only for such part of the tax as the taxpayer may be unable to pay in cash.

Mr. Maxwell expects to have the intangibles tax stamps on sale soon and he calls attention to the fact that persons uncertain as to the amount of stamps they should use on their property must confer with the county assessor.

JUNE 6 SET TO VOTE ON REPEAL

Indiana is scheduled to vote Tuesday, June 6, on the proposal to repeal the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution.

Governor Paul V. McNutt Friday fixed that date as tentative for the special election to select wet or dry delegates to the state constitutional convention.

If June 6 is finally fixed as the election date the Indiana constitutional convention will be held Monday, June 26, at 2 P. M., in the chambr of the Indiana House of Representatives.

Two delegates only will be selected to represent DeKalb county.

FOUND ON FLOOR IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION

Mrs. Frank Scholes was found Saturday evening in an unconscious condition lying on the floor, when her daughter and husband came home after a short absence. No warning of any kind manifested itself as Mrs. Scholes had been in her usual health.

For a short time Monday she rallied and on Tuesday again she showed signs of a semi-conscious state for a short time.

Her entire left side is paralized.

GRIST MILL IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Just as we go to press we learn that the grist mill is in operation, after many weeks of repairing. This will be of value to the community, and as a medium of exchange this mill being put in operation again ought to be appreciated by the farming community. We will endavor next week to give a more deatiled account of the operation of the mill.

HOT LUNCH ACTIVITIES OF LOCAL SCHOOL

Like everything else, this year the hot lunch activities in the local school, have been handicapped by lack of cash, and yet those in charge of the work are to be complimented by the patrons of the school, especially, for the manner in which they took care of feeding the children, and at such a small cost.

The committee started with $44.02 in the bank and at the close of the year had $52.29.

At the time of computing these figures 2,954 meals had been served, with an average of 50 per day or 246 per week.

Lunches were donated to children totaling 1,187, an average of 99 per week or 20 per day, giving an average of 30 paid lunches daily to finance the project with.

Tickets amounting to $13.95, were given in exchange for produce needed for preparation of the daily menu.

Mrs. Katie Storer was hired by the committee to prepare the lunch, and was assisted in the serving by the girls. Miss Helen Ditmars, who acted as the treasurer and manager also deserves much credit for her ability to figure out how a project of such proportions could be financed with a small amount of cash.

Mrs. Cora Curie, appointed by the P. T. A., worked diligently throughout the year to keep the association's part of this proect up to standard of former years and all should have the praise of the patrons in this very necessary work.

IT'S A BOY

The News received an announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koch, 767 W. Berry St., Fort Wayne, with the following inscription: "Here I am, Jimmy Koch, 7¼ pounds, born March 22, 1933."

Before receiving the announcement, we knew something had taken place, because Grandpa, Charles Koch, walked faster, hitting every other block in the side walk, he was jovial and full "O'Pep." Of course the grandparents visited Jimmy last Sunday and found he and his mother are doing fine.

A REWARD FOR SERVICES

President Roosevelt will receive the first case of 3.2 per cent beer manufactured by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis. The second case will go to Vice President Garner, and the third to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York. The cases will be shipped by airplane to the consignees at 12:01 A. M., April 7.

THE HIGH COST OF SELLING BEER

The high cost of license fees threatened to discourage hundreds of small store, restaurant and hotel owners in Indiana from selling 3.2 per cent beer after April 7.

Until the beer control bill was scrutinized carefully almost every proprietor of a drug store, confectionary and small restaurant looked forward eagerly to the time when his profits could be increased through the sale of legal beer.

But each retailer who sells beer for home consumption only must provide a bond of $2,000 and pay an annual state license fee of $100. In many cases old city ordinances will be revived and add to the burden of taxation through local license fees.

On top of that the federal government will collect a $20 annual fee from retailers.

Restaurants, hotel dining rooms or boats must furnish a bond of $1,000 and pay an annual state license fee of $300 for the first 50 seats, $100 additional for the next 50 seats and $50 additional for each group of 50 seats or fraction thereof.

Clubs must provide a bond of $1,000 and pay an annual fee of $100 for the first 500 members or fraction thereof and 25 cents for each additional member.

Wholesalers are required to furnish a $5,000 bond and pay an annual fee of $1,000 to the state.

Members of the Indianapolis Restaurant association have just about decided to abandon plans to sell beer. Their seating capacities range from 125 to 250 and federal and state license costs will average $425 at the least.

They pointed out that beer would have to be sold at 20 cents a 12 ounce bottle if they are to receive a fair profit. This price will be prohibitive to their customers, they believe.

Only one person in Wabash has indicated that he would apply for a retail license. Only two of 48 members of the South Bend Restaurant and Caterers' association have definitely applied for licenses.

Richmond restaurant and hotel men figure they will have to pay an annual license fee of at least $550 before they could sell beer. In addition to the state tax there will be an annual license fee of $250.

DRYS SELECT TWO REPRESENTATIVES

At a meeting Tuesday evening at the Auburn Y. M. C. A., a large group of dry advocates from all over the county, selected two candidates to represent the folks who feel that the ratification of the eighteenth amendment is not the logical thing at this time, and in making their selection, Joint Senator Larry Brandon, of Auburn, and Vern L. Sparks, of near Ashley were chosen unanimously.

Both of these men are dry, and have always been opposed to repeal. According to law petitions must be circulated containing 500 names or more, endorsing them as being for or against repeal, and in due time such petitions will be circulated.

As time goes on we shall endeavor to bring to our readers the information necessary in this special election, whish has been special election, which has been set for June 6.

TO TAKE ON MEN

The Wabash section will be increased Saturday to 20 men to repair tracks and ties for several miles. Mr. Hensley of Spencerville is the boss and possibly many of the furloughed men will be taken on.

BEAUTY! is only skin deep

THE most perfectly molded features can be spoiled by a dull, faded complexion. When you subject the delicate texture of your skin to the searing heat of old fashioned cooking methods; when you stand for hours in the stale air of a stuffy kitchen, robbed of much of its oxygen by flaming fuel; when you allow your complexion to be withered by noxious fumes and clogging grease, you are destroying your beauty.

Do not let the drudgery of preparing meals three times a day over an open flame range steal your charm away and line your face beyond repair. Famous beauty experts tell us that it is not the years, but dry skin that ages a woman.

Electric cookery is cool, clean, and automatic, so that you, when in the kitchen are few and you have much happy freedom with which to build up your vitality and put the sparkle in your eye, while your meals cook to delicious perfection without attention.

A visit to our showrooms will allow you to see demonstrations of all standard makes of electric ranges and to choose the make and model best fitted to your need.

FAITH

What this country has become is due to the faith and determination of its people.

This same faith and determination, handed down for generations, is the spirit today that will lead us back to a steady return to prosperity—a prosperity founded upon a solid substantial foundation.

Our town, our country-side, our nation were not built by soft people. They were built by the sturdy pioneers of yesterday and of today, undaunted in their pursuit of prosperity and happiness.

Again, we are moving forward.

The upward swing has started. America is on her feet. Fall in line and move along with the mass of loyal Americans.

A SECRET OF HAPPINESS

"If you don't care for the things you can't obtain you'll be fairly happy."

On the surface it is not an inspiring message. Not to care for the things we can't obtain is to resign, give up, be supine. And when we quit in life's struggle we pay a dear price, indeed, for our meagre mete of happiness. Most of us perhaps, would rather keep on fighting. There is joy in the fight; joy at least to know there is fight in us.

Let us reverse the formula.

"If you care enough for the things you have obtained, you will be supremely happy."

The humble farmer, on his little farm—if he loves that farm—may be happy beyond compare. If he loves it well, he will till it well, intelligently, thoroughly, and it will yield him rich store. The widowed mother, in the little cottage, has her children, and if she loves them well they will be her life. The clerk at the desk, if he loves his work, will be happy in it. Or the motorman in his cab of steel, may find in the easy response of the throbbing motors and his rolling palace, a sense of responsibility for the passing multitude that will bring him pride and joy.

To be truly happy in our lot we need not be contented. Indeed, happiness and contentment, while we keep moving on life's highway, are not to be reconciled. If we love the work we do we shall be thrilled not alone to do it well, but to do it better.

Far away fields are always green to too many of us. Only after many fruitless pilgrimages is the simple truth borne home that if the field at our door is not attractive and verdant it is because we do not water its shrubs and grasses. If we love our field we will tend it. And, more important, if we tend it we will come to love it.

And this to them in whom ambition burns. Only by the degree to which you prove yourself true to the modest task of today can you fit yourself for, or inspire others to entrust you with, greater duties tomorrow.

VALUELESS DOLLARS

It probably never occurs to most of us that there is such a thing as valueless money. And it isn't counterfeit either. Millions of honest and legitimate good dollars in this country are now absolutely valueless and useless.

This is the money that drops out of circulation. It is hoarded money. Its owners keep it in safe deposit boxes or in teapots or buried in the back yard.

Money has no intrinsic value—its value is determined by what it can do when it is working. When out of work, it is as useless as would be a number of similar sized pieces of tin. It isn't paying taxes or meeting dividends or employing labor or buying supplies. It isn't doing its part in keeping the wheels of enterprise turning.

There are two ways of putting money back into circulation. One is depositing it in commercial or savings accounts in banks, or purchasing government or other high-grade securities. The other is by buying needed articles or effecting necessary repairs. And this way is the best of all. The money spent serves a double purpose. It provides employment and alleviates distress—and it obtains for the spender the supplies and repairs at the lowest prices since pre-war days.

Put at least part of the dollar into furnace renovation, into a new roof or the house repairs or paint, into some labor saving appliance, into plumbing or yard work. You'll get about twice the value you'd have gotten three years ago—and you will have helped the cause of recovery.

America needs more jobs, and less charity. It needs more spending—wise spending, that gets honest and permanent values in return.

Remember that right now "investment and employment are cheaper than charity."

LESS TAXES— NOT DIFFERENT TAXES

In addressing a group of citizens recently, Speaker O'Malley of the Nebraska Legislature, expressed opposition to either a sales tax or an income tax, and said that new taxes cannot solve the problem—which is simply that of finding means to make necessary, less taxes.

Tax shifting is by way of becoming the most popular legislative sport. Levies are taken off real estate—and put on investments. Personal property taxes are reduced—and an additional tax is placed against incomes. The assessor sends a new and different blank—but the check that goes back is as large or larger than before.

The principal difference between government and business is this: Business estimates how much it may reasonably expect to take in during a given period, and government what it spends accordingly. Government estimates how much it wants to spend—and then goes out to get the revenue. As a result, in a time of declining national income, when business recession, unemployment and agricultural and industrial distress, are at unprecedented levels, the budget is unbalanced, national and state indebtedness continues to rise—and new avenues of taxation are being explored.

We must choose between tax reduction and national financial ruin. "Tax strikes" in many parts of the country are indicative of the way the wind is blowing. Unless office holders voluntarily find ways to reduce the burden of government, the people will take matters in their own hands and force tax reduction down political throats.

Members of the American Legion are indeed in the saddle at the Indiana statehouse. From the governor's office to the lowliest clerical positions in the cellar, the gold and blue emblem of the veterans' organization is seen on the lapels of state employes. While it would be almost impossible to enumerate the scores of minor officials who are Legionnaires, it is notable that the veterans are holding down some of the biggest positions under the statehouse dome.

THE JIG-SAW PUZZLE

Oh, gee, there's fun at our house
Since jig-saws got th' rage;
Ma speaks to Pa but seldom—
I'm told to be my age!

I sit there like a mummy,
Don't even git to play;
Our telephone starts ringin'—
They'd let it ring all day!

Ma looks at Pa—suspicious—
She thinks he's holdin' out
Some piece Ma needs to finish
"Napoleon Put to Rout!"

Say, I near died a-laughin',
Time both come bringin' home
Th' same two jiggy-jiggies—
"When Nero Fiddled Rome!"

Pa wouldn't eat his supper,
Said Ma done that fer spite;
Then sent me to th' drug store
Fer "Broadway After Night!"

They've jigged "Scenes at Venice"
An' "Gold Rush Days in Nome;"
But, listen, fellers—listen—
I'm 'fraid to stay at home!

Last night they lost two pieces
From "Happy Days Down South"
They both went crawlin'—lookin'
I had 'em in my mouth!

No one dares touch th' table
Where they're jig-sawin' at;
Pa even kicked the kitten
Fer stompin' 'round like that!

Mrs. Nina Gee Hadsell, of Hicksville, O., spent from Wednesday until Friday afternoon as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee. Thursday a birthday dinner was served in her honor, to which her daughter, Maurine, now Mrs. Ernest Patterson, of Albany, N. Y., Mrs. C. H. Curie and children were invited. In the afternoon the seven drove to Auburn and called on Mrs. Hugh Neiland. Mrs. S. D. Gee, Mrs. J. C. F. Abel, Howard and Marjorie Gee and Mrs. Frank Curie called during her visit here.

Upon application of the heirs, Frank E. Lyon, county auditor, has been appointed in the DeKalb circuit court as administrator of the estate of the late Filena Helen Reasoner of Newville, who died March 16. The estate consists of $1,400 in personal property and $200 in real estate. The heirs are the widower, Chalmer Reasoner, of Butler, and four children, Debie Stroh and Eva Hook of Butler, Allie Layman of Auburn and Orla Woodring of Greenwich, Ohio. Mr. Lyon filed $2,800 bond, with Mrs. Layman, Debie Stroh, Elmer Stroh, Orrin Hook and Eva Hook as sureties. Mrs. Stroh is objecting to the probate of her mother's will.

MY BABY BROTHER

My baby brother has golden curls,
And teeth like little pearls.
Tiny are his hands, and tiny are his feet.
Though he is so tiny, he is always clean and neat.

His eyes are like the waters blue,
His lips are like red rubies, too.
He is happy all day long,
And in the evening likes to hear his Mother's bedtime song.

Pilgrim Fathers' Lives Sustained by Hominy

Hominy, golden grain of the plumed Indian maize beaten into coarse meal. Gift of welcome to the Pilgrim fathers from their red neighbors. Among the dishes of early American cookery, what the Cabots and Lodges are to the sons and daughters of the American Revolution.

Of hominy as a food of the Colonists, wrote Captain Smith in 1629. "They commonly fed upon milke hominy, which is bruised Indian corne pounded and boiled thicke, and milke for the sauce."

"Their ordinary diet is poane and omine, both made of corn," wrote Lord Baltimore; and William Penn. "Their diet is maize, sometimes beaten and boiled with water, which they call homine." One waggish scribe relates, "Our entertainer made him (a newcomer) own that a plate of hominy was the best rice pudding he did ever eat."

Today we commonly refer to the coarse meal made of white corn kernels, from which the rough fibrous part and the germ has been removed, as hominy grits. Hominy is the term more generally applied to the whole corn grains hulled by lye immersion.—Exchange.

Writer Has Some Doubt About Weather Control

A scientist thinks that weather eventually may be controlled by electricity. We contemplate with awe the bringing on of a thunderstorm by pressing a button. Will powerful sirens warn the people of the storm's approach so they will stop the superfluous watering of their lawns and shut the northwest windows? For we do not suppose that the electrical rainmakers will so far defy established natural laws as to bring rainstorms from unheard of directions.

The rains should be quite orderly and never freakish. Ruskin said: "As men do not walk on their heads, there are natural laws that clouds do not disobey." We have always thought that man would, one of these days, determine when rain should fall and when it shouldn't, and electrical control may be the secret. But we have profound doubts of his being able to do a thing when a Gulf of Mexico hurricane comes ashore.—F. H. Collier in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Water Freezes

There is no difference between the freezing point of water that has been heated and that which has not been heated if the water is pure. In the case of tap water which is nearly pure but contains dissolved air, heating the water may drive out some of the air. This has no considerable effect on the freezing point, but may make a difference in the character of the ice produced. Hot-water pipes are reported to burst from freezing more often than cold-water pipes. This is not because of a difference of freezing point of the water, but is probably because the water in cold-water pipes contains dissolved air, which separates on freezing and forms slushy ice; while when water in a hot-water pipe freezes, it is more apt to become undercooled and then freeze rather suddenly, forming compact ice free from bubbles, which is more apt to break a pipe.

Composed Famous Song

A negro year book says that Richard Milburn was the composer of "Listen to the Mocking Bird." Mr. Septimus Winner, composer and publisher, induced Milburn to whistle this song before him while he wrote down the birdlike notes. The song was afterward published by Mr. Winner in Philadelphia in 1855, and during the years 1855 to 1860, it was popular with minstrel companies and serenading parties. The front of the piece reads "Words by Septimus Winner—Music by Alice Hawthorne." "Alice Hawthorne" was one of the pseudonyms used by Mr. Winner on his title pages.

Magna Charta Reminder

The organization known as the Society of the Daughters of the Barons of Runnymede was organized in 1915 by Mrs. Robert G. Hogan of Catonsville, Md., who conceived the idea of an organization for women similar to a men's organization, the Baronial Order of Runnymede, which was organized but undeveloped on account of our entry into the World war. The membership is limited to those who can trace their ancestry in a direct line to a baron who in the year 1215 A. D., compelled the signing of the Magna Charta by King John at Runnymede. The organization is American.

The Danger

The football game guests reached the house before their host, and Mary was just getting the doorkey out of its known hiding place, when David protested:

"We'd better not go in before they come. They have a dog, you know."

"Oh, yes, I know," she returned nonchalantly, "but the dog has a lame leg. He won't hurt us!"

"Well," returned her escort, "I was afraid he might bite us, not kick us!"

But, how big to make the hole was the question; because it would take more dough to go around a big hole. He went crazy. We hope Congress will not come to this sad plight with the beer problem. If beer retails at five cents per glass only a very minor revenue may be expected by the government, and if the beer is retailed at ten cents per glass the consumption will be light.

DOROTHY GEORGE WEDS LAST SUNDAY

Miss Dorothy George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John George, of North Jackson Street, Auburn, was united in marriage with Ralph S. Elam, proprietor of the Paramount Dry Cleaning shop at Garrett, The ceremony took place at the parsonage of the Trinity Methodist Church in Fort Wayne, Sunday morning at 9:45, the Rev. E. E. Trippeer, a former Auburn pastor, officiating.

The single ring ceremony was read and the only attendants were the bride's brother, Theron George of Auburn and the groom's sister, Miss Lucile Elam of Garrett.

The bride wore a gown of turquoise blue georgette trimmed in rose with beige accessories. Miss Elam wore rust chiffon with accessories also of beige.

A wedding dinner was served at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents to the wedding party. Mr. and Mrs. Elam left immediately following the dinner for Cleveland for a several days' stay and on their return will reside with Mrs. Elam's parents for the present. Mrs. Elam wore green with blonde accessories for traveling.

Mr. Elam was graduated from the Garrett high school with the class of 1925 and is a member of the Garrett Phi Delta Kappa chapter. Mrs. Elam was a member of the 1926 class of the Auburn high school and belongs to Auburn chapter of the Sigma Beta sorority.

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 40 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months; 3 pounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk 3 to 4 feet high, and just loaded with leaves.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakuriima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 30 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 22 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.

Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—4 Pkts. 90c—dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

FORMER DEKALB COUNTY RESIDENT, AGE 67, DIES

Cassius M. Lounsberry, aged 67, whose father was the first white male child born in DeKalb county, died at his home in Elkhart, Ind., Sunday afternoon following a long illness. He had been a semi-invalid since stricken with paralysis three and a half years ago and had been confined to his bed since he suffered a serious stroke on February 4 last.

The deceased was in the grocery business at Elkhart 28 years and later became a field represen. tative of the Indiana state tax commission. He was serving in the latter capacity when stricken on an interurban car with the affliction that caused his retirement from active work.

Mr. Lounsberry's grandparents were among the earliest settlers of DeKalb county. His parents were living on a farm near Edgerton, O., when he was born, April 14, 1865. When he was 10 years old the family moved near Hamilton, in Steuben county, and five years later to St. Joe, Ind. At the age of 16 he went to Bismarck, N. D., and a few years later took a position in the postoffice there. In early manhood he entered the railway mail service on the Northern Pacific railway, and while serving as chief mail clerk he was critically injured and burned in a railroad wreck. For several months he was a patient in the railroad hospital at Brainard, Minn., and soon after his discharge he moved to Elkhart.

The head nurse at the hospital was Miss Mary Hough, of Highland, Kas., who beame his wife September 4, 1890. The widow and four children survive.

SOME SPEED

A divorce and a marriage within an hour—an all-time marital speed record for Steuben county—has been established by Sheldon R Bankson, aged 27, of Ashley. A few minutes after Judge Clyde Carlin had granted Bankson a divorce from his first wife, Irene, the young Ashley workman applied at the county clerk's office for a license to wed Josephine Rosetta Coe, aged 18, of Pleasant Lake. The couple were married a short time later by Milo Thomson justice of the peace.

THE TAX MENACE A GROWING CRISIS

By FRANCIS H. SISSON

President American Bankers Association

NO danger, economic or social, more seriously menaces our life, happiness and prosperity than the rising tide of taxes which threaten to engulf us. This is not simply a problem of the depression. It has been developing for many years, growing more serious all the time. The depression merely brought it to a climax. Unless drastic steps are taken to reverse this trend the problem will not end with the depression. It will continue to weigh down and retard progress for an indefinite period.

F. H. SISSON

In city, county, state and nation the orgy of spending has run on. It is estimated that in the United States the total cost of all government is nearly five times what it was before the World War. Many localities have been brought to the verge of bankruptcy by their expenditures, while many have saddled their citizens with a debt burden that will darken their lives and hamper their progress for years to come.

The total cost of Federal, state and local government in the United States is estimated at forty-six million dollars a day. Based on national income in 1930, this represents about one-fifth the total income of our people, or about $110 for every individual in the nation. Total taxes in 1931 are estimated to have taken more than 22 per cent of the national income. It is occasion for serious thought on the part of everyone when one day's income out of every four or five must be contributed to the maintenance of government machinery.

Reductions Possible

United States Government expenditures were reduced one hundred and forty million dollars during the first quarter of the current fiscal year. The recent action of bankers in calling a halt to unnecessary expenditures of New York City as prerequisite to loans will reduce the cost of government in the country's metropolis, which is second in its expenditures to only the Federal Government. No state in the Union, in fact, no other government on this hemisphere, spends half as much as this one city. These savings in Federal and municipal costs are only the beginning of a movement needed throughout the country, if we are to be led out of depression into prosperity.

Unless the people can be made to realize that money for governmental expenditure can come only from their own pockets as taxpayers, casting depressing effects on both individual effort and general business, there is an imminent threat that we may be forced to meet economic difficulties similar to those that have so seriously handicapped other countries. The question is not primarily one of merely paring government salaries or shaving budgets, but rather of curtailing government activities for which we cannot afford to pay.

The idea that money for these mounting extravagances can be raised by following the slogan "Soak the Rich" is utterly fallacious, for such a policy will simply exterminate "the rich" and eliminate sources of revenue. It is also important to realize that corporate business in this country is in no position to withstand the effects of indefinite advances in tax rates. Current earning reports reveal that fact beyond shadow of doubt. The tax base must be broadened, and it therefore seems likely that Congress will be called upon to reconsider the sales tax at least as a temporary measure to help meet a critical condition in the nation's finance.

Deposit 'Guarantee' Fails of Purpose

LOS ANGELES.—While the idea of the guarantee of bank deposits by some legally enforced plan seems to appeal to many people who give it casual thought, the fact is that it has not only failed in every instance in the eight states where the experiment was tried, but actually produced unsound banking and increased the number of failures, it was declared by the recent convention of the American Bankers Association held here.

"Guaranty of bank deposits carries an idea that naturally appeals to people in general on casual consideration," the declaration said. "However, in principle it is unsound and in practice it is unworkable. It has been tried in eight States and it has not only failed in every case, but it has resulted in increasing the number of bank failures. Taxing properly managed banks to make up losses of failed banks is not only unfair and unreasonable, but it weakens the whole banking structure. Again, guaranty of deposits places the incompetent and reckless banker on an equal footing with the able and conservative banker, which encourages bad banking at the expense of sound banking. We are therefore opposed to the passage of any law carrying a guaranty of bank deposits and believe that it is against the interest of the people of the United States to develop any such system."

INDUSTRY SEES HOPEFUL SIGNS, BANKERS TOLD

Leading Automobile Unit Expects to Employ More Men This Winter Than Last

MOTOR SUPPLY IN HANDS OF PUBLIC FALLING OFF

Twelve Million Years Less Transportation in Nation's Car Inventory Than Considered Normal, Manufacturer Tells Financiers

ESTIMATING that transportation in the form of automobiles now in the hands of the American public is twelve million "car-years" below normal, and that this deficit will eventually have to be made up, Richard H. Grant, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, recently told the American Bankers Association convention that employment in his company may be greater this winter than last year.

"Employment during the winter months is a very important thing," Mr. Grant said. "So far as our corporation is concerned, in November, December, January and February we will be employing at least as many and probably more men than we did this past year."

In order to gauge the outlook for next year's market, his corporation, he said, attempts to set up sales indices based on intensive scientific studies in addition to observation and common sense.

"We are in the habit of looking upon an automobile not merely as an automobile but as transportation," he said. "We figure each automobile produced as six years of transportation. Then by following up records of production yearly, we get a graph which indicates what ought to be a normal inventory of transportation in the hands of the American people, and whether there are more or less miles than might be expected. According to our figures, there are about twelve million years less transportation in this inventory at the present time than has been considered normal since 1925.

The Outlook for Business

"Consequently, if we retain the same purchasing power in this country, it is quite evident that on the first upturn of business there will be a rush to replace that inventory. In developing this graph, it has come out very strongly that every third year is a big automobile year. The biggest automobile year was 1929 when 4,100,000 cars were produced for American consumption. This year the industry will produce somewhere between 1,800,000 and 1,900,000 cars. As 1932 is three years after 1929, if economic conditions were normal we could be sure we would do a tremendous business, because the third year is the time when the bulk of the replacing takes place."

He added that there are factors at work that make it uncertain how big the year will be, instancing that "money is being hoarded from lack of confidence and this takes away some purchasing power that we would otherwise have, while family budgets are being cut on account of changes in income conditions, which again means that purchasing power for the automobile, like a good many other things, will be knocked down." As a result, he said, it was necessary to measure what statistically would be a big year against a practical consideration of the curtailment of expenditures which is going on and determine how big the year will be under these circumstances.

"From a long haul standpoint, regardless of how many automobiles are sold in 1932, we are storing up a big business for the future," Mr. Grant said. "There will be fewer automobiles sold in 1931 than will go to the scrap heap. With 12,000,000 car-years out of the inventory, nine percent more gasoline was used up to August 1, 1931, than was used in 1930. With fewer automobiles, the people must have been running them faster and longer to consume the additional gasoline. This means that we have some 22,000,000 people working hard to make a fine business for our industry when there is an economic recovery.

No False Optimism

"I am not attempting to create any false optimism—I am not speaking without a statistical background. Using the best sense we can, we have drawn conclusions from the figures we have, and I am willing to make the statement that as far as the conduct of our business for the first half of 1932 is concerned, we shall set the indices somewhat higher than the actualities of 1931. We are willing to set our advertising budgets and our selling expense on that kind of indices. With economic conditions as they are, and since the obsolescence is so great and we have sunk so low in this year's sales, we figure that the first half of 1932 must necessarily be better than was the first half of 1931."

Bankers Help

Seven banks of Kennebec County, Maine, cooperated with the county grange, farm bureau, and local creameries in financing the publication of a booklet, entitled, "The Agricultural Situation in Kennebec County." It presents in a concise manner the farm resources and practices of the county, with suggestions for improvement.

THE MACHINE AGE SPOILS A PROPHECY

By H. L. RUSSELL

Advisory Council, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

A NOTED British scientist forecast thirty years ago that by 1931 all available wheat land in the world would be under cultivation, and if the yields per acre could not be increased beyond that which then prevailed there would be a world shortage. The average yield then was 12.7 bushels per acre. During the past seven years, the world over, it has been 14.1. On the 320,000,000 acres in cultivation this increase would amount to almost a half billion bushels more production than the world standards of thirty years ago. In place of dire distress due to shortage, we have had dire distress due to surplus.

H. L. RUSSELL

Wheat farmers have shown no great inclination to curtail materially their output; perhaps a 10% decline compared with 70% reduction in steel. This unwillingness, or perhaps inability, to adjust production to current needs makes the problem all the harder to solve.

Not only are we now growing more wheat per unit of land, but acreage has been very greatly extended. In twenty years Canada has increased acreage 250%. Australia almost as much. Another significant fact is the materially lessened use of wheat. A much more diversified diet has developed. More vegetables and fruits are used than formerly. The reduction of 1.2 bushels consumed per person per annum since the last generation necessitates nearly 150,000,000 bushels less wheat than was formerly required.

Machines Increase Supply

The factor that has exerted the most potent influence in this rising world flood of grain has been the rapid development of the machine. The old days of the cradle required from thirty to forty hours of hand labor to harvest an acre of grain. Then came the binder, which reduced the process to four or five hours per acre. Now the combine does the work in forty-five minutes per acre.

Where it used to cost ten cents a bushel merely to thresh the grain, the modern combine cuts and threshes at a cost ranging from 3 to 5 cents a bushel. With this reduced cost of production, the possibility of acreage expansion is tremendous. Lands heretofore regarded as worthless except for grazing have recently come into competition with the older wheat belts.

The Russian Effort

Within the past two or three years another disturbing element has come into the picture. Soviet Russia is attempting a comeback fraught with possibility that cannot yet be fully evaluated. Russia is eagerly utilizing the very latest of scientific knowledge to enlarge her agricultural possibilities. With feverish anxiety she is literally pouring millions into the expansion of her university research institutes, experimental stations and breeding farms. Her scientists are combing the earth for new crops and new methods. No country in Europe is manifesting more interest and activity in laying hold of the best science, wherever it may be found.

It is of more than passing interest that the wheat yields reported on the huge trust farm known as the "Giant" ran last year as much as 18 bushels to the acre. On this single farm the crop harvested is reported to have been 3,865,000 bushels. A single farm of 427,000 acres under government control and mechanized as fast as human energy can be applied is a new factor in the world's picture.

There can be but little doubt that the Russian situation may yet assume quite a different attitude from what obtained even in pre-war days.

Bankers Hold Farm Conference

A "feeders' conference" was held in a state bank at Presho, South Dakota, attended by fifty farmers. The conference stressed the feeding of low price wheat and barley, and marketing it through livestock. Later, booklets on the feeding of wheat were distributed among the farmers, and a feeders column was carried in the local paper each week.

"We have had more success with the conference and with the feeders column in the local paper, than with any other undertaking we have tried," the bankers said. "As a result there is about three times as much livestock being fed out in our territory than ever before. We plan to hold other similar conferences the coming year."

The benefits of civilization exist because of the capital accumulated by those who have gone before. Through accumulation of capital our great railroads have been constructed, our public utilities have been built and our mills, office buildings and homes have arisen.

The Ghostly Three Notes

The Story So Far: George Bancroft has ordered his second wife, Barbara, to leave his house and never return because of the cruel treatment she has given his son, Jerry.

After the course of five or six years which followed, Mr Bancroft had dismissed the relationship between him and Barbara from his mind, and in the meantime Barbara had secured a divorce without much effort.

Jerry was now nearing his tenth birthday. He was becoming a very accomplished musician on the piano. His father was anxious for Jerry to learn the piano, because his first wife had been a pianist to perfection, the greatest in England. So George, in hope of securing a better knowledge of music for Jerry, took him to Paris where they remained for six months.

After Jerry's six months in music school were over, George and Jerry left Paris, and toured Europe for several months; then they started back for London.

On returning home, Mr. Bancroft found things quite as he had left them, except that his beautiful estate looked very much deserted, because he had dismissed all his servants before he left for Paris. However, they would all return as soon as he notified them.

That evening Jerry got permission from his father to stay up with him and practice the piano, becaue he hadn't played his own since they had been to Paris.

As Jerry was playing his father interrupted.

"Jerry where is Corky?"

Corky was a large English Dane which George had gotten for Jerry in Paris.

Jerry stopped playing and answered, "I left him out doors a few minutes ago."

"Well Jerry, now that you have stopped on that piece, please play my old favorite."

"You bet, Dad," and Jerry started the selection.

George listened very attentively and patted time as Jerry played. As Jerry was ending the first strain, Corky began barking fiercely but he stopped quickly, so quickly in fact that it sounded unreal. Just as soon as Corky stopped barking, Jerry stopped playing very abruptly.

"Go ahead," said George. "It was only Corky. Perhaps he doesn't like his new neighborhood."

George received no response from Jerry, and Jerry made no effort to move and hadn't since Corky stopped barking so suddenly.

Mr. Bancroft, frightened by Jerry's stillness, rushed to the piano bench only to find Jerry stiff and rigid. He noticed that Jerry was staring at his music with fixed, glassy eyes. His breathing had become hushed and his pulse has ceased to announce its course.

George shouted the first thots which entered his mind.

"Barbara, Barbara, how could you do it?"

SIX SAY THEY FIND IT NECESSITY; NO LUXURY

"Inquiring Photographer" Gets One Verdict on Telephone

Each day the "Inquiring Photographer" of the New York "Daily News" accosts half a dozen people, asks a question, and publishes pictures and answers of the people to whom he puts the query. They are selected at random, in order that they may represent a cross-section of public opinion.

A recent question asked by the "Inquiring Photographer" was, "Do you consider a telephone in your home a luxury or a necessity?" All six persons interviewed considered it a necessity. Said a musician: "There are many contracts which I get over my phone which would not be possible otherwise." A millinery manufacturer referred to the value of the telephone in emergencies and also explained that household difficulties are often minimized by prompt telephone calls.

Experience Proved Its Real Worth

A floor covering salesman explained that while he might economize on many things, he thought he never could do so on the telephone, as in certain emergencies it might be worth its cost for ten years. Said a merchant: "The other day, our youngster had an accident and my wife immediately notified me and a doctor. We were there almost instantly, and that one call was worth a year's cost of service. It is absolutely necessary for a wife." An airway manager likewise referred to the necessity of the telephone for his wife, saving her trouble and time and being worth more than its cost when the wear and tear on a woman's nervous system is considered.

The sixth person interviewed, a salesman, said he spoke from actual experience. He and his wife thought they would save some money by canceling their telephone service; but after a month without a telephone, and many inconveniences, they decided that it was an absolute necessity.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

SURPRISE PARTY

One of the most enjoyable events of the Culture Club year, occurred last Wednesday night, March 22, at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hart, when the ladies entertained their husbands to a birthday surprise party in honor of Mr. George Hart.

The meeting was called to order by the president and a brief business session followed.

The committee in charge were Mesdames Esther Bowman, Catherine Bowser, Neva Hursh and Dale Hart.

The evening was spent in playing dominoes, checkers, cards and working Jig-saw puzzles. Partners were arranged in a unique manner and each lady and gentleman were transformed into a Jiggs, Brown, Dumb Dora or a Katzenjammer, etc. The whole event was climaxed with an appetizing pot luck supper.

At the hour of departure the guests extended their thanks and appreciation to the hostess and committee.

SURPRISE PARTIES

A birthday surprise supper was given Mrs. Mary Sechler and B. E. Widney, at the Wm. Staman home Saturday evening. About supper time Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley and son, Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Monroe and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole came in to help in the evening's celebration. The honored guests were about the house, but never thought of a surprise being planned.

Sunday a surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ridgway in honor of the host. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Freeburn and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dorsey, Mrs. Glen Wineland, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Curie and family, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mason of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Blalock of Hicksville, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hollabaugh and son of Spencerville, Mrs. Belle Freeburn of Woodburn and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baker. Mr. Ridgway enjoyed the surprise and the fine dinner, and the guests wished him many happy returns of the day.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1933. NUMBER 14

GRIST MILL IS AGAIN IN OPERATION

Possibly there is no other commodity so universally used as flour, hence this expression that, bread is the staff of life, gives us new hopes for the successful operation of the local grist mill, after an idleness of a few years.

We are glad to broadcast this fact to the people of this section of DeKalb county, advising them that the mill has been thoroughly remodeled in every particular, many weeks being used in the preparation of the mill before opening, and now white velvet flour is being drawn from the packing bins by the bagfull.

Years ago the flour manufactured here had gained a wide spread reputation, and the attractive "Daily Bread" sacks made the public ask for it, and children would cry for it.

Today the new brand is labeled "White Velvet" and the manufacturers are proud of its high quality, revealed by comparison with many other brands.

The public is asked to give the millers of White Velvet Flour their support. You can sell or exchange your wheat here, and you are urged to see them before selling your wheat. Middlings on hand at all times from soft wheat, flour and bran to meet the demands of the community, and feed grinding on Tuesday and Friday, ought to prove a blessing to the farmers, making it possible for them to be served right here at home.

Ray Knisely, of Grabill and E. W. Woods, of Fort Wayne, are the operators, and the latter having forty years of practical experience in the milling business ought to qualify him as A-1 miller.

Corn meal, graham flour and feeds will be added as the demand is made.

Anyway, call at the mill, get acquainted and when you need their products, a trial will convince you that you ought not use anything else.

Number 3, formerly 8:58 P. M. now arrives at 11:13 P. M.

East Bound

Number 4, now arrives at 4.04 A. M. This train brings the parcel post, and makes it fine for rural delivery.

Number 52 arrives at 5:43 A M. An accommodation train from Fort Wayne to Toledo and Detroit.

Number 6 arrives at 12:36 P.M.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frank Scholes (Susan I. Deltrick) was born in Springfield Township, Allen County, Indiana, October 20, 1858 and died in St. Joe, Indiana, March 30, 1933, at her home following a stroke of paralysis, having attained the age of 74 years, 5 months and 10 days. Her marriage to Frank Scholes occurred on October 13, 1881, and to them were born five daughters and two sons: Mrs. Henry Dehner of Decatur, Mrs. Robert Ulm of Butler, Mrs. A. E. Erickson of Garrett, Mrs. Emmet Epler and Mrs. Herman C. Kessler of St. Joe, Clark Scholes, who is engaged in engineering in southern Indiana and Jay Scholes, deceased. There are also nineteen grandchildren and one great grandchild who belong to the complete family circle. Frank Scholes, the husband, died nearly two years ago (May 21, 1931.)

Before her marriage Mrs. Scholes was a successful public school teacher, and was thus employed for several terms in Allen County. After her marriage she was completely devoted to her home and family. While the earlier part of their married life was spent in places conveniently located for Mr. Scholes' employment, for many years St. Joe has been their permanent home.

When Mrs. Scholes was quite young she became a Christian, uniting with the Springfield Center Lutheran Church. After her marriage she united with the Christian Church at Newville, where Mr. Scholes was then engaged as teacher. Later they continued to affiliate with the Disciples in whatever place they lived. However, a beautiful liberality commended them to all religious peoples.

Mrs. Scholes' funeral service was from the home in St. Joe, on Sunday, April 2, at two o'clock, and was conducted by the Rev. J. O. Rose. The burial was in Alton Cemetery, E. R. Kinsey, funeral director.

DOLLARS COME HOME

Trace the course of a dollar spent for property improvement, repairs, or replacement.

Part of it goes to local merchants, who provide the needed materials. Another part goes to the workman on the job.

The workman spends his part for the necessities of life. The corner grocery, the drug store, the department store gets it—and through them it goes to their employes, to the farmer and the manufacturer. Then the circle begins again—the money enters new pockets, passes through other industries, travels to other sections of the country.

The part of the dollar going to the store providing the supplies follows much the same course. It pays the store's workers. It pays bills. It goes to factories to purchase new stock. From the factory it goes to other workmen, to related industries supplying raw materials, to investors.

And, at last, the dollar comes back, through one channel or another, to the original spender.

In a short length of time that dollar has had a thousand uses. It has done the work of a thousand dollars.

That's the beauty of money which is actually circulating—it is used an infinite number of times, and it does as much good each time.

Now is the time to obtain needed repairs at the lowest cost in decades—and at the same time do your bit in fighting depression.

Jobs are cheaper than charity—and without jobs, there won't be anything for charity.

A Senate errand boy collided with a lady in the corridor, knocking her down, and broke her hip. Things are on the move in the Senate, notwithstanding its reputation for extreme deliberation.

The favor accorded to the plan for putting the unemployed to work in the woods brings the general subject of forestry to mind. There is little real forestry practiced in this country. Europe can teach us along that line. Over there, a timber tree is considered worthy of as much care as a fruit tree.

The sum of five hundred million dollars seems to be a popular figure. It stands out in large type in two different connections. That much gold is said to have been turned into the Treasury by people who had it salted away, and it is proposed in Congress to appropriate that amount to help the states out of their various woes. It is a good thing, however, that each person in the United States does not need a lift. He would get $4.07.

Mr. Roosevelt's fifteen per cent cut in federal salaries did not come as a marked surprise to those whom it affected. Although it applies for three months only, the President has power to extend it beyond that period, and the indications are that it will be continued, for some time at least. The measure strikes impartially, from members of Congress all the way down the line. When one hears a government job mentioned, the first thought, and often the definite conclusion, is that it is something in Washington. As a matter of fact, about six percent of federal placeholders are located in the capitol city. The pay cut will be felt not only in Washington, where the plums are supposed to grow largest and in greatest numbers, but in the remotest hamlet as well.

Mr. Hitler has been made the boss of Germany. That does not concern us greatly. We shall go right along paying our taxes and praising or abusing the President and Congress, exactly as we did before Adolf came upon the German stage. Nevertheless, there are some timid souls who think that every new dictatorship is one more evidence that popular government is a mistake, and destined to be supplanted by something more modern and efficient. Those who hold that view should recall that George Washington was offered a crown; but the marvelous national growth of the Nineteenth Century did not take place under a one-man rule. If General Washington had set himself up as a dictator of the present-day type, circumstances would have deposed him, because the world does not progress in that way. Ten years from now, school children will have to go to the dictionary to find out what dictatorship was. In times of stress, the world runs wild, but it does not become hopelessly and insurably insane. Surrendering everything, into one pair of hands is something so contrary to the promptings of human nature that no one should ehink for a moment that such a proceeding has permanence or an enduring future.

Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee and Mrs. C. H. Curie and children went to Niles, Mich., Thursady to see Mr Gee's uncle Amherst Robe who is suffering from embolism and gangrene. They found him some better. He is spending the winter with his daughter, Mrs. Howard Klute. Mrs. Fred Hart accompanied them to Goshen and spent the day with her son, Glen, and family.

Any person who has given a mortgage on his real property, can make a very substantial tax reduction by filing a mortgage exemption, and all of this can be taken care of by calling at The News office and filing such papers as are necessary by law. In spite of all the publicity given regarding exemptions, many still refuse to take advantage of this saving. Don't do this any longer, when you fail on this, there is double taxation, both the mortgagee and mortgagor pay this tax.

TOWNSHIP SEEKS TO FILE CLAIM AGAINST BANK

Permission to file a claim against the Grabill State bank was sought in a petition entered by Harry W. Bender, township trustee, through Attorneys Hartzell & Todd, in circuit court. The Harlan State bank was appointed receiver for the Grabill State bank July 12, 1927.

The petition states that at the time the Grabill State bank closed its doors, there was on deposit in the bank funds of Cedar Creek township valued at $20,279.66.

A towpship trustee, predecessor to Bender, sold collateral securities, surely on the township's deposit, netting $10,933.98, according to the petition, but, through inadvertence, no claim was filed at the time in behalf of the township, as a result of which it has not been paid the proper amount due it under the receiver's distribution.

The bank receiver paid $4,555.62 as dividends to the predecessor-trustee, it was said. The petition asserted that the sum of $5,534.87 was due the township when the last distribution was made by the receiver, this amount representing principal and interest on the balance.

When Bender was elected trustee he was under the impression that a claim for the sum due the township had been filed with the receiver, according to the petition, but he later learned that no claim had been entered for the balance.

Pilgrim Fathers' Lives Sustained by Hominy

Hominy, golden grain of the plumed Indian maize beaten into coarse meal. Gift of welcome to the Pilgrim fathers from their red neighbors. Among the dishes of early American cookery, what the Cabots and Lodges are to the sons and daughters of the American Revolution.

Of hominy as a food of the Colonists, wrote Captain Smith in 1629. "They commonly fed upon milke hominl, which is bruised Indian corne pounded and boiled thicke, and milke for the sauce."

"Their ordinary diet is poane and omine, both made of corn," wrote Lord Baltimore; and William Penn. "Their diet is maize, sometimes beaten and boiled with water, which they call homine." One waggish scribe relates, "Our entertainer made him (a newcomer) own that a plate of hominy was the best rice pudding he did ever eat."

Today we commonly refer to the coarse meal made of white corn kernels, from which the rough fibrous part and the germ has been removed, as hominy grits. Hominy is the term more generally applied to the whole corn grains hulled by lye immersion.—Exchange.

Writer Has Some Doubt About Weather Control

A scientist thinks that weather eventually may be controlled by electricity. We contemplate with awe the bringing on of a thunderstorm by pressing a button. Will powerful sirens warn the people of the storm's approach so they will stop the superfluous watering of their lawns and shut the northwest windows? For we do not suppose that the electrical rainmakers will so far defy established natural laws as to bring rainstorms from unheard of directions.

The rains should be quite orderly and never freakish. Ruskin said: "As men do not walk on their heads, there are natural laws that clouds do not disobey." We have always thought that man would, one of these days, determine when rain should fall and when it shouldn't, and electrical control may be the secret. But we have profound doubts of his being able to do a thing when a Gulf of Mexico hurricane comes ashore.—F. H. Collier in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Water Freezes

There is no difference between the freezing point of water that has been heated and that which has not been heated if the water is pure. In the case of tap water which is nearly pure but contains dissolved air, heating the water may drive out some of the air. This has no considerable effect on the freezing point, but may make a difference in the character of the ice produced. Hot-water pipes are reported to burst from freezing more often than cold-water pipes. This is not because of a difference of freezing point of the water, but is probably because the water in cold-water pipes contains dissolved air, which separates on freezing and forms slushy ice; while when water in a hot-water pipe freezes, it is more apt to become undercooled and then freeze rather suddenly, forming compact ice free from bubbles, which is more apt to break a pipe.

Composed Famous Song

A negro year book says that Richard Milburn was the composer of "Listen to the Mocking Bird." Mr. Septimus Winner, composer and publisher, induced Milburn to whistle this song before him while he wrote down the birdlike notes. The song was afterward published by Mr. Winner in Philadelphia in 1855, and during the years 1855 to 1865, it was popular with minstrel companies and serenading parties. The front of the piece reads "Words by Septimus Winner—Music by Alice Hawthorne." "Alice Hawthorne" was one of the pseudonyms used by Mr. Winner on his title pages.

Magna Charta Reminder

The organization known as the Society of the Daughters of the Barons of Runnymede was organized in 1915 by Mrs. Robert G. Horan of Catonsville, Md., who conveived the idea of an organization for women similar to a men's organization, the Baronial Order of Runnymede, which was organized but undeveloped on account of our entry into the World war. The membership is limited to those who can trace their ancestry in a direct line to a baron who in the year 1215 A. D., compelled the signing of the Magna Charta by King John at Runnymede. The organization is American.

The Danger

The football game guests reached the house before their host, and Mary was just getting the doorkey out of its known hiding place, when David protested:

"We'd better not go in before they come. They have a dog, you know."

"Oh, yes, I know," she returned nonchalantly, "but the dog has a lame leg. He won't hurt us!"

"Well," returned her escort, "I was afraid he might bite us, not kick us!"

Today's Tasks First

Today is the appointed time to get your job done. Never put it off until tomorrow, for tomorrow will never come. Inertia is one of the greatest of our sins. Do today what should be done today—tomorrow will find its own tasks.—Grit.

High waters again prevailed for the past week, and all the low lands about the river were overflown. No carp have been seen in the back water, possibly due to the cool weather.

E. R. Kinsey was out in the yard Sunday a little while for the first in many weeks. We hope that he may soon recover from his heart and nervous attacks, which have kept him housed up.

Harry Hursh and wife and C. A. Cochran and wife called on Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Andress Sunday evening.

Miss Frances Bishop is staying with Mrs. D. C. McCann, as she is not physically well enough to be left alone at nights.

Mrs. Anna Koch and Lydia Boger of Auburn, were Sunday afternoon and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Coburn and family.

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 60 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months: 2 pounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a great stalk 3 to 4 feet high, and just loaded with leaves.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakurijima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 20 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times and especially during the moulting season. Single heads often measure 11 to 22 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.

Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 15c—1 Lb. 50c—6 Pkts. 50c—Dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

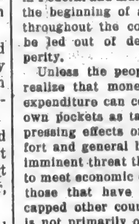
THE TAX MENACE A GROWING CRISIS

By FRANCIS H. SISSON

President American Bankers Association



F. H. SISSON

NO danger, economic or social, more seriously menaces our life, happiness and prosperity than the rising tide of taxes which threaten to engulf us. This is not simply a problem of the depression. It has been developing for many years, growing more serious all the time. The depression merely brought it to a climax. Unless drastic steps are taken to reverse this trend the problem will not end with the depression. It will continue to weigh down and retard progress for an indefinite period.

In city, county, state and nation the orgy of spending has run on. It is estimated that in the United States the total cost of all government is nearly five times what it was before the World War. Many localities have been brought to the verge of bankruptcy by their expenditures, while many have saddled their citizens with a debt burden that will darken their lives and hamper their progress for years to come.

The total cost of Federal, state and local government in the United States is estimated at forty-six million dollars a day. Based on national income in 1930, this represents about one-fifth the total income of our people, or about $110 for every individual in the nation. Total taxes in 1931 are estimated to have taken more than 22 per cent of the national income. It is occasion for serious thought on the part of everyone when one day's income out of every four or five must be contributed to the maintenance of government machinery.

Reductions Possible

United States Government expenditures were reduced one hundred and forty million dollars during the first quarter of the current fiscal year. The recent action of bankers in calling a halt to unnecessary expenditures of New York City as prerequisite to loans will reduce the cost of government in the country's metropolis, which is second in its expenditures to only the Federal Government. No state in the Union, in fact, no other government on this hemisphere, spends half as much as this one city. These savings in Federal and municipal costs are only the beginning of a movement needed throughout the country, if we are to be led out of depression into prosperity.

Unless the people can be made to realize that money for governmental expenditure can come only from their own pockets as taxpayers, casting depressing effects on both individual effort and general business, there is an imminent threat that we may be forced to meet economic difficulties similar to those that have so seriously handicapped other countries. The question is not primarily one of merely paring government salaries or shaving budgets, but rather of curtailing government activities for which we cannot afford to pay.

The idea that money for these mounting extravagances can be raised by following the slogan "Soak the Rich" is utterly fallacious, for such a policy will simply exterminate "the rich" and eliminate sources of revenue. It is also important to realize that corporate business in this country is in no position to withstand the effects of indefinite advances in tax rates. Current earning reports reveal that fact beyond shadow of doubt. The tax base must be broadened, and it therefore seems likely that Congress will be called upon to reconsider the sales tax, at least as a temporary measure to help meet a critical condition in the nation's finance.

Deposit 'Guarantee' Fails of Purpose

LOS ANGELES.—While the idea of the guarantee of bank deposits by some legally enforced plan seems to appeal to many people who give it casual thought, the fact is that it has not only failed in every instance in the eight states where the experiment was tried, but actually produced unsound banking and increased the number of failures, it was declared by the recent convention of the American Bankers Association held here.

"Guaranty of bank deposits carries an idea that naturally appeals to people in general on casual consideration," the declaration said. "However, in principle it is unsound and in practice it is unworkable. It has been tried in eight States and it has not only failed in every case, but it has resulted in increasing the number of bank failures. Taxing properly managed banks to make up losses of failed banks is not only unfair and unreasonable, but it weakens the whole banking structure. Again, guaranty of deposits places the incompetent and reckless banker on an equal footing with the able and conservative banker, which encourages bad banking at the expense of sound banking. We are therefore opposed to the passage of any law carrying a guaranty of bank deposits and believe that it is against the interest of the people of the United States to develop any such system."

INDUSTRY SEES HOPEFUL SIGNS, BANKERS TOLD

Leading Automobile Unit Expects to Employ More Men This Winter Than Last

MOTOR SUPPLY IN HANDS OF PUBLIC FALLING OFF

Twelve Million Years Less Transportation in Nation's Car Inventory Than Considered Normal, Manufacturer Tells Financiers

ESTIMATING that transportation in the form of automobiles now in the hands of the American public is twelve million "car-years" below normal, and that this deficit will eventually have to be made up, Richard H. Grant, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, recently told the American Bankers Association convention that employment in his company may be greater this winter than last year.

"Employment during the winter months is a very important thing," Mr. Grant said. "So far as our corporation is concerned, in November, December, January and February we will be employing at least as many and probably more men than we did this past year."

In order to gauge the outlook for next year's market his corporation, he said, attempts to set up sales indices based on intensive scientific studies in addition to observation and common sense.

"We are in the habit of looking upon an automobile not merely as an automobile but as transportation," he said. "We figure each automobile produced as six years of transportation. Then by following up records of production yearly, we get a graph which indicates what ought to be a normal inventory of transportation in the hands of the American people, and whether there are more or less miles than might be expected. According to our figures, there are about twelve million years less transportation in this inventory at the present time than has been considered normal since 1925.

The Outlook for Business

"Consequently, if we retain the same purchasing power in this country, it is quite evident that on the first upturn of business there will be a rush to replace that inventory. In developing this graph, it has come out very strongly that every third year is a big automobile year. The biggest automobile year was 1929 when 4,100,000 cars were produced for American consumption. This year the industry will produce somewhere between 1,800,000 and 1,900,000 cars. As 1932 is three years after 1929, if economic conditions were normal we could be sure we would do a tremendous business, because the third year is the time when the bulk of the replacing takes place."

He added that there are factors at work that make it uncertain how big the year will be, instancing that "money is being hoarded from lack of confidence and this takes away some purchasing power that we would otherwise have, while family budgets are being cut on account of changes in income conditions, which again means that purchasing power for the automobile, like a good many other things, will be knocked down." As a result, he said, it was necessary to measure what statistically would be a big year against a practical consideration of the curtailment of expenditures which is going on and determine how big the year will be under these circumstances.

"From a long haul standpoint, regardless of how many automobiles are sold in 1932, we are storing up a big business for the future," Mr. Grant said. "There will be fewer automobiles sold in 1931 than will go to the scrap heap. With 12,000,000 car-years out of the inventory, nine percent more gasoline was used up to August 1, 1931, than was used in 1930. With fewer automobiles, the people must have been running them faster and longer to consume the additional gasoline. This means that we have some 22,000,000 people working hard to make a fine business for our industry when there is an economic recovery.

No False Optimism

"I am not attempting to create any false optimism—I am not speaking without a statistical background. Using the best sense we can, we have drawn conclusions from the figures we have, and I am willing to make the statement that as far as the conduct of our business for the first half of 1932 is concerned, we shall set the indices somewhat higher than the actualities of 1931. We are willing to set our advertising budgets and our selling expense on that kind of indices. With economic conditions as they are, and since the obsolescence is so great and we have sunk so low in this year's sales, we figure that the first half of 1932 must necessarily be better than was the first half of 1931."

Bankers Help

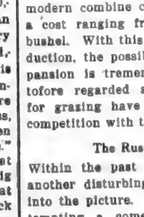
Seven banks of Kennebec County, Maine, cooperated with the county grange, farm bureau, and local creamery, in financing the publication of a booklet, entitled, "The Agricultural Situation in Kennebec County." It presents in a concise manner the farm resources and practices of the county, with suggestions for improvement.

THE MACHINE AGE SPOILS A PROPHECY

By H. L. RUSSELL

Advisory Council, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

A NOTED British scientist forecast thirty years ago that by 1931 all available wheat land in the world would be under cultivation, and if the yields per acre could not be increased beyond that which then prevailed there would be a world shortage. The average yield then was 12.7 bushels per acre. During the past seven years, the world over, it has been 14.1. On the 320,000,000 acres in cultivation this increase would amount to almost a half billion bushels more production than the world standards of thirty years ago. In place of dire distress due to shortage, we have had dire distress due to surplus.



H. L. RUSSELL

Wheat farmers have shown no great inclination to curtail materially their output; perhaps a 10% decline compared with 70% reduction in steel. This unwillingness, or perhaps inability, to adjust production to current needs makes the problem all the harder to solve.

Not only are we now growing more wheat per unit of land, but acreage has been very greatly extended. In twenty years Canada has increased acreage 250%, Australia almost as much. Another significant fact is the materially lessened use of wheat. A much more diversified diet has developed. More vegetables and fruits are used than formerly. The reduction of 1.2 bushels consumed per person per annum since the last generation necessitates nearly 150,000,000 bushels less wheat than was formerly required.

Machines Increase Supply

The factor that has exerted the most potent influence in this rising world flood of grain has been the rapid development of the machine. The old days of the cradle required from thirty to forty hours of hand labor to harvest an acre of grain. Then came the binder, which reduced the process to four or five hours per acre. Now the combine does the work in forty-five minutes per acre.

Where it used to cost ten cents a bushel merely to thresh the grain, the modern combine cuts and threshes at a cost ranging from 3 to 5 cents a bushel. With this reduced cost of production, the possibility of acreage expansion is tremendous. Lands heretofore regarded as worthless except for grazing have recently come into competition with the older wheat belts.

The Russian Effort

Within the past two or three years another disturbing element has come into the picture. Soviet Russia is attempting a comeback fraught with possibility that cannot yet be fully evaluated. Russia is eagerly utilizing the very latest of scientific knowledge to enlarge her agricultural possibilities. With feverish anxiety she is literally pouring millions into the expansion of her university research institutes, experimental stations and breeding farms. Her scientists are combing the earth for new crops and new methods. No country in Europe is manifesting more interest and activity in laying hold of the best science, wherever it may be found.

It is of more than passing interest that the wheat yields reported on the huge trust farm known as the "Giant" ran last year as much as 18 bushels to the acre. On this single farm the crop harvested is reported to have been 3,865,000 bushels. A single farm of 427,000 acres under government control and mechanized as fast as human energy can be applied is a new factor in the world's picture.

There can be but little doubt that the Russian situation may yet assume quite a different attitude from what obtained even in pre-war days.

Bankers Hold Farm Conference

A "feeders' conference" was held in a state bank at Presho, South Dakota, attended by fifty farmers. The conference stressed the feeding of low price wheat and barley, and marketing it through livestock. Later, booklets on the feeding of wheat were distributed among the farmers, and a feeders column was carried in the local paper each week.

"We have had more success with the conference and with the feeders column in the local paper, than with any other undertaking we have tried," the bankers said. "As a result there is about three times as much livestock being fed out in our territory than ever before. We plan to hold other similar conferences the coming year."

The benefits of civilization exist because of the capital accumulated by those who have gone before. Through accumulation of capital our great railroads have been constructed, our public utilities have been built and our mills, office buildings and homes have arisen.

Freshmen Have Party

The freshman and guests convened at the home of Frank Giant last Saturday night—April the first. The party itself wasn't April Fool, but oh my! the fooling that was done after they inveigled people into coming. They almost didn't have any food implements at all until Bobbie Storer snitched a fork or so from somewhere. And the drink! It wasn't the 7th, but this first distinguished drink of pink lemonade certainly lacked savory quality. They made it right eventually by serving some very delicious hot chocolate. When the evening wore on, and the guests left to go home they surely had to hand it to Frank for being a good host and to the freshmen for putting on a nice party.

The pupils and teachers are beginning to think of final exams already.

Beautiful strains from grand opera have been floating around the new school building after school. Wonder who it could be?

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price Donate Shrubbery

Through the initiative and generosity of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price, the entrance to our school grounds has been transformed from a bare space into an attractively landscaped yard. The following pieces of shrubbery were planted last Monday: a six-foot Colorado Blue Spruce, two Cannert Red Cedars, two Irish Junipers, two Prostrate Junipers, and five pieces of Savins Juniper (Sabina.) Mr. C. A. Woodcox assisted in planning the attractive arrangement of the shrubbery.

We wish to express our appreciation for the gift and to assure Dr. and Mrs. Price that their thoughtfulness will be long remembered by the boys and girls who are by this daily inspired to develop more respect for the beauties of nature.

The Three Ghostly Notes

The Story So Far: Mr. Bancroft's only son, Jerry, has just been killed while playing the piano. Apparently no one was around, but when Mr. Bancroft saw his son stop playing so abruptly he immediately thought of his second wife and thought she had taken this means of revenge.

Mr. Bancroft immediately notified the best detective agency in London, Scotland Yards. They sent Mr. Jordan and Mr. Morgan to investigate the case.

The first step they took was to have Mr. Bacroft relate the tragedy step by step, and tell his position and where he was when it happened. They then gave Jerry a thorough examination and came to the conclusion that he was electrocuted.

Mr. Morgan suggested that they take a look at the surroundings outside. As they were cautiously walking around the house, they found Corky, senseless, lying outside the window by which the piano sat.

"This accounts for the quick ending of the bark," said Mr. Jordan.

"Yes," answered Morgan, "and the crime was committed on the very spot we are now standing, because Mr. Bancroft said that immediately after the barking stopped, Jerry played no more. So, you see Jordan, the murderer had no time to get to any other place to do it."

"Very good process of deduction Morgan."

"Let us have a look at the piano," said Mr. Morgan.

The two detectives began a thorough search of the piano.

"Well," said Morgan, "what do we have here, three keys different from the rest. The keys look as though they had been replaced by some other kind and were painted, because the paint on the top is checked."

They went on another search for wires attached to the keys. Jordan raised the top of the baby grand and found three wires leading to the three different keys. He cut the wires so that they could investigate the strange keys without fear of receiving what Jerry had. They then continued their investigation of the keys and found them to be just as Mr. Morgan said, metal keys replaced for the wood ones, and then painted the color of the others. The heat f the electricity passing through the metal keys was the cause of the checked paint.

Mr. Morgan then traced the course of the wires and found that they led to a very small switch just outside the window, and the switch was concealed by a heavy growth of vines.

"That's that," said Jordan, "but it still remains to be found who committed the crime.

"Yes," answered Morgan," and whoever did this ungodly deed was without a doubt a very good electrician."

"What is your next step to locate the criminal?"

"I haven't thought of any way as yet."

A short pause intervened as Morgan developed a plan to find the criminal.

"I have it," exclaimed Morgan "we'll go get the names of the best electricians in London, go to the police station, and look over the records to see if we can find anything against any of them."

"Fine," replied Jordan, let's go right away."

HORSE SENSE

With low grain prices, pasture land becomes a good place to get good returns from manure.

Keep the young pigs out of the old lots and pastures around the barn lot. Thrifty pigs that gain rapidly soon become unthrifty pigs that lose money if they feed on the parasites and disease germs that are harbored in the old lots and pens.

Oil consumption in the tractor is much greater at higher speeds than at slower driving.

Efficient herd management under present conditions consists of the proper feeding of home-grown balanced rations to high producing cows.

Legume hay reduces the cash outlay for protein concentrates to make balanced feed rations. Home-grown feeds are now unusually cheap compared to purchased feeds.

Farm products of high quality command relatively highest premiums during periods of over-production.

With strawberries, practice shallow but frequent cultivation from the time the plants are set until late summer to prevent the growth of grass and weeds and to conserve moisture.

Proper Position for Safe Driving

This young lady, posed by Dr. Dudley B. Reed, director of health service, University of Chicago, is showing how the "perfect driver" sits behind the wheel for safety and comfort. Dr. Reed pointed out that mohair velvet upholstery, which has a pile surface, grips the clothing and helps maintain proper driving posture.

MOHAIR AN AID TO SAFE DRIVING

Scientist of University Tells How Pile Surface Keeps You From 'Slumping.'

In the last eighteen months, more persons have been killed in automobile accidents in the United States than our country's army lost in soldiers during the World war! This is an alarming fact which is receiving the careful attention of public officials everywhere and challenges the thought and action of every citizen. What can be done to reduce this huge death toll?

Safety measures are being effectively applied in many ways but the problem rests largely with the automobile driver. What can he do to further protect himself and others from accidents? Helpful suggestions in this connection have just been offered by Dr. Dudley B. Reed, professor of hygiene and director of the health service of the University of Chicago.

Doctor Reed calls attention to the fact that sitting properly while driving is not only an aid to the person's health but it is a direct help to safety as it places the body where immediate response in emergencies is easier, where fatigue that too often promotes carelessness is prevented, and where the driver's vision is least likely to be obscured. It is not difficult to assume the correct driving position but it is sometimes hard to keep such posture, especially if the automobile seat is covered with a material that encourages slipping and sliding about. These difficulties are more easily avoided, Doctor Reed points out, if the seats are upholstered in a fabric like mohair velvet or velmo, the fibers of which grip the clothing, giving support to the occupant of the seat and reducing the tendency to slip and slide.

One of the most common faults in driving, Doctor Reed explains, is to slump down in the seat. This is easy to do if the upholstery is slippery but not so likely to happen on mohair. In a slumped position, the motorist cannot quickly respond when an emergency demands quick operation of the controls, his arms and legs are cramped, the lungs do not have an opportunity to expand and other internal organs are restricted. Most important of all, the spine, nature's best shock absorber, is bent in such a position that shocks and jars strike it at an angle instead of in a vertical plane, as was intended so that the efficiency if the spine is greatly reduced, the person becomes fatigued more easily and is soon in condition that invites accidents.

Here are Doctor Reed's posture suggestions, especially helpful during these vacation months when long automobile drives are taxing the endurance of the motorist. Have the back well against the back of the seat with the weight resting mainly on the seat bones. There should be support for the back at a point below the shoulder blades and at the top of the hips. Do not recline too much, slightly more than ninety degrees is enough and there should be no weight or pressure under the knees. The feet should be able to reach the pedals and the floor without stretching or straining. In this position, which is well illustrated in the accompanying photograph, the driver has the greatest relaxation and freedom of movements, he enjoys the greatest comfort and he is kept in a position where he can most efficiently handle the car in time of danger.

YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED AT FORT WAYNE

Ercil, son of Mrs. Hazel Steward of Spencerville, and Miss Estelle Baumgartner, of Fort Wayne were united in marriage Saturday evening a 8 o'clock, at the bride's home by the Rev. Tod Cotton, of Louisville, Indiana.

Monday morning the young couple started into business at Butler, where they purchased the Model Dry Cleaning plant. Both are graduates of their respective high schools, and are fitted to conduct a successful business having obtained some valuable experience in Fort Wayne plants, where the bride worked up until Saturday noon.

They will be in a position to do cleaning of all kinds, altering or tailoring as the needs require. They are experienced in handling of furs of all kinds and patrons can rest assured that the young couple will do everything in their power to render a satisfactory cleaning service to all their patrons.

A truck will call at your door on Monday and Thursday in St. Joe and Spencerville.

The News and their many friends here extend congratulations and wish them success in their business venture.

TRUCK GOES INTO DITCH SATURDAY

Merritt Milliman escaped with only slight injuries Thursday night, when his truck landed in the ditch about seven miles north of St. Joe. The steering gear became locked and the car could not be controlled, dashing first to one side of the road, then to the other, when it toppled over on the east side of the road. The car was damaged some, but Merriitt was very fortunate receiving only a gash in his left hand.

LOCAL CITIZEN GETS ROAD APPOINTMENT

O. D. Baker, a well known road contractor residing here, Thursday recived notice of his appointment as highway superintendent for the district of which Bluffton is the headquarters. James D. Adams, chairman of the Indiana state highway commission, was instrumental in securing Mr. Baker's appointment. The new superintendent has constructed many highways in DeKalb county and also in Michigan, and for the past year has been engaged in the construction of guard railing along county and state roads, all over the state. The appointment is a well deserved recognition of his ability.

While we are sorry to see the Baker family leave for Bluffton, where they will make their home by the first of May, yet we are always glad, when our community can furnish one of its citizens to an advanced position.

At the present time the firm of O. D. Baker & Son, have some contract work to complete and the Junior member of the firm, Lester Baker, will take charge of the work remaining.

Mr. Baker will take charge of his new work the fifteenth.

When the Baker home is vacated, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland will move from the home of Mrs. Charles Cochran and occupy the Baker home.

SPENCERVILLE BOY AND GIRL RECEIVE TRIP TO BLOOMINGTON

The entire community join in offering hearty congratulations to two of Spencerville's freshmen, Fred Steward and Margaret Walter. They were chosen to represent their school at the Sectional Algebra Contest which was held at Fort Wayne on April 1, under the auspices of Indiana University. They have both received word that they are eligible to compete in the State Algebra Contest which will be held at Bloomington on Friday, April 14.

There will be 45 students to take the Algebra examination on Friday morning. They are those whose grades were the highest 45 in the Sectional examinations throughout the state.

The Mathematics Department of the University has arranged a delightful luncheon in their honor at which the Sectional awards will be made, following which all contestants, teachers, and visitors are invited to attend a reception at the home of President Bryan.

Fred and Margaret will leave for Blomington on Thursday, accompanied by their Algebra instructior, Mr. W. J. D. Russell, also Mrs. LeAnna Steward and Mrs. Russell.

Needless to say we are all very proud of our contestants and we send with them our best wishes, hoping they will have a most pleasant trip and that one of them may come back as the State Champion in Algebra.

EASTER

Easter proves the mighty reality of idealism.

Easter is God's promise and humanity's hope of a regenerated race.

Easter is the rainbow reaching from heaven to earth with its heavenly promise of better things.

Right and peace will yet kiss each other. Good will to man will yet take the place of ill will. The healing of love will heal the scars of hate. The night of every grave has its morning; even the grave of world-wide peace. Out of the dark and bloody soil of strife will surely blossom the lilies of brotherhood, peace and progress.

Easter knows both sides of life, the tragic and the triumphant. But it believes that the triumphant will triumph. In the bright lexicon of this day there is no such word as failure. "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Easter confirms the undying faith of human hearts. How do we know that better days are ahead? We don't know. Yet who would predict today that the dead rose bushes will ever come to life again? Or that frail song birds will ever return with their sun-kissed songs? Yet these things will be.

Easter says, "Look up, God reigns, and the universe is secure."

LADIES LITERARY CLUB ASKS PROTECTION OF BIRDS

At the meeting of the Ladies Literary Club last Wednesday evening a splendid paper on Birds was read, which was followed by a general discussion, and at this meeting it was decided that the Club would like to go on record as defending our local birds and asked that an article to this effect be printed in our local paper. Here it is:

It is in spring that wild birds make their strongest appeal to the human mind. In fact, the words "bird" and "spring" seem almost synonymous. We are now enjoying the return of our feathered friends. We all can enjoy their songs and fortunate indeed is the individual who has the opportunity to observe our birds' nesting habits.

Birds are beneficial to the human race. They act as a check on our insect life; destroy destructive weed seed, act as agents in the distribution of plants, and are serviceable in their work as scavengers.

However, there are birds which do more harm than good. Among the birds of this type is the English Sparrow. It destroys fruit buds, eats vegetable seeds, damages grain and destroys the eggs and young of some of our native birds.

When English Sparrows are to be killed, it should be done by men and not children. Children should never be trained to shoot, trap, or poison birds is it has a bad influence on their nature. Not knowing the difference children frequently kill valuable native birds in their attempt to destroy sparrows.

It has been the custom each year for the St. Joe Fish and Game Club to sponsor a project in the form of a "pest" hunt. Among the pests the English Sparrow is included. The objective of this hunt is splendid. However, there have been complaints from townspople that boys in their efforts to shoot sparrows have oftentimes killed some of our song birds. If not killed, the birds were so frightened they failed to return to their nests.

We wonder if it would not be possible for the people of this community to protect our song birds. Parents, a word from you to your children might stop this unnecessary persecution of your birds. Boys with sling shots and air guns destroy thousands of birds each year, and it is on account of the lack of proper training in the homes and school.

BEAUTY! is only skin deep

THE most perfectly molded features can be spoiled by a dull, faded complexion. When you subject the delicate texture of your skin to the searing heat of old-fashioned cooking methods; when you stand for hours in the stale air of a stuffy kitchen, robbed of much of its oxygen by flaming fuel; when you allow your complexion to be withered by noxious fumes and clogging greases, you are destroying your beauty.

Do not let the drudgery of preparing meals three times a day over an open flame range steal your charm away and line your face beyond repair. Famous beauty experts tell us that it is not the years, but dry skin that ages a woman.

Electric cookery is cool, clean, and automatic, so that your hours in the kitchen are few and you have much happy freedom with which to build up your vitality and put the sparkle in your eye, while your meals cook to delicious perfection without attention.

A visit to our showrooms will allow you to see demonstrations of all standard makes of electric ranges and to choose the make and model best fitted to your need.

YOUNG TRAVELER GETS INTO TROUBLE

Of all the transient men that have been accommodated in St. Joe the past year at the Town Hall, by being given shelter, plenty of fuel and the citizens giving them food, Forbs McDonald, a young transient, who blew into St. Joe with two other pals, was the least appreciative of the all, when he became drunk and destroyed property.

It seems that some local talent was instrumental in assisting Forbs to secure some hard cider out of a barrel at the George Wilmot home. The cider was stored for vinegar and had been moved to the back yard to work.

Pails from the fire wagon were taken to get the cider and then the fellows proceeded to fill up, and Forbs got too much.

About midnight the party proceeded to paint things red about town, starting out they took the school bus belonging to Charles Cochran and drove west landing at the ball park, where they mired the truck in the mud. After trying to get out, they proceeded to break the glass out, and neighbors heard the noise. They at once called Sheriff Hoff and Wilbur Yeiser, and when they arrived on the scene, Forbs McDonald, who gave his home as New York City, was the only one to be found, being so drunk that he could not escape. He had cut his hands severely by the glass, and was taken to a home nearby to wash up.

While the officers went to the truck to look for others, McDonald climbed into the Williard Hurni milk truck, and when he thought he was safe, he started the truck, turned around and headed east as fast as he could drive. Sheriff Hoff and Yeiser hurriedly got into their can and proceeded to follow him, and not until he had run into the ditch at the Joe Hull farm, three miles north of town, was he apprehended.

McDonald was taken into custody and Saturday afternoon given 60 days at the penal farm.

The repair of the bus cost nearly $25.00 for glass.

FEDERATED CLUBS HOLD MEETING AT ST. JOE

The ninth annual convention of the DeKalb County Federation of Clubs met in the Lutheran Church at St. Joe, April 6, 1933.

The morning session began with registration at 9:00. This was followed by greetings from Mrs. Fred B. Leighty and responded to by Mrs. O. B. Rose. The minutes were read and reports of department chairmen were given. The officers were reelected for another year and are, Mrs. Charles R. Clarke, Auburn, president; Mrs. O. B. Rose, Garrett, vice president and Mrs. James E. Buckley, Auburn, secretary-treasurer.

A delightful luncheon was served by the ladies of the Lutheran Church.

The afternoon session began with music by the St. Joe High School band, followed by an address "Service" by Mrs. Willis Love. Each of the club presidents gave a brief talk. Joe Woodcox sang beautifully "My Task" and "Calvary."

The highlight of the convention was a splendid speech by Dr. L. Potter Harshman on Mental Hygiene. Dr. Harshman said that our emotions are necessary but need careful training. We are born into the world for two purposes, (1) self preservation and (2) race preservation. His speech was educational and inspiring. The Federated Club as a whole was commended on their interest and active part in the study of mental hygiene. They have been responsible for the distribution of 10,000 pieces of literature on mental hygiene and 500 talks given on that subject in the last 5 years.

A report on our new resolutions closed the ninth annual county convention.

Hobby Derby

The hobby derby which was on exhibit during the county convention of federated clubs, was a very interesting display of beautiful and unique articles from our community. The ladies from out of town seemed to enjoy the exhibit very much, and people from our own community also were much pleased, if one may judge by the comments and exclamations overheard.

The committee in charge wishes to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped to make the exhibit a success. We could not have done it alone, and we appreciate your cooperation. Also we wish to state that, owing to the very short time we had to collect and arrange our display it was, of course, impossible to get or use everything of interest we might have found. We did not slight anyone intentionally, and only wished for more time and space in order that a more complete collection might have been made. Again, we thank you.

Committee.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

CULTURE CLUB

Mrs. Alice Copp entertained the Culture Club Wednesday night, April 5. It being the last meeting of the year the election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Pluma Hamilton.
1st. Vice Pres., Esther Bowman.
2nd. Vice Pres., Catharine Bowser.
Secretary, Neva Hursh.
Assistant, Alice Reidenbach.
Treasurer, Dema Curie.
Critic, Lena Meek.
Assistant, Lula Armstrong.
Press Correspondent, Ethel Wineland.

The mid-summer meeting will be held the third Wednesday of July at the home of Mrs. L. D. Young at Hicksville, Ohio.

There were sixteen members present and one guest, Mrs. Ruse, of Fort Wayne. As each one brot sugar, at the close of the meeting they all took part in an old fashioned "taffy pull."

R. H. C.

The R. H. C. Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Laney Gee Wednesday, March 29th.

A social hour was spent in games and contests followed by a luncheon of roll sandwiches and olives, chocolate cake and coffee.

Mrs. Lela Northrup, one of the charter members of the club, was present as an honor guest.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Abner Trostel, Friday, April 14.

MORTUARY

Mrs. Pernetta Steward, 7 5 years, 11 months and 1 day, a resident of Spencerville most of her life, died April 3, 1933, in Medford, Oregon, where she had been living with her son, Clarence, since 1928.

Mrs. Steward was born May 2, 1857 at Cedarville, Indiana, the daughter of John and Caroline Pring. Pernetta Pring was married to Jasper N. Steward, August 26, 1877, and with him started for the Northwest in a covered wagon. They remained a few years and then returned to Indiana. Mr. Steward was engaged in the lumber business in Spencerville. He died in 1904.

She is survived by five sons: George Steward, of Fort Wayne; Frank and Arthur Steward, of Garrett; Ernest Steward, of Spencerville; Clarence Steward ,of Medford, Ore., and a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Roberts, of Medford; thirteen grandchildren and five great grandchildren; three brothers, E. G. Pring and James Pring, of Fort Wayne and John Pring, of Shawnee, Okla., and a sister, Mrs. Martha Hursh, of Huntertown.

The funeral was held from the Spencerville M. E. Church Monday at 2 o'clock, Rev. Howard Brown officiating assisted by Rev. Joe Jordan, of the Garrett Presbyterian Church.

MRS. RACHEL KIMES DIES AT COUNTY HOME

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Walter funeral home in Spencerville for the late Mrs. Rachel Kimes, who died at the DeKalb County Home Wednesday afternoon. Interment was made in White City cemetery near Spencerville.

Mrs. Kimes, a former resident of Spencerville, had been a patient at the home for approximately a year and before that time had been in the Easthaven insane hospital at Richmond, Indiana.

Surviving relatives include one daughter, Mrs. Allen Houser, of Waynesboro, Pa.; three brothers, Wesley and McClellan Hort, of DeKalb county and William Hart, of Fort Wayne; and one sister, Mrs. Ada Fairfield, of Ft. Wayne. Mrs. Kimes was the widow of Harvey Kimes, who died two years ago.

LAYMAN TO ADDRESS COUNTY WORKERS

Sunday, May 7, has been selected as the date for the spring county council meeting for Sunday School workers of DeKalb County in the Auburn M. E. Church at 2 o'clock, standard time.

An outstanding layman has been chosen to deliver the message to the workers and a special invitation is given to anyone to come and enjoy Dr. Otto U. King, of Huntington. He is president of the Methodist Layman's Association, is connected with the Y. M. C. A. work, and a world traveler.

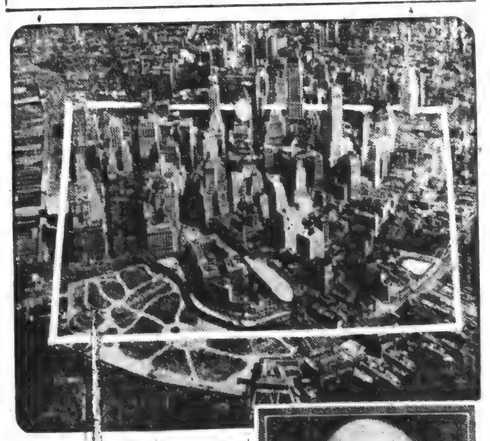
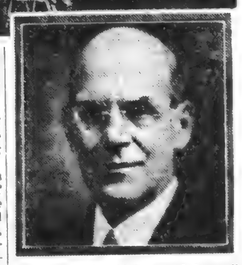
SUBSTANCE SIZE OF A PEA LUBRICATES MILE-SQUARE AREA





Pencil-eraser Volume of Ingredient in New Fluid Would Cover Marked Area Above With Thin Lubricating Film, Says Dr. Abbott, Noted Authority on Oils.

A REVOLUTIONARY new motor-lubricating fluid has been perfected which has as its chief ingredient a highly lubricative colloidal (gel-like) substance so finely subdivided that a volume the size of a pea would cover a mile-square surface with a thin self-lubricating film.

This startling statement was made by Dr. G. A. Abbott, head of the chemistry department of the University of North Dakota and state oil chemist, at Grand Forks, who is a nationally recognized authority on oils, following his exhaustive tests with the fluid.

The fluid, which was used in preconditioning the motors of both an automobile recently driven 745 miles at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and an airplane flown 35 minutes at Winona, Minn., after all oil had been drained from their crankcases, was perfected by W. V. Kidder, former newspaper man of La Crosse, Wis.

"The minute colloidal particles of the substance, when introduced into a motor by adding the carrier fluid to the regular crankcase oil, are attracted to the surfaces of the pistons and cylinders, forming a very thin but smooth and uniform lubricating film that thoroughly fills the finest pores and crevasses of the metal," Dr. Abbott said. "As this lubricating coat wears away it is continually renewed by fresh deposits of the colloidal particles in the oil stream. These particles, which readily pass through the finest filters, carry electrical charges that serve to repel and prevent them from collecting into larger masses and settling out. It is very probable that the fluid also contains some stabilizing agent in small quantity to prevent settling.

"Thus when a motor thoroughly conditioned with this substance is run after all oil has been drained from it, the film established upon the metal surfaces will serve as a lubricant until its thin layer wears away. When it disappears there is left a mottled surface exposing both iron and the colloidal substance, for the cavities of the metal are still filled with sub-microscopic particles of the latter. As the mottled surface is ground down these particles are smeared over the protruding metal spots, which strongly attract and hold them. In this way a continuous film of lubrication is maintained until the metal is worn down to the limit of penetration of the particles into its pores.

"From the physical and chemical properties of the fluid investigated it is reasonable to expect practical engineering tests to show a marked increase in motor efficiency, due to better lubrication," Dr. Abbott added. "This should cause the motor to run cooler and should result in a saving of fuel and in longer life of pistons and rings."

Wholesale prices are quoted from $1.50 per case up to $3.30 per case and prices being charged the consumer are ranging from five to twenty-five cents a glass. Don't crowd boys! The rush will be all over in two weeks and the breweries will begin to wonder what to do with a surplus of beer. The biggest hindrance to the sale of this new beer is the fact that it costs money to buy it. And who has any money?

There is a bill pending in Washington to require an alcohol mixture in all gasoline sold for commercial purposes. Those who have been using alcohol gas claim that it is very high in its anti-knock qualities and is apparently superior to the ordinary run of gasoline. This alcohol would be extracted from corn.

"If men would cease to worry,
And women cease to sigh,
And all be glad to bury
Whatever has to die;
If neighbor spake to neighbor,
As love demands of all,
The rust would eat the saber,
The spear stay on the wall;
Then every day would glisten
And every eye would shine,
And God would pause to listen,
And life would be divine."

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 60 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months. 3 pounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent food for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a food that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk, 3 to 4 feet high, and fast loaded with leaves.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakuritima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation, often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 20 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.

Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 18 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.

Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—3 Pkts. 25c—Dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

BRINGING THE NEW ERA INTO EXISTENCE

America has not finished nor has it stopped its march of progress. After every depression there has come a new era. A transportation era started at the turn of the nineteenh century . . . another era was that of national expansion, the throwing back of the American frontier; another, the development of the automobile, the telephone and the airplane . . . A more recent era has been that of electrical science, the radio and further developments in other sciences . . .

We have the strength, the courage, the brains and the will to do.

AMERICA, MARCH ON—into a new era.

What we need now is simply to start the wheels in motion—to get up sufficient momentum to enable the development of the era of the future to begin. In that work every citizen must cooperate. He must do his part in putting money to work, in providing jobs—and it is worth remembering that one person who spends a million, does no more good than ten thousand spending a hundred each.

Every citizen with an income has a duty to perform. He can best fulfill it and at the same time benefit himself by adding his money to the money that is now coursing through the channels of industry. He can paint his house, build a new garage, repair his furnace, improve his grounds, do a thousand and one similar things—and he will be getting necessary improvements at rock bottom costs, and at the same time he will be a fighter in the greatest war this country has ever fought—the war against depression.

Jobs are cheaper and better than charity—and the providing of jobs is the surest way we have of hastening the new era.

HAZARDS WORTH HEEDING

It would be a good thing if all automobile drivers were required to learn a little lesson concerning the potential destructive power of a moving car, and the great distances required to stop.

A car moving at the slow speed of twenty miles an hour requires 20 feet to stop under the best of circumstances after 4 wheel brakes are applied—and with the average driver, it will have moved 14½ feet before he is able to apply the brakes. At 30 miles an hour, it will go 22 feet before he applies the brakes, and another 45 feet will be required to bring it to a stop. If it is moving 40 miles an hour, the brakes will not take hold until the car has gone 29 feet, and 80 feet more will be covered before the car is stopped. At extremely high speeds these distances are increased many times.

How would you like to be in an automobile that has just leaped from a precipice one hundred or more feet high? You would be just as safe (at least until you hit the rocks below) as you are rolling along the highways mile after mile at customary road speeds. An automobile traveling 40 miles an hour has the same capacity for inflicting damage, or the same smash as it would have from a straight drop through the air 54 feet—and going 60 miles per hour, as if it were dropped 120 feet.

The automobile is one of the most useful, and one of the most potentially dangerous, of human inventions. Its safe operation requires constant caution, knowledge and rgard for the rights of others. Because a percentage of drivers have lacked those qualities the highways of America see the unnecessary deaths of more than 30,000 people annually. Last year a slight improvement was registered—this year we can do a great deal more if we make the effort. It is a problem that is up to the individual driver, and its solution is in his hands.

Coburn's Corners reports an attendance of 109 at Sunday School last Sunday with an offering of $3.71.

Glen Hart and family, of Goshen are spending their Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Bailey and children and Mrs. Mary Bailey, of near Auburn, called at the Elwood Hart home Sunday afternoon. Friends of Mrs. Mary Bailey will be glad to know that she is improving in health.

A birthday dinner was held last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilder in honor of their son, Lehr Wilder. Besides the honor guest and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hart and daughter were guests.

Vol. 1. No. 28. Thursday, April 13, 1933

Burglars Break in the School Building

Sometime between Saturday and Monday morning both buildings of the St. Joe school were entered by someone in search of money. The doors to the typing room and the office were forced open. Nothing in the typing room was disturbed, but the office presented a sorry appearance Monday morning. The steel cabinet was fored open and between twenty-nine and thirty dollars were taken. The basket ball siuts, boxes, and papers were strewn over the floor. Apparently money was the only object of the intruders, as nothing else was taken.

The total amount taken was made up of the Sophomore class play door receipts, candy sale money, and hot lunch money, the latter being taken from the Home Economics Room in the south building.

Monday afternoon Sheriff Hoff and State Police Zimmerman came and investigated. They are working on some clues picked up, and hope to bring the intruders to justice soon.

Class Play Well Attended

One of the largest crowds of the season attended the Sophomore play last Friday night. The actors played their parts well, and the music and tap dancing received much applaud from the audience.

The boys have taken advantage of the few spring days and have been practicing base ball. There is some talk of scheduling a game for the last day of school, but nothing definite has been arranged.

The Three Ghostly Notes

The Story So Far: Mr. Bancroft's son, Jerry, has been electrocuted while playing the piano. Police have decided that a very skilled electrician was necessary to fix these wires as they were.

It took only a few hours for Jordan and Morgan to find the names of the best electriciaus in London, so we next find them in the London police station looking over the records.

"Here's a bad case," said Morgan, "but the poor sucker died a year ago, so it could hardly be him."

"Hardly," replied Jordan as he talked, "perhaps we'll find more."

They both searched the record books from cover to cover and could find only one man who was an electrician, Mr. James Finn.

"Oh, yes," said Morgan, "I remember him."

The two men stepped out of the station, called a taxi, and started for Mr. Finn's apartment. When they arrived they found Mr. Finn comfortably seated in the midst of a topsy-turvy, typical bachelor's apartment.

Morgan put Mr. Finn through a series of questions, and Finn answered them quite cooly and unconcerned, but when Morgan asked him where he was on the night of the murder, he stammered as though he was afraid to answer for fear of giving an answer that would not hold good.

"Well," said Morgan, is this question so hard that you can't answer without all that stammering?"

"No, no," answered Finn, "pardon me, I was just thinking of something else. I was at my friend's home, Mr. Lague."

"That's just what I want to know. I'll call your friend and ask him to verify your statement."

"Why, you don't doubt my word do you?"

"No, not at all," said Morgan, "but we must make sure of everything."

Morgan found Mr. Lague's phone number and called. In a short time Mr. Lague answered.

"Mr. Lague, have you seen Mr. James Finn around today?"

"Why, no," answered Mr. Lague, "I haven't seen him for about a week. Why?"

"Oh, just wanted to have a chat with him, that's all. Good day, Mr. Lague."

Mr. Morgan walked back to where Finn was sitting and said, "Mr. Finn, this is bad evidence against you. Very bad, in fact. Come along Jordan, we are going to take Finn to headquarters."

They took Finn to headquarters and told what had happened. A group of men then put Finn thru a very severe test, but were unable to make him talk.

"I'll tell you," interrupted Jordan, "Let's take him back to the scene of the murder and let the dog see him. That dog won't forget that hard blow right away."

"Say, that't fine," said Morgan very complimentary. "We'll do that right now."

Morgan, Jordan, and a few men from headquarters left for the Bancorft Estate. On arriving they all escorted Finn to the pen of Corky, the Dane which the murderer had so brutally knocked unconscious.

When Corky got his first glimpse of Finn he made a wild, furious dash at him.

Finn became so nervously insane that he yelled, "Take him off. Take him off. I did it."

Mr. Bancroft was inside, and when he heard all the commotion outside he stepped out to see what it was all about. Mr. Morgan told George the whole story and that Finn had confessed.

Finn then spoke up, "Yes, you made me suffer when you were judge, George Bancroft, and I wanted to make you suffer. Killing you would have been too easy for you, so I sought your treasure, Jerry, and killed him. Now you can suffer. I suffered hell in that penitentiary you sent me to. I've got it back on you so I'm ready to give myself up."

The whole party left with Finn, leaving George on the back terrace in deep sorrow.

MOHAIR-GOAT RAISING NATION'S YOUNGEST AND FASTEST GROWING ANIMAL INDUSTRY

Every State Now Has Some Angoras

IF YOU are accustomed to think of the angora goat as one of those queer "furrin animules" that you would have to go abroad to see in his native habitat, it may come with surprise to learn that there are more angora goats right here in the United States than in any other country in the world, and that consequently this country leads the world in its output of mohair, the fleece of the angora.

The year '49 which saw the great gold rush to California also was the occasion for the entry of nine inconspicuous immigrants, the first angora goats to be brought into this country. Evidently they found their surroundings congenial, for they flourished and multiplied and sent for a lot of their relatives to join them, until now there are fully three and a half million of these useful creatures here, clearing off the brush land, increasing grain yield, and at the same time producing a total clip of 17,000,000 pounds of mohair yearly. Every state in the Union has at least a few members of the family, but the great bulk is centered in Texas, Arizona, Oregon, New Mexico, California and Missouri.

Mohair or angora fleece must not be confused with wool. Mohair is even stronger than wool, very lustrous and, due to its structural difference, much easier than wool to keep clean. Mohair has many uses for clothing, draperies, rugs and other domestic applications but by far its most significant uses are for furniture and automobile upholstering, for which it is made up into a pile fabric called mohair velvet or sometimes velmo for short. Twelve million yards of this fabric are in use in passenger trains today, due to its extreme durability combined with pleasing appearance and fadeless dyes, while over a hundred million yards, it has been estimated, are on the highways in the form of automobile upholstery.

The skin of the angora is used for making gloves, while the meat, called chevon, is much like lamb or mutton. But, of course, by far the most important use of the angora goat is its mohair fleece which you probably rest on every time you take out your car.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA. THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1933 NUMBER 16

BISHOP JAMES CANNON, JR., SPEAKER AT "NO SALOON" RALLY

The "No Saloon" Regional Rally of DeKalb, Steuben and Noble Counties, will be held in the First Methodist Church in Auburn on Tuesday afternoon, April 25, at 2:30 o'clock. The speaker will be Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C.

This Rally is one of thirty regional rallies to be held in Indiana, within the next few weeks prior to the election of delegates to the State Constituional Amendment Convention.

This meeting was arranged in cooperation with local church and temperance groups and the general public is invited to attend.

Bishop Cannon has long been a leader in religious and temperance activities. He was elected Bishop in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1918, and since then has had supervision of Missions in Mexico, Cuba, Africa and Brazil. He was the recipient of the first American reward for distinguished religious service by the Christian Herald. He visited Europe six times in connection with war problems and has taken part in national and international religious conferences in various parts of the world.

Bishop Cannon was one of the U. S. delegates to the international conference on alcoholism in Milan in 1913, and also participated in the conference of temperance workers in Paris in 1919.

He served many years as chairman of the Legislative Committee of Anti-Saloon League of America and as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the World League Against Alcoholism. For many years he was Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon Lague of Virginia, and in 1928 was Chairman of the Committee of Southern Anti-Smith Democrats. He is President of the Board of Temperance and Prohibition of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with offices at Washington, D. C., and a member of the Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

In discussing his subject, "The Wet Rebellion," Bishop Cannon speaks with the knowledge gained through many years of active service in state and national campaigns against liquor traffic.

He will comment on the present prohibition situation and expose the forces at work to repeal the 18th Amendment, legalize beer in every state and bring back the saloon.

In his address, Bishop Cannon is expected to review the events leading up to re-submission of the repeal resolution by Congress. He will also outline the program of the dry forces to prevent ratification of the proposed repeal amendment, and to bring together the United Dry groups throughout the state in these regional meetings.

RAY WEBB DIES AT REYNOLDS

Ray Webb, a former young farmer living north-west of St. Joe, died at his home 6 miles south-west of Reynolds, Indiana, on Monday of cancer. His body was brought to the Kinsey funeral home on Monday night and later removed to Auburn, to the home of his sister, Mrs. Garner Cupp.

The son of George and Etta Webb, the deceased was born at Francesville, Ind., forty years ago on March 7. He followed the occupation of a farmer. He graduated with the class of 1910 in the Monon, Ind., high school and married Inez Seymour of Monon. To them were born five children, one of whom is deceased. Those living are Doris, aged 14 years; Esther, 11; Clyde, 9, and Eva, 6 years of age.

Besides the children, there survive the widow, mother, brother and sister.

The funeral will be held Thursday from the Newville Christian Church, with burial at St. Joe.

MOVES FROM FARM

Ray Reasoner has moved from the Leighty Orchard into the home recently vacated by Frank Bachtel nearer town. His father, Mr. Charles Reasoner, is going to make his home with them. The household goods of J. R. Leighty arrived this week from Washington, D. C., and they will occupy the farm home. We are pleased that the Leightys are moving here and becoming permanent residents of our community.

LONE BANDIT HOLDS UP HICKSVILLE BANK

A lone bandit held up and robbed the First National bank of Hicksville Tuesday at noon and got away with $3,500. H. O. Wentworth, acting cashier and L. E. Griffin, conservator were the only ones in the bank. At the muzzle of a shot gun the men were ordered to get the cash and after scooping it up, they were placed in the vault and ordered to stay there 10 minutes. No trace has as yet been found. The loss is insured.

YOUTH TAKES LIFE AT PIERCETON

Death of Carl Dill, 16, nephew of Mrs. C. R. Price, of St. Joe, who committed suicide Thursday night by shooting himself in the head, came as a severe shock to the St. Joe relatives.

Carl was to have graduated in May and was active in his school life.

For seven years Carl had been a sufferer with periodic attacks of bone tumors, which had affected his spine, and in a note left to Miss Elaine Turner, he explained that he had been ill over a period of seven years and that he felt that there was no hope for his recovery.

The note he left for his parents read: "I hope you will not think I was a coward. God must have been wanting me for he was slowly killing me. Forgive me all my sins I have committed. I hope to see you in heaven."

Surviving the youth are his father and mother, two brothers, Lawrence Dill, Chicago, and Clifford Dill, New York City. Mrs. C. R. Prce of St. Joe is an aunt, and Samuel Dill and Patrick Dill of Fort Wayne are uncles.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon.

WOMEN ESCAPE STATE SCHOOL CAPTURED

Four women who escaped from the State School at Fort Wayne Wednesday evening, April 12, were captured near Grabill Thursday morning about 6 o'clock. The women, two of whom were dressed in men's apparel, were seen walking into Grabill from the west about 5 o'clock, and were overtaken at the Wabash R. R. crossing, one-half mile south, by Andrew Conrad, William Sommers, J. A. Klopfenstein and Albert Neuenschwander.

The State School was called immediately and two care-takers came to return the captives to the School. The women were desperperate in their attempt to get away and put on quite a "stone battle," breaking the windshield in Sommers' car, however, no one was injured.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The last meeting of the Ladies Literary Club was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Lora Leighty. The new officers, elected during the session, are as follows:

President, Belle Woodcox.
Vice President, Cora Curie.
Secretary, Violet May.
Treasurer, Daisy Woodcox.
Cor. Secretary, Lela Northrup.
Critic, Lora Leighty.
Parliamentarian, Nina Kees.

Following the business session, the ladies entertained their husbands and friends with a program composed of a playlet, a reading, several musical numbers and a talk by Mr. Earl Smith, a former resident of St. Joe. Mr. Smith's home is now in Verdun, France, and during his talk he described the soldiers' cemeteries and the great care which is given them. He also took us on a verbal trip thru parts of France, Italy, and Switzerland, describing scenery, buildings, conditions of living and other things of great interest. Everyone enjoyed his talk immensely, the only criticism being that there wasn't enough of it.

After the program the crowd enjoyed a delicious pot luck supper, and a social hour.

FAMOUS WIZARD TO APPEAR IN PROGRAM

Frye Internationnaly Known Magician Coming to Spencerville

All the world loves mystery and a master mystifier is due to appear here soon when Frye and his company of magicians, entertainers and musicians come under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church of Spencerville, Friday night, April 21, at 8 o'clock. The entertainment will be given in the M. E. Church at a nominal fee of 10 cents.

Frye possesses a strange stage personality and a manner of presentation vastly different from that of the ordinary magician. He is cynical about his jokes, but is reassured and goes ahead when the audience finds them hilarious. His entire show is set to music and is full of wonders, thrills, girls, mystery and splendor. With an amazing array of modern magic, spook effects and strange stage novelties, not even the most jaded stage lover will find time to yawn. Life is like that, too—careless of niceties and always in a hurry for no apparent reason at all.

The members of the Ladies Aid are selling tickets and they are to receive a fair portion of the receipts. Tickets may also be secured at the door on the evening of the performance. 16t1.

ATTENTION OF DRY SUPPORTERS

A county wide meeting of all people interested in keeping Indiana in the dry column, or who believe that the Eighteenth Amendment ought not be repealed, are urged to attend the meeting at the court house in Auburn, Friday evening, April 12, at 8 o'clock.

State Senator, Swihart, of Elkhart will discuss the present issue, and he is considered a very able speaker and there ought to be a full house to hear his message. There will be splendid music.

This is not a political meeting therefore should draw people of both political faiths, who want to know what is going on in Indiana.

Mrs. Meade Baker broke her left arm, about a half inch above the wrist, Tuesday forenoon. She was coming downstairs with her arm full. Reaching the bottom step, she pushed the door open with arm and losing her balance, fell to the floor. She put out her hand to catch herself with above results.

She was alone at the time of the accident, but the neighbors were called who notified Mr. Baker and Dr. Hathaway, of Butler, came and the break was soon reset.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham were guests in the G. M. Barney home in Hicksville Friday.

Maurice Hollabaugh, wife and baby, of Spencerville and George Wade, wife and baby, were Sunday guests in the D. B. Ridgway home.

A birthday party was given Billy Monroe Tuesday evening, it being his sixth birthday. Pattie Carpenter, June Jump, Franklin Sechler and Frank Curie, Jr., were supper guests and remained all night.

BUYING TOO LITTLE

In 1929, people bought too much. They spent beyond their means, they pledged their income not merely for that year, but for years to come. That was one thing leading to the depression.

In 1933, people have bought too little. Many of course have spent all they had, but many have failed to buy what they should, because of fears of the future. The way to meet these fears, is to show people by advertising that you have goods to sell at low prices that will not continue. When anyone is shown that he can buy for $1.00 today something that will probably cost $1.50 next year, he is very likely to set his fears aside and buy it.

Such advertising and buying is breaking the force of this depression.

SUPER-WORKERS

Some people think they are going to be supermen, that is, people capable of knowing and doing much more than other people do. But people who are gifted by nature with such exceptional gifts are few.

There are plenty of people who might be called super-workers, who make faster progress than others, because they put more thought and effort into their jobs. At the start they are frequently no more capable than their competitors. But they are determined to know all there is about their jobs, and to give the best possible service there is, that they become more competent than others. These are the ones who attain success if they are in business for themselves, and win promotion if they work for others.

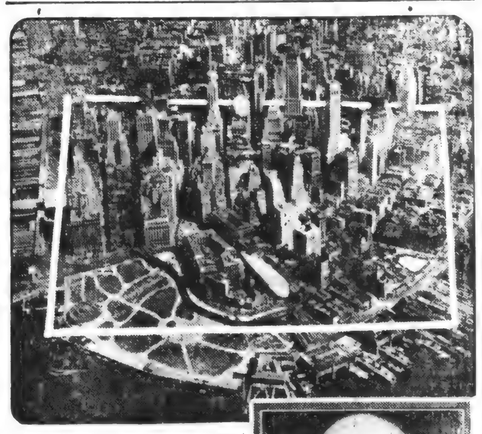
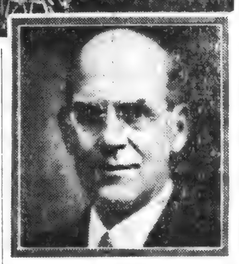
SUBSTANCE SIZE OF A PEA LUBRICATES MILE-SQUARE AREA





Pencil-eraser Volume of Ingredient in New Fluid Would Cover Marked Area Above With Thin Lubricating Film, Says Dr. Abbott, Noted Authority on Oils.

A REVOLUTIONARY new motor-lubricating fluid has been perfected which has as its chief ingredient a highly lubricative colloidal (gel-like) substance so finely subdivided that a volume the size of a pea would cover a mile-square surface with a thin self-lubricating film.

This startling statement was made by Dr. G. A. Abbott, head of the chemistry department of the University of North Dakota and state oil chemist, at Grand Forks, who is a nationally recognized authority on oils, following his exhaustive tests with the fluid.

The fluid, which was used in preconditioning the motors of both an automobile recently driven 745 miles at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and an airplane flown 35 minutes at Winona, Minn., after all oil had been drained from their crankcases, was perfected by W. V. Kidder, former newspaper man of La Crosse, Wis.

"The minute colloidal particles of the substance, when introduced into a motor by adding the carrier fluid to the regular crankcase oil, are attracted to the surfaces of the pistons and cylinders, forming a very thin but smooth and uniform lubricating film that thoroughly fills the finest pores and crevasses of the metal," Dr. Abbott said. "As this lubricating coat wears away it is continually renewed by fresh deposits of the colloidal particles in the oil stream. These particles, which readily pass through the finest filters, carry electrical charges that serve to repel and prevent them from collecting into larger masses and settling out. It is very probable that the fluid also contains some stabilizing agent in small quantity to prevent settling.

"Thus when a motor thoroughly conditioned with this substance is run after all oil has been drained from it, the film established upon the metal surfaces will serve as a lubricant until its thin layer wears away. When it disappears there is left a mottled surface exposing both iron and the colloidal substance, for the cavities of the metal are still filled with sub-microscopic particles of the latter. As the mottled surface is ground down these particles are smeared over the protruding metal spots, which strongly attract and hold them. In this way a continuous film of lubrication is maintained until the metal is worn down to the limit of penetration of the particles into its pores.

"From the physical and chemical properties of the fluid investigated it is reasonable to expect practical engineering tests to show a marked increase in motor efficiency, due to better lubrication," Dr. Abbott added. "This should cause the motor to run cooler and should result in a saving of fuel and in longer life of pistons and rings."

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 60 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months. 3 pounds in an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk 3 to 4 feet high, and just loaded with leaves.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakurajima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 30 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 24 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.
Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—6 Pkts. 50c—Dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

Fish and Game Club Information

New Laws

None of the Acts concerning fish and game passed at the 1933 session of the General Assembly will be in force until proclamation by the Governor. Notice of the proclamation undoubtedly will be made in the public press. In the meantime, the old laws will be in force so that it is now lawful to fish in one's own county without a license but will be unlawful after the proclamation; and it is now unlawful to take yellow perch less than 7 inches in length but will be lawful to take perch of any size after the proclamation; it is now unlawful to fish with nets or traps in the Wabash river from Lafayette to the state line but will be lawful after the proclamation upon procuring licenses and net tags; and in the Wabash boundary waters the same license fees and regulations will apply until the proclamation is made at which time the new schedule of fees and the new regulations will be in force.

Game Reserves

The game farms are well prepared for the approaching breeding season. All equipment has been assembled and put in order and the breeding stock is in excellent condition. At the Jasper-Pulaski game reserve 1,228 pheasants and 246 quail are held for breeders. The pheasants have already begun to lay as have also the ducks. At the Brown County reserve there are 518 ring-neck pheasant breeders and 15 pair of quail breeders. These pheasant hens have likewise begun to lay.

During the month of March Sidney R. Esten, field worker on birds, was detailed to make a bird census of the Jasper-Pulaski game reserve. His very interesting report shows that he noted during that period the following:

Summary of Birds

	Spec.	Ind.
Water Birds	4	54
Geese and Ducks	14	7003
Birds of Prey	12	60
Shore Birds	2	175
Game Birds	4	407

Stop Spring Burning

Sportsmen and sportsman's organizations should make every effort to stop the spring burning of grass and weed fields. The habit of spring burning of such fields seems to be increasing in spite of the fact that it has been scientifically proved to be more harmful to the soil than beneficial. However, if the land owner insists on burning, he should be persuaded to burn early, before April 1 if possible. Certainly no burning should be done after April 15, as by that date ground birds are nesting. Burning destroys the nests, eggs and young birds as well as the cover and food supply.

Burning is ordinarily done to destroy insect larvae but scientific research has proven it a doubtful benefit and has established the fact that the grasses plowed under wouuld furnish valuable fertilizer to the land. This information should be passed on to the farmer with the further advice that his ground nesting birds would destroy more insects than his fire.

Roadside Mowing

Another practice prevalent in most communities is the mowing of grass and weeds along highway right of ways by county and township highway crews. Many quail and other ground birds nest in such places and have their eggs and young destroyed by the mowing machines. Concerted club action would no doubt prevail on your officials to postpone any mowing until after July 1st, thus giving the quail and rabbits a chance to complete the spring nesting.

Sophomores Have Party

The Sophomores had their last class and newspaper party at the home of Violet Baker last Friday night. The party began at eight o'clock with games of scissors crossed, pleased or displeased and several others.

After this, ice cream and cake were served, no one eating over ten dishes—or maybe were a few who were ashamed to admit that that they ate more.

As the members left for their respective homes they thanked their hostess for a good time and wished her good luck and many friends at her new home in Bluffton.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The Juniors gave the Seniors a reception last Saturday night in the gymnasium. The gym was decorated in green and white, to carry out the Seniors class colors, with their class flower, a white rose, on each table.

The program was cleverly arranged in the form of an airplane flight with Mr. Noffsinger acting as an Air Traffic Cop, Keith Dailey as Pilot, and Kenneth Gaff representing the senior passengers. John Woodcox gave an interesting Take Off followed by a Weather Report from Helen Like. Jean and Gerry Refueled with songs, while Enid Curie gave Beacon Lights. A happy three point landing was amusingly accomplished by a pantomime play in which Helen Like took the part of the hero, Jean Myers the villian, Virginia Shull the heroine, Geraldine Thornton the heroine's mother, and Ruth Baker an attractive floor lamp.

Home Economics Girls Present Style Show

Friday afternoon from the hours of 2:00 to 3:30 the vocational Home Economics girls gave a tea in the gymnasium, honoring their mothers. A meagre repast, accompanied by the usual beverage, was served promptly at two o'clock from a table decorated with new spring jonquils, conveying hints of Easter. Clothing projects and Related Art projects including silhouette pictures, waste paper baskets and note-books were all on display. After tea was served a miniature style show was presented in two parts—first, those dresses were modeled which were made in clothing class; little Joan Rickerd, Susie Medley, and Maxine Brunson modeled their very tiny frocks that were made by their older sisters. Second, an attempt was made to show some things which are most suitable and appropriate to be included in wardrobes of girls of high school age. The models were almost as agile and graceful as professional mannequins, and they moved very aptly to music played by Leone Comesky of Garrett. A social hour followed in which parents, students, and teacher tried to become better acquainted.

Final examinations were given Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Friday a general field day is being planned. There will be races, contests, and games between the different classes and pupils. We're hoping the weather man will help us entertain everyone.

The Alumni will have their annual reception in honor of the Seniors this Saturday night at the gymnasium. This year a pot luck supper is being planned.

Since this is the last school paper of this spring the Sophomores wish everyone a pleasant and prosperous vacation.

The annual baccalaureate service for the graduating class was held at the Lutheran Church last Sunday evening. Rev. Fabianske gave the sermon, in which he emphasized the need of moral and religious training as a part of the education of the individual. The music was furnished by the Lutheran choir with Mrs. Frank Curie as accompanist. The church was appropriately decorated, and the service well attended.

MORTUARY

SHAMBAUGH

Mrs. Margaret Shambaugh, 79, died Monday afternoon, April 10, at the St. Joseph hospital in Fort Wayne, after an extended illness. She had been making her home at the home of her son, Frank Shambaugh, at Fort Wayne this winter. For many years she resided with her granddaughter, Mrs Henry H. Sauder, at Grabill, and was well known here. She was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Surviving are two sons, Burl Shambaugh, of Hillsdale, Mich., and Frank Shambaugh, of Fort Wayne; one daughter, Mrs. Pearl Goldsmith, of Fort Wayne; two brothers, Frank VanZile and David VanZile; ten grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Grabill Mennonite Church with Rev. J. H. Arndt, of Fort Wayne and Rev. J. H. Sauder in charge. Burial was made in the White City cemetery near Spencerville.

ABEL

J. C. F. Abel, son of George and Sally Ann (Milliman) Abel, was born in the Coburntown neighborhood May 23, 1856, and died at his residence in St. Joe, April 12, 1933, at the age of 76 years, 10 months and 19 days.

Mr. Abel was one of five children, all of whom are dead except Wallace Abel, the oldest son. His father died when the children were quite young, and the mother reared her children and lived until just a few years ago.

Mr. Abel and Jennie Thompson were married on June 8, 1878, and to this union was born one son, Glen Abel, now in the employ of the Wabash Railroad, at Montpelier, Ohio.

In early manhood Mr. Abel trained at carpentry, and became one of the better workmen of the community. Associated with Mr. Filley and Mr. Allen he assisted extensively with the earlier building of St. Joe and vicinity. Later he became rural mail carrier, in which capacity he served 18 years, until retirement.

Mr. Abel was associated with fraternal societies during his active life, but became inactive when his hearing failed and he could not enjoy the public work.

Through his employment and these societies he became one of the better known men of the community, and formed innumerable fast friendships to which he contributed a full measure of neighborliness and fidelity.

Mrs. Abel survives to mourn his death, their married life having continued into the fifty-fifth year.

The funeral services were held from the Kinsey funeral home, Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. N. Scholes, with burial in Riverside cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness shown us, during the long illness of our husband and father, and for their sympathy in his passing.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1933 NUMBER 17

THE REAL QUESTION, AND HERE IT IS

1. IT IS NOT a question of whether we shall have beer or light wine; WE HAVE THEM NOW.

2. IT IS NOT a question of medicinal whiskey; IT IS NOW PROVIDED.

3. IT IS NOT A QUESTION of whether we shall derive a revenue from the sale of alcoholic beverages; THAT REVENUE IS NOW A FACT.

But It Is A Question

4. SHALL we remove the constitutional restrictions and permit and future Indiana State Legislature to restore the old time licensed saloon, or are we still to maintain the efficient constitutional limitation which will continue to furnish the means for our protection against unscrupulous legislatures.

Remember that if the 18th Amendment is repealed by the ratification of the 21st amendment, then there will not be one thing to prevent our next legislature legalizing the SALOON.

SCHOOL DAYS AGAIN BROUGHT TO A CLOSE

Another milestone in the history of the local high school has been reached, and twelve more young people have completed the course of instruction, and some will continue to broaden their education by attending some school while others will be compelled to experience the education derived from the toil of their hands, not being permitted to further their education from that of a college.

The class of 1933 was composed of the following:

KENNETH E. GAFF
ENID MAXINE CURIE
ROBERT WIERS
MARY JANE CURIE
WALTER H. GEE
MARSHALL W. MORR
JAMES T. REDDY
REIGN SCHONDELMAYER
NED W. SHULL
BEATRICE E. STORER
DOROTHA M. WASSON
JOHN GILL WOODCOX

FLOWER: WHITE ROSE

MOTTO: OUT OF SCHOOL LIFE. INTO LIFE'S SCHOOL

The commencement program on Thursday evening completed their school activities and the program was free. The girls chorus furnished three numbers on the program. Rev. V. O. Harrold and Rev. C. W. Moore were the local pastors while Mr. C. F. Stallmon, county superintendent, presented the diplomas.

Prof. J. Oscar Winger, addressed the class of '33 on the subject "The fine art of living." A thing of importance, we must discover, is, we must deal with individuals. There is a tendency upon the part of mankind to criticise that which we do not understand. This mistake has been committed since the beginning of time. The greatest tragedy of the ages, was the culmination of misunderstanding. The crucifixion of Jesus Christ: It was shown when He uttered the words, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." It takes ages, to truly know the worth of a great man or idea.

Another point stressed by Prof. Winger, is that "We cannot influence, while we antagonize at the same time." This he illustrated by examples.

Still another characteristic that stands out prominently, among so many people, is their desire for others to do their thinking for them.

Mr. Winger stated that some would take issue with him, when he declared it to be his sincere belief that a "spark of divinity resides in each individual."

There is a disposition upon the part of some parents to shift all the responsibility upon the shoulders of their children at a certain stage of life, this is all wrong.

Then too, most important to consider, is an appreciation of the sense of value; too many by far, look for immediate results, not taking into consideration that the best things are not attained in that manner.

Material values, are often sought for, to the exclusion of the spiritual ones, we want modern improvements, we want them at once, they can wait 'till tomorrow; but—human values must be sought, must be created today, while it is yet time; they—cannot wait.

False notions of independence are entertained by too many today; too often do we hear the remark, "I want to live my own life." We cannot safely entertain this view, for we cannot live unto ourselves. Man being a social being, his acts have a bearing upon the lives of others.

Prof. Winger is an apt illustrator and the illustrations were in many cases humorous; which, not only clinched the point of argument, but added interest to his talk, and kept his audience in a cheerful frame of mind. In his more serious remarks, the rapt attention given by his hearers, attested the fact that his words had gone home, and, that no doubt, in some breasts, high resolves have been made to attain, in some degree, at least, toward the high goal set before them.

The Alumni reception followed on Saturday night with approximately 100 guests and the pot luck supper was served in the Domestic Science room, as soon as the crowd arrived. Following the supper the program, in charge of Harvey Hull, was given in the high school gym. A jolly good time was had. A mixed quartet, solos by Joe Woodcox and a pantomime by the Juniors, were well received. Impromptu talks by a number of former graduates proved quite interesting and entertaining. Eight of the 1933 class were present to enjoy the welcome into the association.

Hankey Garage can weld that broken machine part. 17t1.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Curie and little daughter, of Fort Wayne, were week-end guests in the Morris Curie home.

SPENCERVILLE H. S.

Examinations, finals, were held Friday and Monday. The fine spring days make us glad to be out. School days for the year 1932-1933 ends Wednesday, April 26.

The last chapel service of the school year was conducted by the Rev. Brown on Tuesday morning of this week. The program consisted of the assembly singing 'Onward Christian Soldiers." Mr. Brown used incidents from the Olympic Games to illustrate his talk on courage—both physical and moral, stressing especially the actions of Nurmi—the Finnish winner and Ralph Hill the American entrant. Then he used this illustration to emphasize the lesson of courage as taught by Christ and closed with an injunction to each and every one to be strong and courageous physically, morally and religiously.

The baccalaureate service for the graduating class of 1933 was held Sunday evening in the Methodist Church. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Reverend Howard Brown. He chose his text from the book of Daniel and emphaszied the three points: Be Clean, Be Honest, Be Christian.

Mrs. Rectenwall, Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Rhodes, accompanied by Mrs. Fisher at the piano, sang a special Easter number. The service closed by the congregation singing, "I Would Be True, For There are Those Who Trust Me." In spite of the rainy evening the church was well filled with those interested and some were standing.

Commencement exercises were held in the Lutheran Church on Wednesday evening. The music was furnished by the Spencerville Orchestra, directed by John McNabb. The stage was decorated with ferns and flowers and seated the graduating class, members of which were: Forrest Brattain, president, Eunice Gerig, secretary-treasurer, LeNore Laub, Loyd Laux, Charles Kimes and Howard Dermott. On the stage also were Mr. J. W. Fleming and Mr. Carl Stallman. Mr. Stallman presented the diplomas to the members of the class. Loyd Laux was salutatorian and LaNore Laub was valedictorian. The class was escorted by the underclassmen, who had seats reserved on the south and on the north side of the church. The auditorium was filled and the second commencement in which members of the class supply the numbers becomes a thing of the past.

For the hearty cooperation of the commuity in all our school affairs do we hereby express our thanks and appreciation.

Accept too, our congratulations and best wishes for a good vacation and happy return to school days in the fall of 1933.

Good-bye All.

Should He Obey?

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Late Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

The Browns have never gotten on together. There have been no triangular differences. She has cared for him as much—or as little—as she has cared for anyone, and he likewise for her. Possibly if she had been a man and had taken up some distinctly masculine activity she would have been easier to live with. She simply adores controlling things; whatever she goes into she must have the reins in her hand, and she desires no advice or direction as to how the driving should be done. Had she lived in Russia at the time of the empire she would have been the czar, or she would have gone to Siberia.

It is not a matter of poverty which has disgruntled Mrs. Brown, for they are in good circumstances. In fact Mr. Brown retired from active business some time ago and they live in financial comfort on the income from their property. Maybe it is because when they were married she brought to the union somewhat more assets than he possessed, and this fact gave her a feeling of superiority and domination. It isn't that Brown is lazy or shiftless or that he dissipates their income. He has been a hard worker, shrewd and careful in his business dealings, but nothing that he has done has ever pleased her. For thirty years they have scarcely had a quiet, peaceful day together.

They have a son, and it is with him I am most concerned. He is twenty years old now, and he has known nothing since his babyhood but this daily domestic wrangle. He is a bright boy, energetic, hard working, intelligent, but nothing that he does pleases his mother.

If he earns money, as he does, she takes it away from him. If he wants to go out at night, she refuses. If he forms even the most healthy friendship with a young woman of his own age and makes a social engagement she makes life for him hell until he breaks it. If he comes in after her bedtime at night she berates him almost until morning.

What advice would you give him if he were to ask you, Should he obey her unreasonable demands? He has appealed to his father, who only shakes his head.

Study Proposals to Bring an End to Postal Deficit

Plan to Increase Revenue and Curtail Outlay.

Washington.—Legislation designed to halt an annual post office deficit which rose to a new high of $200,000,000 for the last fiscal year, is now being drafted by the house committee on post offices and post roads.

It is expected to be introduced as a part of the administration's economy program either at this session after emergency matters have been disposed of or early in the next regular session.

Members of the committee are understood to be working on both ends of the problem, seeking to increase revenue and to curtail outlay. Their major efforts along the first line, it is reported, will be the restoration of the former two cent rate on first class postage which was raised to three cents in the revenue act of 1933.

Three Cent Rate Causes Loss.

A recent survey conducted by Representative James M. Mead (Dem., N. Y.,) committee chairman, indicated that instead of realizing a promised $130,000,000 in postal income, the increased first class rate is going to lose some $100,000,000 in the current fiscal year. He termed the three cent rate one of the "greatest blunders" in the history of the mail service.

Efforts to stem the outlay of the Post Office department will be directed at a curtailment of air and ocean mail subsidies. In the fiscal year 1932 steamship mail subsidies totaled $21,666,103, while subventions to air transport companies engaged in carrying the mails amounted to $20,586,107.

Recently the committee compiled a comprehensive report embodying a new plan of air mail payment under which subsidies would be completely abolished within five years. It is expected that this program will be included in the legislation which is to be brought before the house.

Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep., Pa.), author of the original air mail act declared that "a complete change in the method of payments to contractors must be made in the interests of justice and economy."

"Whatever justification there may be for a large subsidy as a means of establishing the new aviation industry," he said, "it is now time to look forward to the cessation of such payments and the establishment of the air mail service on a self-sustaining basis."

According to Representative Kelly the record of decreased revenues in the postal service during the last three years has never been paralleled in history. In 1930, he declared, postal revenues were $705,484,000. In 1931 they dropped by nearly $50,000,000 to a total of $655,463,000, and in 1932 they declined another $68,000,000, to a total of only $588,171,000. In the two year period the aggregate loss amounted to more than $117,000,000, while in the period from 1921 to 1930 postal revenues showed an average yearly increase of nearly $27,000,000.

The post office deficit has been mounting swiftly, according to figures compiled by the department.

In 1929 there was a gross deficiency of $85,000,000, including payments for air and ocean mails subsidies, franked mail service and nonpostal functions, while in 1932 the deficit, on the same gross basis, jumped to $205,000,000—an increase in the red of $120,000,000.

The 1929 net deficit, representing the outgo for purely postal purposes against the income from postal services, amounted to $56,000,000. The 1932 net deficit was $152,000,000.

Washington's Home Gets Paving From England

Whitehaven, England.—Paving from a sandstone quarry here has been sent to Mount Vernon, Va., to renew similar paving at Washington's house there. Red sandstone from this area of Cumberland was used in the building of the house.

The paving, of an unusually even texture, is of a cream color, and is difficult to duplicate. The quarries of the Whitehaven district have long been celebrated for their stone.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

Young children, as a rule, have a wonderful and well-developed sense of balance. They can slip and almost fall and regain their equilibrium without a tremor or the feeling of having done anything unusual. They have had a wide experience in their young lives, whereby they have acquired their power of equilibrium. Every mother knows of the constant tumbles the wee tots have when they are learning to walk. They are so little and so short that they have no heavy falls or of a great height unless they tumble down stairs or off of some high place. At first the falls these small folk have are almost equal to the number of steps they take. So determined to conquer are they that after a few years they may be said to be masters of equilibrium. They are practically fearless.

It is at this stage that parents and grandparents often make the mistake of instilling the element of fear in the children. With their older years and greater stature, falls are not of small significance to these adults. They hold their breath as they watch their children climb tall trees, and often call out words of warning when in reality the youngsters are as secure as if on terra firma. They plant their feet well on limbs or in crotches of branches and revel in the feeling of freedom and elevation above the green grass many yards below. They look out over the heads of their elders or over the roof of garage or barn and get the exhilaration of adults who sit securely in airplanes when they take flights from aviation fields.

Sure-Footed Safety.

This ability of children to keep their balance and to climb will stand them in good stead when they grow older, provided they do not get so many warnings that they imbibe the spirit of fear which will hamper them later on. There is no time in one's life when to be sure-footed is more prized than adult years. The ability to grip the ground or the floor with the feet is valuable. To walk fearlessly over a plank across a stream, to tread the uncertain deck of a steamer plowing through a storm and remain well balanced is an enviable thing. To climb to mountain heights over rocky crags and icy surfaces is an accomplishment which only the sure-footed can enjoy. The children who continued to exercise their power of equilibrium during their growing years and have the sense well developed are in this favored group.

Floor Coverings.

Textile floor coverings, also called soft surface floor coverings, are divided into two comprehensive groups, those made by hand and those constructed by machinery. Handmade carpets and rugs include all kinds made entirely by hand, or on what are called hand looms. On the latter the weft is inserted by hand either by throwing a bobbin through the separated strands of the warp on the loom or by knotting the threads on the warp, using the hands to tie the knots, or otherwise insert the weft. Sometimes needles are threaded with colored yarns and are used in place of bobbins to carry the weft or certain strands of the weft through, around, or about the warp. The weft is also called filler.

Handmade Goverings.

All genuine oriental rugs are handmade, as are also the kinds called hand-knotted carpets. These latter are knotted carpets made with the same gordordes knot of the oriental weavers. They are made in the British Isles and in some European countries, rather than in the Orient, and are therefore given the distinguishing name of hand-knotted carpets. They differ also in designs which are noticeably French or English. Plain carpets of this sort are a favorite style. Navajo rugs are hand woven as are all primitive floor coverings, peasant and folkcraft rugs, such as hooked, crocheted, knit rugs, etc. Also exquisite turkey and embroidered rugs are hand made.

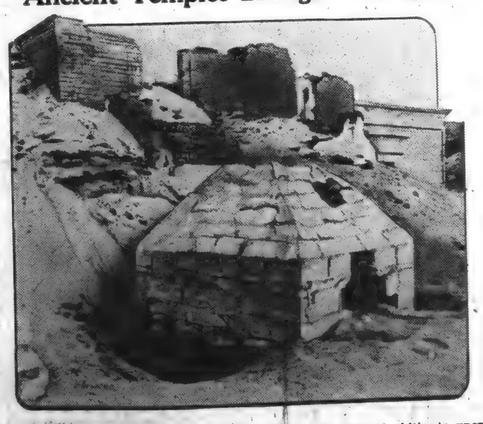
Ancient Temples Brought to Light



New and interesting discoveries made recently in Egypt in hitherto unexplored ground on the west of the ancient city of Hermopolis. The excavations were conducted by an Egyptian university archeologist, Dr. Samy Gabr. He is reported to have unearthed whole streets with buildings on both sides, and temples from the period of the First century B. C., to the Second century A. D. One of the temples is Greek, with an altar, almost intact, in front of it, while the other is an imposing Graeco-Egyptian structure There are pillared houses, some of them two stories high, built of stone and brick, whose interiors are decorated with beautiful and well-preserved wall paintings that show a remarkable knowledge of perspective and the value of light and shade. The picture shows a pyramid-shaped tomb discovered during the excavations at Hermopolis by the expedition.

WHEN BIRDS COURT

Song is the most conspicuous feature of bird courting. Males are the best singers, and they do most of the singing. They employ their songs chiefly in courting the females, and usually cease singing—like modern husbands—as soon as they have won their brides, and started their families. Song sparrows and red-eyed vireos may continue their music even during the moulting season in August or September when other birds are usually silent. The females of a few species sing as well as the males, but their songs are always more timid. Female cardinals, purple finches, and a number of tropical American wrens sing operatic duets with the males during the courting season.—Missouri Farmer.

The Fable of Mr. Whipple's Dress Suit

By GEORGE ADE

©, Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

ONCE there was a Kid who lived in a tall-grass Settlement just two miles this side of the Jumping-Off Place. There was a Railway through the Town but no Fast Train ever stopped at Wimpusville unless it had a Hot Box. Sherman Whipple spent his early Youth in this benighted Burg where the Leader of the most exclusive Set worked at the Hardware and Implement Store, put Goose-Oil on his Curls and thought he was dressed up if he had on his White Muffler. The most popular Belle in the place had Coral Ear-Rings and would sing "In the Gloaming" at the slightest Provocation, unless requested not to do so.

When only three years old Sherman sized up his Environment and knew that he was in Dutch. After that he wasn't interested in anything except Time-Tables. It may be true that the Sharks on Sociology, who cannot understand why Lads leave the Villages and flock to the Bright Lights, never served a Term in one of these out-of-the-way Hamlets where the only regular Visitors, in the old Days, were English Sparrows and Drummers. Now a Picture Palace smiles where once the Feed Store was. The Sky is full of Antennae and the Honk of the Henry is heard at 2 a. m.

Not so, however, when the Earthly Career of Sherman Whipple was still in its Springtime. The Town of Wimpusville had a complicated Case of Mopes and Chidders. It had been stung by a Hook-Worm. It was Headquarters for the Not-so-Muches. It was a Dump.

It happened that when Our Hero was about 8 years of Age he saw in a Story Paper, which his Ma read with great Regularity, a beautiful Wood-Cut depicting a Scene in High Life.

It was in a Conservatory with Palms all over the Place. There was a Lady who was very Slender at the Waist and much less slender just Below, and she was in complete Low-Neck and wore Diamond Ear-Bobs and had two Cubic Feet of Hair and was, according to the Standards of Pre-Golf Days, a raving Beauty of the Statuesque Type. Her name was Alys. It was Alys Montague. Up to the time that our Producing Managers moved the Drama one Flight up from the Drawing Room, it was impossible to put on a Play without having at least one Montague in it.

The Correct Soup and Fish.

In the Picture it seemed that Alys was peeved over some Proposition that had been put up to her by the Gentleman in the Long Tail, who was none other than Geoffrey Durante. Whatever may have been the Private Morals of Geoffrey, he was certainly the Class so far as Looks and Get-Up were concerned. He had a wavy Mop and a spiral Moustache, and his Regalia was the Correct Soup and Fish including three Studs of Bows on his dancing Pumps. He was the Cat's Goatee, the Elephant's Eye-Lashes, the Eel's Elbows, the Panther's Pajamas, or any other Words to the same Effect so long as they don't mean anything.

Although it showed in the Picture that Alys was shrinking away from Geoffrey until only a clever Illustrator could prevent her from doing a Flop and although the Reading Matter indicated that Geoffrey hissed "Have a Care!" when Alys hinted that she had learned of his Secret Marriage to Gladys Marston—even though the Circumstantial Evidence indicated that Geoffrey was a terrible Pup, his Wardrobe saved him. Evidently he was a Villain, but still a Gentleman.

Sherman Whipple was fascinated by the First Part Costume. It was his first Meeting with the Soup-and Habilliments. Never, in Real Life, had he seen any one all diked out in Thirteen and the Odd.

A Tall Trek From the Home-Town.

The Wood-Cut practically determined his whole Career. He made a secret Vow that some Day he would wear the whole Smear, including Silk Underwear and a Monogram on his Shirt-Sleeve. You might say that a Dress Suit was the Lode Star of his Existence. He steered his whole subsequent Course of Life toward a Conservatory, in which he might have a bantering Flirtation with some Heiress who carried a Fan and used good Perfumery. The Fact that the Distance from Wimpusville to Social Eminence seemed to be at least Five Million Miles did not dishearten little Sherman. He had learned that any One with plenty of Jack and a sunny Nature can bust into the Inner Circle of the Upper Ten.

When he packed his Wicker Suit Case and did a tall Trek from the Corn Fields, it was not suspected by the Oafs and Bumpkins of his native Township that he nursed this Ambition to write his Name in Letters of Fire on the Society Page of some Daily Paper.

We need not follow him through his early Struggles to tell of the weary Years during which, if he had lost one of his two Collar Buttons, he would have been practically Destitute.

Suffice to say that at last the Sun of Prosperity jammed its way through the Clouds, and Sherman found himself with an Apartment of his own and a sweet Balance at the Bank. The Dream of a Life-Time was to become a joyous Reality. He felt that the Time had arrived for him to break out of the Shell and Crow three times and let the World know that he had arrived.

So he went to a Real Tailor and said he wanted a Dress Suit with more Satin Lining than ever had been seen on any Vaudeville Stage. He wanted at least one Velvet Collar and he wanted a little Dewflicker to connect the Buttons in front and he wanted much Braid down the Trousers. The Tailor tried to tell Sherman that Evening Dress, or Full Dress, or Formal Dress, or whatever one may choose to designate the fantastic Garb, should be characterized by an unobtrusive Elegance and not Complicated by those Innovations which seem to be favored by Song-and-Dance Hicks and former Soda Clerks who have lately begun to impersonate European Aristocrats on the Screen.

No Quiet Raiment for Him.

All that Stuff about cutting out the Decorative Effects went for Sweeney. Mr. Whipple had waited nearly 30 years for arrival of The Day and now that he was about to back into a real Set of Nifties and carry his own Scenery, he didn't want any Vestments that were quiet and sedate. He wanted a Dress Suit that would sound like a Saxophone.

He had his Wish. After the Hot Raiment was delivered he spent many an Hour in front of the Mirror and had a great many imaginary Chats with Members of the Opposite Sex who were not unknown to the Haute Monde, whatever that is.

He could hardly wait to flash the proud Apparel. His first Chance came when he was invited to attend a Smoker given by the Members of the Twelfth Ward Bowling Club. When he showed up at the Function he had on everything except Lip Rouge. There were 400 present and 339 of them had committed Social Errors by appearing in Sack Suits, although it is only fair to add that one of them wore a Sweater also. Mr. Whipple had to pull the Old One about going to a Party later in the Evening. Some one asked him if it was going to be a Fancy Dress Party and he said it wasn't, whereupon several of the Boys shook their Heads and couldn't seem to understand it.

He thought he was safe when he attended a Banquet given by the Alumni of his Alma Mater, which happened to be a Short-Hand College. The Ladies were present and the Toastmaster had the names of 20 tongue-tied Morons who were to be called upon to Speak. It was that Kind. Sherman did not feel so lonesome at this Affair, as all the Waiters had Spike-Tails, but the Toastmaster wore the only double-breasted Prince Albert Frock Coat to be found on Earth outside of the Embalming Profession.

Bad News for the Dress-Suit.

One Day, after the beautiful Raiment had been in the Camphor for a month, Mr. Whipple found something in a Magazine which almost frose his Blood. The Piece went on to say that the Man of Fashion who wished to be En Rapport with all the late Wrinkles, could now be de Rigeur, a la Mode and absolutely Razmagash even if he wore a Dinner Coat at Gatherings attended by Ladies. It is said that the snowy Weskit, the expensive Pearls, the tall Dicer and the White Mittens which can seldom be buttoned, would continue to be Au Fait at the Metropolitan Opera House or at Weddings, but for Dinner Parties which were more or less En Famille the Dinner Jacket Combination was to the Mustard, because the Prince of Wales was doing it and what more was there to say?

It was just like sticking a Knife into the Heart of Sherman Whipple. He couldn't scoop up all of the French but he surmised that the Money which he had tied up in the Swell Harness was going to be a Total Loss. He had no Chance to be among those present at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the Weddings were out because the only Friends he had in the World had been married for years.

Little remains to be told. Sherman still has the Dress Suit but it binds across the Shoulders and the Pants are so tight in the Legs that they no longer conform to the Rules laid down in that sparkling Department headed "Styles for Men."

Often, as he sits by the Radiator, waiting for Spring to show up, Sherman wishes that he had saved his Coin and bought a Radio Set with a Loud Speaker.

MORAL: Those destined to wear Royal Robes are born with them already on.

Proper Treatment of Plants in the House

House plants which have become dull and lifeless can be made to perk up and take on new beauty. Cleanse the plants either by dipping the foliage into a tub of soapy water and then rinsing thoroughly in clean water, or by spraying with a small plane spray.

After the foliage thoroughly dries, feed the plants with a complete plant food at the rate of one teaspoonful for each 6-inch pot, using more or less according to size of the pot.

Plants are accustomed to air which is quite humid. Most homes are dry during winter. To overcome this dryness humidifiers should be used in connection with the heating system, but if this is not practical a pan of water placed near the heating unit will be of considerable help in adding moisture to the air. Humidifying the air of your home will benefit the members of your household as well as the plants.

Man-Tailored Vies With Fur-Trim

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

COMES stepping along in the spring style shows the strictly tailored suit, daringly mannish down to the minutest detail, so much so as to provoke a question mark shrug of the shoulders on the part of the more conservative. Some of the new suits have gone so far as to be actually trousered, worn with man-tailored shirts, sporty ties, stiff cuffs and swaggering fedora hats.

Bide a wee, ye who are skeptical, and give eye to another number of fashion's program, for equally prominent on the horizon there rises a gracefully silhouetted figure clad in softly furred delicate gray or beige, made even more appealingly feminine with the accompaniment of a sheer little befrilled blouse or the flaunting of one of those amusing huge butterfly bows of crisp organdie which are the rage just now. What with the elusive pastel tone of these costumes so perfectly blended with hazy, misty fox fur the ensemble melts into the springtime scene as does the faintly tinged leafy verdure during the lovely Maytime days.

Which to choose, the severely add daringly man-tailored or the beguilingly feminine, for the new spring outfit, eye, that's the question! Toss a penny if you will, for either way leads triumphantly on to the very height of fashion.

If your flippant penny happens to head toward the strictly tailored you will be tremendously interested in the ultra chic suit which the lady seated in the pictured group is wearing. Here is the masculine fashion at its best. It is an afternoon suit that copies the male tuxedo even to a satin lapels and a satin strip down either side of the skirt. The blouse which is styled like a man's vest and the ascot tie are in white satin. For high-class swank this model stands at the very head of the list. The smart set are quite wild about it—this idea of the tuxedo suit.

For less formal wear the double-breasted suit sketched in the circle below is an excellent and thoroughly practical style, either in black or navy. Note the masculine derby hat which tops it. This model also looks good in tweed, and tweeds whether in cape costumes made up with the popular taffeta checks or in strictly man-made tailored fashion are "all the go" for spring.

If your fancy leads to the more feminine type, why not a fox trimmed gray or beige woolen topcoat, such as shown to the left in the picture? How flattering they are, the suits and coats in delicate tones which are made ornate with matching fur. You are offered your choice between caped types and those which "say it" with novel voluminous sleeves. In either event handsome borderings of luxuriant matching fur complete these charming ensembles. The placement of fur on the cape is done with a view of keeping it away from the face in most instances so that the suit or coat may be happily worn way into the summer. The cape suggestion sketched in the top oval gives the idea.

HOW COLORS ARE USED IN STYLES

Dark colors are in favor for costumes and bright accents of accessories—sweaters, blouses, belts, collars and cuffs, scarfs, pocketbooks, gloves, hats and handkerchiefs.

For evening, the pastel family of colors are in exceptionally good repute. So that you will be up-to-date on the names as well as the shades of new fabrics, keep these new titles for old colors well in mind: Eel-gray, sunset-orange, sulphur-yellow, Jerusalem-cherry red, Algerian-blue, Byzantine-green, tealeaf-green, deepwater-blue and that intangible new shade of blue that is going to be very popular and which, at least for the moment, is called moonlight-blue.

Many of these shades are old friends wedded to new titles to give you a fresher impression of them.

Warm Weather Fashions Show a Youthful Trend

Warm weather fashions indicate that the predominant trend this year would be toward youthfulness in design and fabrics.

The variety of materials run all the way from chiffons to piques, and the colors shown were equally diversified. Reds, blues, browns, beiges and grays were in evidence, used separately and in combination. The trends indicate that day wear will be shorter, slimmer and younger, while evening wear evidences a distinct Victorian influence.

Many two-piece jacket and dress models are being shown, which indicates a tendency toward utility in street wear.

Satins for Summer

Satin is enormously indorsed, and is expected to materialise this summer mostly in lacquered accessories and supple evening gowns in delicate shades like pearly pink or blue and nude.

PIQUE JACKET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Waffle pique in a glowing peach tone makes the little jacket. Lacy blouse made up of peach taffeta cording. Wool crepe skirt in dark brown. The smart, up-to-date wardrobe is not complete this season if it fails to include a little pique jacket. The evening jacket made of organdie, with crisp, bouffant silhouette, due to its large sleeves and, perhaps, a huge bow, is also one of fashion's latest whims. Which goes to show the importance of cotton as a style factor.

Give White Pique Touch to Spring Wool Frocks

Many springtime wool frocks are finished with a touch of white pique at the neckline. A black and white checked wool dress is topped by a little detachable bib of white pique which buttons on the left shoulder, and a Chartreuse green wool has a band of the same ribbed cotton on one side of the neckline.

Dark Lands Invite the Explorer

Earth Regions Unmapped, and Mere Names to Scientists.

Exploration is still thought of as a phase of adventure rather than of science. Yet it must rank in importance with the work that the physicists and chemists are doing in tearing bits of matter apart in order to discover of what the earth and the stars are made. It is science at its empirical best. We live on a planet, small as celestial bodies go, but huge to us—so huge that only a few centuries ago were we sure of its globular shape. Like ants we are still busily crawling over it, poking into strange nooks and crannies that turn out to be fjords, wriggling through jungles and swamps, skirting deserts and fastnesses that we fear to enter.

The passing of Prince Luigi Amadeo of Savoy, better known as the duke of the Abruzzi, reminds us how much crawling remains still to be done. In his lifetime he held two records—one for a "farthest North" that Peary was destined to beat and the other for having climbed to the unprecedented height of 22,650 feet in an unsuccessful attempt to scale Mount Godwin-Austen or K-2 in the Kashmir Himalayas. Scientifically more important was his conquest of the Ruwenzori range—Ptolemy's legendary Mountains of the Moon, where the Nile was supposed to have its source. He must be regarded not only as the lineal descendant of kings but as the spiritual descendant of that long line of bold, curious and restless men who pushed on into the unknown and thus stilled some nameless, inner, racial urge to carry on the antlike exploration of the terrestial surface.

Was he the last of the great roamers, half athlete and half scientist? a writer in the New York Times muses. Although the airplane and the Zeppelin have added more to our topographic knowledge in a week than we could hope to gather in a century of tedious crawling, we cannot yet expunge the words terra incognita from the geographical lexicon. Half the Arctic and the Antarctic are still unmapped. In Alaska are mountain-blocks almost as mythical as was the Ruwenzori range until the duke of the Abruzzi climbed it—a region of incredible tales spun by Indians and Eskimos. The heart of the Sahara lures, with its rumored oases of antiquity and the mountains of its Berber songs. In northern Arabia thirsty wastes and blinding sandstorms have proved perfect defenses against hardened tribesmen, who have but skirted them. The Burmese hill jungles are known only to the tribes who wander through them. And what shall be said of the Amazon valley, still hidden in steaming jungles and deadly miasmas? Central Borneo and New Guinea are mere names. The Congo is but half explored. In Australia we have the anomaly of a continent of which the interior is as dark a mystery as was the region west of the Appalachians in Jefferson's time. Northern Bechuana and the lands about Lake Ngami in Africa await another Abruzzi, for all the trudging of Doctor Schwarz.

Despite airways and steamship lines, highroads and railways, we cannot yet pretend to know our own earth completely. Green, ochrous and red blanks on the maps mark dark lands and kingdoms of wonder.

If you have RHEUMATISM do this

Get some genuine tablets of Bayer Aspirin and take them freely until you are entirely free from pain.

The tablets of Bayer manufacture cannot hurt you. They do not depress the heart. And they have been proven twice as effective as salicylates in relief of rheumatic pain at any stage.

Don't go through another season of suffering from rheumatism, or any neuritic pain. And never suffer needlessly from neuralgia, neuritis, or other conditions which Bayer Aspirin will relieve so surely and so swiftly.

Trouble With Youth

Every age is the age of young men but many of them don't realize it until it is too late.

Weakness of Women

MANY women in this town as well as elsewhere are troubled with monthly bearing-down pains, weakening drains; backache or sideache and headache. They should try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Read what Mrs. John Newman of New Goshen, Ind., says: "I am the mother of eight children. As a result I became so weak and rundown I was compelled to keep to my bed the greater part of my time. I had periodic pains in my side, and headache. I tried almost everything on the market for this trouble without obtaining relief, but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription made me as well and strong as I ever was in my life."

PRETZEL

There was a time when sciologists predicted the extermination of the pretzel, reasoning that it would die like the trumpeter swan after its old home, the saloon, disappeared. But, far from passing away, the tough and crusty morsel sought more stately mansions and became good form, though it has never quite returned to such a high milieu as that in which it had its origin, the monastery.

The onomatopoetically snappy name is derived from the Latin pretiola, "a small reward." The bits of twisted dough got their name from the custom of priests to give little cakes to children who learned their prayers dutifully. Then one day a priest twisted the dough to resemble a child's arms folded in prayer, and no device but hands has ever reproduced that twist.

As long as there are pretzels so long our civilization will be saved from the utter dominance of the machine. Though they have taken oriental rugs from the hands of the Eastern weaver, sewing seamstresses and telegraphy from the telegrapher, when it comes to that delicate deed that gives a pretzel its inimitable individuality every contrapion known to science and invention stalls, for only the human hand can add the twist.

Inventors have spent their lives trying to perfect a pretzel-twisting machine without success, yet a champion animate pretzel twister can complete about 60 a minute.

CORN GROWERS GIVEN AWARDS

Announcement of the award of membership in the Hundred Bushel Corn Club of Indiana for the following corn growers of DeKalb County have just been received by County Agent T. E. Myers from the Indiana Corn Growers' Association.

The successful farmers of DeKalb County who have won this high honor and who will be enrolled in Indiana's Hall of Fame for outstanding achievements in corn growing are: Herman Pankop, Corunna, yield 165.6 bushels per acre.

Karl Pankop, Corunna, 118.4 bushels per acre.

L. N. Chapman, Waterloo, 112.4 bushels per acre.

Wm. C. Egbert, Hamilton, 108.8 bushels per acre.

Ralph Stomm, Corunna, 103.1 bushels per acre.

Enno Boese, Corunna, 102.7 bushels per acre.

Orlo Deetz, Waterloo, 100.9 bushels per acre.

Herman Pankop established a new state record with 165.6 bushels per acre, which was also the national record for 1932.

These corn growers were members of the 5-acre Corn Club of this county for 1932 and have already been awarded Gold Medals in recognition of their official yields of 100 bushels of corn per acre. These men are among the select group of 93 corn growers of the state who were awarded this honor.

The state and national record yields produces by Indiana corn growers have received recognition throughout the county. The aim of this work is to improve the yield per acre, improve the quality of corn and reduce the cost of production. Because of the value of this work to the members and to the community at large it is anticipated that a large number of corn growers of DeKalb County will enroll in the Five Acre Corn Club for the year 1933.

VOL. XLVII — ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1933 — NUMBER 18

ST. JOE GOES ON DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

At the council meeting, Monday evening, the town officials voted to go on fast time until Saturday, September 30, at midnight, when all the neighboring towns will again resume the standard time schedule.

For a number of years St. Joe has followed this custom in order to be in harmony with its neighbors and all sides. A deluge of inquiries were made to the board during the past week, and most of them were in favor of the change.

Every citizen is asked to cooperate in this time advancing program, and in a short time you will not know any different.

Other matters concerning the repairs about town were discussed and will follow as soon as advisable.

A general cleaning up of the town will be ordered at the next session of the board, when trash of all kinds about streets, alleys, and premises will be ordered gathered together and then hauled to the dump.

Plans for oiling our gravel streets were discussed and as soon as the weather warms up, the dust proof application will be applied.

Drains were discussed in general and some changes will be made this spring undoubtedly. The care of the city property was also discussed and trespassing on the lawn is suggested discontinued by those wishing to play ball and the like. Lounging about on a hot day is invited. The town is proud of its small lawn about the city hall and we ask that every citizen join in keeping this place neat and clean.

A number of citizens have solicited the town in grading their alleys, but the board had previously agreed to furnish gravel to any citizen wishing to have his alley repaired, but the property owner would pay for the hauling. Permission must first be granted to such property owner.

Fill Vacancy

Citizens in Ward 3, filed a petition with the board on April 17, pleading that the vacancy of councilman for this ward be filled, but without any recommendations being made in writing or verbally, the petition was held over until May 1st. A goodly number of the third ward petitioners were present and when given opportunity to speak. F. A. Jenkins presented the name of Harry Hursh for councilman and Chas. Cochran for Marshall, term to expire December 31, 1933.

Albert Moore of the west end of Ward 3 presented the name of Marion C. Blue as councilman.

The chairman of the board advised the petitioners that their recommendations would be considered and that they would give them a decision at the close of the council session.

After carefully considering the requests they decided to recognize both sections of the Ward by giving the appointment of councilman to Mr. Blue and the Marshall to Mr. Cochran.

The petitioners were then asked whether the appointments met with their approval and Mr. Jenkins said that the board had been very fair and that they were well pleased, while Paul Curie, who circulated the petition, said: "That is just what we wanted you to do."

Both men were sworn in and are now full fledged officers of the town.

WOUNDED MAN IS DEMANDING $5,000

A demand for $5,000 damages is made by Harley Mann of Pleasant Lake, in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court Thursday against McClellan Hart and George Hart of Spencer township.

The plaintiff was driving at night last September past the defendants' farm when he was accosted and shot from the rear. It was said the defendant suspected him of stealing melons. The plaintiff says they "wrongfully, unlawfully, purposefully, negligently and feloniously committed a violent and murderous assault" upon him and that he was wounded in the head, face, neck and back.

The complaint avers that it was impossible to remove all the shot from the person of the plaintiff; that he suffered mental and physical pain and a nervous shock; that he could not follow his usual employment and that he had to incur expenses for medical and surgical treatment.

Howard W. Mountz is the plaintiff's attorney.

FORMER ST. JOE GIRL HEADS 4-H CLUB WORK

According to word received by County Agent T. E. Myers from Z. M. Smith, State 4-H Club Leader, Mrs. Troas May Wise, of Auburn, Home Economics teacher in the Ashley Schools, has been appointed Girls 4-H Club Leader in DeKalb County. Mrs. Wise studied at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich., and also took a Home Economics Course at Indiana University, graduating in 1930. She has taught Home Economics in the Ashley High School for three years and has trained girls in 4-H Club Projects.

ANOTHER PIONEER IS TAKEN BY APOPLEXY

Funeral services for the late John Morris Widney were held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, daylight savings time at the home in Auburn, the Rev. E. J. Wickersham, pastor of the Auburn M. E. Church, officiating. Burial was made in Roselawn cemetery.

Mr. Widney died Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at his home on Hazel Street, Auburn, at the age of 75 years, 4 months and 28 days. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy Wednesday morning from which he never rallied. He had been ill since the first week in October. For about a month, however, he appeared much better and was able to walk about the neighborhood near his home.

Mr. Widney came from an illustrious family of pioneers. His ancestry dated to Col. Widney, an officer in the army of Willaim of Orange of Holland, who was ceded a large tract of land in Ireland by the crown. His father was John P. Widney, who came to DeKalb county from Franklin county, Pa., in 1836 when Auburn was a village. The elder Widney filled many offices of trust, among them representative to the Indiana legislature.

Mr. Widney was born near St. Joe on the farm made famous by the Widney orchards. He attended the St. Joe schools and later the Auburn high school, from which he was graduated. In the year 1866 Mr. Widney moved to Auburn and farmed a strip of land, part of which is now Widney's addition to the city.

He was married on May 12, 1897, to Florence C. Waite of near Chesterville, O. To them were born two sons, L. Waite Widney of Auburn, and Merle Widney of Fort Wayne.

Mr. Widney was noted as a singer and in his younger days he appeared on many programs. He sang in the Auburn Methodist and Presbyterian Church choirs for many years and was a member of a male quartet which traveled extensively over Indiana.

Mr. Widney is survived by his widow, the two sons and two sisters, Mrs. Alice Lewis of Auburn and Mrs. Cora Ludwick of Roswell, N. M. There are three grandchildren living.

Mr. Widney was a member of the M. E. Church in Auburn.

Howard Renner and family, of Newtown, Ind., are at the Henry Renner home near Waterloo, for a few weeks vacation. Mr. Renner will return to Newtown as the school principal.

WORTH WHILE NUGGETS

The question was once put to Aristotle how we should behave to friends; and his answer was, "as we should wish our friends to behave to us."

Another way to reduce is to worry too much about business.

It would be great if some people talked as well as they do loud.

When you want to have fun get a crowd to telling their middle names.

It frequently happens that when a man takes unto himself a mate he gets a check-mate.

Modern Novel: One which reads as if the author wished he had never met his characters.

In every oldfashioned school yard there was always one boy who should have been named Benito.

Fashion note says a woman should have a hat to match every costume. Still, she would never have anything fit to wear.

The name of the excise director should be changed from Fry to Stew. Recent happenings, together with court decisions, are furnishing him plenty of hot water.

Those who favor the retirement of mail carriers, clerks and other Federal workers at the conclusion of thirty years of service, apparently are not much impressed by the example of the well-known owner of the business who entered the employ of the house as an errand boy of twelve.

The United States is said to have made a happy start at the international conference by winning the confidence of certain of the delegates. The picture of a man with an unpaid bill trying to win the confidence of his debtor is not found in the art gallery of ordinary business. Soundly endorsed notes that go to protest are not handled in that way, nor are over-due installments on the radio.

Civilian Conservation Camp No. 1 has been opened at Luray, Virginia. The faces in the pictures of it are young. It is planned to make the camp a model for others throughout the country. Before it can be regarded as a pattern, it will have to show provision for the man whose axe and cross-cut saw days are past. If the Forestry Recruit plan can figure out something for the man of sixty to do, it will accomplish a benefit that will be gratefully received in flush times, as well as in the existing pinch.

The officers of a trans-Atlantic liner thought that a certain state-room was noiseless for an unusually long time. They broke down the door. The porthole was open but the former occupant was not found elsewhere on the ship. It was known that he had been grieving over the death of his wife. Probably the quiet room got on his nerves before it troubled anyone else. There are many silent places everywhere just now. While waiting for wise men to put activity into them, those making no claim to ability can help by rapping now and then at the door of the quiet room; and don't put it off too long.

Two Washington lawyers who had a disagreement in court, went outside and punched each other in the nose, which seems rather crude at first glance, but not such a bad idea upon more mature consideration. Probably their clients were saved a good deal of litigation and expense thereby. Before present-day legal procedure was known, persons who might otherwise have engaged in a law suit hired good scrappers, and the champions of the respective parties fought the matter out literally. The issue was disposed of then and there, there were no technicalities to bother, and the spectators were entertained. Some of the ways of the Middle Ages have a directness that is not without its appeal.

Miss MacDonald, daughter of Prime Minister MacDonald, points out a social distinction between England and the United States when she says that over there parents spoil their sons, whereas we spoil our daughters. There was a time when, if an Englishwoman married, her property became that of her husband. According to the law, the husband and wife were one, to which a wag added: "and the husband was that one." The conservatism of England is indicated by the lingering tendency to give the boys the first chance of the other side of the water. If Miss MacDonald may be taken as a specimen, English girls have not suffered greatly through lack of advantages, and on the other hand American boys seem to be doing pretty well, even though their sisters are said to have the first pick when the benefits are distributed.

The progress of the measure to prevent the shipping of arms from the United States to countries engaged in war will be approved by many. Perhaps it would be hailed by all. Yet why the great concern at this particular time? With the World War debts unpaid, and not likely to be paid within the life of the youngest inhabitant, if at all, we have in substance given foreign nations a lift in the matter of supporting future wars that cannot be offset by an embargo on a few ship loads of munitions. If the screws were put on Europe in respect to what she owes, she would have no appetite for further conflict. Dropping down to plain but forceful language, Uncle Sam has been played for a sucker. It might be a good thing, both for our own tax-rate, and for the cause of peace in general, to inform the world that the United States has hundreds of factories that are idle, but ready to turn out the sinews of war, the goods to be supplied on short notice, and paid for in advance.

When a half dozen elderly skippers of fishing vessels beat down the coast, and up the Potomac, to ask Congress for an increased tariff on fish, they brot to mind a vanishing industry. There was a time when Gloucester and scores of other towns on the seaboard supported fishing fleets that filled the harbors to such a degree that it was hard to find anchorage. Young men from the inland states, in search of adventure and profit, paid a visit to relatives in New England, and shipped for a season on the Banks. The canning industry, by which all sorts of provisions could be kept indefinitely, put a serious crimp in the trade in dry and salted fish. Commercial refrigeration and speedy railway transportation did it further harm. The auto was the last straw. Why keep a codfish on hand for the unexpected guest when one can drive to town, get a juicy steak, and have it over the fire, all within an hour? Yet the business of fishing is not to be ignored. Approximttely a hundred thousand in the United States still make their living in that way. There was more than sentiment behind the old salts' voyage to Washington.

The capital city always has been a place keenly alive to news. Washington reminds one of ancient Athens, of which we have scriptural report that all the Athenians and strangers that were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell or to hear some new thing. The latest new thing is inflation. It has an advantage as a topic of conversation, in that most of the laity know nothing about it, and all the common folk stand on an equal footing so far as a display of ignorance is concerned. Perhaps many of the legislators are in the same fix. Our old friend the dictionary says that it means to enlarge excessively, especially so that the nominal value exceeds the real, as to inflate the currency. The book quoted does not state whether this is something good or something bad. In that dilemma, it is necessary to consult current sources of information. It is pointed out in Congress that inflation is the first step to ruin, and also that it is the only method that will restore prosperity. The confusion of the average mind respecting inflation resembles that of the school boy in regard to natural history. When asked whether the frog were an amphibious animal, he answered: "Yessum. Dreadfully amphibious."

If the proposed curtailment of the work of the Post Office Department becomes a reality, economy in the operation of the government, instead of the daily mail, will be brought home to every man's door. The Postmaster General thinks that four deliveries per day in the business sections of cities, three in localities that have a mixture of stores and homes, and two in strictly residential sections, are too many considering the times. Some of the country people, now served by rural carrier, may have to foot it to the post office. It may be that the city folks have become too highly educated in the matter of receiving their mail, but a trimming of the rural carrier system would be a calamity. If money must be saved through a cutting down of the distribution of mail, why not put everyone on the same basis, one call by the carrier per day? The notion that big business must have a continuous influx of letters from the rising of the sun to the going down of the same is something that has been fostered by convention, rather than necessity. For the comparatively small amount of correspondence in which minutes count, there are the telephone and the telegraph. As a matter of fact, the world would turn on its axis just as evenly if, in the future, the department stores, factories, and lawyers offices in the big cities had to content themselves with the mail accommodations which the farmers now accept as a great convenience and a highly efficient service.

CAN'T DO THAT

By a change of ruling, by Paul Fry, state excise director, it will not suffice that a one cent purchase of a pretzel will entitle you to the right to purchase a bottle of the new 3.2 beer.

Lovers of the amber fluid were taking advantage of the former ruling, to the great disadvantage of the restaurant owner. The subterfuge of chargng one cent for food was just a way of evading the intent of the law.

Dealers in intoxicants, have never been noted, as a class, for loyalty toward law and order; but have ever sought some loophole, some technical point in law, where its real purposes could be shorn of effect.

HELP OF ALL NEEDED

Every citizen interested in the future of St. Joe dreams of the time when it will be a bigger and better community. He wants it to have more fine homes, more factories, more stores and more beautiful public buildings.

These are commendable hopes but they accomplish little or nothing unless they inspire efforts aimed at fulfillment. Castles in the air are beautiful to dream about but a "dream city" is not what progressive citizens have in mind.

To make St. Joe a bigger and better town its people must do something besides dream about it. The booster must do more than talk about the wonders of his home town, and others must do more than talk about cooperation.

A community grows when the great body of its citizens concentrate their mental and physical efforts and financial resources on this one idea of making it grow in size and prosperity.

There is a need for outside talent and capital, but St. Joe has not begun to tap its own resources in individual talent and capital. Men and money can be found to make existing industries and business enterprises larger and sounder and to exploit as yet untapped natural resources and advantages of the community. Home enterprises, home talent and ability, and home investment are the soundest and most lasting foundations upon which substantial growth of the city depends.

Build St. Joe by encouraging home industry, by praising and patronizing home business, by promoting real estate development, by improving employment conditions at home, by investing capital here, and doing all the little things about your own home that need but ambition, this would help to change the frame of mind of many who are discouraged.

For many months the editor has had in mind that a canning factory should be operating here and there is no better place for such a business than here, and one that would furnish employment the year around.

Vegetables of every sort could be raised, canned and sold here in large quantities. At the present time there are four trucks operating out of St. Joe, calling on the retail merchants within a hundred miles each way, wholesaling green beans, mustard, catsup, reliahes, pickles of many kinds, corn, tomatoes, spinach, and the like, and this requires hundreds of cases of goods each month. If the organization could be formed here to provide all of this kind of canned goods, just think what a difference it would make on St. Joe employment. Can you imagine the effect?

With the orchards near by, apples could be canned for pies, applebutter made and canned, cider could be made, pastuerized or made into vinegar and packed in all size containers, and too, fruits could be packed for retail, butters of all kinds could be made from the fruits and say, there is no end to what might be accomplished here.

Our local wholesalers, Ralph Sechler and Nick Ridlen, would no doubt welcome such a business in their midst.

Mr. White, who is working for Ralph Sechler, has had years of experience in manufacturing of pickle goods; and then there is Mr. Guilford, who operates our Custom Canning Kitchen, likewise has had years of experience, and all in all, some very valuable help could be secured right here at home, to operate these two branches of a factory of this character.

Well, how about a move of this kind?

GOOD OLD SUMMER

What is the best season of the year? Summer, to most people—though the other seasons, especially spring, have their charms. And the older you get, the more you will dread winter.

Spring corresponds to our babyhood. It is the sprouting season, full of hope, dreams, uncertainty, danger of frost.

Autumn is like the waning of life, when we harvest as we have sown, when we suffer for our negligence and mistakes and are rewarded for our effort. Most of us, when we look backward in the autumn of life, say: "If I only had my life to liv eover again. . ."

Winter, of course, corresponds to human death, the hibernating of old growth until new growth is ready to sprout and bud.

All three of these seasons are preparatory to or the aftermath of summer. And summer is the period of LIFE—of accomplishment—symbolic of the lives we are living. Lucky are you who have survived the frosts of life's springtime. Your crop of success is started. Toil and weed, for autumn of life will be upon you before you are aware. For results, it's now or never.

AN EXPENSIVE LESSON

The future of government-in-business is not so bright as it seemed awhile ago.

The people have discovered something. They have found that the only way their community can build, for example, a power plant, is to float abond issue. They have found that this requires vast sums of additional tax money—laid on top of already onerous taxes. They have found, too, that when such technical endeavors as power plants are operated by politics, deficits customarily occur. These, as well, must be paid by the people thru increased taxes. Again, they have found that bookkeeping for a publicly owned utility, not subject to public regulation, is of a curious sort. Pleasant reports are issued, which take little or no account of overhead, depreciation, wear and tear. When the time comes for replacement of broken-down machinery there is usually no money in the till—and the taxpayer is again called upon.

People are learning by dear experience that when government goes into business in competition with its citizens, they have lost, not gained—that such service furnished them "at cost" means generally "at cost" to their own pocketbooks. The proponents of schemes to put government into business never put up the money—they put up the "spiel" to obligate the taxpayer and then they absorb tax funds through countless new jobs.

THE PRE-PRIMARY CONVENTION

There seems to be growing sentiment for pre-primary conventions for the nomination of elective officials.

Support for the convention plan comes from the conviction that the direct primary system, as it now exists, has failed of its purpose. That purpose was to give the people a wider freedom in electing those who were to govern them and to elimiate political bossism. It was in the nature of a return to a very old method of nominating officials—the town meeting idea, in which all the qualified voters gathered on a given day and picked out the best men from among them.

The town meeting worked excellently then. But when it was extended to whole states it met great obstacles. There was no real meeting of the people, no careful selection. Under the direct primary system any "self-starter" may run for office. It is not unknown for twenty people to run for the same job. The voter is at a complete loss as to whom should be elected. His vote is cast, in a vast number of instances, by pure guess.

The direct primary has thus resulted in a chaotic government. Party control—which makes for stability—has been lost. Office seekers take political labels to which they are not entitled, and no one is to gainsay them.

The pre-primary convention is an attempt to combine the best phases of the direct primary and the convention system. Under it the repreeentatives of the party would meet, as in nominating a president, and choose men for offices. This would not stop others from running against them—it would simply inform the voter as to whom the leaders of his party considered the worthy candidate. If it becomes law in a wide number of states, the plan will mark a step forward in political administration.

MAY

"The past has proven that a man at his best is superior to the events and circumstances that may cross his path."

Advance styles for the summer indicate that American girls and young women will wear stockings of only ankle length for every-day and sport dress.

Down in Alabama, Haywood Patterson, a colored boy, was condemned to death by a jury of twelve white men on a charge of being one of nine young Negroes who had criminally attacked two white women hohoes while all were riding on a freight train together, even though one of the women declared the case a frameup.

Cry-baby talent is hard to find, according to the Literary Digest, and "Any time you hear a baby crying on your radio you can be pretty sure that it is Miss Belle Cox, aged twenty-five." For her radio crying, Miss Belle gets about one hundred dollars a week.

Forty per cent of all crimes in America are committed by men younger than twenty-five.

Sixty-five per cent of the population of Mexico is said to be illiterate.

One of the strangest sights to be seen at the Worlds Fair in Chicago this summer will be a group of giraffe-necked women from Upper Burma. These women have necks ranging from eight to twelve inches long.

Police at Los Angeles, last week, made the following record: "G. E. Farris was held up and robbed April 20th on a street corner by an averaged sized woman who carried a large revolver and a small baby."

Now, since President Roosevelt is definitely known to favor the inflation of currency it is expected that the "moneyed" men of America will pray less fervently next Sunday for his success.

The three uses of money are as follows: A medium of exchange, a measure of values, and as a standard of values. In commerce it is not only necessary that things can be exchanged for some common substance, but the rates of exchange must be measured. And, in order that transactions in which payments are to be deferred may be just and fair, a fixed and stable standard of value is needed. Therefore, the safest and soundest form of money is money which has an intrinsic value as well as a legal value. To possess value of its own this material must be in constant demand with very little change in price. No commodity satisfies these requirments better than gold. Gold has a high value in itself and there is a steady demand for it. Therefore gold is the best "yardstick" for measuring national and international values. With a country off of the gold standard prices are sure to soar to what heights no man can definitely foretell. Farmers, dairymen, miners, and producers will profit at least temporarily and public officials, salaried people, the retired, and aged will be losers in the shake-up caused by going off the gold standard. Just how the country in general will prosper during such a period is a question which is being ably debated by economists, financiers and statesmen.

The Time Magazine, one of our leading American weeklies, was recently barred from the Mexican mails by the Postmaster General of Mexico, who claimed that Time had printed defamatory articles about Mexico and Mexicans.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cantor have five girls in their family ranging in age from five to eighteen. Mr. Cantor will not be heard over the radio programs, during the Chase and Sanborn hour any more until the Fourth of July.

Included in Alfred E. Smith's statement to the Senate Finance Committee was the following: "Take a man who takes a chance. If he loses, why it is just too bad. If he wins, look what happens to him. The state and federal governments come in and take the largest part of it away from him by taxation."

Thrift will receive one of the biggest jolts that it ever had since the beginning of thrift if insurance companies are required to adjust their mortgage loans on farm land. Either directly or indirectly those unselfish policy holders who provided in advance for the future of their families and their own old age will be the losers in such a mortgage compromise.

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!"

ITEMS ABOUT ST. JOE

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 60 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months: 3 rounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chiaha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chiaha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chiaha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk, 3 to 4 feet high, and just loaded with leaves.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakurijima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 30 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 32 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.
Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—3 Pkts. 60c—Dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

The KEY to Lower Cost

YOUR electricity is cheap. Due to a consistent rate reduction policy, the cost of electricity to customers who only use our service for lighting and small appliances is less today than ever before.

Most of our customers are now making a sufficient use of electricity so that additional quantities are available at extremely low rates.

The progressive merchant gives the customer who buys several items the benefit of lowered cost. This same quantity buying principle of "5 cents a package, three packages for a dime," produces similar economies in the purchase of electricity.

Thrifty people take advantage of this opportunity by purchasing their requirements for cooking, refrigeration, and water heating from us.

They secure greater convenience and economy and their cost is less than was formerly paid for the separate services from different concerns.

Make a wider use of electrical time-savers and work-savers in your home and obtain the benefit of quantity buying.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN

GROSS INCOME TAX NOW IN EFFECT

Indiana's gross income tax law became effective Monday.

The measure taxes all types of income, both personal and corporate.

Supporters of the measure, which was enacted by the 1933 legislature, declare it will produce between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000 revenue annually.

Responsibility for paying the tax and keeping accurate records are placed upon the taxpayer by terms of the law. Heavy penalties, including fines and imprisonment, are provided for violations.

Clarence Jackson, director of the gross income tax division, has announced that field service agents will be utilized to assist the taxpayers. These men also will administer the store license fee law.

The attitude of the department is to cooperate with the taxpayer and to make it easy for him to comply with the law, but not to make it easy for him to evade it, Mr. Jackson said.

According to the law every taxpayer is required to keep an accurate record of his gross receipts and to preserve that record for two years during which it may be examined by an agent of the department of treasury.

A ruling has already been made, however, to the effect that any records reflecting accurately the amount of gross receipts will be sufficient. Companies and business houses with regular bookkeeping systems will have no difficulty in complying, Mr. Jackson said, but the small merchants and individuals who keep no records will have to adjust their methods so that the information required will be available immediately. Each individual, however, may use his own system of bookkeeping.

Blanks will be provided for making reports to the tax department. How these will be distributed has not been determined, but it probably will be through some county official.

Regulations Announced

Regulations to govern the exact administration of the law, to draw the line between wholesaler and retailer, between manufacturing and wholesaling, and many other distinctions are being compiled by the legal department. It is anticipated that these will be in such form before the first payment is due that amount of the tax can be computed readily by the large majority of taxpayers without obtaining a specific ruling from the treasury department.

The tax assessed by the law is 1 per cent on all personal income, retail sales and other types of income specifically mentioned in the law.

One-fourth of 1 per cent is charged against the farmer, wholesaler, manufacturer and the mining industry. The department has ruled that newspapers are manufacturing plants.

Before any tax is computed, each taxpayer, whether individual or a business, may deduct $1,000 annually from his gross receipts.

The first payment will be on gross receipts for May and June, payable on or before July 15, 1933. For this return, the taxpayer will deduct from the gross receipts an exemption of $166.67, the proportional part of the $1,000 annual exemption allowed by the law. Only an annual return is necessary if the tax is less than $10 a quarter.

Payment will be made on gross receipts. In other words, money taken in during May and June will be included in the first return.

The department has ruled that notes taken in as payments are considered the equivalent of cash and the tax is paid on them. However, the tax on conditional sales contracts is paid as the payments are made on the contracts.

Returns are to be filed quarterly except in specific cases to be authorized by the treasury department. It is likely to be the attitude of the department that the taxpayer will be requested to file his first return regardless of the amount of his income, providing it is close to or more than $1,000 a year. Later, if the taxpayer desires, he may obtain permission from the department to make annual returns if his income is less than $5,000 a year.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT issued a proclamation designating May 1st as Child Health Day. He called upon "all agencies, public and private, and all individuals having the interest of children at heart . . . to inaugurate constructive activities to protect and promote the health and physical vigor of the youth of our nation."

Although May 1st is officially Child Health Day, the health of growing youngsters is an everyday problem and I can think of no better way to protect and promote good health than by the proper use of nourishing foods.

The three Sunday dinner menus for the week suggested by The Quaker Maid Kitchen are planned to include food suitable for children, yet they are equally attractive and desirable for grown-ups.

This week the family shopper will find a good variety of fresh fruits and vegetables to choose from. Oranges, grapefruit, and strawberries. New potatoes, asparagus, and peas are very much in evidence. Beef, pork, and lamb and veal are very good meat values. This is an excellent season to serve veal. Two wholesome foods which always please the youngsters are preserves, and peanut butter.

English Pith Helmet Will Be Worn at Race

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Introducing an English racing idea to the annual 500-mile auto classic at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30, Wilbur Shaw will use a pith driving helmet to protect himself over the long 5-hour grind this year.

This is the type head gear used by Sir Malcolm Campbell when he established the straight-away, world's automobile speed record at Daytona Beach and may come into general usage at the speedway.

"I not only find it cool and comfortable," Shaw says, "but it will be extremely helpful in protecting my head in event of accident."

Shaw drove Ralph Helpburn's car last year after the owner was severely injured a few weeks before the race and led in the late stages until forced out by engine trouble at the completion of 391 miles.

VOL. XLVII | ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1933 | NUMBER 19

TO SPEAK AT ST. JOE ON MAY 25

Citizens of St. Joe and the surrounding communities will be afforded the pleasure of listening to Co. Alfred L. Moudy, representing the Flying Squadron Foundation, on the eve of Thursday, May 25 at 8:00 P. M., Daylight Saving time, at the Community Gym, St. Joe.

Mr. Moudy is well known to most of our citizens, as an able, clean cut man of good moral principles, and is a fine orator. We earnestly solicit the attendance of our community, on this date, to hear an able discussion of a question of paramount importance to our state and nation. "Come and let us reason together."

MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day. All over the nation and perhaps in many places, that terrestial saint will become the object of men's homage and veneration.

There is a dispute in progress as to who originated the idea. For the rest of us that is unimportant. But it is easy to understand why any person responsible for so inspiring a thought should cherish the credit for it and yet nothing could be more unlike a mother than to squabble about whose was the credit.

One need only consult one's own experiences and seek in vain to recall a single instance when mother sought credit for the service and love she bore her kin. The home may have looked especially tidy, the meal may have been unusually tasty, the covers might have been tucked with especial care, the sick room may have been comforted by her almost divine presence, yet not a single instance did she claim credit for it. Mothers find their satisfaction in something else.

It will be an odd son and daughter who permit Sunday to pass without some love-tinctured remembrance, or tribute to the mother dead. From the motherless everywhere to the mothered child anywhere goes the counsel to dedicate Sunday to her honor and her service.

R. H. C.

The Rural Housewives Club was pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Abner Trostel on Wednesday, April 26. A short business session was held which plans for the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the club were discussed. A plan was also formulated for aiding the disabled war veterans in government hospitals.

At the close of the social hour the hostess served a delicious luncheon consisting of cake and ice cream and coffee.

FIFTEEN TOWNSHIPS AT COUNTY COUNCIL

The spring convention of the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education, held Sunday afternoon in the First M. E. Church in Auburn, was attended by fifteen townships in the county.

Dr. O. U. King, of Huntington, Ind., a retired physician and a world traveler, spoke from a wealth of experience on the qualifications of officers and teachers in religious work in Sunday Schools. He pointed out how colleges and universities select their instructors because of certain qualifications and advised the need of Sunday Schools doing the same in order to give the best to scholars.

Ward Jackman, of Auburn, the county president presided. Rev. Ernest Lewellen, pastor of the Waterloo U. B. Church, gave the invocation. The singing was led by Miss Catherine Smith of Butler, instructor in music in the public schools of that town.

Vern Sparks, of Smithfield township, one of the candidates for delegate to the repeal convention at Indianapolis June 6th made a short talk during the meeting.

The state Sunday School convention will be held June 13, 14 and 15 at Crawfordsville.

TO FLY PLANE NEXT SUNDAY

Hankey Brothers have finally completed the remodeling of their Curtis plane and weather conditions being favorable for next Sunday, they propose to make their initial flight. The plane has a 100 horse power motor. Bill Hankey will act as pilot and he has had 8 years of experience. In this time he has completely rebuilt several planes.

The plane has capacity of but two passengers and the price has been reduced to meet conditions, only a half dollar.

The flying field will be located just west of Bear Creek bridge on the Martin Engle farm.

CHURCH BAZARS ARE HELD AS TAXABLE

Churches and other such organizations which hold bazars and rummage sales will be classed as stores under a ruling issued Tuesday by the state store tax department.

By such a classification they will be required to pay, the $3 a year store tax and the 50 cents filing fee. It was held, however, that the license would be issued to the church or the organization and the bazars or sales could be held at any site selected.

Get that car overhauled now for summer use at Hankey's Garage.

WIDOW DIES WHILE SITTING IN CHAIR

Mrs. W. C. McNabb, of Auburn, Passed Away Suddenly From A Heart Attack

Death came suddenly to Mrs. Minnie McNabb, of 507 South Jackson Street, Auburn, Wednesday evening of last week at 6 o'clock as the result of a heart attack. Mrs. McNabb was seated in the living room listening to the radio at the time. On September 3, 1931, her late husband, W. C. McNabb, died suddenly with heart trouble while at the breakfast table in the next room.

Mrs. McNabb, who had been in poor health for many years had a heart attack on Tuesday night about the same hour as her death. She arose about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning feeling better and busied herself about the house. Toward late afternoon her daughter, Mrs. Ursel Gugerli suggested to Mrs. McNabb that she sit down to rest and turned on the radio. Mrs. Gugerli dozed a short time and heard her mother breathing with difficulty. Before help arrived she had passed away.

Mrs. McNabb was born April 19, 1866, at Spencerville and was one of three children born to Joshua Nichals. She was married to Mr. McNabb on November 19, 1892. They had two children, the daughter, Mrs. Gugerli, and a son, who died in infancy. Besides the daughter there survive a brother, John Nichals, residing at Toledo, Ohio.

The deceased was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Auburn.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the residence with the Rev. Hubert F. Craven, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was made at Spencerville.

The sport of flying kites is now being engaged in by some of the youngsters. Tuesday morning a successful fly was noticed west of town, and they had a lot of string.

Cliff and Charles Bassett, who are camping up the river and engaging in digging muscle shells, when the water is sufficiently low, have been compelled to move their camp to higher ground on account of the high water.

A good sized crowd of local men gathered at the home of Rev. V. O. Harrold last Thursday evening in responnse to his invitation to spend a social hour. A general discussion was in order, after which plans for a men's bible class was suggested. After light refreshments were served, the meeting was adjourned until Thursday eve (this week,) at 7:30 o'clock, C. T.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

Never has Washington news so dominated the news picture as a whole. For a long succession of weeks, the Administration's viewpoint and activities have been almost the source of "headlines" of national interest.

As this is written, the two most spectacular developments are Mr. Roosevelt's moves toward controlled inflation, and his request for a bill which would give him the power to investigate vast building of public works. This public works program was brot to the President by a special cabnet committee and was tentatively approved at once. The bill, as drawn, gives the President full power over domestic improvements, with the stipulation that new projects shall be selected on the basis of the amount of employment they will provide. In conjunction with this, there is under consideration a bill to extend sweeping power to the President to exercise such authority as is needed to improve working conditions. The committee is also considering proposals for suspension of anti-trust and federal trade commission restrictions. Indications are that Congress will follow the President's recommendations in this practically to the letter.

Inflation—in theory and practice—is still the most dramatic news of the moment. As was observed last week, the President's proposal to issue $3,000,000,000 of new currency, and change the gold backing of the dollar at will, brought out in Congress the first organized minority opposition to his program. A note of alarm begins to appear in the urban press, however, with a number of papers, including some of those of Mr. Roosevelt's political faith, offering the fear that he is going too far. All pay allegiance to his aggressiveness and determination, but at the same time express the possibility that these qualities may produce evel as well as good. Congress is being widely criticized for being so completely dominated by the President.

The speculative markets have been frenzied—because of the possibility of inflation, and the consequent prospect of sharp price rises. Stocks, wheat and cotton have moved upward. Moody's price index of 15 principal commodities recently reached the highest level since September.

The dollar dropped sharply abroad, due to the possibility of inflation and the fact that the country is off the gold standard. (Whenever any country places an embargo against gold shipments it has technically gone off the standard.) This is believed to have materially improved the position of this country from the world economic standpoint.

The prospect for railroad freight traffic is believed to be improved, especially on the Pacific Coast. Carloadings have apparently come close to the lowest possible point, and should start a rise in the near future.

Railroad earnings are still at the vanishing point, with the bulk of lines unable to meet fixed charges, such as taxes and bond interest, out of current receipts. All railroad executives are awaiting the President's railroad program, which will be in the hands of Congress very soon. It will be proposed that the entire rail structure be reorganized, under a federal co-ordinator. It is probable that the co-ordinator will either be Carl Gray, President of the Union Pacific System, or George Eastman of the Interstate Commerce Comission.

Automobile business is improving. Seasonal influences, better business conditions, release of funds from closed banks, inflation prospects, with rising security and commodity values are the factors back of the improvements.

One leading producer has advanced its May and June schedules by 10,000 units each. Motor executives believe that the spring sales peak will come several weeks later than usual, and that the sales curve will not drop as abruptly as it usually does in the summer months.

PROHIBIT SALE OF BEER IN I. O. O. F. BUILDINGS

Beer was banned from Odd Fellow lodges and entertainments by an order issued at Indianapolis Thursday by L. A. Handley, of Richmond grand master of the Indiana grand lodge. Handley based his ruling on the claim that the 3.2 per cent beer was intoxicating despite its legal status of being "non-intoxicating." The ruling also bans the sale of such beer in any Odd Fellow building in the state.

Game wardens in Northeastern Indiana will spend the next three weeks in patrolling lakes and streams looking for violators of the fishing laws.

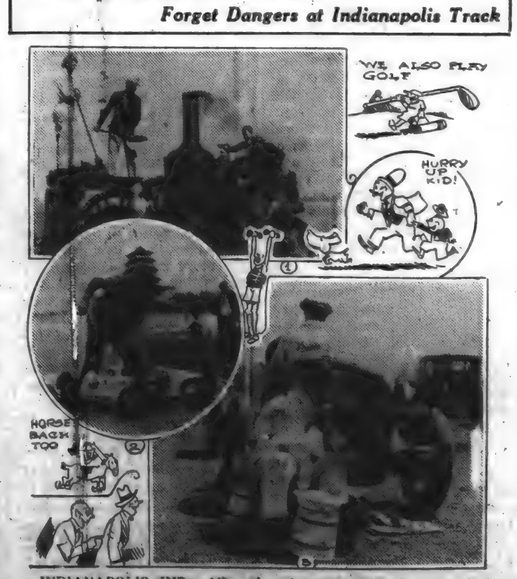
Dare Devil Auto Race Drivers Play to Forget Dangers at Indianapolis Track



INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—All work and no play not only makes Jack a dull boy but keeps his mind too constantly on the dangers of fast automobile racing and that is why these boys, preparing for the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, turn their attention to occasional recreation.

1. A group of the boys take the steamroller for a ride but find the going a little heavy. Lou Moore is at the wheel while J. E. "Jigger" Johnson; Cliff Bergere; L. L. Corum, joint winner in 1924, and Billy Devore enjoy the outing.
2. A "Colossus of Rhodes" on wheels, A. B. "Deacon" Litz, uses a pair of small pushmobiles for skates.
3. Tony Gulatto, veteran driver, passes for a closer shave than he ever got on the track and uses the tail of his car for a mirror.

World's Largest Picnic To Be Held May 30 at Annual 500-Mile Auto Race

INDIANAPOLIS, IND—Happy spring days are here again and papa, mama and the family are dusting off their summer clothes, thirst and appetites for the world's largest yearly thrill picnic—the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

The dawn gun will open the giant gates through which will stream cars from every state in the Union with licenses from surrounding states predominating and before race time between 135,000 and 150,000 persons—the largest sport crowd in America—will occupy the grandstands and the 433 acres of picnic grounds. The 1,000 piece band will parade, 42 snorting race cars at the hands of the nation's best drivers will start and a day of relaxation will be on.

Speedway officials predict that never since the good old days—as far back as the pre-prohibition days of the race of 1916—will such a spirit of the picnic prevail.

It will be the first holiday of a spring which brings new life and hope to the country. It will be the first opportunity to forget a troublesome winter and look forward to a prosperous summer.

And there will be beer!

It will be back to the happy days such as 1916 when Dario Resta, spectacular foreign driver, rode the warm bricks to victory while thousands of cheering, joyful people toasted his success in cool, sparkling brew.

The 21st annual 500-mile race at Indianapolis this year promises to be the world's largest and happiest picnic.

1. Air view of the world's largest picnic grounds showing the huge crowds attending the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30.
2. Dario Resta, colorful foreigner who won in the good old beer days of 1916.
3. Scene of the race in the pre-prohibition days of 1916 when bustles, oil lamps, derby hats and steins were in favor.
4. Ingenius people build their private grandstands atop their cars to witness the race.

The Treasury has eased off somewhat in its demands regarding the use of gold. It appears that there is considerable doubt as to the constitutionality of the requirement that private stocks of that metal be turned in thru the banks, and for the time being the matter will be permitted to rest. The small man parted with his five dollar gold piece promptly, but the big man took his time. The result is that the mass of gold will remain in the hands that have held it heretofore. The incident is instructive in several ways. It teaches that persons of large affairs consult their own welfare and let the country go hang. It reminds us, also, that when any plan touches the vested and powerful interests, no time will be lost in raising questions as to its legality.

The White House conferences continue. Mr. McDonald has had his chat with President Roosevelt and has departed. Other guests will be hailed at their coming, and wished a pleasant voyage at their going, but the public will learn few of the details of what actually took place. Nor is it necessary or desirable that the public be taken into confidence. Macauley, who knew something about history, said that men are never so likely to settle a question rightly as when they discuss it freely. Freedom of discussion in the present instance could not have been attained in the face of publicity. Even diplomats are entitled, now and then to have an hour of relief from the back-seat driver.

While the United States is trying to figure out some system whereby its railroads will be kept solvent and operating, the Japs and Chinese are busy blowing railroads to pieces. When the Orientals have tired of the war game, Uncle Sam will be given the opportunity to add to his own burdens by supplying the capital necessary to put the Manchurian railways again in running order

The action of a hundred Iowa farmers, when they carried off an offending magistrate, greased his face and took off his trousers, suggests that there are local diseases in which original and local remedies are indicated, and it is not well for the outsider to be too strong in his condemnation. Upon the other hand, the removal of the jurist's breeches did not help matters, and may come under the head of cruel and unusual punishments, which are forbidden by the constitution. Speaking of the handling of clothing as a symbol of conduct, maybe it would have been well if the farmers had been admonished by a cooler head to keep their pants on.

Out in the Pacific Ocean, a naval vessel has found a place about thirty-five thousand feet deep. Perhaps the incident is an omen that the bottom has been reached, in another sense, on land. The Pacific hole is of some depth. Mount Everest, the highest mountain in the world, could be dropped into it, to serve as a foundation for a structure as high as four Washington Monuments and four Eiffel Towers, placed end to end, and the skipper of the Majestic, the largest steamship afloat, could steer a course over the spot without noticing that anything had been done.

The first of May was, as usual, a turbulent date. In many of the so-called civilized portions of the globe there were stone-throwings, blood-letting, and cries of down with something or someone. Chicago reported five bombings. There was an abundance of noise on a memorable May Day in the past. On May 1, 1898, Admiral Dewey wiped out the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay. He disposed of the Spaniards easily enough. His task would be more difficult if he were living and called upon to check gangsters, Communists, and others who make the first of the present month an occasion for annual disorder.

Mr. Hitler stirs Berlin by a speech in which he states that the German inferiority complex has disappeared for good and all Adopting the set phrase, it can hardly be said that Mr. Hitler replied in a few well-chosen words, since the inferiority complex seems likely to be replaced by some other, quite as disastrous to German welfare. The government of old Russia was obsessed by a complex, the Soviet rule is under the thrall of another, and Japan, the current nuisance, has her own particular mental distortion. It is well enough for Germany to lay plans for settling down to business, and in that she will have the sympathy of the world, but a reference to complexes is likely to recall, with corresponding uneasiness, that the World War grew out of a number of incompatible national complexes.

THANK YOU

Two little words that make the world run more smoothly, that ease the hard places of life and absorb many of its shocks, are "Thank you."

They are the sign of a gracious spirit. They bespeak of a generous attitude that would not withhold praise from those who deserve it—a commodity with which too many of us are stingy.

The majority of us take too much for granted. In a land of plenty and among a people of infinite resources, we expect much and accept everything as a matter of course.

Yet one's best friend takes to hear an appreciative word. While a compliment deserved by an outsider and extended frankly and generously will often convert an enemy into an ally.

Appreciation, like charity, begins at home and among those nearest and dearest. The price of good fellows is a failure and a hypocrite unless he takes his reputation home with him at night and arrays it with smiles and pleasant words at the breakfast table in the morning.

These two littel words, "Thank you," makes the world run more smoothly. Learn to speak them. No praise is ever wholly undeserved. Encouraging words are as great a miracle worker as this old world knows,

INDEFATIGABLE

The public wants the news, and must have it, in the form of articles and descriptions and pictures. The greatest organization in the world—the American press—is constantly bent upon the public service, and tropical heat or polar ice is all in the day's work.

Fortitude in the line of duty is as well preserved in the race of newspaper photographers as it is in the reportorial group, which has given many examples of courage and intelligence and hardihood in the pursuit of a story.

"King, look this way!"

It was a newspaper photographer who said that, or something like that, when a royal personage wasn't taking exactly the right pose as he landed in the United States. Perhaps it was a queen to whom he addressed the command. Queen or King, it would have made no difference.

Newspaper reporters and photographers are constantly taking risks that their readers may have the news in word and picture. If they are informal and abrupt, they are also indefatigable and brave. Courage is equally divided among the members of the fraternity.

CANCER

Cancer now stands second in mortality statistics in the United States. Every boy and girl who reaches the age of 10 years has one chance of dying from cancer.

These statistics, taken alone, are startling. They at once suggest a wide spread of this dread disease. But there is one factor in the situation that is frequently overlooked and which consequently leads to considerable misunderstanding and needless anxiety. That is the fact that as recently as 20 years ago mortality among the young was considerably higher than it is today.

Great advances have been made in eliminating the causes of early death. Antitoxin has removed the ravages of diphtheria, pure water and pasturized milk have cut down the deaths from typhoid, there is a better understanding of infant feeding. Deaths from appendicitis, once common, are now comparatively rare. Other instances might be cited to show the marked progress of preventive medicine that has shifted the high mortality rate from the lower to the upper age brackets.

There was less cancer 20 or 30 years ago because fewer persons survived the ailments and diseases of youth and middle age to reach the age when man is most susceptible to the degenerative diseases, of which cancer is one.

MAY: MONTH OF BEAUTY

Now its May, one of the prettiest and most pleasant months of the year. Winter has gone, the heat of summer has not yet come and vegetation prepared to spread with lavish hand its beauty all about us.

The origin of the name of most months is easy to trace. Not so May. It is generally agreed that it was named for Maia, the Roman goddess of spring, but there is also a theory that May is the abbreviated form of Marjores and that the month was so called because it was held sacred to older men as June was dedicated to Juniores or younger men.

Originally, May was the third month, but it became, fifth when the Romans placed January and February at the beginning of the year. It always has had 31 days. Its special flower is the hawthorn and its gem the emerald.

Since earliest times the first of May has been marked by outdoor festivities and children have danced about a Maypole for hundreds of years.

Today many schools have Mayday festivals in which gay costumes, pretty flowers and dancing complete a most colorful picture. May is marked by few important historical anniversaries, compared to other months, and few holidays.

WHERE OPPORTUNITY BECKONS

Some people are forever complaining that none of the big or little opportunities come their way. They hear of a neighbor who got a real bargain in a used automobile and wonder why his chance had not been theirs. And when a neighbor shows them a bit of furniture or other household article he had picked up for a fraction of its real worth and they again wonder why others are favored over them.

Paradoxical though it seems, these men and women who covet the opportunities offered to and grasped by others could find the secret of the other fellow's good fortune in the newspaper read by them both. That secret is the classified advertising column. It is there that the golden opportunities are offered and found. The "want ad" page is the mecca for those who have golden opportunities to offer and for those who wisely hunt their "acres of diamonds" at home.

If the store with its show windows, glass cases, counters and open doors can not do business without newspaper advertisements, how can the seller and the buyer of the used article expect to "do business" without advertising? The "want ad" in classified ing? The "want ad" or classified and counter for the private citizen who has something to sell or wants to buy something the other citizen has.

$400,000,000 IN SAVINGS ENDANGERED

In a recent hearing before the House Military Affairs Committee, on a bill concerning the governmental distribution and generation of power at Muscle Shoals, Wendell L. Willkie, President of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, was a witness. His interest in the matter is explained by the fact that private utilities affiliated with that corporation serve about the same area that the Muscle Shoals plant would serve. During the course of testimony, he said: "The senior securities of the operating companies of the Commonwealth and Southern system in the southern states are in amount $400,000,000. These securities are owned by thousands of people, and the preferred stock. . . . . has been widely distributed among the people of that territory. Every one of those securities, represented by actual dollars invested, were approved at the time of their issuance by the public service commission . . . I do not want to be in the position of an alarmist, but I can say to you, as my deliberate judgment, that if this bill passes, this $400,000,000 worth of securities will be eventually destroyed. . . ."

Here is one of the greatest potential tragedies of government competition in business, and one of the greatest of all arguments against it. As a matter of right and justice government should not destroy the investments of private citizens without just compensation. Is is fair for the government to unnecessarily duplicate power service in the Muscle Shoals district and sweep away savings of thousands of people it is supposed to aid? Investors in power development are not wealthy people—they are the average farmer, home-owner and business man. In many instances their utility securities represent the entire savings of a lifetime. It is time that the people begin to understand that there is no such thing as competition between government and private industry—when government business steps in, with its freedom from taxation and its subsidies, private industry is forced out or into bankruptcy.

The Muscle Shoals area is being well and cheaply served with power now. Government could do no more—unless it sold its power at below-cost levels, and made it up by taxing the rest of us, which is certainly a method we don't want. Whatever is done with Muscle Shoals, the utmost care should be taken to protect thousands of people who have invested their money in private enterprises. We say the government should stay out of business.

PETITIONS ON FILE FOR ALL DELEGATES

DeKalb County Drys Secured 3,711 Signatures and Anti-Prohibition Forces 886

Another step in the preparations for the prohibition election to be held in DeKalb county June 6 was taken Saturday, when petitions for the nomination of delegates were on file in the office of County Clerk Carl Walter.

The forces advocating the retention of the eighteenth amendment filed petitions containing 3,711 names. Their candidates are Larry Brandon of Union township, and Vern Sparks of Smithfield township.

The opponents of the eighteenth amendment had petitions with 886 signatures on file. Their candidates are Andrew Grube of Stafford township, and Harry R. Bloom of Waterloo.

The number of signatures required on each side was 500.

The petitions under the law are open to public inspection. Written objections may be filed within ten days and such objections would be certified to the governor, whose decision is final. If no objections are filed, the petitions will be certified to the governor.

The law provides that ten ballots shall be printed for each five votes or fraction thereof cast for secretary of state at the general election. The election commissioners will therefore order about 25,000 ballots. They will be printed on white paper.

The delegates chosen will meet with the delegates from the other 91 counties of the state at Indianapolis June 26.

It will be the duty of every citizen to go to their regular voting place on June 6, and cast vote as they may desire. Those persons who wish to vote DRY must vote against ratification, and WETS, the opposite. Special care should be taken, that each person vote their sentiments correctly.

Wife and Mother Will Cheer Arnold in Race

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Two feminine hearts, which have infinitely more than grand-stand interest, will again turn flip-flops when daring, dashing, dapper Billy Arnold burns up the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in the annual 500-mile automobile race here May 30.

They are the 1930 winner's wife and mother, who never miss a race and wonder why they court such agony. The wife gave the speedway guards a busy few minutes when Billy crashed last year after leading the race for 130 miles at a terrific pace of more than 111 miles an hour.

Although he crashed in his last two races, Arnold is considered one of the greatest natural drivers since Jimmy Murphy and Frank Lockhart and will again be one of the favorites on Decoration Day.

The 1936 Olympic games which have been scheduled to take place in Germany may be transferred to some other country due to Germany's recent anti-Jewish activities.

Mother's Day—the second Sunday in May each year—is set aside by a resolution of Congress "for the expression of love and reverence for the mothers of our country."

It must be difficult for unpaid school teachers to convince the pupils that an education pays.

"Strictly speaking there is no such thing as hay fever," says the Illinois Health Messenger. "Hay is not the cause and fever is not a sympton of the allment to which the name is applied." But, that is little consolation for one who is subject to a running nose and spells of sneezing.

There are several reasons for the scarcity of money in circulation; for instance, 15 per cent of all bank deposits are tied up in closed banks and according to a recent report from the treasury there is still $700,000,000 in gold hoarded.

The city clerk of Medford, Massachusetts, announces that a check up on the 1932 birth certificates shows that one out of every three girls born in that city last year was named Joan.

Perhaps one of the reasons that makes favorable legislation for the farmer so difficult is the fact that in the United States two-thirds of the voters live in cities and towns.

In the United States, we now have one unemployed person to about every three employed.

William Briggs, a farmer living near Ahmonk, New York, was sentenced to four months and twenty-five days for beating his wife over the head with a live chicken.

A statement has been published showing the expenditure of each average dollar of income in the United States as follows:

Living costs	24½ cents.
Luxuries	22 cents.
Waste	14 cents.
Miscellaneous	13½ cents.
Investments	11 cents.
Crime	8¼ cents.
Government	4½ cents.
Schools	1½ cents.
Church	¾ cents.

Some time ago Tom Mix underwent an operation for appendicitis. Dr. Gurn Stout, of Los Angeles, performed the operation for which he charged $10,000. Mr. Mix refused to pay more than $800 and was sued. The court awarded judgment against Mix for $1,300. This was in addition to the $800 already paid.

"Every motorist should realize the use of blended gasoline—alcohol will lead to poorer mechanical operation of his car," says Matt E. Moose, general manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri. "The alcohol blend will eat off the paint whenever it comes in contact, ruining the appearance of the car; condensation of moisture within the gas tank or in the gas line and carburetor will separate the alcohol from the gasoline, so that the concentrated alcohol will be drawn through the carburetor, leading to poor starting, sluggish acceleration and unsatisfactory operation in every way; the use of this mixture in the cylinders will quickly dry out the cylinder oil film on the cylinder walls so that general disintegration of the motor itself will soon be in process."

ATTACKED BY OWL

Charles Miller, a six year old farmer lad from near Rochester, Indiana, was attacked by a large horned owl in the woods in the Miller farm. The boy was with his parents searching for mushrooms when attacked. He was badly scratched but probably not seriously wounded.

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN

Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2

Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 40 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months: 3 pounds to an acre for 8,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent food for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it regimes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk 3 to 4 feet high, and fair loaded with leaves.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakurajima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 20 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Flesh solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 25c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are an excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 20c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the molting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 22 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.
Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 25c—1 Lb. 60c—6 Pkts. 50c—dozen $1.00—Postpaid.

GRABILL POSTMASTER RESIGNS

Glenn R. Woods Appointed Acting Postmaster to Fill the Unexpired Term of A. Neuenschwander

Word was received Thursday, May 4, from the First Assistant Postmaster General at Washington, D. C., of the appointment of Glenn R. Woods as acting postmaster to finish the unexpired term of A. Neuenschwander, present postmaster at Grabill. Mr. Woods received his appointment through Congressman James I. Farley and will take charge of the office May the 16th.

Mr. Woods is no stranger in this community, having resided in Grabill for many years and since 1918 has been connected with the Disler & Woods Saw Mill. After the death of his father in 1926 he became a partner in the business. Mr. Woods has been very active in Democratic circles and deserves the position as well as being qualified for the place.

A. Neuenschwander was appointed postmaster at Grabill under the administration of President Harding in 1922 for the first term, was reappointed in 1926 by President Calvin Coolidge, and in December 1930 received his third appointment under President Herbert Hoover. His present term as postmaster would not have expired until December 1934 but on account of other business needing his attention he resigned.

Mr. Neuenschwander has been a very active postmaster, having received eighteen extensions to the rural routes and added more than that many miles to them in order to serve the patrons of his office better.

He also has made many friends in the circles of the pastmasters all over the United States. He served as State Delegate to the National League of District Postmasters' Convention for the past four years and was president of the Indiana Branch for the last three years, resigning from that position last June.

As Mr. Neuenschwander leaves the office he wishes well to all the patrons of this office and also wishes to thank them for their co-operation while he served as postmaster. He also wishes well to his successor, Mr. Glenn R. Woods, and asks the patrons to give him the same co-operation.

MORTUARY

GROSJEAN

Julian F. Grosjean, aged 70, of R. R. No. 2, DuPont Road, Fort Wayne, dropped dead Wednesday evening, May 3, at his home. Although he had been in ill health for two years, Mr. Grosjean's death was unexpected. Dr. Raymond J. Berghoff, Allen County Coroner, stated that death was due to myocarditis. Mr. Grosjean had just finished his evening meal when he was stricken.

Mr. Grosjean, with his two sons, Arthur and Harold Grosjean, owned and operated the Community Store at this place for some time until they sold out about six years ago, when they moved on a farm about seven miles southwest of here. Mr. Grosjean also was a prominent contractor in Fort Wayne for many years.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Julian F. Grosjean, two daughters Mrs. Ethel Hofer of South Bend and Mrs. Vera Stahl of South Bend, two sons, Arthur Grosjean of Fort Wayne and Harold Grosjean at home; six grandchildren; two brothers, Edward Grosjean and Aristide Grosjean both of Fort Wayne, and three sisters, Mrs. Felicia Irvin of Burbank, Calif., Mrs. Mary McQuiston of Glendale, Calif., and Mrs. Clara Morrison of Fort Wayne.

BOWMAN

Amanda Jane Carnes was born in Holmesville, Ohio, December 31, 1845, and died near Hicksville, Ohio, May 2, 1933, at the age of 84 years, 4 months and 1 day.

She was married to John Bowman in 1866. To this union were born two children, John and Letitia. Letitia and her husband having preceded her in death.

She united with the Lutheran Church at Spencerville, Indiana when a young girl.

For many years she lived with her sister, Mrs. Mary Paff, and Gladys Houk, where she died.

She leaves to mourn her departure one son, John Bowman of Hillman, Michigan, eight grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Mary Paff of Hicksville, Ohio, and one brother, Henry Carnes of Niles, Michigan, and many friends who will miss her.

The funeral services were held Friday forenoon in Spencerville in the Walter funeral parlor. Rev. A. K. Mumma of Harlan, Indiana, officiating. Roscoe Walter funeral director. Burial at White City cemetery.

The death of Arthur Grogg, residing north of Auburn on the Auburn-Ashley Road, a rural mail carrier out of Waterloo for twenty-three years, occurred Sunday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock at his home. Heart trouble and dropsy from which he suffered for more than a year caused his demise at the age of 56 years.

Mrs. Lillian Zimerman had as Monday dinner guests Mrs. Geo. Roseman, nephew, George Roseman and Mrs. Cora Marks all of Garrett, and Mrs. Lucinda McClure, of Continental, Ohio, the latter remaining for a longer visit. Tuesday guests were Viola Moody and Ellen Zimmerman.

There is still some time for the potato and onion growers in DeKalb County to join the 400 bushel potato and 1000 bushel onion clubs. DeKalb County ranks among the highest in the state in onion and potato production. Since the county Muck Crops Show will be held at Garrett this fall and with the increased interest in muck crops, there should be a large membership in these clubs. See your County Agent at once.

OPERATOR STAYED AT POST TILL THE END

Cuban Girl's Heroic Sacrifice Saved Others From Disaster

When the town of Santa Cruz de Sur, Cuba, was wiped out by a hurricane some months ago, Rosa Torres Acosta, telephone operator, became the heroine of the disaster. The first warnings of the hurricane came through by telephone, and although she was informed that the waters of the sea were being blown inland and the town was threatened, she stuck to her post.

Calling one subscriber after another, she warned them to flee the endangered town.

And those warned did flee, with the exception of Senorita Acosta and her fiance, who kept close to her side at the switchboard. Meanwhile, the waters came nearer and nearer. Finally they rolled over the town, wiping it out.

Several days later, the bodies of the telephone operator and her fiance were found close together, along with those of hundreds of others who had been killed.

This was not the only instance of heroism in the telephone service at the time of the hurricane. Two sisters, Celia and Maria Urbay, operators at Neuvitas, are credited with saving the lives of many persons at Puerto Tarafa by telephoning that town and warning them of the approaching hurricane. Throughout the storm they remained at their switchboard, although the roof and one wall of the exchange collapsed.

Facts About the Telephone

Of the six continents, Africa has the smallest number of telephones.

During 1932 a total of 122,000 inquiries was received by telephone by the Chicago Tribune.

The total annual distribution of directories published by the Bell System is about 26,000,000 copies.

At the end of 1932, 110 airport ground stations in the United States had been supplied with Western Electric radio-telephone equipment.

The first steamship to be connected with ship-to-shore service was the Leviathan, of the United States Lines, in 1929.

BUCKET BRIGADE, CALLED BY OPERATOR, HALTS BLAZE

When the help of outside fire departments was refused, a telephone operator recently took charge of a critical situation at Oxboro Heath, Minn. As a result much property was saved.

The emergency arose when the home of C. B. Armstrong, manager of the Oxboro Lumber Co., caught fire about 6 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Armstrong's home adjoins a lumber yard and other buildings, which were endangered by the flames.

Mrs. Bonnie Carroll, from her switchboard, called sleeping residents of the community, and then tried to get help from the Minneapolis fire department.

The appeal was refused, because Oxboro Heath had not entered into arrangements with the city for fire protection. Appeals to other places were also turned down. Mrs. Carroll then summoned residents of the town and told them to provide themselves with buckets. As a result of their combined efforts, the lumber yard and other buildings were saved, although it was too late to check the blaze in the Armstrong home.

The most profitable dollar you could spend would be to have The St. Joe News come to your home every week.

MISS HELEN WYATT MARRIED SUNDAY

Miss Helen Wyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Wyatt, of East Nineteenth Street, Auburn, and Norman J. G. Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bauer of Evanston, Ind., were married in a simple ceremony by Rev. E. J. Wickersham at the First Methodist Church at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. The double ring ceremony was used.

The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thomas of Fairmount, Ind.

The bride wore a powder blue chiffon gown with gray footwear and carried a bouquet of Calla lilies. The bridesmaid wore white organdie and carried yellow snapdragons and blue larkspur. The groom and best man wore Oxford gray. For traveling the bride wore a gray suit and accessories to match.

Mrs. Bauer graduated from Auburn high school in 1928 and was formerly employed as stenographer in the engineering department at the Auburn Automobile company.

Mr. Bauer is employed as a draftsman at the International Harvester company in Fort Wayne having previously graduated from Troy high school in 1925 and after two years at Purdue University completed his electrical engineering course at the Coyne Engineering School in Chicago.

After May 20 Mr. and Mrs. Bauer will be at home in their newly furnished home at 3001 Bowser Avenue, Fort Wayne.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents where the immediate relatives were served refreshments. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wyatt, of Montpelier, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thomas of Fairmount, Ind., George Rinehold, Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt and the bride and groom.

The KEY to Lower Cost

YOUR electricity is cheap. Due to a consistent rate reduction policy, the cost of electricity to customers who only use our service for lighting and small appliances is less today than ever before.

Most of our customers are now making a sufficient use of electricity so that additional quantities are available at extremely low rates.

The progressive merchant gives the customer who buys several items the benefit of lowered cost. This same quantity buying principle of "5 cents a package, three packages for a dime," produces similar economies in the purchase of electricity.

Thrifty people take advantage of this opportunity by purchasing their requirements for cooking, refrigeration, and water heating from us.

They secure greater convenience and economy and their cost is less than was formerly paid for the separate services from different concerns.

Make a wider use of electrical time-savers and work-savers in your home and obtain the benefit of quantity buying.

SEE 3.2 BREW'S FIRST THREE WEEKS EXPLODE DREAM OF BEER TRADE'S REFORMATION

Chicago, May 10: "First reports to the Foundation from all parts of the country where the sale of 3.2 beer has again been decreed lawful, sharply explode the dream of a 'reformed,' law-abiding brewing trade," declares a statement issued by the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation, issued here today from their headquarters at Seven South Dearborn Street.

"Evidences multiply," the Foundation statement continues, "that the brewer is up to his old tricks with disregard of decency and common sense in high pressure sales methods, immediate plunging into the thick of political maneuvering, defiance of laws that impede his way, and a suspicious eagerness to obtain the financial whip-hand in his dealings with various outlets for his production.

"In six startling developments the 'new deal' for the brewer appears to threaten the safeguarding of law and order, the rights of the people and their political liberties:

(1) "Evidences of brand new political liaison by the brewers with administrative power and potential graft in many states. New Beer Acts in New York, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and other states reveal political coalitions with the brewing trade so direct and complete as to create an official alliance with beer makers, remifying into every city, town and political sub-division of these states, under the administrators now in power.

(2) "The bold ignoring so far as possible, by the brewers, of local and inter-state safeguards of dry cities and commonwealths, by invasion of beer advertising thru radio, billboards, movies and even the local press.

(3) "In scores of cases, inauguration by the brewers or their wet backers of organized law defiance to break down and nullify local legal protection against the liquor traffic. The new Illinois law specifically strikes 'prohibit' from the privileges granted counties and cities in their adoption of local regulatory legislation, the manifest intention being to wipe from the statute books every vestige of even neighborhood protection through local option against the invasion of the new traffic in alcoholic brew.

(4) "Multiplying evidence that brewers are encouraging beer sales at all hours, to minors as well as adults, with special attention to personal house-to-house solicitation of orders from mothers and housewives in heretofore dry communities.

(5) "A nation wide attempt by the beer makers and distributors, by intimidation, to compel hotels, restaurants, grocers, drugstores, and soft drink shops generally to handle beer wherever they are at present doing a sufficient business to attract the brewers' sales agents. In hundreds of cases the evidence shows clearly the merchants and proprietors of high class cafeterias and coffee shops are being practically forced to become outlets for the brewers' wares.

(6) "Evidence that nearer full strength beer is now assuming a larger proportion in the total distribution, is being reflected significantly in increasing motor fatalities and rapid expansion of police cases. An inspection of police figures for crime of all kinds, as recorded in various police courts of Chicago, reveal in several cases a jump of from 300 to 500 per cent in the number of cases, which in at least two instances has compelled the calling of additional judges to transact the ordinary run of court business. Official figures for motor fatalities for the month of April show emphatic gains in a score of cities including Chicago, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Ore., Los Angeles, Peoria, Syracuse, Buffalo, Akron and others.

"In Chicago, the figures for the entire month evidenced in a remarkable way the social effects of the re-opening of the beer trade. As compared with the first week in April, prior to the opening of some 10,000 retail outlets for 3.2 brew, motor fatalities for the remaining days of the month show a sustained average daily increase of more than 200 per cent. From April 1 to April 6 inclusive, motor fatalities average one a day and from April 7 to April 30 inclusive, there were 71 recorded fatalities, an average of 3.08 deaths daily.

"Widespreads claims that drunkenness has sharply decreased since beer came back, are discounted by evidence that accidents and fatalities are increasing. The old trick of wet city administrations of letting the ordinary run of drunks go after sobering up without being booked as heretofore, is too transparent for serious consideration. In this connection, one chief of police told the Foundation representative that not one in ten drunks were arrested and noted in the police records in pre-prohibition days, so that it was easy to resurrect this rather threadbare trick to make the coming of beer a miracle worker in this respect.

"The Foundation makes no claim as to the number of accidents in which beer or other liquor was a specific factor. All such evidence is carefully suppressed in reports made public. The facts that stand out before all the rest in Chicago for example, are that auto deaths more than doubled for the first fortnight following the legalizing of beer selling, and that the average for the last ten days has trebled the average for the last pre-beer week.

"This contrast is the more startling in that, up to April, the official figures of automobile fatalities for 1933 showed a steady decrease, being 24 per cent under the corresponding period of last year.

"'Hit and run driver cases and killing of children appear to be steadily on the increase."

MORE FISH FOR STOCKING OF STREAM

Through the courtesy of L. H. Dunten, of Fort Wayne, President of Isaac Walten League, the local game club shared in a shipment of Wall-eye pike from the federal hatcheries to the extent of ten cans and each one containing 100,000. Wilbur Yeiser, accompanied by Ed Storer, drove to Ft. Wayne after the fish Monday night and about midnight planted them in Bear Creek.

A survey will soon be made of the local streams to ascertain whether it would be profitable to plant trout. Lagrange county streams have proven successful and there is no reason why Bear Creek should not be. If the time comes for this planting of fish the stream will be closed to seining of minnows.

Can anyone say the local game club is not an asset to the wild life of this community?

ST. JOE TO OBSERVE CLEAN-UP WEEK

Final arrangements for the annual clean-up of St. Joe have been set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 25, 26 and 27, so that everything will be in readiness for Memorial Day.

Already many have cleaned up their premises but by this time there will be other accumulations that ought to be cleared away, so in order to be of use to every citizen arrangements will be made for a truck to pass through every alley in St. Joe and pick up the rubbish that has been placed there by the property owners and hauled to the dump.

Everything must be in containers and in a convenient place at the alley for the truck. No garbage will be permitted to be placed in the containers.

The men will not be required to clean up any property when hauling this trash, but every citizen is asked to cooperate in cleaning his own premises.

Help us do a good job and make St. Joe look spic and span.

BIG RALLY AT COBURNTOWN CHURCH

Joint Senator Larry Brandon will speak at the Coburntown Church Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock, standard time, on the matter of the coming election on June 6th and the repeal convention. Know the facts regarding this matter. A colored quartet from Garrett will furnish music for the occasion.

"BILL" HANKEY INITIATES PLANE SUNDAY

In our last issue of The News, we announced that William Hankey, would make aeroplane flights from the Martin Engle field, on Sunday, provided weather conditions were favorable.

The almost continuous rains which have fallen, in the last two weeks or more, had rendered the grounds to the condition of a bog. But a couple or more days respite from the elements, allowed sufficient drying of the ground to make the attempt feasible.

The Engle field was not thought to be suitable for the purpose, so the George Culbertson field, just west of main street, was chosen as more adapted to flying.

After a few initial solo flights by the pilot, to test the dependability of the plane, after its recent overhauling, Mr. Hankey preceeded to initiate a goodly number of our local citizens, and those of the surrounding community, into the novelties of aviation. A large number of people congregated upon the field, and their interest was keen through the entire day. The weather though somewhat cool, was in some other respects, admirably adapted to the purpose. It seems to be the general consensus of opinion, that "Bill," as he is familiarly called, "knows his stuff."

The maneuvers in air, and the landings were most beautifully executed. It is the intention of the Hankey brothers to give more flights on next Sunday, should that, and the days that intervene prove propitious.

Ora Baker moved Tuesday to Bluffton, to be at his work.

Carl Carpenter and Irven Chubb made a trip to Odell, Ind., Monday in search of soy beans for planting. They brought back 85 bushels.

Mrs. S. D. Gee and Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee drove to Montpelier, Ohio, Friday afternoon and called at the Glen Abel home. They found Mrs. J. C. F. Abel improving slowly. She sent greetings to her many friends here

Mrs. Glen Wineland is at Auburn caring for her mother, who is seriously ill. The Winelands had expected to move into the Ora Baker home, but they are undecided. Should her mother fail to recover, they will be compelled to return to Auburn.

The bloom at the Leighty and Widney orchards will no doubt attract many visitors by next Sunday. 100 acres of apple bloom at the Leighty orchard will be well worth seeing if anyone has a liking for flowers.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS WORKING OUT

Plans for the observance of Memorial Day on Tuesday, May 30th, have been almost completed. The program calls for the decorating of graves in Bear Creek, Morr and Jenkins cemeteries in the morning, followed by services at Coburntown with program about 10:30, C. D. T. Services at St. Joe will start about 2:30 with miscellaneous program at the Community Gym, followed by grand march to cemetery and services there. The services of Charles Donaldson, a former St. Joe boy, and now President of the Toledo Plate Glass Co., have been secured as speaker at the Gym.

All civic organizations are to consider themselves invited to take part in the march to the cemetery. It is hoped that there will be a good turnout of the community at these services. All ex-service men are requested to turn out, either in uniform or not as they see fit. All arrangements are in charge of the "Veterans Community Memorial Association." Watch next week's paper for complete program.

COL. MOUDY SPEAKS HERE MAY 25

Colonel Alfred L. Moudy, of Waterloo, Indiana, will speak in the interest of National Prohibition in the St. Joe Christian Church, Thursday, May 25th at eight o'clock.

For more than twenty years Col. Moudy rendered splendid service as a teacher and superintendent of schools in his own state. Over a similar period he has been a member of the Indiana National Guard and has seen service for his country on the Mexican border and in France where he served as educational director of the Expeditionary forces. At present he is Lieutenant Colonel of the 150th Field Artillery of the Indiana National Guard.

For the past ten years he has spent most of his time on the lecture platform having spoken in practically every state in the Union and appeared before more than two thousand groups of young people in high schools and colleges.

Get that car overhauled now for summer use at Hankey's Garage.

Hear Judge Carlin of Angola in a talk at the Christian Church, Thursday night, this week.

J. C. Hull attended the Columbus Mutual Life Insurance Company meeting at Fort Wayne, Monday for the northeastern Indiana and northwestern Ohio agents.

Fathers School Offspring in Tricks of Racing at Indianapolis Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—It may be chips off the old block—perhaps motor blocks—who follow their fathers down the path of glory at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway some future May day.

Here are past and present winners, who are here preparing for the annual 500-mile auto race May 30, schooling their offspring in the tricks of the trade—while their mothers aren't looking:

1. Fred Frame, winner in 1932, has a son who is not only a constant companion but has charge of the transportation of his dad's racing car and also assists him in its preparation for a race. He is 16 years old and weighs 210 pounds—45 pounds heavier than his father.

2. Louis Schneider, winner in 1931, had a miniature of his victory car built for junior and starts him out early on the speedway of life.

3. L. L. Corum, who won jointly with the late Joe Boyer in 1924, still races and hopes Bobbie will follow in his father's skids.

4. A. B. "Deacon" Litz, veteran driver, regrets he has no son to offer but he has a "tom-boy" daughter who would like to make a try for it.

JUDGE CARLIN TO VISIT ST. JOE

Plans have been completed whereby Judge Clyde C. Carlin, of Angola will appear in St. Joe on Thursday evening, May 18, possibly at Christian Church, where he will discuss the ratification issue now before the people of Indiana.

Judge Carlin is a very reasonable speaker and the public should plan to hear him.

The board of review will meet June 5, and go over assessments made by assessors and hear complaints of taxpayers if any.

Last Year's Indianapolis Race Winner Hopes to Repeat to Please His Family

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Fred Frame is the family man of automobile racing.

When the roar of a speedy day dies down, the winner of last year's 500-mile automobile classic hangs up his goggles in the manner of a tired business man rolling down his desk top and goes home to the wife and family.

Quiet, unassuming but a thorough workman at the wheel, he will again drive in the Decoration Day race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. He has entered two cars, one of which he will pilot himself.

Fred has a 17 year old son who has complete charge of the transportation of his cars from one race to another. Mrs. Frame and their small daughter furnishes a family cheering section.

Mrs. Frame was among the first to greet her victorious husband after he had led the field over the finish line in 1932. They both hope to repeat the above scene in 1933 when the winner may be refreshed with a quaff of cold beer which will be sold in the speedway grounds under the new state regulations.

Pleas of temporary insanity should be admitted in cases where the victim was only temporarily murdered.

Something seems to have taken the life out of racketeering in New York. Bandits recently stole two coffins from an undertaker.

There seems to be one dissenting vote on the proposition that asphyxiation would be a fine thing for the advocate of all over 50.

Congress must be out of work. A month has passed and there has been no move to investigate the price of beer.

The Department of Agriculture has done wonders, yet the half has never been told, if an advertisement in a Baltimore paper can be relied upon. It reads: "Grass seed guaranteed to grow lawn mowers, $2.49."

Very likely the Navy was inwardly disturbed when it found that its share in reducing government expenditures was fifty million dollars, but those in authority took the smack with good grace, and proceeded in the exercise of good sense. About thirty percent of the vessels now in service will be laid up, but they will be docked one after another, and while out of use will be put in first class order. The Navy people certainly should be given credit for making the best of a bad situation.

Carefully avoiding partisan praise or partisan condemnation, the President's Sunday evening talks may be said to be having a good effect, in that they allay doubt, suspicion and fear. The spoken word is fleeting and likely to be forgotten as to detail, yet there is something reassuring in hearing the voice of the Executive right in one's own parlor. Messages to Congress are alright, but what is needed is a message to the individual. Without discussing the merits of what Mr. Roosevelt has done, or proposes to do, he has paid an appreciated compliment to the common man by cutting out intermediaries and talking things over with him directly.

The President of the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, in session in Washington, is quoted as protesting against the scientific doo-dads of modern medicine, and as speaking a word in favor of long-named machinery to identify long-named disorders which really are no more than common diseases capable of being reached by common remedies. The general practitioner no longer sports whiskers and a plug hat, nor does he ride about in a horse-drawn gig, but he remains the backbone of the profession. All of which, coming from so eminent a source, is what millions have long believed, but scarcely dared affirm. The plain, helpful, efficient country doctor, more intent upon healing than display, may yet come into his kingdom.

The capital is a city of protests and parades just now. Another bonus army, divided, it is said, into conservative and communistic groups, is making its wishes known. A negro demonstration for equal rights is staged. The Continental Congress, openly in favor of taking what it wants from the other fellow, holds lively sessions. Hardly a day passes in which committees fail to appear before Congress to protest against or to speak in favor of something. Nothing derogatory is intended in alluding to all sorts of objectors and claimants in one paragraph. It is merely noted that everyone is exercising the ancient right of petition and remonstrance, to which, if accompanied by no breach of the peace, no serious opposition can be raised. In any event, open complaint is better than secret plotting.

The news brings to the front the crime designated in old times by the expressive name of man-stealing. In Massachusetts a party of kidnappers get eighty thousand dollars for the return of a girl, but come to grief at the hands of the police. A full year has gone by since Co. Lindbergh passed through his trying experience, but circumstances still continue to crowd his sorrow upon his attention. He appears in Washington to testify against two men charged with defrauding a woman who paid a large sum in an effort to secure the safety of the Lindbergh boy. The father of Charlie Ross refused to offer a reward for the return of his son. His stand has no appreciable effect on the frequency of the crime under consideration, and kidnappings appear to have been on the increase during the past few years. It may be that we are in need of a little old-fashioned law of an eye-for-an-eye and a tooth-for-a-tooth type.

DRIVERS

That moot question whether women drivers are more careful and more accident proof than men is reopened by records of an accident insurance company dealing with 7,600,000 licensed drivers and their accident records.

While the proportion of women drivers is about one in four, their accident record is from four to five times as good as that of the opposite sex. The ratio of fatal accidents among men was one to every 726 drivers; among women, one to every 3,558. Of non-fatal accidents there was one for every 22 men and one for every 89 women.

Considered alone these statistics make out a good case for the woman driver, but the fact is they prove nothing. Men will read them and still prefer to meet on the highways the vehicle with a man at the wheel.

The figures fail to show the relative mileage of the man and the woman driver; to what extent the proneness of the male driver to go abroad in weather which keeps the woman at home may affect the results, and whether the woman's driving takes her out during the hours of greatest traffic congestion. These are all unknown quantities, yet they are essential to an accurate conclusion.

If it should be found in the final analysis that the weaker sex is safer with herself at the wheel, the motoring public probably would attribute it to that axiom of the open road: "You never know what a woman driver will do next." Perhaps the public acts accordingly.

The fact remains that there are speed maniacs in both sexes, careful drivers and careless drivers in both trousers and skirts, thoughtless drivers and thoughtful drivers on both sides, but when it comes to a tight squeeze the man is better able to come through without a scratch.

GASTRONOMIC CYCLES

Habits of eating may have as much as anything to do with the differences between the medieval and modern man. At least one scientist, whose specialty is food and its relation to man, believes it has more to do with it than most other factors.

He draws a convinging comparison between the medieval man and his common ailments and the modern man and his principal diseases in an attempt to prove that man is what he is because of what and how much he eats.

The most characteristic diseases of the past seem to have had a definite relation to insufficient and improper food which for centuries were the common lot of man. Hunger and starvation were not strangers even in the Western world up to the late nineteenth century, because food was scarce and costly.

Today food is abundant and cheap. The average family has more to eat and spends a smaller fraction of its income for food than ever before. With what effect upon public health? The modern man is eating himself into a number of diseases of which his undernourished ancestors never heard. Obesity, diabetes and vascular diseases are related to gastronomic indiscretions.

Manifestly, man must either starve to death or eat himself to death, and if he doesn't fill up when the food is before him the farmer won't eat.

INDUSTRY SPURTS FORWARD

When production was at its peak steel and electric power output and car loadings were widely accepted as accurate barometers of business trends. Business rose and fell with them. But there came a day when the world wished it did not so implicitly trust these barometers, for they forecast anything but fair business weather.

Today the country is only too willing to let these indicators make their economic readings for them. Each successive reading is better than the last and all signs point toward a long spell of good weather.

Six weeks in a row electric power output has increased, indicating a marked industrial pickup. It is higher now than at any time since July, 1931. Any increase in electric power consumption at this time of the year must come from the factories and mills.

Steel production has trebled in recent weeks over the country as a whole and even more in some districts. The industry is operating at nearly 50% of capacity, whereas only a few weeks ago it was virtually shut down. Was there ever an industry to stage such a remarkable come-back?

Clearing house records reflect a rising tide of business and improved banking conditions. Payments by checks increased $27,000,000 last week, bringing the total within that amount of the 1932 figure. A considerable gain in retail sales was necessary to overcome the handicap of frozen bank deposits and closed banks.

Here are gains that are more than satisfactory. The country, while it needs more, would have considered itself lucky with less.

UNDER THE HIDE OF MUSCLE SHOALS

Facts concerning Muscle Shoals as a government electric project, recently published in Electrical World, should receive wider distribution than they have so far.

The government has sunk $150,000,000 in the project. The next proposed move is to put about $50,000,000 more in Cove Creek, an adjacent and connected development. Complete development of the Tennessee River for power and navigation will require another $250,000,000 or so.

Then add $600,000,000 for the development of tributaries and the building of auxiliary steam plants, and the grand total is brought to about $1,000,000,000.

The project would produce approximately 3,000,000 kilowatts of power at 50 per cent load factor, at a station cost of about 4.3 mills per kilowatt-hour, or an investment cost of $340 per kilowatt, plus cost of building transmission lines.

In the Muscle Shoals area at present the capacity of existing producing and transmitting systems is well beyond demand. In that area there are great coal fields that make it possible to build fuel electric stations at an investment cost of less than $80 per kilowatt, as compared to $340. Potential increase in demand for power is small—industries, in spite of many inducements, have not looked on the territory with favor.

From a usiness standpoint, power development at Muscle Shoals would be a billion-dollar waste of taxpayers' money. The investments of thousands of citizens in private power developments now serving the Muscle Shoals region would be wiped out or lowered by needless governmental duplications. Taxpayers in every section of the country would lose.

CHILDREN'S CLASSES PLANNED AT DOG SHOW

At the coming A. K. C. dog show, sponsored by the Northeastern Indiana Kennel club, to be held in the Jenners building in Auburn, May 20 and 21, one of the features will be the children's classes. These classes will be judged entirely on the ability of the entrants to handle dogs in the ring. The quality of the dog shown will be given no consideration. Those entering need not show their own dog but the dog handled must be regularly entered in class competition. Special ribbons in silver trophies will be awarded to the winners. Entries for these classes need not be made in advance and no entry fee will be charged. The time of judging will be announced in the regular judging program.

Window cards have been distributed covering approximately one hundred miles in all directions from Auburn and a large crowd of spectators is expected besides the exhibitors.

E. W. Leach, of Chicago, the professional superintendent, will be in Auburn all this week directing the final arrangements and the publishing of the catalogue. Local classes have been arranged and all those interested should obtain their entry blanks from the committee and make arrangements for their entry, in order to avoid a confusion at the last moment. A. K. C. rules give a choice of five classes besides the local class and it is suggested that the rules be studied carefully in order to get your dog in the proper competition. Special attention has also been given to local dogs in the premium list and many valuable premiums are offered for the best in the various breeds.

MOTHER'S DAY EVENTS

A Mother's Day program was rendered Sunday morning at the M. P. Sunday School following the lesson study, in charge of the Co-Aid class. The church was beautifully decorated by the young people, who are to be commended for their splendid work.

On Tuesday evening the class entertained their mothers at a 1 o'clock dinner at the home of Inez Kinsey. A very fine diner was prepared by the girls, also a short program was given, after which a vote of thanks was extended to the class and their teacher for their genial hospitality throughout the evening. Twenty-six members and guests were present.

STATE OF INDIANA MAY BE DRY AGAIN

Deputy Attorney General Says Voiding of Beer Law Will Automatically Return Prohibition

Indianapolis, Ind., May 15.—If Indiana's beer law should be declared unconstitutional, the state automatically will enter the "dry" column.

This was the contention of Herbert J. Patrick, deputy attorney general, contained in a brief filed by Patrick in the municipal court here today.

Patrick is defending the validity of the state beer act in connection with the case of Martin Levy, Indianapolis restauranteur, who was arrested for the sale of 3.2 beer without a state license.

After Judge Frank P. Baker of the Marion county criminal court, had held the state's beer control law unconstitutional recently, Levy put licensed beer on sale. The restaurant proprietor said at that time that beer was non-intoxicating and therefore not subject to licensing and if the authorities did not agree with him they could come and arrest him. Local police immediately arrested Levy, confiscating several cases of beer as evidence. If convicted, Levy said he would take the case to a higher court. This automatically would bring the appeal into the court of Judge Baker, who it was believed, would rule against the law again, and dismiss Levy.

In the Patrick brief listing eight counts unholding the state beer act, the deputy attorney general held the opinion that the liquor control bill itself prohibits the sale or manufacture of beer except under the restrictions and regulations made by the state excise director. For this reason, Patrick contends, if the beer control provisions are strictly out, nothing remains except prohibition clauses, thus making the state dry once more.

WANTS PROPERTY CONVYED

A demand that Frank Silberg be compelled to convey to her by assignment a cottage at Cold Springs, Hamilton, is made by Mary Zimmer in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court. The plaintiff says that on February 4, 1933, she and the defendant entered into a written agreement whereby the defendant promised to convey the cottage to her three days later and that in consideration therefore she conveyed to Arch and Bessie Cook a tract of land in Wilmington township. Ralph J. Miller of Fort Wayne, is the plaintiff's attorney.

TO SETTLE ESTATE

The late Pernetta A. Steward of Spencerville, by her will admitted to probate in the DeKalb circuit court, bequeathed $500 each to three sons, Arthur, George and Frank. The residue of the estate is left to these three children and two others, Ernest Steward and Mrs. Hazel Roberts. Mrs. Steward stated that another son, Clarence, had already received his share of the estate. Ernest Steward and Clyde G. Rectenwall were nominated in the will for executors. The instrument was executed June 2, 1928, with Wm. G. Erick and G. M. Shutt as witnesses.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

MAY-TIME menus will include such appetizing dishes as roast veal, chicken pot pie, new potatoes, fresh peas and delicious pies made from fresh rhubarb and fresh strawberries combined, served with good old fashioned cheese.

You will find very good values this week in lamb and veal and there is a variety of fish to choose from including blue pike and fresh shrimp.

At this season of the year, before fresh vegetables from nearby gardens are abundant, it's wise to take advantage of the canned products. Canned tomatoes, lima beans, string beans, and red kidney beans are inexpensive right now.

This week's Sunday Dinner Menus planned by the Quaker Maid Kitchen are real May-time menus and take advantage of seasonable foods which are plentiful this week—and therefore inexpensive

SPENCERVILLE BOY SCOUTS ACTIVE

The Spencerville Boy Scouts have been very active since the close of school on an inter-patrol contest which continues during the month of May. The troop is divided into two patrols and points are awarded for patrol accomplishments. Each patrol is to make a totem pole, a knot board, and to perform four minor civic "Good Turns" during this month. The Buffalo patrol under the leadership of Warren Rectenwall have finished a minor good turn by cleaning up the street at the side of the old butcher shop and a major "Good Turn" by placing six waste baskets painted an attractive green color along the business section of town. It is hoped that the townspeople will cooperate in the use of them and help make our community a cleaner place. The Fox Patrol, under the leadership of Fred Steward have cleaned up the outside of the Community Hall and promise that their major "Good Turn" which is not yet finished will be equal or better than the one done by the Buffalo Patrol.

The Buffalo Patrol is composed of Scouts Warren Rectenwall, William Erick, Dick Kimes and Dallas Zimmerman. The Fox Patrol includes Fred Steward, Lee Chapman and Wayne Shook. Rev. Howard Brown is the Scoutmaster and Lynn Fisher and Gerry Gloyd are the Assistant Scoutmasters. Walter Baker, Clyde Rectenwall and Ralph Furnish make up the Troop Committee.

ANGOLA STATION BURNED

The New York Central station at Angola burned early Sunday morning. No one had been in the building since early Saturday evening, and when the fire was discovered it had gained such headway that the efforts of the department were futile in trying to save the building. The station was considered one of the finest on the branch line.

Local Briefs

The water in the river is receding rapidly and clam diggers resumed their work Monday.

Miss Jean Ridgway and Miss Eloise Coburn were the week-end guests of Homer Miller and family at Hicksville.

Appropriate Mother's Day programs were observed in every church in the community Wonder when father will have his day?

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Liens and son of near Avilla, Floyd and Lawrence Pflaumer and Miss Irene Wente, of Urbana, Ohio, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pflaumer and family.

Production of 800,000 Indiana license plates for 1934 was started Monday at the state prison at Michigan City. The tags will have white figures and a dark blue background.

Al W. Hosinski, judge of the South Bend municipal court, will take over the duties of Dr. E. O. Hall of Auburn, who has served as United States marshal in the Indiana District since 1929. Dr. Hall's term expired on April 29, this year.

Mother's Day was appropriately observed at the Lutheran Church Sunday morning, the program being in charge of Miss Lucille Curic's class. The Sunday School lesson was taught by Rev. J. N. Scholes. The class is to be congratulated in their efforts.

A new form of carbon, known as activated carbon, a pound of which will remove any undesirable tastes and odors from 100,000 gallons of city water, has been perfected and is now being used in the purification of water in a number of American cities.

Considerable sport has been enjoyed the past week in catching carp that inhabited the back waters in the low lands along the river. Devere Woodcox forked two at one time and Clay Coburn shot a large one with bow and arrow and it was not found until the next day. Many others were caught.

Miss Marjorie Gee is visiting her mother at Hicksville.

Mrs. Wash Woodcox, Mrs. Geo. Milliman and Mrs. W. H. Randall are on the sick list.

Eugene and Berwick Carper, of Auburn, Floyd Werner and Walter Cook of Spencerville, were Sunday dinner guests in the Foster Gee home, helping to celebrate the birthdays of Kathaleen and Walter Gee.

"To sell drink for a livelihood is bad enough, but for a whole community to share the responsibility and guilt of such a traffic seems a worse bargain than that of Eve or Judas."—Horace Greeley.

Scarcely recovered from the disastrous March flood, hundreds of families were forced to move from their homes again as the Ohio river overflowed its banks for the second time this year after the heaviest rainfall ever recorded at Cincinnati in a 24-hour period totaling 5.5 inches.

The total precipitation for the week ending Sunday, May 14, according to readings at the government station by Paul Ullman of Auburn, the custodian, was 1.77 inches. From May 1 to 7 inclusive the readings showed 2.78 inches and for the month so far, 4.55 inches, an unusual record for 14 days.

Paul Hadsell, wife and children of Muncie, were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. Inez Hadsell.

A copy of the new acts of the Indiana general assembly containing 1392 pages has been presented The News by County Clerk Carl Walter.

Mrs. Viola Smith, of Leipsic, Ohio, and son, Geo. M. Smith, of Houston, Texas, were week-end guests in the J. E. Foltz and J. P. Buckingham homes.

Can your range do this

COOK AN ENTIRE MEAL WITHOUT SOILING THE BOTTOM OF THE PAN

An Electric Range cooks with a clean, flameless heat which never soot-blackens the bottom of pots and pans. After cooking innumerable meals, you can wipe the bottom of the pan with a freshly laundered towel without the least danger of soiling it. This same cleanliness protects your walls, the woodwork, and the curtains, not only in the kitchen but throughout the house.

It is the wasted heat from the flaming fuel stoves that makes the kitchen stuffy during the hot summer days. Free yourself from this heat, so needlessly enervating, in the hot days so soon to come.

Let us show you how simple, accurate, and economical an Electric Range can be for you. See the new 1933 models now on display in our showrooms and select the range that best fits your home.

ANGOLA SPEAKERS DRAW GOOD CROWD

Those who attended the meeting, in the interest of drydom, held in the Christian Church, Thursday evening of last week, were well repaid by hearing two able addresses by Judge Clyde C. Carlin, and Maurice McClew, both of Angola.

As the speakers were somewhat late, due to a mishap to their car, it was suggested that the meeting be begun, until the speakers arrival. Vern Sparks, one of the dry delegates from DeKalb county, and Jesse Flemming, chairman of the county dry forces, outlined the purpose of the meeting, and spoke words of encouragement for those who love the cause of righteousness and sobriety.

Maurice McClew was the first of the two principal speakers, to present many valid reasons for the retention of the 18th Amendment in our Constitution. He dwelt particularly on the fact, that it devolves upon all who wish the attainment of this object, to vote against ratification of the proposed new amendment.

Judge Carlin followed, and in a most forcible manner, left nothing to be desired in the presentation of this most important question.

Judge Carlin's manner of presenting this most burning question, is most impressive, his arguments are invincible, incontrovertible, his earnestness, his friendly manner win him many friends. We feel sure that good will result from the efforts of these good men in our midst.

THREE DAYS FOR GENERAL CLEAN-UP

As announced last week, the town board had decided to urge upon its residents to cooperate in a general clean-up program to run for the three remaining days of this week.

It is the purpose to help clear away rubbish of all kinds that can be placed at the alley of your home, if put in boxes or containers, so that the men will not need to collect it in any way from the premises. This generous offer should have the support of every citizen, and if you will follow this suggestion, your trash will be hauled away.

Under this drive, it is not the intent to haul away a year's accumulation of ashes at town expense, but the men will take care of it if you wish, after they have completed their work for the town.

Your trash must be in readiness as they are not authorized to make additional trips to collect from any one residence.

No person need take offense at this clean-up campaign. Marshal Chas. Cochran is doing every thing he can to get the people to fall in line with the program of the board to make St. Joe look spic and span.

A well kept yard, lot, garden, or road side is an asset to any town, and this year St. Joe wants to look her best. Make a survey of your place and see whether or not you can make it better in appearance, with just a little work.

Keep a watch for the truck on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Memorial Day Services To Draw Large Crowd

St. Joe Boy of Former Years to Address Old Friends, Chas. Donaldson of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

American Legion Band Plays

Plans for the observance of Memorial Day on Tuesday, May 30th, are practically completed. The program calls for the decorating of graves in Bear Creek, Morr and Jenkins cemeteries in the morning, followed by services at Coburntown with program about 10:30, C. D. T. Services at St. Joe will begin on the streets with a concert by the DeKalb County American Legion Band, following at about 2:30 with a miscellaneous program at the Community Gym, followed by grand march to cemetery and services there. The services of Charles Donaldson, a former St. Joe boy, and now President of the Toledo Plate Glass Co., have been secured as speaker at the Gym.

All civic organizations are to consider themselves invited to take part in the march to the cemetery. It is hoped that there will be a good turnout of the community at these services. All ex-service men are requested to turn out, either in uniform or not as they see fit. All arrangements are in charge of the "Veterans Community Memorial Association."

The complete details of the program will be in the hands of the chairman, and could not be secured at this time.

Everyone is asked to decorate with flags along their curb on Main Street and also those on other streets of our town. There will be many visitors here that day, and anything you might do will add to their feeling of welcome home for this day.

A PACKED HOUSE

A packed house at Coburntown Church, heard the stirring address by Larry Brandon, of Auburn, in defense of the 18th Amendment, Sunday night, and also enjoyed the music by the colored singers from Garrett. Mr. Brandon did himsef justice in presenting his defense in such a pleasant and authoritative way. People from many miles around were present. Clyde Hart presided. The speaker was introduced by J. N. Scholes.

YOUNG CONCORD MAN MARRIED

Clifton L. Draggoo, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Draggoo, of Concord, and Fern Augusta Taylor, 18, of Auburn, were married Thursday night, late at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. V. O. Harrold. The young couple will reside at Concord with the groom's parents and Clifton will work with his father.

The young couple has the best wishes of their many friends.

The deadline for buying intangible tax stamps is May 28.

Loss of postal receipts at Hicksville places that office in third class and, of course, will mean a reduction in salary.

Four of Five Leaders Last Year Are Back in Indianapolis Race on May 30

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Four of the first five finishers in the record breaking 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway last year will be in the competition again May 30.

They are Fred Frame, winner; Howard Wilcox, second; Cliff Bergere, third, and Russell Snowberger, fifth. The late Bob Carey, fatally injured in a practice warm-up recently is the missing pilot.

Frame is a skillful veteran and steady driver who has the opportunity to accomplish what no driver has done before, win two consecutive 500-mile races. Tommy Milton, only two-time winner in 20 years, won in 1921 and skipped a year to win again in 1928. Wilcox is a hard driving youngster. Bergere is an old timer who will be up on a factory entry and Russell Snowberger, ex-blacksmith, is the driver-mechanic who pointed the way for a return to semi stock car racing at Indianapolis.

With such a skilled field, reduction in general admission prices and legal beer in the speedway grounds, a record crowd is expected.

New Beer Will Cheer a Milwaukee Race Driver

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Frank Brisko of Milwaukee will feel more at home as he pilots a car in the annual 500-mile race here this year—beer will be sold at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Brisko is a garage owner in the town which brew made famous but he is known about the racing strips as an exalted second hand dealer in expensive racing automobiles. An excellent mechanic, Brisko is always on hand with a check book when some valuable creation crashes or fails to live up to the hopes of its owners. He spends his time between the Indianapolis races tinkering about with his racing museum and always emerges early in May with good mounts.

This year he has entered two cars for the May 30 classic. A four wheel drive Miller-powered car which was in the experimental stages last year, which he will drive himself and he will trust his favorite front wheel drive to another capable pilot.

His followers from Milwaukee will cheer him on with steins of cold beer.

President Roosevelt was born January 30, 1882. He is, therefore, not old enough to remember the ancient greenback discussion, to say nothing of having had a hand in it. Profiting by the experience of others, he does not propose to be set down in history as a "greenbacker." Strictly speaking, a greenback is a United States note, backed by a Treasury reserve. Popularly and loosely regarded, a greenback may not have so firm a foundation. It is the President's view that the plans of the government for putting business on its feet should not rest on a greenback basis. Bond issues are preferred, with new taxes to take care of them. The federal sales tax has a strong backing. One wonders who is going to have the say as to the form which new taxes will take. If Mr. Roosevelt cares to assume responsibility, the matter will be disposed of promptly. If the decision is left to Congress, there will be plenty of debate and deliberation, and specialists on money will have something to write about for some time to come.

The idea that someone ought to be kicked out of a Washington job, in order to give the other fellow a chance, has gained considerable headway of late. One of its ramifications was a provision in the independent offices supply bill to the effect that federal workers from states having more than their quota, were to be released. The Senate has stricken that provision from the measure, after the House had approved it, and the House will have to go over the matter again. What will happen there is a matter of conjecture. Without going into the merits of the case, laying off government employees was a popular notion at the start. It did not sit so well when it turned out that those to be discharged were sure to be "folks back home" to the legislators.

A man charged, at a widely-described criminal trial, with defrauding a woman in connection with ransom money in the Lindbergh kidnapping, embellished his testimony with details that sounded like a fairy tale. It is said that a new trial will be asked for if it can be proven that the jury heard the radio comments of Mr. Will Rogers on what the prisoner said in his own defense. Probably the jury thot that the nationally-known humorist was a little irked over unfair competition as an entertainer, and let it go at that.

Some remarks made by Mr. Hitler have thrown a snare into our friends across the Atlantic, and England sees Europe on the verge of war. It is frequently stated that the race of men has deteriorated in stamina since the days when the Romans fought bare-legged in the frozen swamps, or the time when the Norsemen regarded the beginning of a sea voyage of a thousand miles in a small open boat simply as part of a day's work. If Mr. Hitler's words really mean that he wants more war, there must be a good many sturdy men left somewhere. What Mr. Hitler actually did was to indulge in a little old-time Watch on the Rhine talk, of the patriotic variety heard in this country on Decoration Day, the Fourth of July, Confederate Memorial Day and similar occasions. The average American would have thought himself entirely competent to deal with the incident himself, without the aid of the Department of State, and would have passed it off with the observation that Hitler had made a good speech.

The President's proposal for the ending of War is his most important document having a distinctly world-wide significance. It has been looked upon favorably, in principle by many nations, and has received warm commendation by a few. For some time to come, the tendering of good offices in the direction of averting war will continue to be casting pearls before swine, but the discredit for the incomplete success such moves will be chargeable to the swine, and not to the pearls, or to the person who casts them. Geographically, the United States has few foreign contacts, and oceans separate that country from most of those who might become its enemies. War seems less of a necessity here than abroad. The countries of Europe have exposed land margins. Armies are within easy walking distance of each other. Proximity produces continual fear and toe-treading. Peace suggestions come naturally from America. They are not accepted naturally in many other quarters.

FORT WAYNE RAIDS

Fort Wayne is becoming a minitaure Chicago, as regards the crime of racketeering, but the gentle art of hi-jacking, need not occasion any alarm among her law abiding citizenry; for, in her case, the brigands are confining their operations to the lifting and robbing of slot machines. Now, slot machines are not recognized as being legitimate property, and owners of same are not protected by law; therefore, owners of these machines must rely mostly on their own personal valor, to prevent the forcible confiscation of their illegal property.

To demand police protection of this property, would place the owner in the same position as a bootlegger, who would ask protection of his illegal forty rod moonshine, from whiskey hi-jackers.

This, while no honest citizen will condone crime in any form, he will, however, upon reflection, note that even crime itself has its amusing aspects.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SPEND

The public has grown weary of the old slogans to the effect that "Prices are booming! Buy now!" etc. But there's truth in those phrases at present.

Recent inflation activities and the prospective change in the gold backing of the dollar, will be the most powerful price stimulant in three years. It really is time to buy now!

Best of all, by buying now, and building and repairing now, you can do your bit in the most dramatic stage of the war against unemployment and distress and at the same time secure the greatest return on your dollar in more than a generation.

A dollar in property improvment means a dollar touching the lives of a thousand people—and doing a thousand dollars' work. Repair the steps, paint the house, remove fire hazards, renovate the garden, renew rotting foundations with concrete—do any of these things, and you'll be a factor in the work of recovery.

It is not prophecy to say that in your lifetime you'll never have the opportunity to get work done as cheaply as now. It's fact. The price structure is abnormally low. It is lower than even the intenseness of depression justifies. As demand increases, the rate of climb will be sharply accelerated.

Remember that providing jobs is cheaper than charity—and that it's better to provide a job now than to have to contribute to charity next year. Remember, too, that unless the jobs are provided it won't be long until nothing is left for charity.

AS WE SEE IT

eFrom the time that our earth became a part of the cosmos; flung from the hand of Omnipotence; until the present age, it perhaps would be rash, to state that a time ever existed, when, from a social point of view, greater perils beset the race, than in the living present.

It would, perhaps, be just as rash, to assert that the present time presents greater perils than the world heretofore been called to meet.

Every age has its own problems; to each generation is presented difficulties which must be surmounted. We learn our lessons through the school of experience, if we fail to profit by the mistakes of our forbears. If by careful study and close analysis me discern these mistakes, and conscientiously apply the lessons learned thereby; lessons that should be a guide to our feet, we could minimize the dangers a thousand fold.

For years, this, and other nations have been confronted with the problem of strong drink.

The Scriptures abound in warnings against its seductive influences.

We have, in the past, temporized, compromised, tried out many expedients, and, in the face of heavy opposition on the part of crafty, greedy, licentious and bestial gluttons, were successful in placing an amendment in our Constitution, making the manufacture, sale, importation and exportation of intoxicating liquors a felony.

Among those agencies who were instrumental in giving us the 18th Amendment, we name the Prohibition Party, the W. C. T. U., the Anti-Saloon League and Christian men and women of the Protestant faith.

When it was first proposed to abolish the saloon and its attendant evils, through the election of men in a political party dedicated to this end, we were told that Christians must not enter politics with this question. "Give us a chance to vote on this issue alone, and we will vote dry," said many an old party man. Now, this opportunity will be given all legal voters on June 6. You will be given a chance to make good your promise, we'll see if you are true blue or just a cheap bluffer.

You may say your party obligations transcend your spiritual allegiance. God made the world and all that dwell thereon. Man, made parties. If you want Indiana to occupy the exalted and honorable position she has always held in the sisterhood of states, you will vote against ratification of the proposed new amendment. Think seriously before you vote to undo all the work of years, by repeal of the 18th Amendment. There is nothing, absolutely nothing, to prevent the open saloon in Indiana, if this safeguard is taken away. This we say in spite of all wet propaganda to the contrary. So bold and cocksure, are the wets, that in some quarters, they openly boast of the saloons return. Are you ashamed to be on the side of right? Are you one of the rabble who shout "Crucify him, crucify him! ?" Listen to this:

"Then to side with truth is noble
When we share her wretched crust;
Ere her cause bring fame and profit
And 'tis prosperous to be just."

SUIT ON CONTRACT FILED IN CIRCUIT COURT

A suit on a contract has been filed in the DeKalb circuit court by Dorwin Yerks and Glenn H. Lake against Benjamin O. and Winifred L. Shook.

The complaint, prepared by Attorney Dan M. Link, says that on August 23, 1930, the defendants gave Clark W. Poberts a contract for five years to dip and sell gravel from real estate in Spencer township and that with the consent of the defendants the contract was assigned to the plaintiffs July 27, 1932. By the terms of contract, the defendants were to receive one-third of the proceeds of the sale of gravel.

However, say the plaintiffs, the defendants ousted them from the premises May 11 and have since refused them access to the property. It is also stated that the defendants converted to their own use 300 yards of washed gravel valued at $120 and that the plaintiffs have $240 invested in the pit.

The court is asked to award damages of $500 and to enter an order restraining the defendants from interfering with the plaintiffs in the operation of the pit.

RESTAURANT TO OPEN

The small I. O. O. F. building west of Hurni's Store, is now being put in shape by Roy Wade for a restaurant and soft drink parlor. He expects to be ready to open the last of the week. This will make St. Joe three eating places. Mrs. Mary Betz, who has long been in business here and Mrs. Blanch Leighty, who recently opened the Dew Drop Inn, making the other two.

REPORT OF COUNTY NURSE FOR MONTH OF APRIL

During the month of April the Nurse made 27 visits to schools, 15 revisits to classrooms. 333 children were inspected, 30 mothers were present. 146 children had vision defects, 16 were found hard of hearing, 145 were advised to visit dentists, 16 had some throat trouble, 20 were suffering from malnutrition, 5 had speech defects, 10 were very nervous. 10 visits were made to school children, 30 classroom talks and demonstrations were given. 10 corrections were made for vision, 40 for teeth, 21 speech defects under care of teacher. Six individual letters and 22 cards were written, 20 calls made in behalf of general activities, 30 office interviews concerning general activities, and 20 office interviews were made on behalf of patients.

A meeting of the Red Cross and Associated Charities was attended by the Nurse.

The Nurse, owing to a broken bone in her wrist, was forced to take a week's rest, then with the assistance of volunteers she carried her work as usual. Miss Vera Morr assisted for five days in the country schools, Miss Ferrier assisted one half day, Mrs. Jim Bowers and Mrs. Frank Nugen another half day and Mrs. Gosset, our Red Cross Nursing Chairman for Auburn, helped in the schools of Butler for one day.

JOHN WOODCOX WRITES FROM CAMP KNOX

Camp Knox, Kentucky.
May 21, 1933.

Dear Parents:

Well, after we left Fort Wayne we went around by Richmond and saw the Soldiers and Sailors Monument. As we had almost an hour to lay over then we took a fast train for Louisville. Then we left for the Camp, after about a half hour's delay we were taken on to Fort Knox and arrived at about 1:30 A. M. Then we ate and bunked for the night.

Sunday morning we were fed and examined again and I passed perfect, as in Fort Wayne, so I will see you next November. We left then for the camping ground and had to march around for quite a long time.

We were furnished everything but a tooth brush and we are going to go some where as soon as we all get our shots for typhoid. Can't think of much more to say today, but I will write again as soon as I can. Tell the kids I said hello. I don't suppose you can write to me as we will probably be moving most of the time, but as soon as possible I'll tell you.

Well I'll be seeing you,
John.

SEEDS FOR POULTRYMEN
Cut Your Feed Bill 1/2
Increase Egg Production

Poultry Cabbage— is a wonderful green feed for poultry and has been known to yield three tons in a space 40 by 60 feet. You can't beat this for low priced green feed. One-half pound of seed will grow enough greens to feed about 1,000 hens for 4 months; 3 pounds to an acre for 6,000 hens for 4 months. Poultry Cabbage is a rapid grower. In the Northern States the seed can be sown anytime from early spring until the middle of July. In the South seed may be sown throughout the entire year.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce— You have doubtless read in the poultry journals that lettuce is an excellent feed for chickens. In this Chisha Lettuce you will find a feed that yields as much or more than other green feeds. It is economical to grow this strain, for when cut it resumes its growth rapidly and can be cut again and again; or the leaves can be pulled off each stem like the Jersey Kale. This yield is extremely heavy. Chisha, or Chicken Lettuce, does not make a head, but sends up a stout stalk, 3 to 4 feet high, and just loaded with leaves.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Japanese Giant Poultry Radish— The Sakurijima Radish is grown extensively in Japan as a poultry feed. It is the largest variety in cultivation often attaining a weight of 15 lbs. and some grow to more than 30 lbs. Nearly round, a great curiosity and a radish of extraordinary quality. Fleshy, solid, firm and brittle, of most excellent flavor, and unsurpassed for table use. These mammoth radishes can be kept all winter, and are fine for feeding cattle and poultry.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Poultry Beet—Mangel Wurzel— Furnishes a tremendous yield per acre and makes an excellent green feed for poultry during the winter months and always increases egg production. Mangel Wurzels are excellent food for cattle and keep them in perfect physical condition and increase the flow of milk. Only a little garden space will be required for growing enough to last all winter as they are very productive. Stored in an ordinary cellar or any cool place they will keep until spring.
Pkt. 10c—Oz. 35c—¼ Lb. $1.00—Postpaid.

Mammoth Russian Sunflower— Sunflower seed is an excellent poultry feed at all times, and especially during the moulting season. Single heads often measure 12 to 24 inches in diameter and contain an immense quantity of seed.
Pkt. 10c—¼ lb. 35c—1 Lb. 60c—4 Pkts. 50c—Ounce $1.00—Postpaid.

COOK

AN ENTIRE MEAL WITHOUT SOILING THE BOTTOM OF THE PAN

An Electric Range cooks with a clean, flameless heat which never soot-blackens the bottom of pots and pans. After cooking innumerable meals, you can wipe the bottom of the pan with a freshly laundered towel without the least danger of soiling it. This same cleanliness protects your walls, the woodwork, and the curtains, not only in the kitchen but throughout the house.

It is the wasted heat from the flaming fuel stoves that makes the kitchen stuffy during the hot summer days. Free yourself from this heat, so needlessly enervating, in the hot days so soon to come.

Let us show you how simple, accurate, and economical an Electric Range can be for you. See the new 1933 models now on display in our showrooms and select the range that best fits your home.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1933 NUMBER 22

GREAT MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE

Local Organization Did Themselves Justice In Honoring Our Dead

MANY CHILDREN IN PARADE

Charles Donaldson, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, Makes Fine Address at Gym

Lowering gray clouds, and cool stiff breezes, ushered in the morning of the thirtieth, Memorial Day.

Despite the unfavorable aspects of the weather, the program as outlined in our last issue, was carried out according to schedule.

The Bear Creek, Morr and Jenkins Cemeteries were visited and after a short program, the decoration of graves of departed Civil and other war veterans followed.

At Coburn's Corners the Memorial was delivered by Rev. J. N. Scholes; after which the usual short service was given in the Alton Cemetery; together with placing of flowers on the graves of the veterans, representing three wars, War of 1812, Civil and World War. As the sun approached the meridian, the coolness of the atmosphere somewhat abated, and gave pormise of a more pleasant day.

The DeKalb County American Legion Band, which had been secured for the day, discoursed lively and snappy music on the street until the time designated for the program proper, to begin. This Band consists of Legionairres from Garrett, Auburn, Butler and adjacent towns; also, a number having no connection with this organization.

Chas. Donaldson, formerly a resident of St. Joe. now president of the Toledo Plate Glass Co., was the speaker of the day.

We feel safe in saying that no mistake was made in securing Mr. Donaldson for this occasion, and that St. Joe, cannot but be proud of the boy who once dwelt in our midst.

Perhaps no greater compliment could be paid him than to say, that so smoothly and harmoniously did he merge his topics, that one could not well subdivide them. If the organization of the Memorial Society of the North, was begun in bitterness, a better understanding exists today between those who wore the blue, and those who wore the gray. Even a Memorial window can now be dedicated to Jefferson Davis with out arousing the bitterness that once existed. Under the same environment, Northern people would have acted exactly as did their Southern brothers.

Northern and Southern generals received their military education in West Point. Grant, and Lee, who surrendered to Grant, were once bosom friends.

Just a little sober reflection upon our part, will enable us to grasp the idea presented by Mr. Donaldson, and make us admit the logic of his resentation. We are all "brothers under the skin." Kipling said, sisters; but—brothers or sisters, we know that was a thought which had the approval of the Savior of men, for "One is your master, even Christ, and all ye are brethren."

The muiscal part of the program consisted of a solo by Doris Beams of Spencerville, two numbers by our own male quartet and a flag drill by twenty girls, which concluded the program at the gum.

The line of march to the cemetery was a beautiful sight, comprising more than a hundred children beside the Legion, Band and Color Bearers.

Their usual services at the cemetery were carried out completely.

Not so many from a distance were in attendance as in former years.

The cemetery was beautifully decorated with flags, flowers and the lawn neatly cut and edges trimmed.

FORM OF BALLOT TO BE USED IN THE COUNTY OF DE KALB, STATE OF INDIANA, FOR PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

Delegates to the convention to ratify the proposed amendment.

COOK—GEE

Walter Cook, 19, farmer of south of Spencerville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O. Cook, and Kathaleen Gee, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster N. Gee, of St. Joe, were united in marriage Saturday at noon, at the home of the Rev. Walter Hollopeter, south of Auburn. The groom is working for Glen Hollopeter and he takes his bride there until through with his contract. The young folks have the best wishes of their large circle of friends.

Children's Day program will be given at Coburntown Sunday night and the public is invited to attend.

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT ST. JOE

Revival meetings wil be conducted in the St. Joe High School Gymnasium, beginning Sunday morning, June 4, and will be held every evening, but Monday evening at 7:00, Central Standard Time, for the following two weeks. These services are being held in the interest of St. Joe and the surrounding community. Prof. C. A. Gerber, instructor of music in the Fort Wayne Bible Institute will have charge of the music for this series of meetings, and he will also give the evangelistic messages assisted by Rev. V. O. Harrold. Mr. Gerber is a very interesting speaker and a talented singer. Everyone is asked to help with his prayers and attendance. On Sunday, June 4, a young men's quartet from Fort Wayne, will also add to the interest of the day's morning and evening services.

ASKED TO VISIT THE NEW SOUDER HOSPITAL

The public is invited to visit the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital anytime, now that redecorating and housecleaning have been completed. This hospital did not observe National Hospital Day for the reason that some changes were being made, but now, instead of the visiting day established as a national feature, the hospital will be thrown open to the public for a general inspection.

A new corps of registered nurses has been secured and they will be glad to show visitors through the various parts of the building, the wards, operating room and the kitchen.

The Souder hospital will continue to operate day and night as in the past.

See their ad on another page of this paper.

CHILD DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID

Lee Rude, 5, son of Orin Rude and wife of Concord, was in a serious condition Monday afternoon from drinking carbolic acid. The youngster had been put to bed for the afternoon, but he got up and found some medicine stored in a box, and drank it. The mother heard him crying and the youngster showed her the bottle of acid. As the acid was old, it had lost its strength, thus saving the life of the youngster. Today he is reported much improved.

TALKING PICTURES

Talking pictures will be shown on the street in St. Joe each Wednesday evening for at least three weeks, sponsored by the business men, and should the attraction prove worth while, may be continued.

Spencerville has movies on Friday nights.

MOUDY TALKS ON 18th AMENDMENT

On Thursday evening of last week, a number of people gathered at the Christian Church to listen to Alfred Moudy, on the most vital issue of the day; the question of whether we are to retain the 18th Amendment in our Constitution, or repeal it by ratifying the proposed new Amendment.

Space will not permit the mention of all the good and logical things said by Mr. Moudy, but we will enumerate a few. We have all heard of the excessive drinking of hard liquors by college students. Wet propagandists have shed many crocodile tears over this alleged drinking.

The speaker read testimonials from the heads of the best known colleges, that, in spite of all the obstacles placed in the way of college youth, by wet sympathizers there has been a decided falling off of drunkenness in colleges. A leading coach gave exactly the same testimony. Wets have always been noted for their pleas for temperance. As far as temperance in the way of liquor is concerned, " it means exactly the same as total abstainance," says Mr. Moudy. There is, nowhere in Scripture, any warrant for the temperate use of strong drink. "Touch not, taste not, handle not the vile thing," is the admonition of the Scriptures.

In other words, "Be ye temperate in all things," means, all things that are allowable, not forbidden. "In my opinion," continued Mr. Moudy, discussing a different phase of the subject, "Congress committed an act of nullification when it legalized the beer bill." Had Mr. Moudy said, without uttering the words, "In my opinion," the very same words he did say, he would be wholly justified, for it is the truth.

How the brewers and distillers expect to revive their old trade was ably illustrated, "Even in peak times," when this industry was at its best, (or worst,) the revenue from its sales would be but a mere pittance toward balancing the budget of today. How are we going to revive that old trade of drunkard making?

By advertising "by suggestion, by suggestion, by suggestion!" The newspapers, the radio, every agency open to tell you "it's good, it's good, it's good." Smiling faces of our president, Al Smith and others, great and near great, with foaming steins of beer in their hands, stare at you from the printed page.

Yes, the coming generations, children, your children must be educated to believe "it's good," so the demand will be great enough to raise the revenue this government must have, then our pampered millionaires can have relief from the burden of taxation. These, in substance, are the words of Mr. Moudy, if not the exact words, closely approximating them.

Near the close of his address, the speaker held up a sample ballot to be used on June 6th, pointing to the first or left hand column, he said, "to vote for ratification you vote here, in the first column; to vote for the retention of the 18th Amendment, and against ratification of the new Amendment, you vote in the middle or second column, if you do not like the names of the two delegates your side has chosen, write the names of the candidiate you want in the third or right column, and state under the names you have written, whether they are wet or dry."

"This third column business was gotten up by the wets to fool the drys, cause them to write in names and split their vote." But we are going to fool them; don't write any names on your ballot, vote the middle column, and you vote against ratification, and to retain the 18th Amendment in our Constitution."

Mr. Moudy made an earnest and rousing appeal for a dry vote on June 6th at the close of a very interesting and instructive address.

Do Housework SHADOWS

Haunt YOU?

If you do your housekeeping in out-of-date ways that squander time, youth, and health, thoughts of housework lurk in your mind even during hours of leisure. Thoughts of what you meant to do in the morning, but just didn't get done. Thoughts of tasks ahead which you know will be long and tiresome. Such thoughts are black intruders in otherwise pleasant moments. Dispel them by letting Electricity take care of the hard part of your housework.

There is hardly a household task—from doing the weekly laundry to making the breakfast toast which Electricity cannot miraculously shorten and lighten. And for the services it performs so dexterously Electricity asks its wages in pennies only.

In the showrooms of your Electrical Dealer you will find the Electrical appliances you want on display. Now is the time to buy when prices are lower than ever.

Double Beds Still Popular as Ever

San Francisco. — Despite the trend of modern times and independent ideas, double beds have retained their popularity among housewives, a department store survey revealed.

More than 5,000 San Francisco women were questioned on the matter and 45 per cent of them were in favor of the old-fashioned bed, while 37 per cent preferred twin beds.

The remaining 28 per cent couldn't make up their minds.

Wyoming Indians Given Buffalo Meat for Food

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—From near extinction to such numbers that Indians and relief agencies have been donated surplus animals for their meat supply, is the history of the Yellowstone park buffalo herd, now totaling more than 1,000 animals.

In 1902 official figures listed but 1,676 buffalo in the world. Emerson Hough, after a winter inspection trip, said there were but 22 of the animals in the park. That year funds were obtained for establishment of a protected herd, and by 1926 there were 764 buffalo in the park.

Careful feeding, strict enforcement of protective rules, and even vaccinations were required to develop the herd. In 1912, 1919, and 1922 a blood poisoning disease threatened to wipe out the herd, but vaccinations counteracted the epidemic, and since that time no serious outbreaks have taken place.

The herd now has reached such security that park authorities each year cull out the infirm, weak, and undersized animals, slaughter them, and give the meat to Indians, or relief agencies.

Another Mountain Joins Alaska's "Jack-in-Boxes"

Islands Play "Now You See Me, Now You Don't."

Washington.—Another mountain has joined the "Jack-in-the-boxes" off Alaska. Augustine island in Kamishak bay, an indentation of Cook inlet, is reported to have been the most recent island to present an act after the old stage formula, "now you see me, now you don't."

"When an Alaskan island seven miles in diameter and nearly 4,000 feet high erases itself from the map, it is front-page news everywhere except in Alaska," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "Alaskan residents know that the volcanoes along a part of the territory's seacoast have done strange things in the past. They can easily believe that a beautiful, cone-shaped mountain of today may be jagged peak tomorrow, or that an island of this month may be beneath the waves when the next moon shines.

Plays Hide and Seek.

"Bogoslof of the Aleutian islands, which belong to the same chain of volcanoes as Augustine, is famous for its jack-in-the-box activities. The island was discovered in 1790 but its strange habits were not known until nearly a century later. At first Bogoslof was a single island. Then suddenly appeared a companion island which its discoverers called Fire island. They were joined by a narrow strip of land.

"In 1900 the American navy reported that the 'hyphen' had disappeared and two unattached islands appeared above the water. In 1905 a new peak appeared at Bogoslof, thus adding another bit of land to Alaska, to which Bogoslof belongs. Two years later, however, Alaska's territory was diminished when McCullock peak of Bogoslof disappeared, leaving a splendid harbor. Since, another peak has also disappeared in the sea.

"A nearer neighbor of Augustine than Bogoslof, however, is Mount Katmai, on the Alaska peninsula, whose explosion in 1912 was one of the most tremendous in history. Instead of sinking, it 'blew its head off.' Two cubic miles of mountain top were blown away. Some of the debris was scattered over hundreds of square miles of nearby land and sea; but a large portion disappeared, being blown to dust and ash which was hurled into the upper air and then whisked away by winds even to the far side of the earth.

"Though the inhabitants of the United States were unaware of the great explosion of Mount Katmai, they felt its effects, one of which was the cold, damp summer of 1912, caused by the interception of sunlight by dust from the eruption. Even the clear, cloudless sky of the Sahara desert region was overcast.

"Fortunately Katmai was remote from congested population centers. If the explosion had occurred in New York city, the sulphurous fumes would have polluted the air as far west as the Rockies and the noise would have reverberated like an artillery duel across the central states.

"An area around Mount Katmai, half again larger than Delaware, was covered with a foot or more of ash—enough to destroy all but the most hardy plants.

"Garden of Fireworks."

"'America's Garden of Fireworks,' as Alaska's volcanic region has been called, also includes the famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, a volcanic phenomenon which has been carefully explored by expeditions of the National Geographic society. The valley lies near Mount Katmai. For a number of years after the Katmai explosion millions of columns of steam ascended from the valley floor. The steam jets are fewer now. The fumaroles, or vents, through which the steam escaped, disclosed encrustations of great beauty, variety, and color. There were masses of bright yellow sulphur, chunks of ash turned red and blue, and pure white encrustations of silicious material.

"Explorers of the valley cooked meals over the hissing jets, holding their long-handled frying pans down by main force against the uprushing steam. They found a natural bathing pool, one end cold and the other hot. President Wilson turned aside from the stress of war time to make this region a national monument."

Population Increase Is Put at 180,000 for '32

Chicago.—Population increase in the United States last year was the smallest since 1880 and the first year in more than a century in which cities did not show a gain, a report issued by the "American Journal of Sociology" disclosed. By 1940, the report predicted, the United States may have a population of only 130,000,000 and may show only a slight increase thereafter.

Rural population increased during the last year due largely to the depression, the report stated, but city population declined possibly as much as 470,000, it was estimated. The nation's population increased 180,000 last year, the report showed, a decrease of 5 per cent from 1931. Since 1923 there has been a decline of 60 per cent. If the growth continues at about 800,000 annually the rest of the decade, the report said, the population will be 131,000,000 in 1940, compared to 122,750,000 in 1930.

Mail Theft by Bluebird Foiled by Rural Carrier

McRae, Ga.—R. E. Flanagan, rural mail carrier, reports a daylight robbery of a rural mail box by a bluebird. He says when he drove up a bluebird sitting on the mail box flew away. Flanagan placed a letter in the box and drove on. As he looked back he saw the bird flying away with the letter.

The carrier stopped his car, got out and chased the bird until it dropped the letter, which he replaced in the box and weighted down to save it from another visit from the winged robber.

Tax Case Becomes Real Comedy of Errors

Taxpayer Runs Afoul of the French Bureaucracy.

Paris.—This is a sad story of a taxpayer caught in the intricate net of the French bureaucracy. Besides the taxpayer it involves the sum of five cents and a tax collector poor at arithmetic.

M. Lesueur is a Paris dealer in hides and leather. On May 8, 1932, he paid his taxes, including a tax of 79 francs, about $3, which the government imposes for each apprentice hired by business houses. Having duly paid all asked of him, M. Lesueur thought he was through for 1932, but he was soon to learn that he had only begun.

In January of this year M. Lesueur's firm was notified that the 79 franc tax had been imposed in error and would be refunded, and the refund was made at once. Then another official got hold of M. Lesueur's tax bill and decided that the 79 francs should have been paid after all, so he invited M. Lesueur to pay it again, which he did.

But early this month tax official number three entered the scene. Discovering that 79 francs imposed in May, 1932, had been paid this year, he fined M. Lesueur for being late with his taxes. Having suffered a dozen annoyances because of his good intentions, M. Lesueur decided to undergo one more, and he resignedly agreed to pay the fine.

For reasons best known to the tax collector, the fine was calculated at 10 per cent of 14 francs, 40 centimes, but at this point the arithmetic entered. Instead of demanding 1 franc 14 centimes, the tax collector asked for 15 centimes, or 1 per cent, and that was paid.

Then the error was discovered, and the tax officials have informed M. Lesueur that he owes 1 franc 29 centimes more. Now the latter feels that he has had more than enough, and he refuses to pay. Seizure of his establishment has been ordered as a consequence, though the sum is 5 cents. He says he will let the bailiff put all the padlocks he wishes on his property, and let them take it to court.

Peary's Daughter Gets Precious Relic

A tattered strip of a silken flag, a bit of the Stars and Stripes that Admiral Robert E. Peary cached in a cairn in the Far North years ago, was returned to his daughter, Mrs. Marie Ahnighto Peary Stafford, at a luncheon at the American Geographical society in New York. The photograph shows Philip W. Henry, vice president and chairman of the council, A. G. S., presenting Mrs. Stafford with the relic, as Dr. Isaiah Bowman, director of the American Geographical society, looks on.

Memories and Resolves

EACH recurring Memorial day ought to impress upon Americans anew not only an appreciation of what they owe the survivors of the fighting men of sixty years ago, whose ranks are now only a dim memory, but a determination to avoid if possible in the future every influence calculated to lead the republic into new conflicts. To the veterans of three wars—the last the bloodiest of all wars—we pay our respects, as to men who risked all for the flag they love, who struggled with fate and came forth gloriously triumphant.

Memorial day, and every other patriotic holiday, may well be dedicated to thoughts of peace present and future as well as to thoughts of wars past. We have seen the devastation and tragedy of conflict. It remains for us, as a nation devoted to the arts of husbandry and industry, so to meet the issue of the hour as to make unnecessary the repetition of such sacrifices as come to every American mind at this time.

This means striving for peace by every device approved by experience as sane. It does not mean, however, dwelling in a fool's paradise. It cannot mean that one nation shall adopt a policy of non-resistance, while the rest of the world arms. Armies and navies may become superfluous when policemen are superfluous; when, in other words, humanity has advanced to a degree of perfection not yet at hand.

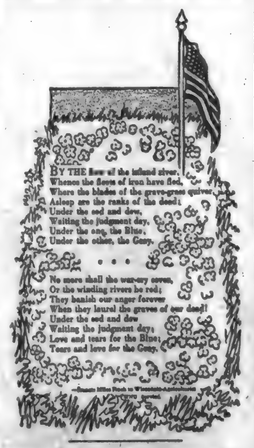
So the sun rises on another day sacred to memories undimmed by time. A day on which every American, while honoring our warriors alive and dead, should "highly resolve" that so far as his influence goes it shall be directed for the prevention of future wars.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Heroes of North and South Live in Memory

AS THE war between the states dragged out its tragic length, women in the North began decorating the steadily multiplying graves of their loved ones with the flowers that brightened the countryside. After the war the Grand Army of the Republic made the decoration of the graves of the Union dead a part of its ritual; and Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., designated May 30 for that purpose. This was the origin of "Decoration day," which is now known more appropriately as "Memorial day."

The southern states also set apart days for decorating the graves of the Confederate dead. Spring unlocks the flowers earlier down in Dixie; and because of this a number of the southernmost states hold their memorial ceremonies on April 26. The day observed in North Carolina and Kentucky is May 10, while in Tennessee it is June 3. Alone among the states that seceded, Virginia lays her floral tribute on the graves of the Gray on the same day that the graves of the Blue are decorated in the North, and the ceremonies are equally impressive. —Detroit Free Press.

THE BLUE and THE GRAY



Lee's Surrender Put an End to the Civil War

LEE surrendered to Grant at Appomatox on April 9, 1865, virtually ending the Civil war, though Johnston's army did not formally surrender until April 26 and Kirby Smith's until just a month later. If a boy of eighteen enlisted shortly before the end of the war is living today he is well beyond the span traditionally allotted to man and much farther beyond the actual average length of human life.

The Grand army is surrendering, as the Old Guard did at last. One foe, if foe he is, and one alone is too much for them.

Fight on, brave old men! Stay with us as long as you can! And when at last the odds become too great and you bow your brave old heads, know that you leave behind a nation whose heart beats high with gratitude that you kept the faith and fought the fight.

An Old Soldier

By Katherine Edelman

HE WAS an old man, with the weight of many years upon his shoulders. Yet, as he walked along the busy, crowded street, he held his head high and walked as straight and erect as a younger man. There was a quiet pride in his bearing that made itself felt by all who saw him, a sort of inward satisfaction and content that reflected itself in his face. Mingled with it, a look of half-wistful sadness was there, too, but it took a keen observer to see it.

The little pin that he wore in his coat lapel told his story. He was a soldier of his country. But this was not all that he had given—his own doing and fighting was as nothing compared to what he had given when his son went to the far-off battlefield never to return. But although it had been hard beyond telling, he had been glad when he watched him go, had been proud that another of his race was willing to give his all for his country.

Now, he was nearing the end himself—soon he would meet with those who had gone before. And he was happier than most men in the sunset of life, for he felt that he had done his duty; and more, that he had done it through love.

As he looked aloft to where old Glory fluttered in the breeze, the look of pride upon his face deepened and he whispered softly to himself: "May the little I and mine have done help others to keep you all through the years as bright and shining as you are today—as true an emblem of the cause of liberty and freedom as you are now."

Old Confederate Flag Presented to Museum

THE famous Confederate battle flag of the First Virginia regiment, made by the women of Richmond from their silk dresses, and which led the noted command from Bull Run to Gettysburg, came to the Confederate museum and now rests with other southern trophies. The museum is in the old White House of the Confederacy.

The blood-stained and battle-torn banner saw its last service in Pickett's charge at Gettysburg, when the southern troops swept up the slopes of Cemetery hill to virtual annihilation. Preserved by the late Col. Charles T. Loehr, historian and custodian of the First Virginia, the flag was presented to the museum by his children, William A. Loehr, Charles E. Loehr, Mrs. Oscar L. Kent and Mrs. Bernard L. Dickinson.

Colonel Loehr, as historian, described the fate of the flag on the day of Pickett's charge in these words:

"The color guard is dead and the color sergeant has lost his arm; our colonel lies dying on the field—the regiment lost 120 men out of about 160 who went into that charge."

Mind, as Much as Body, Needs Food

There never was a time when the importance of proper food for the body was more stressed. For years there has been scientific research into what foods are composed of in respect to the nutritive elements they supply. These elements are divided into differing classifications from time to time, but always the nourishing values are given significance. The health of the body in its material form is fostered.

Since the mind is a vital element of the substantive existence, it, too, requires proper nourishment. It can fall into a decline which is no less regretable than when the physique weakens. The reactionary harmful or helpful influence of the mind over the body is reputed, after research, to be far greater than the reverse effects of health or illness of body on the mind. From this it is easy to see that providing proper food for the mind is no less important than providing proper edibles for the physical body.

In speaking of the mind, the word is used in its broad sense and includes the spirit, since it is the combination which forms the immaterial elements, which though not tangible are no less potent. Electricity is not tangible yet no one denies its wondrous power, of such magnitude it is awe-inspiring. Neither does anyone deny the existence of mind nor its influence for good.

In order to preserve well-rounded good health, both physical food and mental are essential. The latter cannot be neglected. The mind must feed on wholesome food, and digest it well so that its vigorous vitality can exercise its potent influence for good on the material body. Proper mental nourishment should be partaken of so that courage, good cheer, happiness, and all the best spiritual qualities can strengthen nerves and sinews in pleasant ways.

Does the question arise, how can I supply the mind with good food? If so, here are some good diets. Fortunately they are pleasant to digest. The first is, think good thoughts, for "As a man thinketh, so is he." Put the best construction on actions of others. It tends toward personal peace, without which mind and body are disturbed. Read fine books, fine in the sense of excellence of ideas, those which stimulate the thoughts and nourish the better side of your nature, or which create a hunger and thirst for more knowledge of history, travel, biographies of noble men, nobly treated, the wonders of nature in flowers, zoology, astronomy, or whatever appeals most to your own individuality.

But above all, seek the food that feeds spiritual growth. It may be through companionship with persons of high character, or through books, contemplation or thinking and believing the best.

Lest We Forget

MEMORIAL day is one of memories and dedicated to those we lost—a day on which to remember, lest we forget. The urge to mark the grave one has left undesignated should and does become strong at this time. In most instances this is the last gesture of love and respect for those who have gone.

The "Bloody Angle" May 12, 1864

"MEN fought from the top of heaps of dead men, till their own bodies were added to the pile and others came to take their places. Not a tree or a sapling was left alive and standing. One tree, nearly two feet in diameter, was literally cut in two by musket balls." So the historian Elson speaks of the fighting in the "Bloody Angle" at the battle of Spottsylvania, May 12, 1864. "The battle," he goes on, "was one of the most tremendous of modern times. Had it continued another day, it would have surpassed Gettysburg. Neither side won. The losses, about the same on each side, footed up the frightful total of 36,000 men."

The "Bloody Angle," which Elson describes, is known to British military historians as the Salient. It was an almost octagonal bulge in Lee's battle line, protecting Spottsylvania Court House. Manned by the remnants of Stonewall Jackson's veteran "foot cavalry," it was overwhelmed when Hancock's federals swept over the breastworks in the mists of dawn. Disordered by the excitement of their own success, the Union forces were at once attacked and reattacked by Lee. The result was the deadliest fighting of the Civil war. And from it came Grant's stubborn message to Washington. "I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer."

Orderly furrows have replaced the ominous breastworks in some parts of the battlefront, and farm produce is growing where once death swept by. Yet a great part of the "Bloody Angle" field is marked almost as clearly as on the day when thousands of valiant men were killed within and on either side of the sector. The trenches, which were partly filled and which later served as the burying ground for thousands, still are plainly visible.

Trees have grown up in the years that have passed, but they have served only to lend a softening touch to the view of the row of rifle pits in advance of the front line, the ammunition holes, the supporting trenches and the gun emplacements which General Lee built when Spottsylvania Court House was the wedge in the Federal line held by the Confederates.

At the tip of this wedge now stand three small granite monuments as tributes to the bravery of the New York, New Jersey and Ohio regiments that were mowed down by buckshot and minie balls from the guns of Lee's men.

The "Bloody Angle," is now a peaceful breastwork covering four acres, and has been given to the United States by Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stuart of Philadelphia. Through their generosity it becomes, therefore, what it should be, a part of America's holy ground.—New York Evening Post.

The Plan That—

By DUFORD JONES

©, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

"MY DEAR, you won't do anything like that!" Margery said, smiling tenderly into the flushed face above hers.

"But I am going to marry you, though—"

"Stanley, boy, I'm just as determined to have you, but it is better if when we are married we leave no unhappiness behind us. I know just how your mother feels about your marrying the daughter of an ordinary factory worker. Your mother has lived all her life among lovely, pleasant, cultured things, and she has a right to feel that I am somewhat crude and—"

He swung her from her feet and kissed her. "No more of that. Mother is obstinate as a—a—"

Margery freed herself. "Don't you be the same. Listen, my dear, let's think it over; then if we fail, we'll—we'll just do it."

He smiled with relief. "All right, then, honey, but you'll have to do the thinking. But I'll give you just two weeks—and then I'm going to grab you and run away with you—family or no family."

The plan that had popped into Margery's head while they were talking over the situation looked a bit desperate, but as she told herself, "Desperate cases call for desperate remedies." She talked the plan over with her father. He laughed and then looked serious.

"Little girl, your second name as I've told you is Mischief, but go ahead. I have faith in you. If it doesn't work, nothing will be lost," he agreed.

From that moment Margery worked with speed. Stanley had said in passing that his mother's companion, Miss Knapp, was getting through; so Margery hastened to see her.

"I'll help you. The old lady is a fearful old aristocrat. I had enough of her, and I doubt your luck; but, anyway, I'll recommend you for my position," Miss Knapp agreed.

So it came about that Margery, late that week, walked into the fine Landon mansion and was interviewed and hired. She then planned to tell Stanley what she had done, but found he had left a hurried word for her that he had been rushed South by his firm on an emergency trip.

Margery's sense of humor came readily to her aid those first days of her service as companion to Mrs. Landon. The old lady was exacting, but Margery met the issue without evasion.

She liked to read herself, so her duty of reading to Mrs. Landon for two hours each day was not a task. She liked to play with nice dishes, and she found herself, instead of the cook, preparing pet dishes that Mrs. Landon liked. She anticipated her employer's needs as much as she could, and that she was successful was indicated by Mrs. Landon's brief statement, one afternoon:

"Miss Elder, you are proving very satisfactory, and I would like to make your engagement permanent."

Margery smiled outwardly, although she said "Thanks be!" inwardly. "I am glad to have it permanent," she answered demurely enough.

She wrote to Stanley in care of his firm, and she was sure he knew what was going on; but on that fatal afternoon she discovered otherwise.

She came from the back of the house and stepped into the library where he was talking to his mother. He glanced up and saw her and his eyes opened with astonishment, and his mouth—

Margery, back of Mrs. Landon, put her finger on her lips, and she saw that he had "tumbled."

Later, he cornered her in the kitchen. "You witch, this was your game. Gosh! its a good one," he chuckled. "Mater was praising you just as you came in. But when she finds out—Oh, golly!" he grinned. "It'll be worth it just to have you around here."

Then began a time of doubt for Margery. She discovered that Mrs. Landon's fear about the girl her son wished to marry rose, after all, from her great love for her son. Actually, beneath her cold, aristocratic exterior was something that approached closely a warm heart. Most of the time, however, she seemed rigid and set in her ways and ideas.

Margery began to be worried. The truth must come out sometime, and the plan she had entered upon began to look a little childish.

The bottom fell out of the plan suddenly. She was going along the upper corridor when Stanley, stepping from his room, caught her, and gathered her in his arms. She gave him a kiss in return for his, then tried to pull away—and saw Mrs. Landon looking at them down the hall. Stanley saw her at the same time, and Margery felt his arms tighten.

"Gosh, mother saw us. Now for an earthquake!" he whispered in her ear.

His mother approached, and to Margery's astonishment, she was smiling.

"So I am to lose my companion. My dear, forgive me for deceiving you, but Miss Knapp felt she ought to tell me; so I have known from the beginning. I have enjoyed having you here and I hope you and Stanley will want to stay with me right along," she said a bit wistfully.

Stanley reached out a long arm and drew his mother to him. With the other he encircled Margery's waist. "We accept the invitation—and a kiss all around seals the bargain!" he announced with joyful finality.

MAY BE ANTIDOTE FOR DEADLY GAS

A San Francisco man who attempted suicide by the inhalation of carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of his automobile in a closed garage and was for half an hour "out of this life," as the doctors solemnly asserted, was almost literally snatched from the grave by injections of methylene blue, administered by his physician in an experimental test of the efficacy of that chemical.

It had been conjectured by chemists that methylene blue might be an antidote for poisonous gas, though its common use is for coloring fabrics. The idea of employing a synthetic dyestuff as a medical agent was scoffed at by some physicians, but in the San Francisco case it worked out, and the effect produced is regarded as something of a scientific wonder.

Carbon monoxide gas poison is produced by burning carbon-containing fuels in a chamber in which there is a deficiency of air. It exerts its extremely dangerous action on the body by displacing its oxygen content, thus removing it from its combination with haemoglobin, which forms the solid coloring of red blood corpuscles, and destroying bodily tissue. Formerly the treatment of monoxide poisoning was by artificial respiration, the administration of pure oxygen and the stimulation of circulation. But in cases where a person has been under the influence of the gas for as much as thirty minutes' treatment of the latter kind usually has been of no avail.—Los Angeles Times.

Washing Woolens

To be safe, test new woolens for color fastness before washing, by squeezing a sample or inconspicuous portion in lukewarm water for five minutes or so.

For the washing, briefly: make rich, lukewarm or cool suds with mild, neutral soap flakes. Put in the garment and wash quickly, by gently forcing the suds through and through the material. Never allow colored woolens to soak, even for a few minutes, nor to remain rolled up, or in a heap while wet.

Rinse the garment thoroughly in lukewarm or cool water. Squeeze out the water, or put it through a wringer, adjusted loosely. Don't twist. It is helpful, where practical, to roll woolen garments in a dry turkish towel to absorb the excess moisture. Then ease into shape and dry at moderate temperature.

THOUGHTFUL NUGGETS

Make the best of everything;
Think the best of everybody;
And hope the best for yourself.
—George Stephenson.

Do This

Before speaking evil of anyone,
Put three questions to yourself:
Is it kind? Is it true? Is it necessary?

Don't borrow trouble.
The interest is too high.

If you were busy being kind,
Before you knew it you would find,
You'd soon forget to think 'twas true
That someone was unkind to you.

If you were busy being glad
And cheering people who are sad,
(Although your heart might ache a bit)
You'd soon forget to notice it.

If you were busy being good
And doing just the best you could,
You'd not have time to blame some man
Who's doing just the best he can.

If you were busy being right,
You'd find yourself too busy quite
To criticize your neighbor long
Because he's busy being wrong.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

MEMORIAL or Decoration Day as many of us still call it, begins the out-door season. Fresh air encourages an appetite to raid the picnic hamper.

Picnic meals need not be sandwich meals when the markets offer all sorts of interesting fresh and prepared foods at prices to suit even lean pocketbooks.

Potato salad and deviled eggs or cheese offer good cold fare, while frankfurters or bacon and spaghetti in tomato sauce cooked over an open fire are warming. Peanut butter and a box of crackers will help to fill up the youngsters.

Among particularly good buys for this week-end's marketing are new potatoes, carrots, and cantaloupes. The cantaloupe season is just beginning.

The Quaker Maid Kitchen has planned three interesting menus which make use of foods which are plentiful and in season.

THE REV. MOON TALKS ON BOOZE

How many of our readers listened to the radio address, by a Rev. Moon an Episcopalian minister, who spoke on the subject which is now agitating our Nation, that concerning drink.

As there was considerable static on this evening, furnished by mother nature, and in part by the reverend gentleman, (probably on a 50-50 basis,) we may not be correct as to the name, but we can tell you in part, what he said.

He made the usual plea, that he at one time believed in prohibition but was now convinced it was not workable, as public sentiment would not sustain it, but he utterly failed to state the fact that from the inception of the prohibition idea, until its fulfillment which resulted in the placing of the 18th Amendment in our Constitution, that every sordid, selfish and bestial minded individual, or collection of individuals, by means of villianous cartoons, caricaturing the Protestant clergy, insulting and villifying its Christian men and women, resorting to lies and slander, predicting prohibtion's failure (the wish being father of the thought,) have spared neither time, money nor effort to thwart the noble purpose of preserving humanity from the curse of their hellish and vile traffic. Why the title of Reverend is tacked on one of these spineless, cowardly jellyfish, is beyond our ken.

George Jaap, in a communication to the Journal Gazette, one day last week, made the statement that "Whiskey has done more toward civilizing and developing this country than religion has ever done."

Were the Rev.(?) Moon a true representative of the Christian religion, we might, perhaps, agree with Mr. Jaap.

FIREWORKS REGULATIONS TO BE OBSERVED

Al Feeney, Director of the Department of Safety, has issued the following statement in regard to fireworks being sold by and to dealers for July 4th.

"This Department has learned," Mr. Feeney stated, "that there are several fireworks items manufactured that are very dangerous. After chemical analysis, the following have been banned.

"Victory Globe Flash Salute, K – O Flash Salute, O K Flash Salute, Radio Salute, Gliota Crax, Spit Devil, Son of a Gun, Devil on the Walk, No. 0, 1, 2, White Snakes (poisonous) Hot Air Paper Balloons (all sizes,) Auto Burglar Alarms.

"These items are very deceptive in appearance, seeming very small and harmless, but are powerful enough to seriously injure and possibly to kill. In the interest of public safety from fire and explosion and especially the safety of children, we are asking the co-operation of manufacturers and dealers in this matter," Mr. Feeney added. "To that end we have prohibited the sale or display of the above named explosives. Dealers are warned not to handle them, and Prosecuting Attorneys of the State will assist this Department in prosecuting violators."

The following rules for the display, sale, handling and storage of fireworks is effective June 15, 1933:

1. No fireworks shall be put on display before June 20th. This display must be done in such a way that there will be no danger of the goods being exploded by the rays of the sun or other agency, and under such conditions that if from any cause they are exploded, it will not cause the building to get afire. This can be done by putting such fireworks in a non-inflammable container completely enclosed above, below and on all sides, except the front, in the display window.

2. No fireworks shall be displayed or sold on the streets, sidewalks, alleys, yards, vacant lots or other such places in any city or town of the State of Indiana. Nor shall they be displayed or sold closer than 25 feet to any public highway in the State of Indiana.

3. All dealers must keep all fireworks stored in non-inflammable containers, if the original shipping cases have been unpacked before June 20th.

4. No fireworks that are capable of causing serious injury to the person by explosion or contact shall be sold.

5. No fireworks shall be sold to children under 12 years of age.

6. No fireworks shall be sold or exploded at any public filling station or bulk station of Class 1 and 2 Inflammable liquids.

7. Sales by retail merchants may begin June 20th, but no deliveries of fireworks shall be made until July 1st. Sales and deliveries shall terminate July 5th.

8. This Department reserves the right to stop the use, sale, display and storage of fireworks by any person doing the same in a careless and negligent manner, or violating any of these rules.

In conclusion the Safety Director said, "The 4th of July can be celebrated in a reasonable, safe way, provided that all persons will exercise caution and all dealers will properly co-operate to prevent dangerous and highly explosive articles being sold. Most of our Indiana manufacturers, wholesalers and dealers have entered into this co-operation with a fine spirit, and this we highly appreciate. But some out-state manufacturers, wholesalers and certain Indian dealers and retailers have in past years been negligent, and have violated our rules and regulations and the rules of common carefulness, and these we now respectfully ask to cooperate, and intend to closely watch.

SOME INCOME TAX REGULATIONS

Citizens of Indiana will serve a two-fold purpose when they make their first payments under the new gross income tax law between July 1 and July 15.

They will be taking the first step toward a more equitable distribution of the tax burden. They will be coming to the financial rescue of both the state government and hundreds of school units.

It is also true that they will be protecting themselves by making their returns and payments promptly. The new law has a rigid penalty clause which will have to be invoked to prevent injustice. The gross income tax division is not going to collect money from one individual or corporation and let his neighbor go without paying.

On the other hand, the attitude of the gross income tax division is to be as helpful as possible to the person who wishes to comply with the law. For that reason, blanks for making returns will be available at automobile license bureau branches throughout Indiana on June 15.

To help the taxpayers even more, 60 trained field auditors of the state board of accounts will be on duty during the week of July 10 to July 15, at the automobile license bureau branches. These men will assist taxpayers in making out their returns.

The law provides that it is the responsibility of the taxpayer to keep records which will enable him to make an accurate return of his gross receipts. It also provides that it is up to the taxpayer to see that his return is properly filed and that payment is made. The gross income tax division has requested that every person or business with receipts of more than $166.67 make a return and pay the tax between July 1 and 15.

This $166.67 is one-sixth of the annual exemption of $1,000, allowed because the first return is to be made for a period of two months.

Following are some facts to be kept in mind by the person or business liable for tax under the gross income tax law.

The law applies to every sort of business as well as to all individuals with an income of more than $166.67 for May and June of this year.

Tax will be paid at the rate of either one per cent or one-fourth of one per cent on all receipts more than $166.67. The rate is determined by the kind of business or the source of the income.

For all salaries, personal services, retail business, utility companies, financial institutions, and professional services, the rate is one per cent. For all manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers, farmers, and those engaged in the production of natural resources, the rate is one-fourth of one per cent.

Where an individual or a business has receipts from more than one classification, such as wholesale and retail, separate accounts of each type can be kept and $166.67 deducted from any portion of the income. If an individual is in business, he must include the receipts of his business as well as any other receipts from any source, in his report of gross income. An individual in business who pays himself a salary from the business, does not need to include the payment of the salary to himself as a receipt if he already has reported the total receipts of the business. The only time a receipt occurs is when the possession or right of possession of money or property is changed. Borrowed money, however, is not a receipt and is not taxable either when it is borrowed or when it is repaid.

No money received from the United States government is taxable.

Detailed questions and answers, setting forth still other points in connection with the law, have been provided in the license bureau branches.

The blanks for making reports, now being printed, are quite simple. They occupy only one side of a regular letterhead size page of paper. There is no reason for fear of the gross income tax law. No complicate records are necessary. The business man or individual must be able to show accurately his gross receipts from all sources. Filling out the return blanks then will be easy.

Representatives of the gross income tax division have been busy for several weeks addressing meetings, conferring with thousands of individuals, answering thousands of letters to acquaint the people with the law. The gross income tax law offers the only possible solution for the critical financial condition in the state government and in the schools. It must succeed.

As the Duck Takes to Water

Put the setting of duck eggs under the hen. Patiently she hatches them—faithfully mothers them—but knows nothing about training them. When she takes them near a pond every duckling plunges into the water.

As ducklings take to water will children take to thrift and saving, if properly trained in early life. Instinct in the animal and training in the child govern the actions of life. Thrift follows an account heralds the Constitution the Flag.

It appears that before the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will accord loans to large concerns, it must be made clear that the salaries paid to the executives are reasonable. Otherwise a cut will be in order. The wisdom and justice of the demand is not to be questioned. How a corporation disposes of its profits in flush times is largely its own business, but it would be manifestly improper to take money raised by taxation, and distribute it as huge salaries to the top-notchers.

Switzerland is thinking of abandoning the gold standard. If the change is due to the necessity of economy in public affairs, no one can claim that the Swiss navy is partly to blame.

The papers report that a steamer grounded in Lake Superior during the closing days of last month, rolled over, and sank, but not before her hundred or more passengers had been landed in safety. Things have not always turned out so well on the Lakes. For instance, the immigrant steamer Phoenix took 240 to the bottom in 1847, the Lady Elgin carried down 300 in 1860, and the car ferry Milwaukee sank with 52 in 1929. To fill the gaps between these dates would amount simply to wearisome repetition. The doings of those who follow the ocean are thoroughly written up and widely spread. Both chroniclers and readers sometimes forget that right in the heart of the continent lie vast seas having stories of adventure which rival in interest those of the great deep.

Mr. Morgan is reported as being back on the job, passing the plate at the local Long Island Church. That is not mentioned as a reflection on the church. It is to be hoped that the congregation did not follow what is said to be Mr. Morgan's line of reasoning with respect to the income tax.

About a month ago, Ellsworth, Me. had a two million dollar fire. On Sunday, the town was threatened with a fire that seemed likely to wipe out what was left. Both fires were set. Lightning does not strike twice in the same place. Incendiaries are not considerate. We can get along fairly well with the elements. It is our brother man that makes most of the trouble.

Chicago opens its big fair by using the energy from a star to set the thousands of lamps going. There was a time when anyone suggesting the possibility of such a proceeding would have been handled roughly as a wizard, in league with Satan. He would have been lucky to get off with a few years in a dungeon, under a ball and chain. The name Chicago usually is coupled in the popular mind with the doings of the gangsters, racketeers and thugs. Perhaps, even in Chicago, there is an abundance of evidence that the world is moving forward, if one takes the pains to search it out, or even give it a passing glance.

It is stated that Mr. Woodin may be transferred from his treasury post to the position of Ambassador to Germany. It cannot be insisted that the country will suffer by the change. Not that Mr. Woodin is not well-fitted for his present place; rather, ambassadors just now had better know a good deal about finance. There is much satisfaction to be derived from the prospect of having a man so well trained as Mr. Woodin as our representative abroad.

Three men are killed in an auto race at Indianapolis on Memorial Day. That was bad for the men, and worse for their surviving relatives and friends, but nothing to the discredit of auto-racing. The number of persons who worked themselves to death on that day is not recorded. Perhaps amusement and recreation are entitled to a few martyrs, as well as toil.

WEED CONTROL MEETINGS TO BE HELD

A new method of controlling persistent periennial weeds such as Canada thistle and quack grass, is at hand. This method will be demonstrated at two meetings held by County Agent T. E. Myers on the farms of Mrs. Geo. Rinehart, located 1½ miles east and 1 mile north of Corunna, at 9:00 Central Standard Time) on June 21st, and Donald E. Miller, north of Newville U. B. Church, at 11:30, C. S. T.

The meetings will be made short and will keep you from your work only one hour. The subject for discussion will be the use of chlorates in weed control. Results of the chemical treatments as well as the method of application and precautions will be demonstrated.

At 2:30 P. M. (C. S. T.) on the farm of Frank Weller, west of Butler Center, a field trip will be taken where persons present will have a chance to have the weeds identified as they are growing in the field. There are a few new weeds as perennial sow thistle, bindweed, etc., growing in this county that people ought to be able to identify. These meetings will train you to do so. Make it a point to attend at least one meeting.

O. C. Lee, Extension Specialist of Purdue University, will be in charge of the instruction work. Pull up a few of the worst weed pests on your farm, bring them over for identification and plan to spend an hour at the meeting.

THREE BLACK TOP HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Three black top road improvement projects have been decided upon by the county commissioners for this summer, but the material to be used has not yet been determined.

The roads to be thus improved are the south Garrett-Auburn road, three miles; the road east from Butler to the Butler cemetery, five-eights of a mile; and the road west from state road 1 at Spencerville to the Wabash station, five-eights of a mile.

Calvin C. Kain, county surveyor and highway supervisor, started Monday to improve with gravel two and a half miles of the Troy-Franklin township line road south of the Bellfontaine road and will start Wednesday on three and a half miles of the Fairfield-Smithfield township road north of state road No. 6.

At the present time Mr. Kain is placing gravel on a half mile of Jackson township road located a mile north of the Boots school house. Simlar projects already completed include three-fourths of a mile in Jackson township west of state road 27 at the Gramling bridge and a half mile in Jackson township east from Carr's Corners. A mile and a half stretch of the old Coldwater route north and south from the Five Points school house in Butler township has been graded and gravel will be applied soon.

From Road 1 in St. Joe, north to the Leighty Orchard corners, about ¾ mile, is another road that should be considered for black top. Much of the traffic heads north to Road 6 and 8, and possibly with a 50-50 divide of the traffic is made at this corner for north and west. The road is in fine condition, and this stretch of tar would mean much to the maintenance department of our county. We hope that it might be considered for this sort of improvement.

OIL STOVE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

The citizens of St. Joe were aroused from their slumbers about midnight Thursday, when the fire bell rang, giving warning that fire had broken out at the former Harvey Kimes home, opposite the W. L. Hollobaugh home. Everyone rallied as quickly as possible but nothing could be done to the burning buildings, and all of them were consumed, including a shed, barn, granary and out building.

When the department arrived, nothing could be done to the burning buildings. The home had slate roof, making it easy to protect. The woodshed was scorched on the west side. Embers from the fire drifted north-east with the heavy wind and were carried a great distance, and a couple small blazes were started.

Upon investigation from the Earl Coburn family, who occupy the farm, it was learned that they had 240 baby chicks in the shed, and were being kept warm by the use of an oil heater, and this is the attributing cause of the fire.

All of the chicks were burned. A cow and some pigs were saved from the fire.

The discovery of the fire was made by young Mansfield, who was sleeping with Babe Coburn in the yard. A mosquito drilled into him just as the fire was starting and he was awakened, and he called the Coburn family and rang the fire bell.

The property is in litigation and it is not known whether any insurance was being carried.

WILL HELD INVALID IN DEKALB CIRCUIT COURT

Probate of the will of the late Filena Helen Reasoner was denied in the DeKalb circuit court Friday.

An objection to the probate of the instrument was filed recently by a daughter, Debie Stroh, who contended that it was invalidated by the marriage of her mother after she signed the will.

The heirs besides Mrs. Stroh are three other children, Allie L. Layman, Eva E. Hook and Thos. Woodring, and the widower, Chalmer Reasoner. Mrs. Reasoner died last March 16. She nominated Frank E. Lyon, county auditor, to be the executor of the will.

Congressman Farley will open an office in the new postoffice building at Fort Wayne, where he can meet his district, following adjournment of congress.

BIG CONVENTION AT HICKSVILLE

Many Indications Point To Vast Crowds And a Big Show June Twenty-first

The Northwestern Ohio Volunteer Firemen's Annual Convention at Hicksville draws near, and all indications point to one of the greatest crowds ever on the streets of Hicksville.

Wednesday, June 21st, is the date.

Departments are registered in from many towns of the district, which comprises twenty per cent of the state, many of them to be accompanied by bands of music.

It is estimated that a procession of uniformed men a mile or more long will be in the line of march, and that fifteen to twenty bands will be in the procession. Parade starts at 1:30 Wednesday.

Tuesday and Wednesday nights will be big carnival nights. The streets will present a lively scene, as all the concessions will be in full blast, resembling a street fair.

The town will be elaborately decorated and visitors made welcome.

We fix anything. Bring it in to Hankey's Garage. 24t1.

The Road No. 8 is being stoned and oiled this week and the detour has been found same as last year.

Mr. Ivan Parker and Miss Jeanette Troxell spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cox at the latter's home.

Carl Carpenter, wife and daughter, spent Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Carpenter's mother, Mrs. E. A. Bollinger, at Pioneer, Ohio.

Roy Keller and Cleve Washler have each purchased International trucks and are having Clay Coburn and Merl Guilford to construct the bodies, using the west end garage for place to work.

DuWayne Kinsey and Eloise Bowman arrived home from Bloomington Saturday. DuWayne has buckled down to business and is helping Earl to run the store. Glad to see them all home again. Virginia Ginther will also return home from Bloomington for the vacation months.

Sheep are becoming profitable property to own again. Last week Tod Kosht sold a fleece of wool for $1.90 and one lamb for $3.90 making a direct cash income of $5.80. Had this ewe been sold Mr. Kosht would not have been able to realize the amount of her income, and he still has the ewe left.

Let The News have your films developed.

Mrs. G. M. Barney spent over Monday in St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Jenkins spent the week end at their cottage at Cold Springs.

Just run an ad in the classified column of The News and you will be surprised at the results.

The Wade Restaurant front is being newly painted this week, after some repairing was done.

Mrs. Blanch Kruse, of Fort Wayne is assisting in the house work in the W. W. Zonker home.

Mrs. Emma Baker and Ray Bowman are located at the Bowman cottage at Hamilton Lake for the summer.

Miss Anna Clark and brother, Tom, of Alliance, O., accompanied by Pete Zuccheroy, spent several days in the John Hart home last week.

Fred Thornton is quite poorly again, suffering a slight stroke a few days ago. He is unable to talk much or eat, but is up and down.

Ellis E. James and family, of Painesville, O., who have been at Harlan for the past three weeks visiting relatives, was a guest in the Morris Curie home last week.

Mrs. Princess Zonker and two older children, Junion and Christine, accompanied by Paul Krabill, of Attica, O., visited the World's Fair in Chicago last week.

Harry Kees has purchased the Clara McCann property in the west end of town, and papers for the transfer were made out Tuesday. Leon Kees and family occupy the home.

Harvey W. Morley, editor of the Angola Herald, has received definite assurance from Washington that 200 men will be located in Steuben county for work in the federal reforestation service in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Foltz and children of near Miller City, were Sunday dinner guests in the J. E. Foltz home. In the late afternoon the two families and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aikins enjoyed a lawn picnic at the J. P. Buckingham home, thirteen being present.

Band concerts will start this Thursday evening at Auburn. Talking pictures at Leo on Tuesday, St. Joe Weednesday, and motion pictures at Spencerville on Friday evening, makes a pretty full week for those who want to go at night.

Hazel J. Storer, St. Joe, Bachelor of Science in Home Economics; Robert F. Miser, Garrett, Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering; Charles D. Lash, Auburn, Master of Science in Agriculture, were among the 798 graduates from Purdue on Tuesday.

It's more like living. Relief from the extreme heat wave which covered northern Indiana for several days last week arrived early Monday morning via two routes, a welcome thunder shower which dropped the mercury from 66 degrees to 58 degrees, and an area of high pressure which moved eastward from the northwest making even cooler weather for Monday night and Tuesday, and gave us a great cooling off, so that many had fires on Tuesday. Anyway its much better.

COST OF ELECTION 15 CENTS A VOTE

DeKalb county's special election on the Eighteenth Amendment, held June 6, cost 15 cents a vote, calculations made in the office of County Auditor Frank E. Lyon disclosed.

The total cost is estimated at $1,161 and there were 7,681 votes cast.

This is a great reduction from the cost of the general election last fall, which was $4,775. However, fewer precinct election board officials were used and their pay was smaller, in accordance with the law of the state legislature governing this election.

Clerks are to be paid only $2 for the day. The rate for inspectors is also only $2 a day. However, some of them filed for three days, including one day for calling for their supplies and one day for delivering the returns. The county commissioners will probably seek a ruling from the state board of accounts on the number of days for which to pay.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS OFFICERS SELECTED

At the June meeting of the DeKalb County Anti-tuberculosis society held in Auburn in the city hall, H. C. Willis of Waterloo was re-elected president. Mrs. Fern Johns of Butler and Mrs. Morris Klingler of Garrett were named vice presidents and Fred W. Knott and R. W. Sharpless of Auburn, were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Mrs. Mabel Browand of Auburn, is the executive secretary.

The township representatives selected were Mrs. Dora Wilder of Spencer, Mrs. Edna Kiplinger of Smithfield, Mrs. John Paul Price of Wilmington, Mrs. Edna Miller of Stafford, Mrs. Spencer Ringler of Fairfield, Mrs. Howard W. Mountz of Keyser, Mrs. John Noel of Butler, Mrs. Lola Carper of Jackson, Mrs. John Duncan of Franklin, Mrs. Burl Enzor of Newville, Mrs. Lotie Mills of Troy, Mrs. Fred B. Leighty of Concord, Mrs. E. E. Turner of Grant and Mrs. Fred W. Knott of Union.

Andy Said It

Andrew Carnegie was once asked which he considered the most important, EARNING, SAVING, or SPENDING? He replied by asking this simple question: "Which of the legs of a stool is the most important?"

With most people, EARNING is a slow process, but SAVING is a much slower one. That's because SPENDING is so easy. This margin between income and the necessities of life is not wide. Every dollar SAVED represents hard work and self denial.

The hottest potato at the date of the present writing is veterans' compensation, and no one cares to hold it very long. Even commenting upon it is by no means easy. A soldier from Pennsylvania makes a good showing when he says:

"If the Government will give me a job that will enable me to earn a living I will with joy renounce my claim to a cent of compensation."

The case for the opposition is summed up in the following, attributed to a statesman who has the reputation of knowing what he is talking about:

"Either we will have to impose a gross income tax or a general sales tax. The people who are fighting for the veterans are not for the sales tax, and the only other way I know is to levy a gross income tax. We have all the luxury taxes now the country will stand for and we can't get any more money by increasing net income tax rates."

Congress inclines to liberality, but has been informed by the President that it must back up its generosity with new taxes to raise funds. With the veterans as one millstone and the taxpayers as the other Congress is getting a pretty thorough grinding.

Indiana has voted for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The wets are entitled to claim that they have done well to line up ten states in the short time at their command. On the other hand, almost everyone will recall the old song about forty-nine blue bottles hanging on the wall, one bottle being removed as each stanza was sung. The chorus was strong at the beginning, but there was some gasping for breath before the song was ended. Repeal has made a start that attracts notice, yet the race goes not to the swift, but to those who endure to the end.

Noting the amount of money collected by various persons in connection with a certain railroad deal under investigation by the Senate, the road should be known by some more appropriate title than the Nickel Plate.

Opposition to the appointment of a governor for Hawaii who is not a resident of the islands, has brought to life the old Civil War phrase "carpet-bag government." Originally, it meant government by persons who moved in for that purpose, bringing their luggage with them. Considering the unfavorable impression that would be created today by a guest who arrived with a capacious satchel made of Brussels carpet, its flamboyant and flowered surface exposed, the Hawaiians may have selected a more expressive catchword than they intended.

An American aviator endeavoring to break the record for a flight around the globe, suffers a ten hour delay in getting service in Russia. Since 149 languages are spoken in that country, it may be that he was up against it no worse than the Russians themselves.

Congress is concerned over the price paid for the toilet kits in the conservation camps, which is a good sign. Anyone who demanded time for the consideration of such a matter three months ago would have been suppressed as a trifler. The serious questions must really have been settled. The gleaning ordinarily does not begin until the harvest is over.

A commencement picture shows five graduates who studied together for ten years, from the graded schools up through college. It is saddening to think what the world does to such friendships, and indeed to friendships in general.

SUCH A JOY IN JUNE

June is the month of completion and realization. The month of the year's perfection. The month toward which all the other months have aimed and climbed.

We call it the month of brides, the month of girls in cap and gown, the month of roses, the month of many lovely things. We know it is the month of poets, and we sympathize with the poets. Almost anyone must feel a weak stir of poetry down somewhere in his fundamental soul when June is at her best.

And so the picnickers go out to take the best from June and leave rubbish and ugliness as a reward. And people who do not think of the woods during eleven months respond to the inevitable call and make Vandal incursions into Paradise. But nothing can spoil June. Her bounty of beauty is too abounding. The day of June must ever be the rarest and loveliest of earthly treasures.

WORK

No honorable substitute for work has yet been discovered. Every successful man owes his success to work. The early history of any enterprise begins with the word "work." Were everybody to stop working, the world would no longer produce and the people would die of hunger and exposure. Work is just as important as sunlight.

It would be fair to say that 80 per cent of all the people are workers. This 80 per cent represents the lawabiding, honest and thrifty element. These people are busily employed working out their own destinies, and being busy they become loyal citizens in the communities in which they dwell.

Among the remaining 20 per cent we find those who occupy their time in search of a substitute for work, such as political trickery, thieving, forging, blackmailing, counterfeiting, robbery, white slavery, smuggling, gambling and other illegal substitutes for work. To restrain this 20 per cent of the people from becoming greater in numbers or too successful in their endeavors, the 80 per cent are obliged to pay out millions for police protection, courts, prosecuting attorneys, detectives, judges, jails, prisons, orphan asylums and retreats. The desire of one-fifth of the people to live without working makes criminals of many who might have become good citizens, had they been willing to work for their living. When a man strives to get his living in this way, he becomes a moth on civilization—only the law forbids the extermination of the human moth.

Once in a while one of the 20 per cent makes good for a short period and his success is alluring to others. Jesse James made good for some time and then stopped a bullet with his heart. Ponzi succeeded for awhile and then went to prison. Pirates made good hauls until overhauled by revenue cutters. Political grafters live well until exposed. And so it goes with all those who endeavor to find a substitute for work.

John D. Rockefeller, Henry Ford and many other successful men started in at two dollars a day, and not one of them would be where he is today had he not worked. A small hunchback lad, who had a difficult task getting in to this country, worked his way up until he became the highest salaried mechanical engineer in the entire United States.

Looking for a substitute that will pay as well as work has been the ruination of many. It will never win any more than a slow horse wins the race. Work wins lasting victories, makes real men, builds homes, erects factories, and makes peaceful communities. Looking for a successful substitute is like prospecting for Captain Kidd's treasures,—so many have tried it and failed that work still looks like the best bet for all of us.

HOME ENTERED AND MONEY TAKEN

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty are minus $17.98. Sunday evening when they closed their restaurant they went home, and because of the extreme heat, they decided to linger on the front porch until they cooled off. Before doing so they went into the house, laid their purse on the table. When they returned to retire, the purse was gone. The back screen was open and it is supposed that some one entered there and made way with the purse. It contained three fives, two ones and change enough to make above amount.

No trace has been found.

The recent inquiry made by the United States Senate in regard to why the House of Morgan members escaped paying income taxes in 1931 and 1932 has uncovered names and information that is proving embarrassing to prominent members in the democrat and republican parties. Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin was one of those who had accepted favors from J. P. Morgan & Co. Senators Borah and Long have demanded Mr. Woodin's resignation. Other names mentioned were: Coolidge, Dawes, Raskob, McAdoo, Baker, Adams, Young and Davis. Evidence shows that Mr. Morgan and his partners evaded paying tax on their huge incomes but, perhaps, through a legal loop-hole in the law that allows deductions on depreciated stocks and bonds.

ITEMS ABOUT ST. JOE

Elgin Curie has been quite sick the past week.

Chas. T. Miser is now working out of Logansport.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cochran were Sunday guests in the Jesse Copp home at New Haven.

Miss Edna Bice and sisters, Lucile and Betty were Sunday dinner guests in the Lillian Zimmerman home.

Mrs. Lucinda McClure left last week for Montpelier, Ind., to visit a few days. Mrs. McClure is going to Chicago, to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Kimmell.

Transfers of real estate in Spencer township are as follows: Farmers & Merchants bank to school township, und. ½ 3 acres sec. 29, $150. Stella and Wm. Moore to same, same description, $1.

Our little town hall has afforded comfort to many a weary traveler during the past many weeks, but only last night its usefulness became more keenly felt, when one of our citizens was compelled to find shelter there.

Receipts from sale of 1933 drivers licenses totals about $250,000, representing about a half million of the 50-cent cards, Frank Finney, state license commissioner, said. Nearly a million and a half licenses were sold in the previous issue. Finney said he expected only about half that number of the new yearly licenses will be sold.

Visitors from St. Joe and vicinity who are planning to attend the Century of Progress, in Chicago, sometime during the summer months will find many of the products on exhibition there that are being used almost daily in their own homes and are on sale at the leading stores in this community. One such display will be that of the Perfection Biscuit Company of Fort Wayne.

Readers having court work to do for which newspaper legal advertising is necessary, will confer a favor on the St. Joe News by asking that the legal notices be inserted in this paper. You will be helping the home paper and meeting the law's requirements just as well as having the legal advertising done some place else, and then we can reach the people that will be most interested.

HOME BUREAU

The May meeting of the Concord Township Home Bureau was held at the home of Mrs. Hazel Baltz Friday, May 19. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mary Krise. Opening songs, "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Brighten the Corner," were sung. The Lord's Prayer was prayed by all.

Secretary's report was read and 21 members responded to roll call. The response being, "My Mother's Birth Date." Four visitors were present. A Mother's Day program was conducted by Pauline Simanton. The hostess, with her committee, Minnie Ulm, Emily Hollabaugh, Nettie Culbertson, Lou Woodcox and Callie Ridgway served pumpkin pie and cocoa.

The club voted to accept an invitation to the county meeting at Eckhart Park, Auburn, June 22. Don't forget the 9 o'clock breakfast to be held at the home of Mrs. Bird Nicholls, Friday, June 16.

Mrs. Jennie Abel is home from Montpelier and expects to remain. Her son, Glen Abel and wife spent a couple days here with her.

Clarence Woodcox is driving a new truck purchased at Detroit last week. As a salesman for Ralph Sechler the truck bears the name of St. Joe Valley Pickles.

Jos. Koch, wife and son, of Ft. Wayne, were home over Sunday.

Susan Sechler, who has been ill at the Hollis Dilley home, is much improved although very nervous.

Spencerville Student Wins Recognition in National Contest

Miss Helen Mason of the Spencerville High School has been awarded a certificate of honorable mention for her essay written in a National Essay contest. The contest was carried on last semester of the recent school year. Three students of the Spencerville High School submitted essays for the local judging, the first prize being sent to the national contest. Miss Mason's essay was given first, Lillian Kling's second and Mildred Anderson's third in the local. Miss Mason will be a senior in High School next year. The title of the essay is "How My Home Economics Education Helps Me at Home," and the essays were judged on the following points: first: the extent to which the essay indicated the use of Home Economics at home; second, the actual scope of that education possessed by the student; third, the general style of the essay itself.

The following is a reproduction of the essay:

"Home Economics is so valuable to every girl that without it she would be considered lacking in preparation for a homemaker. The girl that has not taken it—I wonder if she has thought what she will do when she gets out of school. Perhaps she has decided to be a teacher, a librarian, a stenographer, a doctor or a nurse. Perhaps she is taking a course in high school or college that will fit her for one of these callings; she would not consider herself capable of entering any of these without training.

"Very probably this same girl will at some time be the manager of a home. I wonder if she has thought about the importance of being trained for homemaking? Just as I stated above she would not consider herself capable of entering any of these positions without training, therefore she should not think of managing a home without training.

"Food is a very important factor in the home, without it we would not survive very long. A girl to be a good home maker should know that what one needs to eat for breakfast depends on one's age, one's occupation, one's state of health, and perhaps on one's sex, or on the season. There are many, many kinds of foods in this world. A girl should be familiar with a large per cent of these foods and know the value of each and how to preserve and prepare them.

"In my own home, I can vegetables for further use without the aid of my mother. Every girl should be able to do this because some day it will probably be a great help to her. It is also a difficult problem for a girl to master the right kinds and right amount of food for a family.

"Every girl would want a healthy family and she can so have by planning properly cooked and planned meals. As the old saying goes "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," so I am sure every girl's greatest ambition should be to be able to plan and prepare well cooked meals.

"Another important point in being a good home maker is to be able to sew. Many girls can not operate a sewing machine or even sew by hand. Every girl should be able to make a dress by herself. It is not such a difficult task to do if she is taught step by step. When she makes a garment of her own she will be very proud of it when it is completed.

"In her home she would not be considered a very good wife and mother if she could not sew on a button or mend hose or patch the seat of Johny's pants.

"When it comes to managing the home "Home Management" helps out wonderfully. Any girl after she has taken a course in this can make a budget which helps to economise in the home. She learns to distinguish the different kinds of rugs and the good and bad designs in rugs. Also the different kinds of draperies and curtains and the good and bad designs along this line. In fact she learns all the vital parts in furnishing the home.

"Right living begins with the home. Who makes the home? The man may furnish the money to build and maintain the house, but it is the woman who plans and manages the home.

"Home Relationship is another important phase in the home. A house becomes a home when it is a happy, restful, and inspiring place in which to live; when it is equipped and managed in such a way that the family leads a healthful and useful existence.

"Each member of the family should do his or her part in making the home; it is not right to place all the responsibility on the mother and perhaps on father. The family should cooperate, each having his or her tasks to perform around the home.

"The members of the family should enjoy each other, and should be helpful to each other. Each member should be interested in the things that interest others in the family. A family should enjoy doing things together. It should not be necessary for boys and girls to go away from home to have a good time with other people.

"The family as a whole should be interested in the neighborhood activities, interests, and needs, and should be willing to assist with community movements such as the church, school, clubs or other organizations. A community can be improved only when the people in it desire to see things and when they are willing to use time and effort in helping to better conditions. Owning ones own house makes one more interested in seeing a community improved.

"A community is as good as its individual homes." Through the efforts of the family the home is either successful or unsuccessful; the community is made up of these individual homes and becomes either a desirable or an undesirable community. It should be the wish of every girl to help create the right kind of home.

"In many families where there is lack of home relationship this seems to be the result. "Home is the place where we are treated the best and grumble the most."

Mr. Herbert Hoover wrote a splendid paragraph on "Home." "The unit of American life is the family and the home. It vibrates through every hope of the future. It is the economic unit as well as the moral and the spiritual unit. But it is more than this. It is the beginning of self government. It is the throne of our highest ideals. It is the source of the spiritual energy of our people. For the perfecting of this unit of national life, we must bind all of our material and scientific ingenuity. For the attainment of this end, we must bend every energy of government."

Chicago divorce cases were interesting last week. It was the women mostly who were seeking divorce on the grounds that her husband insisted on introducing her as his "girl friend." Another woman complained to the court that her life was unbearable because of her mother-in-law, in-whose home she was forced to live, insisted on running around the house clad mostly in brassiere, bloomers and rolled socks. And a third claimed that her husband, who was of unusual avoirdupois, made life uncomfortable, especially during the summer months, by refusing to sleep in his own bed. These three cases were classified as "mental cruelty" cases.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

HORSE SENSE

Early farrowed spring pigs can not be profitably carried past the seasonal peak of hog prices in September.

Don't let the fruit become a parasite to the plant.

Orcharding is a profession and demands careful study.

The condition of the fences about the farmstead is an important item in its development. Simple creosoted board fences, "paddock fences," or woven wire are preferable. An occasional vine or rose on these fences relieves the monotony and betrays the owner's good taste.

Carefully controlled experiments have shown that skim milk may be fed to poultry either sweet or sour, and that no harm will result when fed sweet one day and sour the next.

The only way to make money on lower priced eggs is to produce them at less cost per dozen.

Some directors of cooperative marketing associations have learned that an educational program is needed to maintain desirable attitudes and relations of members and patrons.

Pasture occupies only half as many acres as crops in Indiana.

Full-fed early spring pigs are more thrifty, gain more efficiently, and reach a higher market price than pigs fed a limited ration through the summer.

The spotted or striped melon beetle packs a lot of trouble. See that it is controlled.

If you plant a peach seed, don't expect a peach like the one the seed was in.

Build up your soil before you set out trees. The same is true for strawberries.

Dies of Severe Heat Attack

Wm. Lake Jr. Home on Vacation, Unable to Withstand Extreme Heat Wave. Dies in Ft. Wayne Hospital.

William Lake, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lake, of east of Spencerville, died at the Lutheran hospital at Fort Wayne, Wednesday night of last week as the result of a heat attack. He was taken to the hosiptal on Saturday.

Not being accustomed to outside work, and coming home and working during the extreme hot spell, it was too much for him, and his physical self broke.

William Lake, son of William and Francina Lake, was born near Spencerville, Ind., April 17, 1904, and died at the Lutheran hospital at Fort Wayne, Wednesday night, June 14, 1933, age 29 years, 1 month and 27 days.

He joined the Spencerville Lutheran Church under Rev. Steffey, some ten years ago.

He was united in marriage to Esther Seymore. To this union was born one son, J. William Lake.

In about 1929 he graduated from Spencerville school and after taking training, he became a teacher in the local school. Later he taught in Ohio and then went to Michigan, where he taught for several years in the vicinity of Niles. He was married and had one son.

Besides his family he leaves his parents and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Cook and Miss Esther Lake, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. Ellen Hart, of Hicksville, O., and a great many relatives and friends who will greatly miss him.

William Lake was a fine young man, a good husband and a loving and kind father. His life was cut off in his young manhood, when hope and anticipation beconed onward. His faith rests in the Lord Jesus Christ, whom to know aright is eternal life.

The funeral services were held from the Lutheran Church, Saturday afternoon with Rev. A. K. Mumma of Harlan officiating and was assisted by Walter Coburn who also sang. Burial was at White City cemetery. Roscoe Walter funeral director.

BLANKS FOR GROSS INCOME TAX NOW AVAILABLE

New blanks for making out gross income tax returns now are available at the automobile bureaus and St. Joe business men are now studying the blanks to be able to make an early return next month.

The blanks are extremely simple as compared to the federal income tax blanks. They are to be made out in duplicate, one copy to be mailed to the gross income tax division with the remittance and the other to be retained by the taxpayer.

The blanks occupy only one side of one page of paper of regular letter head size.

They contain, for the individual six lines for listing gross receipts. Line 1 is for gross receipts from trade or business; line 2 for salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation for personal service; line 3 for aliquot share of partnership gross income; line 4 for gross receipts from sales of property; line 5 for interest, dividends, discount, rents, royalties and all other receipts by reason of investment of capital; line 6 all other gross income.

There are an equal number of lines for listing nontaxable receipts. These deductions will be permitted only when such receipts have been reported previously in the first part of the return. For each return filed from July 1 to July 15, an exemption of $166.67 is allowed. The difference between this exemption and the amount of taxable income will determine the amount of the tax, to be computed either at one-fourth of one per cent or at one per cent, according to the source of the income.

HURTS LEG IN FALL INTO WELL PIT

Derwood Ridgway has been laid up this week, due to injuries received last Friday, when he fell into a well pit while working at the Frank Johnson farm home, injuring his right leg by bursting a blood vessel.

Mr. Ridgway worked Saturday and Monday forenoon and his right leg became swollen and the pain set in so he was compelled to seek relief from his physician. He was put to bed and ice packs used from his knee to his foot, and today the swelling has gone down and he is feeling better.

E. R. KINSEY IN LUTHERAN HOSPITAL

Saturday morning, E. R. Kinsey was taken to the Lutheran hospital at Fort Wayne for treatments. Of late he has been very nervous and restless, and his physician advised his being brot there so as to be in daily touch with his condition. He was feeling some better when the family last called.

Elsa has been confined to his home for many weeks, and his condition was not at all satisfactory to the family and doctor.

JOHN WOODCOX WRITES FROM CALIFORNIA

Another letter is received from John Woodcox, who is located in California at the government reforestation camp, by his brother, Homer Woodcox, and is given us for publication.

Here it is:

"Tell the boys my address is Co. 556, C. C. L. Camp F. No. 116, San. Marcus Pass, Santa Barbara, California, Star Route.

"Out here the weather is hot in the day and cool in the evenings, mornings and night.

"We started from Camp Knox at 7:00 on Friday, June 2, and was in Chicago Saturday morning. I saw the World's Fair, that is from the outside, but it sure was pretty. Then we went on through to Nebraska where we stopped at Omaha at night, then we went into Iowa where we stopped at Waterloo. We marcheed around the streets for awhile there and started on to stop again in Cheyenne, Wyoming and marched around again. Then we went on through the next states and on the way I saw deer, badgers, coyotes, and prairie dogs, also several cowboys. We passed through Rainbow Canyon and it sure was pretty.

"The next thing to attract my attention was that there were 24 tunnels in Nevada. On the desert I saw a lot of cactuses and sand. When we left one of the towns we were hooked on to an oil burner and we weren't susceptable to so much dirt and grime.

"We arrived at Los Angeles Monday evening and slept there until 2:00 Tuesday morning. After arriving at Santa Barbara we were taken in busses up to camp which is about 3,000 feet above sea level and 14 miles from Santa Barbara. It sure was foggy when we arrived. I have worked two days now on road work cutting down brush on the side of a mountain for a new road.

"Well I guess I'lle have to close and write to the rest."

John.

We fix anything. Bring it in to Hankey's Garage. 24t1.

Just run an ad in the classified column of The News and you will be surprised at the results.

Walter Zonker, son, Junior and Curtice Northrup, spent Sunday at Hamilton Lake, enjoying fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keesler are the proud parents of a baby girl born Friday night. This is the third daughter in their family.

E. J. Gallagher, rural carrier inspector, was in town Monday inspecting route one in conjointly with the consolidation program of the government. Just what will happen, if anything, is not known.

Andy Said It

Andrew Carnegie was once asked which he considered the most important, EARNING, SAVING, or SPENDING? He replied by asking this simple question: "Which of the legs of a stool is the most important?"

With most people, EARNING is a slow process, but SAVING is a much slower one. That's because SPENDING is so easy. This margin between income and the necessities of life is not wide. Every dollar SAVED represents hard work and self denial.

Smart Simplicity of Casual Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

YOUR daytime clothes to be really chic, must carry that casual look about them which nothing other than accidental-on-purpose simplicity can accomplish.

It is a knack to be coveted, this of dressing, to all appearance, most simply, yet proving a hundred per cent perfect to the mode, even down to the slightest detail. The sentiment to draw a definite line between formal and informal apparel is more noticeable than ever this season. At the same time that dance frocks and evening attire are taking on more frou-frou, returning unmistakably to an era of swishing silks and fluttering frills and ribbons and flowers, when it comes to clothes for the casual daytime hours at the club and about town best dressed women are playing up a role of sophisticated simplicity with all the art they possess.

The very materials themselves are tuned to this movement which demands that one look casual and easy and confident in debonair and nonchalant outfits during the shopping hours and at outdoor events. There are, for instance, the new linens which at this moment are utterly swagger for suits and coats. Mark you, we are not speaking of linen as it was known in days of yore, the same which used to start out in the morning all fresh and immaculate and which, almost before one could reach their destination, would begin to wrinkle up and be in a sorry plight. Modern linens are not like that. The new linens pride themselves on being non-crushable and, what's more, they answer to the call of fashion for textures which are soft and sometimes even tweedy in appearance.

A black or a navy linen suit is considered too smart for words. Maybe you prefer gray or the now-so much-talked-of string color for your linen spectator sports or go-about-town suit. Couldn't be anything more correctly chosen, only be sure to wear a dark blouse with it, for such is fashion's decree.

That the combination of a dark blouse with a light-colored linen suit is good to look upon you will agree, after taking note of the stylish outfit the young woman to the left in the picture is wearing. Hers is a heavy white linen suit, the weave being of that desired spongy unwrinkable sort which gives it "class." The red and white plaid blouse carries a bona fide style message. The oxfords are made of the identical linen which fashions the suit. Notice the eyelet embroidered design which trims them—nothing less than the very last word in summer sports bootery!

With the exception of the emphasis placed on black and navy linen this is turning out to be very much of a pastel season. The pretty lassie centered above knows her colors in that she has selected for her cape frock subtle "dusty" pink crepe. The large buttons are also pink. Her delicate sandals are made of wisps of white kid woven together across the toes. White kid footwear is the rage for summer.

The idea of a dark blouse with a light suit makes appeal to the modish creature seated. The red and white print silk of her blouse contrasts effectively with the chalky whiteness of her crepe frock. A red band on her white hat, a large red and white button fastening her cape jacket and last but most important, her red and white kid sandals interpret the popular vogue of red and white. Tiny pin perforations trim the red vamp and ankle strap of these shoes.

STYLE SAYS WHITE COSTUME JEWELRY

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Never such a "white" season as this. Fashion especially spotlights white pique accessories. It's white pique for hats and scarfs, white pique for belts and bags, shoes and gloves while the new little white pique jackets are quite the rage.

In tune for this feeling of fashion for white a prominent designer of American costume jewelry has created most unique bracelets, earrings and brooches which amusingly and smartly resemble pique in both ribbed weaves and waffle patternings. A happy combination this—white pique accessories together with white costume jewelry, and is there anything more flattering than white?

By the way, speaking of costume jewelry reminds us of the adorable little crystal nosegays which this same designer is conjuring out of crystal and beads and such. These sparkling little fantasies are both in flower and in berry form. One type has a receptacle for perfume. Latest thing in way of boutonnierres to wear with your smartest of smart summer linen tailleur!

Fashionable Women Now Match Sweater to Skirt

As a change from the theme of color contrast, smart women are matching up sweaters and skirts this season for active sportswear. If a little added dash is needed, it is supplied by bandanna scarf, belt or hatband.

Pastels are the favorites. There are luscious shades of peachy pink, lime green, soft yellow and linen blue, which have been developed in homespuns and basket weave tweeds, with exactly matching sets of cardigan and slip-over to go with them.

New Coats Slim

The new coats are slim and molded as to silhouette, but they do things in a big way when it comes to fur. Shoulders are broadened by huge collars and the fur is the long-haired type.

SUMMER VELVET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Now that everyone has found out that there is nothing in the way of a costume more effective and flattering than a pretty summery frock worn with a summery colorful, velvet wrap, designers are giving special attention to creating perfectly stunning coats made of velvet, which of course is "light as a feather" or as dainty and delicate as chiffon, for velvets are just like that nowadays. The model in the picture is fashioned of smoke-gray velvet. Most of the velvet wraps indulge in huge bows as does this one, which makes them all the more attractive and youthful looking. The sable fur bandings on the sleeves are mounted on chiffon colored to the velvet.

BIBLICAL CITY IN DEAD SEA WATER?

May Confirm Destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

A message to the London Times from a correspondent in Cairo stated that an airman flying recently over the southern part of the Dead sea reported having seen a "town lying beneath the water." This town, according to an assistant to Sir Flinders Petrie, interviewed by a representative of the London Observer, is thought of the London Gomorrah or another of the "five Cities of the Plain" that were destroyed at the same time with them. Archeologists are not in agreement as to the probable site of those cities. The northern shores have been considered the most likely. But in the Scriptural record mention is made of a little city nearby named Zoar, a city to which Lot and his daughters fled, a city so small as not to be as wicked as the rest! A city of that name at the south remained into Roman times.

There is abundant evidence that there was a Canaanitish civilization in that region at a time when the plain was "well watered, everywhere as thou goest toward Zoar"—like the garden of the Lord. The place was filled with city states as the Scriptural record suggests, each with its king:

"And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer, king of Elam and Tidal, king of Golim, that they made war with Bera, king of Sodom and with Birsha, king of Gomorrah, Shinab, king of Admah, and Shemeber, king of Zeboiim and the king of Bela (the same is Zoar). All these joined together in the vale of Siddim (the same is the Salt sea)."

Suddenly all the kings departed and with them all the "inhabitants of the cities and that which grew upon the ground," for more than 20 centuries. An "earthquake with fiery eruptions" is postulated, and a consequent general desolation. "And Abraham looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah and toward all the land of the plain and beheld, and lo, the smoke of the land went up as the smoke of a furnace." Perhaps, too, the waters of the Dead sea were, before the disturbance, whatever it was, at a lower level. Now from the airman's height their depths even are visible, and it may be that the sequel of the story of the judgment on Sodom and Gomorrah will be told.

Eczema Burned and Itched Terribly

Healed by Cuticura

"Eczema broke out in pimples on my child's head and later spread to her neck and back. It burned and itched terribly and the little one scratched and cried continually. Her clothing hurt her so that I kept a very thin dress on her. Her hair came out in handfuls and what was left was lifeless and dry. The irritation prevented her from sleeping.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I could see a difference after using them. I purchased more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. K. Thompson, Energy, Texas, July 26, 1932.

SUCH IS LIFE—Tut! Tut! Is That Nice

By Charles Sughroe

Reports City Birth Rate in U. S. Low

Peak of Fertility Found in Rural Districts.

New York.—The nation's intelligence is being nurtured in its metropolitan areas where women are not bearing enough children to reproduce the population while the peak of fertility is in the farming districts, which are least conducive to fostering intelligence. So reported Frederick Osborn, trustee of the American Museum of Natural History and secretary of the Galton society of that institution, at the annual meeting of the American Eugenics society.

Basing his figures on the 1930 census, he said farm women produced about 50 per cent more children than would suffice for equal reproduction. In the cities with populations of more than 100,000, on the other hand, only about half the number of children necessary for permanent replacement are born.

Attacks Fertility Problem.

Mr. Osborn has attacked the problem of fertility and intelligence from the tri-fold point of view of the regional distribution of the population, the occupational, and the ethnic. The distribution of intelligence, he finds, is consistent and significant when studied among regional groups.

"On the whole," he concluded, "the index of cultural-intellectual development bears an inverse relation to the index of fertility. But the most important differences in regional groups are to be found between rural and urban districts. Here the results are almost always consistent, the farm being below the town, the town below the city."

The city child, said Mr. Osborn, generally speaking, had a higher intelligence quotient than his country cousins, yet fewer metropolitan infants were being brought into the world—not enough, in fact, at the present rate to preserve the city's population.

In support of this statement the speaker said a ratio of 368 children of the ages from birth to four years old to every 1,000 women between fifteen and forty-four years of age must be maintained if the population group is to be permanently replaced. On the farms, in 1930, this ratio was 545, or 117 more than needed, he said; in the rural nonfarm group the ratio was 471, in the towns from 2,500 to 100,000 it was 341, while the metropolitan ratio stood at only 293.

Advanced Mentality.

The high states, said Mr. Osborn, show advanced standings in mental tests among children, a low level of mental deficiency as indicated by the army examination, few mistakes in the census and a high circulation of good magazines.

"But it is in the distribution of the population by occupational groups that the widest, the most consistent and the most interesting differences in intelligence are to be found," continued the speaker. "Here it has been found that the children of professional men, such as lawyers, doctors, and ministers, have, when considered in large numbers, consistently the highest intelligence quotient.

"The offspring of business and clerical fathers rank second highest, the skilled and semi-unskilled worker next, the unskilled laborer next, and the children of the farmer are to be found in the rear of the van."

Mr. Osborn said that Washington came first in intelligence, followed by California, Massachusetts, Oregon and Connecticut. Mississippi stood at the bottom of the list, but only .02 points below Louisiana.

Puss Put on Spot by Butcher Birds

Palo Alto, Calif.—The owl and the pussy cat dwell in harmony, as the children's rhyme says, but a butcher bird and a cat are two other fellas.

Otto Schroeder has a cat which chewed up a young butcher bird. That was a long time ago and the cat has since had the toughest period of his ornithological career.

The old butcher birds have been camping in a nearby tree, and every time Schroeder's cat starts into the back yard they zoom at him like a scene from "Hell's Angels."

Schroeder says that his cat is a house cat in more than name, and that in a couple more weeks a canary could chase him into the hills and make a wildcat of him.

A Dictatorship?

by LEONARD A. BARRETT

In the judgment of a large number of persons, the representative form of government in our country seems to be breaking down. The unprecedented power which congress has vested in the President makes it appear as though we are now functioning under a dictatorship. Comparing our country with Italy, some persons have loudly and even boastingly acclaimed that there is very little difference between the power vested in Mussolini and in our own President, both being that of a dictator.

The interesting thing about this criticism is that it is not only very obviously true when judged by only a cursory evaluation of the facts, but when dispassionately studied in the light of the real facts, the criticism is found to be very untrue. The power vested by congress in the President is practically the same as was vested in Woodrow Wilson at the time this country entered the World war. By means of this extraordinary power, the President was able to mobilize an army and get things done more speedily; he was able to eliminate all red tape by not having to refer details to congress. So, the power now vested in the President is by no means a new or untried experiment. It has been exercised before with great advantage and to the best interests of our country.

It also should be remembered that there is a very important difference between the status of this delegated power in Italy and the United States. In the case of our President the power can be returned at any time to congress by a two-thirds vote. There is also no question but that if this invested power were directed toward dangerous ends it would be revoked instantly. The condition in Italy is quite different. Only nominally can it be said that Mussolini is responsible to the king. He is the government with no probability of a recall of that dictatorship, except by force, as might be created by a revolution. In our country it is an emergency measure only, and we can be sure will be voluntarily returned to congress when no longer needed. There is not the slightest possibility that the citizens of our country would ever tolerate, even for a moment, any substitute for our representative form of government. Let no person fear that the Constitution of the United States will ever become impaired.

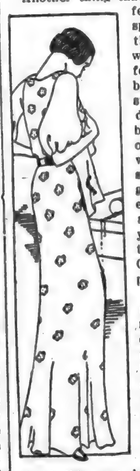
The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

The time to remove a spot or stain is just as soon as it is made. Then it comes out easiest. It does not set and the extraneous substance get ingrained with the fibers of the weave.

Another thing that helps in the effective removal of spots and stains is the knowledge of what made them, for one agent will be required for one substance, and a different one will be needed for another. This is why when taking a spotted or stained garment to a cleaners, the question is always asked, "Can you tell what made the discoloration?" One can see its importance.



Here are some simple things to remember. Spots caused by egg, meat juices and blood, or gravy respond to cold water. Hot water sets the albumen and increases the difficulty of the work. To understand this, one has only to realize the ease with which egg dishes are washed if cold water is first used, and how bothersome it is to get them clean quickly if, by accident, the hot water runs over them. If the substance is a textile fibre, the difficulty of removal is increased, for the same hardening of the albumen occurs.

Gravy stains will require two treatments, but the cold water application should come first. The reason why two different processes are needed is that gravy consists of both meat juices and fat. The cold water takes out the blood, but it hardens the fat. So a second process to remove the grease is needed. Hot water will take out grease stains.

Double and Triple Agents.

Ice cream spots on textiles usually require two processes for removal, one for the fat in the cream, the other for the coloring and when eggs are an ingredient, the cold water treatment may make a third. Use cold water first for it will take out whatever responds to it. Then for fruit pour boiling water through the spot. Having done these things, wash the places with white laundry soap and warm water.

The various remedies given are applicable to wash goods and those in which colors are fast. The textiles may be wool, cotton, linen, silk—any kinds which are not impaired by hot and cold water and white laundry soap.

Encouraging Friendship.

"All my friends like you," I heard one young woman say to another.

"You say such nice things about me," was the reply. "Everyone is looking for the nice qualities you tell them I have."

This was all I heard, but it was enough to set me thinking of the influence on others that our remarks about people make. We can set the minds working to make friends or to break them, to make persons wish to know those of whom we speak, or to hesitate to meet them. We can light a torch of friendship and hand it to another, and it will lighten her mind to see the good points in those we love. We can dim the brightness of friendships by uttering comments derogatory of others. In such little ways as passing comments can we render persons agreeable or disagreeable to know.

There is more said about the strife which unkindly remarks cause than about the harmony which kind words create. It is a mistake not to accent the good as much as the bad when the good is equally potent, and good words are as powerful as unkind ones. The nice things we say have as strong an influence as the disagreeable ones.

Seven-Year Chess Game at Last Comes to End

Portland, Ore.—Walter J. Dodge, of Portland, recently completed a chess game that started in 1926, seven years ago, and believes that he holds a record of some kind.

His opponent was George S. Dodge, of Montebello, Calif., a brother. The two men played a game, which was one of three chess contests started by mail in 1922 between three Stanford university chums. The three pals decided chess games by mail were at least one way of keeping alive their college friendship.

Alan E. Payne was third member of the chess clique. He plays one of the Dodges while the other "rests." The brothers compete in the third tilt.

First contests were completed in 1926, after a mere four years of cogitation and planning of moves. The next series, which was just completed, took seven years. An average of ten moves a year was made in the last game, Dodge reported.

TRUTH OF SALUTE TO FRENCH HERO

"Lafayette, We Are Here!" Said by Col. Stanton.

The late Col. Charles E. Stanton, who said "Lafayette, we are here!" had the strange experience of coining a probably immortal phrase and of hearing it credited almost as often as it was quoted to another man. Even President Wilson and Marshal Foch in formal addresses attributed to General Pershing the famous saying at the tomb of Lafayette in Picpus cemetery on July 4, 1917. It was a natural error, for General Pershing did speak extemporaneously on that occasion and it was easy for those not present to confuse his remarks with the preceding speech of Colonel Stanton that ended in the supremely appropriate salute to the French hero.

The fact of Colonel Stanton's authorship was never in doubt; it was early asserted in this newspaper and elsewhere in direct rebuttal of the Pershing fiction. But when a legend gains momentum it rolls on and on. It seemed doubtful that a disclaimer by General Pershing himself could right the popular mistake. Colonel Stanton, for his part, sealed his lips and with the most soldierly conception of duty permitted the world-renowned saying to be given constantly to his friend and commander. If General Pershing for 13 years made no emphatic effort publicly to dispel the myth he demolished it handsomely when he came to publish his memoirs in 1931 in these words: "It was on this occasion that utterance was given to an expression that could be born only of inspiration, one that will live long in history; 'Lafayette, we are here!' Many have attributed this striking utterance to me and I have often wished it could have been mine. But I have no recollection of saying anything so splendid. I am sure those words were spoken by Colonel Stanton and to him must go the credit for so happy and felicitous a phrase."

It was only after this declaration that Colonel Stanton said he had "remained quiescent during all these years, having a firm belief that historical accuracy would eventually prevail." The gallant and modest colonel had the final assurance that his contribution to the golden treasury of quotations would bear his name.—New York Herald-Tribune.

On the fourteenth of June, 1777, Congress officially adopted the stars and stripes as the banner of the nation, and early in August of that year, the new flag was first flown in battle, at Fort Stanwix on the Mohawk River, in the state of New York. Although the general design has remained unaltered, the United States never has had precisely the same flag in any two wars. Of all the poets who made the flag a theme for their verse, Francis Scott Key is best known. His house in Washington was torn down a few years ago to make room for the abutments of a new bridge, but his last resting place, at Frederick, Md., is within an hour's drive for those Washingtonians who care for a patriotic pilgrimage on Flag Day.

It was not at the eleventh hour, but more exactly speaking, at ten-thirty at night, that the Senate passed the National Industry Recovery Bill, by a vote of 57 to 24. An analysis of the provisions of the measure would fill more space than can be allotted to it here. It is sufficient to state that the President is authorized to establish a code of fair competition for any line of business, and that such business may be carried on only under federal license. The interest in the act centers less in its exact terms than in the possibilities of its application and enforcement. Such matters as the control of the grade of a product, hours of labor, price, and shop conditions do not appear to be beyond its contemplation. What the Senate disposed of almost as a matter of routine on a hot June night in 1933, may be looked back upon as the most important piece of legislation of the decade, of the century, or even of the entire history of legislative enactment in America.

Members of the Morgan firm are serving as directors in more than eighty-five corporations. The unemploymet fog still hangs in the valleys, but the mountain tops seem to be reasonably clear.

It seems as though the chief business of the World Economic Conference was to persuade the United States that it would have to accept ten per cent or nothing.

There is a grim sternness to be read between the lines of the account of a plane crash at Chicago, which took a toll of seven lives. Man covers acres of ground with exhibition buildings to show what he has accomplished, but the elements sprinkle them with air plane wreckage as a none too gentle reminder that he still has something to learn.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

SUMMER Sundays are play days for wage earners. Why should not the housekeeper have a restful and pleasant day also, even though hers is a seven day job! If her family will cooperate, she can plan and serve meals which raquire a minimum of time to be spent in the kitchen.

Food stores are helping the housewife in this matter and are offering foods which can be easily and quickly prepared on Sunday or prepared on Saturday for Sunday use. Why not spare yourself during the hot months? The low cost and medium cost dinners suggested by the Quaker Maid Kitchen can be prepared with little trouble.

Fresh foods which will prove tempting this week-end are watermelon and cantaloupe, new cabbage, spinach, green peas and lettuce. Ingredients for salad making and dressing should not be forgotten by the week-end shopper.

Low Cost Dinner

Pan-broiled Shoulder Lamb or Veal Chops
Boiled New Potatoes
Buttered Beets
Bread and Butter
Cantaloupe
Coffee or Tea Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Lamb Chops or Veal Cutlet with Chili Sauce
Creamed Parsley Potatoes
Spinach with Hard-cooked Egg
Mint or Apple Jelly
Bread and Butter
Tapioca Cream with Sliced Bananas
Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

Cantaloupe
Broiled Beefsteak or Fried Chicken
Boiled Rice Green Beans
Pickled Peaches
Rolls and Butter
Chili Sauce Aspic on Lettuce
Spanish Cream
Coffee Milk

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil VanZile, of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Purree Guegienot, spent an evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Draggoo. Ice cream was served.

Mrs. John Fetters entertained the Jones, Camp and Calendar reunion last Sunday. They sure had a nice day, a good crowd and a bountiful dinner. In the afternoon ice cream was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr and daughter, Cleota and Mrs. Josephine Getts, of Hamilton, attended the commencement exercises of Ball State teachers college at Muncie on last Wednesday. Robert Morr was a member of the graduating class.

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

Every move to put the city, state or federal government into business cuts the taxable assets of the country on the one hand, while increasing the tax bill on the other. As tax-exempt government projects increase, business opportunities of the private citizen are destroyed—also his taxable income.

BILL NYE'S COW FOR SALE

Every fair trade is advantageous to all the parties to it.

Every person wishing to make a trade should give all the essential facts about it.

But selling an article and telling the truth do not always go together, though of course they should do so. At any rate, exaggerations are too often regarded admissable and in good form.

The late Bill Nye, then a resident of Asheville, North Carolina, did not fall into this temptation when he offered a cow for sale. Here is the advertisement which he inserted in the papers:

"Owing to ill health, I will sell at my residence in township 19, range 18, according to government survey, one plush raspberry cow, aged eight years. She is a good milker and not afraid of the cars or anything else. She is of undaunted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her house at present by means of a stay chain, but she will be sold to onyone who will agree to use her right. She is one-fourth Shorthorn and three-fourths hyena. I will also throw in a double-barrel shotgun which goes with her. In May she generally goes away for a week and returns with a tall red calf with wobbly legs. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell her to a non-resident."

It is not stated whether the humorist disposed of his cow. But if he did, the buyer knew what he was getting.

GIVE THE KIDS A BREAK

School's out! Thousands of children all over the country are pouring forth from the classrooms to spend their days out of doors during the summer months. It's time for motorists to be more alert than ever—unless they are, many of these children will be injured or even killed as they traverse the streets and highways to fields and playgrounds.

The schools have done a fine job training youngsters to watch out for themselves. In consequence, when the statistics of adult and child pedestrian accidents are compared, the children are shown to be better. They are more safety conscious.

In spite of this good work 3,400 boys and girls between the ages of five and fourteen were killed last year and 152,550 were injured, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Drivers, give these youngsters the right of way; drive slowly and cautiously through residential districts; and watch out for the child who darts out from behind a parked car. Every daylight hour should be a safety hour now that school is closed. Help to reduce child fatalities, and give the kids a break!

Storm Hits Here Sunday

And Lays Waste to Much Property and Trees. Heavy Rainfall and of Course was Welcomed by Farmers

The long drought, which has parched St. Joe and the adjacent community, was broken on Sunday of this week, when the most terrific storm for a long period of time, broke with relentless fury, leaving, in places, destruction in its wake.

At the noon hour, or thereabout, storm clouds were observed hanging in the Western horizon. Suddenly raindrops were falling, while the wind, accompanied by hail, began increasing in volume, until it assumed all the aspects of a tornado. A peculiarity was noted, in that the first storm, the wind blew in from a north-west to a south-east direction; this was followed, after a comparative short interval, by another one whose origin had its point of beginning in a south-westerly direction, thus crossing the path of the first storm. It was perhaps, the first storm which wrought the most destruction to property as it was accompanied by hail, and wind of a higher velocity. The hail shredded crops in some places, while trees were completely uprooted and broken limbs tossed about in profusion. Land which was parched before the rain, assumed the aspect of small lakes in the depressed spots. In the path of the first and most destructive hurricane, losses of trees were sustained, buildings struck by lightning, overturned and otherwise injured. On the Hattie Widney, Harry Draggoo, Cora Maxwell and Jane Coburn farms, north and east of town, trees were uprooted, the largest number, being on the Coburn farm, where four basswoods, (or Lindens) one catalpa, and, in the orchard an apple tree were completely uprooted. The basswoods were in front of the house, and highly prized by the family, both for the shade they furnished and for their beauty.

William Hamilton's corn crib was blown down, as well as an ash tree, which stood as a lonely sentinel in the midst of a field to the south of the house. The large willow, which for years has been a familiar landmark on the Harry Draggoo farm was a victim of the storm's fury.

Those who are sentimentally inclined, will perhaps recall the words of Joyce Kilmer, that:

"Rhymes are made by fools like me;
But only God can make a tree."

From reports coming in from adjoining communities, it appears that our storm was local, and confined to a comparative small area, that while we enjoyed the benefits of the copious rains, they escaped the damage and loss which accompanied it.

At the O. E. Ginther farm south of town one of the old pioneer elm trees was thrown to mother earth, breaking a trunk of about four feet in diameter off at about eight feet above the ground. While old and some what rotten, yet it took considerable wind to lay it on the bosom of mother earth.

Wm. Miller, west of town, lost one of his best cows by being struck by lightning while grazing in the field, and Mrs. Lorenz Means lost 14 chickens.

The Buckingham home suffered damage by water when the chimney was blown onto the house, puncturing the roof.

Bert Jackson's home suffered damage caused by water, and the Frank Akins home suffered several window lights being broken by hail.

Joe Foltz's corn field was riddled by hail, and water flooded the muck land east of the school house.

Lightning that struck the barn on the farm of George Strong, two miles north-east of St. Joe, resulted in the complete destruction of the building and contents.

Mr. Strong had just placed some alfalfa hay in the barn and the contents also included some poultry and a quantity of new shingles.

The barn was insured for $300 and the contents for $600 in the DeKalb County Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and this will cover the loss.

The fire department made the run but the heavy rain delayed their arrival, but the property could not have been saved.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Advisory Board and Trustee of Concord Township will receive sealed bids for the services of one school bus driver for the ensuing school year on Tuesday, July 18, at 8 o'clock P. M., at the schol building in St. Joe. The board will open all bids submitted and award the contract to the lowest and best responsible bidder.

O. K. SHULL.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the St. Joe Fire Department and the whole community for the help given to prevent the spread of the fire that destroyed our barn.

Strong Brothers.

HAIL TO A SAFE FOURTH

Independence Day of old was celebrated with reckless abandon. Hundreds of persons of all ages lost their lives playing with fireworks, guns and explosives. Others were drowned or killed in motor accidents. Now, the Fourth divides catastrophe "honors" with almost any week-end; except by virtue of the ceasless efforts of safety organizations and accident and fire prevention workers, it is apt to be a shade safer. This is because people are keyed to its imminent hazards. They are safety conscious.

Last year, on the "morning after," the Associated Press reported 119 motor vehicle deaths, 90 drownings, 10 fireworks fatalties and 26 deaths from other causes—a total of 245. This is disgraceful enough, but superior to the 1931 toll of 354. No one knows the extent of serious or minor injuries, because only a fraction of them is reported. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness estimates that 50 persons lose completely the sight of one or both eyes and that 500 more suffer minor eye injuries every year. This record is made by fireworks alone.

In recognition of the chief holiday hazards, fireworks, automobiles and swimming, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters offers the following advice:

If you go off on a motor trip make sure your car is in safe operating condition; drive safely; keep to the right; drive at a reasonable speed; have 500 feet of clear distance ahead before you attempt to pass other cars. Watch out for pedestrians.

If you go swimming—swim in safe places. Things to examine are tides, currents, depths, sunken debris and impurities. Be sure to stay within your limits. Wait at least two hours after eating, and then take along a friend for safety's sake.

If you must use fireworks—be on the alert every minute. Give yourself plenty of space. Keep them away from inflammable materials. Keep away from smaller children and animals. Cauterize all small cuts and bruises immediately—tetanus poisoning is swift and deadly. The best advice about fireworks is: Use something else.

Remember all safety rules: and "All hail to a safe Fourth!"

INCOME PAYMENTS BEGIN SATURDAY

Indianapolis, Indiana, June 28. Indiana's new era in taxation will be opened officially Saturday, July 1, when first payments will be made under the new gross income tax law which was designed to lift a part of the property tax burden and equalize the tax load.

Estimates by the gross income tax division, announced by Clarence A. Jackson, director, indicate that at least 200,000 persons who have never paid any taxes will be placed on the records under the new law and begin paying their share of the cost of the government.

Backed by property owners throughout the state, the gross income tax law was passed by large margins in the 1933 legislature. For two months, Jackson has directed activities aimed at making it easy for the people of the state to comply with the law and difficult for them to evade the law.

Saturday, the new era begins. At automobile license bureau branches throughout the state, blanks for making the returns are available. These blanks are exceedingly simple. They occupy only one side of an ordinary letterhead size sheet of paper.

The regulations governing the application of the law have fixed several general policies. Among the more important are:

The test of the tax liability on receipts from a sale is whether or not the sale was made to the user or consumer. If the sale is to the user or consumer, the retail tax of one per cent applies except in the case of sales to manufacturers who use the article sold in processing their products. In the latter case, the wholesale rate of one-fourth of one per cent applies.

If the taxpayer has more than one type of income, he may report them in separate columns and pay the proper rate of tax upon each part of his income.

Tax need not be paid until January 15, 1934, on receipts from sales made outside the state but records of such sales must be kept and the tax paid at that time on all such sales made since May 1, 1933.

More detailed information can be obtained at the automobile license bureau branches.

As a further assistance to the taxpayer, the gross income tax division has arranged for 60 trained field auditors of the state board of accounts to be present in the license bureaus during the week of July 10 to July 15. Those men will help taxpayers with complicated problems to fill out their returns, without cost to the taxpayer.

Each of the returns must be notarized. License bureaus are authorized to notarize the returns at a charge not to exceed 10 cents. The taxpayer, however, may have his return notarized anywhere.

Neither the license bureaus nor the state board of accounts men will be authorized to accept money. Payments must be made direct to the gross income tax division. Facilities for handling returns at the license bureaus and for making it impossible for the taxpayer to take care of the entire matter on one trip, are being worked out.

It is up to the person or company who owes the tax to get the blank and make the return. There will be no collection agents and if the return is not filed, the taxpayer is subject to penalties.

Any individual who took in less than $166.67 during the months of May and June in cash or something accepted as cash, need not worry about the gross income tax law. The unemployed and those making less than $83.34 a month will pay no direct taxes under the law.

The same rule applies to business concerns. However, all individuals and businesmen taking in more than $166.67 during the two months of May and June have been requested to file a return on this first taxpaying period. Unless the gross income amounts to the rate of $5,000 a year, no more returns need be made until January 15, 1934 and annually thereafter.

The gross income tax return blank is arranged so that the average individual will need take only two or three minutes to make out his return. It has space for reporting the various types of income. Only totals will be entered in the blank, for each kind of income. Detailed records are not given on the blank but such records must be kept by the taxpayer.

After listing all income, the taxpayer deducts his exemption of $166.67 and pays the tax on the difference.

WHY EVERY FARMER SHOULD BE INTERESTED IN THE STATE FAIR

September 2nd to 8th, Inclusive—Entries Close Wednesday, August 6th

The Indiana State Fair furnishes a medium of advertising unexcelled for the livestock breeders and grain growers. A good prize won at this fair will mean many dollars added to the sale value of the product, and under these changing conditions in agriculture, it is imperative that every farmer take advantage of every opportunity to develop a special market for his product.

The educational advantages received by actual participation in the State Fair Exhibit by individual farmers are of real value to men who are striving to produce the best. The exchange of opinion, mingling with other exhibitors from this state and others, receiving the comment of expert judges all tend to crystalize opinions and render the individual farmer more exact in his judgments relative to the practices of crop and livestock breeding. Even though he does not win one of the high ribbons, he will have a comparison that will mean much to him and will place him in a position to go back next year with a better exhibit.

To own one of those purple ribbons is a great ambition in many a farmer's life, something that can never be taken away from him. The only way to be a progressive breeder of livestock or at the head of the community in agriculture is to be able to produce the best and to convince your community by winning one of the high prizes at one of the greatest State Fairs in the Union. —The Indiana State Fair.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION AFFECTING DEPOSITS

The Glass-Steagall bill is the most recent federal legislation passed affecting the payment of interest on time deposits, and the state banking department has issued orders for all state banks to refrain from the payment of interest on such deposits until such order is received from the Federal Reserve System authorizing the release of interest moneys to be paid. The department further states that regulations are expected shortly.

Andrew Carnegie was once asked which he considered the most important, EARNING, SAVING, or SPENDING? He replied by asking this simple question: "Which of the legs of a stool is the most important?"
With most people, EARNING is a slow process, but SAVING is a much slower one. That's because SPENDING is so easy. This margin between income and the necessities of life is not wide. Every dollar SAVED represents hard work and self denial.

FOR FAILURE PROOF BANKING STRUCTURE

Speaker Outlines Threefold Co-operation Between Bankers, Government Officials and the Public to Maintain Bank Standards

TWO elements beside the bankers themselves are required in order to give the nation universally the type of banking it should have, Francis H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address. He said that the efficiency of government officials upon whom the people rely to supervise the banks properly, and the patronage of the people themselves are factors in the kind of banks a community shall have.

"There can be no question that the people of the United States should have banks immune from failure and wholly free from bad or questionable banking," Mr. Sisson said. "It is not enough, as President Roosevelt has said, that while some bankers had been incompetent or dishonest, this was not true in the vast majority of our banks. A situation should exist in which there is not even a small minority of bankers open to question. There should be no room for dishonesty or incompetency to exercise any influence in banking anywhere.

"While bad faith and bad management enter the human factor in all types of business, their effects in banking should be surrounded by such special safeguards as to render them no longer a factor in bank failures. The responsibility for bringing this about, however, cannot rest upon the bankers alone, for the means to accomplish it are not wholly in their hands. There are other essential elements.

"One is the efficiency of government supervision. Since we rely so greatly upon supervision, it may, unless it is of the highest order in safeguarding the public interest, create a sense of false security. Supervision should render bad banking impossible, but it has failed to do so. There was supervision by presumably the highest type of bank supervisors in every one of the instances of questionable banking that has shocked the attention of the country during the past three years. Therefore a thorough strengthening of supervision is clearly called for if the people are to rely on it to the fullest extent for the protection of their interests.

The Public's Part

"Another essential factor in maintaining good banks involves the part played by the public in banking. There is certainly a responsibility on the people themselves to support that type of banker whose rigid adherence to sound principles makes a sound bank, rather than to give their patronage to the easy going banker who may be easier to do business with, but whose methods create a weak bank.

"Bank customers are charged with a great responsibility in protecting the safety of their banks in respect to their utilization of the assets of the banks as borrowers. Banks have failed because many of their loans and securities, created in good faith by bankers in cooperating with the business interests of the country, proved unsound under subsequent conditions. An unsound loan is created by the borrower as well as the banker. A bank is only as sound as its community, and this applies also to the banking structure as a whole in relation to the economic condition of the nation as a whole.

"A bank is truly a semi-public institution, but in a reciprocal sense—it has its obligations to the public, but so has the public equal obligations to the bank. No one who has not sound banking principles at heart has any business in a bank whether as a banker or as a customer.

"The banker is a semi-public servant. He is charged with the heaviest of responsibilities and obligations that occur in our economic life. But he can meet these fully only through the cooperation of good laws, good public officials who are empowered to exercise authority over his bank, and good business methods on the part of business men generally who utilize his bank. Only through such cooperation by all elements in our nation's community life can we be assured of a failure-proof banking structure.

"The Administration at Washington has taken hold of this problem with a firm grasp of essentials and is exercising splendid leadership toward the desired end. The strongest feature of the government program will be found in recognizing the joint responsibility of the public, of business and of government officials together with the bankers themselves in creating the kind of banking the nation should have."

Improved Pasture Pays

IMPROVED pastures are a cheap source of feed for stock. A farmer in New Hampshire, cooperating with his county agent top-dressed his 5 acres of pasture with 500 pounds of complete fertilizer at a cost of $75, reports the United States Department of Agriculture. After 4 weeks he turned his cows out on this pasture. Tests made during the six weeks the cows grazed there showed that his herd produced 7,000 pounds more milk than they did in the same period the previous year, although the farmer had one cow fewer and fed 800 pounds less grain. Based on current milk prices he made $189 on the extra milk and saved $16 on the grain, netting him an increase in income of $120.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

DISPELS MYSTERY OF BANK BUSINESS

Country Banker Gives Simplified Picture of How a Bank Works to Help Other People's Business

A COUNTRY banker recently prepared the following simplified statement for his neighbors on just how a bank goes about helping them:

"It is the most important part of a bank's business to lend money. Of all the money deposited in a bank, the law requires that a certain percentage be kept on hand as a reserve to meet the demands of depositors. It is the business of its officers to lend the balance conservatively and safely.

"The loans of a properly managed bank are invariably made to those it believes are able to repay, and always on condition that they be repaid at a stipulated time.

"The promise of an individual to repay a loan to a bank on a certain date is as sacredly inviolable as the promise of a bank to repay its depositors on demand, or, in the case of a certificate of deposit, on the date it falls due. When it comes to be known of an individual that he 'always pays,' his credit is established and his bank is always glad to extend him needed accommodations.

"A well managed bank never capitalizes industries. That is, it does not place its loans in fixed form, but puts them where they are to be used for temporary requirements, and where they will be taken up at the time specified.

How a Bank Lends

"It is not the function of a bank to become a partner in industries, nor could it be legitimately done with the money of depositors. Its loans must be kept in 'liquid' form,—that is, repayable in cash at stated intervals.

"A bank must use the greatest discrimination in making loans. A stranger cannot expect accommodations. It is customary for the borrower to make a statement of his financial affairs, which is kept in the bank's records. It is a punishable offense to make a false statement for the purpose of borrowing funds.

"Naturally, in their dealing with the regular depositors of the bank, its officers become well acquainted with their characters and their resources and are thus in a position to determine how large a line of credit each one is entitled to. That is one of the great advantages of being a bank depositor.

"The man who knows how to get into debt wisely, that is, who borrows money with which to make more money through legitimate enterprise, is the borrower whom the bank is looking for. By the frank interchange of opinion and a free discussion of various projects, the borrower is often guided and helped by his banker.

"In order to procure a line of credit at a bank three things are important:

"1. A statement of assets showing a basis of credit in the way of invested capital, or collateral of sufficient value to cover amount of loan, or

"2. An endorser whose credit is established at the bank; and

"3. Average deposits of a sufficient amount to justify the extension of the desired accommodation."

AS WILL ROGERS SEES IT

Will Rogers recently told why the banks had got into trouble. "Don't blame it all on the bankers," he said. "When we all needed money they loaned it to us—but when they needed it we couldn't pay it back."

Advertising Aids Business Revival

NEW YORK.—Aggressive concerns are expanding business by effective advertising despite depressed business conditions, declared A. W. Diller, advertising counsel, at a bankers' conference here recently.

"Is 1933 a good year in which to advertise?" Mr. Diller asked. "Yes, if 1933 is a good year to stay in business, to reinforce the public's confidence in you, to put more business on the books. There is new business to be had today and aggressive companies are getting it. But new business will come in only if you go out for it. Advertising certainly goes out for it.

"Will people read newspaper advertisements these days? They will read anything that interests them. There are plenty of present-day arguments for business."

Advertising Mistakes

A QUESTION before many of us is what change of advertising policy, if any, should be made in view of present financial and business conditions. It is perfectly natural for us to give consideration to some degree of retrenchment, but it is dangerous to let reduction in expenditure be such as to bring about a real gap in the continuity of the advertising. It is a common mistake for some advertisers to think that they can turn advertising on and off, like water from a faucet, and expect it to become immediately effective whenever they are prepared to resume operations. Advertising does not work that way. Temporary conditions should not influence us to make too serious inroads on the program of advertising, which can be wisely conceived only on a long term basis.—Francis H. Sisson, President American Bankers Association.

WINONA LAKE BIBLE CONFERENCE

The program for the thirty-ninth annual Bible Conference at Winona Lake, Indiana, is one of the very best that has yet been presented. This conference carries the name of being "The World's Greatest Bible Conference." It is well known that it is the greatest from the standpoint of attendance, the attendance ranging from 2000 to 8000, and it would, indeed, be difficult to see how it could be made any greater in the character of its program and the richness of its spiritual tone. Winona is conservative and it cares for no one on its program with any uncertain tone in his message. The date of the conference for this season is Friday, August 11, through Sunday, August 20.

SHIPPING FIREWOOD TO IDAHO

Idahoans living in the southwest section of the state, Boise, looking with interest at the unloading of the cars from "back east" had their curiosity intrigued as carloads of wood billets were unloaded from the baggage cars of the special trains bearing the young foresters from the wilds of New Jersey to Idaho, said the Post-Register.

"What are those things for?" was the natural question asked by natives of the officers in charge. "That is firewood for the camps," was the answer given. Too astonished for the moment to comment the Idahoans went into a huddle, hardly able to believe their senses and still unbelieving again asked the question, with the same answer given.

Transporting firewood across the continent from the Atlantic seaboard by passenger train to Idaho was a poser. The young foresters are not to blame; they were just sent west to help clear the forest land of surplus and down timber—much of which will have to be burned. Someone in authority though is due for a good "jacking" up. Idaho probably has more wood for fire, fuel and other purposes than most any section of the Union.

An explanation which may throw some reasonableness on the situation was given by an army officer in Idaho Falls recently. When asked the reason why the wood was carried into Idaho he replied. "There are you know, forest areas in the west, the Humbolt national forest of Nevada, where there is not a stick of timber for scores of miles, making it necessary to ship wood in for camp fires and cooking as the Humbolt national forests are all grazing lands with the imported foresters to do road work."

The explanation is all right for Nevada but it would seem national forest and army officers back in Washington would know their Idaho and country at large sufficiently well to know it is not necessary to ship express cars of firewood to the forests of Idaho. Just another one of things that is hard to understand—and harder to explain.

BOY, AGE 8, STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE DIES

Harry Baron, of Near Newville, Passed Away in Auburn Hospital Thursday Noon

Harry Baron, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baron, residing a half mile north of Newville, died at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning at the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital in Auburn as the result of injuries received Wednesday afternoon when struck by an automobile.

Col. P. G. Kemp, of Chicago, connected with the Aviation Corporation, driver of an Auburn Automobile Co. courtesy car which hit the boy, received several fractured ribs when the automobile overturned. The boy sustained a fractured skull, cuts and lacerations on the face, a broken right femur and the skin and muscles of his left knee were torn off. He was taken to Auburn by Charles King of Detroit, Mich., a motorist who passed shortly after the accident.

Col. Kemp, who attended the funeral of the late Emory O. Perry, vice president of operations of the Auburn Automobile Co. Wednesday afternoon, was driving to Dayton, Ohio. He observed the boy some distance ahead in the highway trundling a small express wagon with vegetables from his father's truck patch where the boy had been working. Mr. Kemp feared to sound the automobile horn for the reason he did not wish to frighten him and just as the driver was about to pass him, the boy turned to the side of the highway directly in front of the car. Col. Kemp headed the car into the ditch to avoid striking the lad and in doing so struck loose gravel which turned the car over.

After extricating himself, Col. Kemp started to look for the boy and he found him underneath the left side of the car. Removing the injured boy from beneath the automobile, Col. Kemp carried him under a tree and felt of him to ascertain if his heart was beating.

Some motorists passing at the time offered assistance by unloading their car, but meantime Mr. King happened to pass and as his car was empty he placed the boy in his machine and hastened to the hospital with him.

As soon as Col. Kemp returned to Auburn he reported the accident to Sheriff Hoff.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the U. B. Church by Rev. C. W. Moore. Burial in Riverside cemetery.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club held its annual midsummer meeting on Friday afternoon, June 30th at the home of Mrs. Golden High of Spencerville. The destination was kept a secret and the ladies met at The News office and were conveyed to the scene of festivities by Mr. Charlie Cochran.

Mrs. High's attractive yard was decorated with Japanese lanterns, chimes and festoons and was a very delightful spot for the business session which ensued.

After business had been disposed of the guests spent a pleasant social hour, during which the committee in charge served dainty refreshments consisting of Japanese rice cakes and tea, strawberry ice cream and lemonade. The tea tables were charming with flowers, hollyhock favors and butterfly napkins.

After the tea, which was accompaeied by a great deal of conversation and exchange of vacation plans, the meeting was broken up, and the party returned to St. Joe, again piloted by Mr. Cochran. Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner of Spencerville and Mrs. Loretta Hull were guests.

The committee in charge of the very delightful meeting was as follows: Nina Kees, Lillian Buckingham, DeLora Curie and Lela Northrup.

WATERLOO BOYS DROWN IN PIT

Two Waterloo youths, Robert Miser, 13, and Edward Deitzen, 14, were drowned in the Bonecutter gravel pit near Waterloo Sunday evening, and were recovered about 11:30.

Details of the accident as related to Dr. Shook of Spencerville, county coroner, were that young Miser had eaten dinner at the Deitzen home, after which the boys went to the pit soon afterwards. They fished and played waterball for some time and returned to the house about 5 o'clock. After eating lunch it is believed that the boys returned to the pit to swim and were drowned shortly after.

The Deitzen boy could not swim. The indications are that, losing his footing after getting into deep water, he struggled with the Miser boy who probably tried to help him to the ledge of the pit. It appears that he might have become panicky and struck the Miser boy, as the latter's face appeared to be bruised as if he had been struck by the Deitzen boy's fist. The supposition is that both boys went down together, Deitzen dragging the Miser boy under the water in his struggles.

Seach for the two boys did not start until late for the reason that the parents of the two boys thought each was at the home of the other.

Robert was a grandson of Charles Miser, DeKalb county assessor. He is survived by his parents and two sisters. Edward was the eldest of a family of small children. His mother died two years ago.

AFTERNOON TEA

Mrs. Nina Kees, chairman of the mid-year entertaining committee of the L. L. C., delightfully served at her home on Wednesday July 5 a dainty appointed tea consisting of sandwiches, cream puffs and cake. The ladies comprising the committee were Mesdames Lillian Buckingham, DeLora Curie, Lela Northrup and Golden High.

The FORGOTTEN Woman

THE newspapers have been full of the "Forgotten Man." But how about the "Forgotten Woman"? We don't hear anything of her She is the woman who apparently lives a 1933 life, but is back with her grandmother in one important respect. She does her housework in out-of-date ways that waste youth, health and time ...Yet it is not because there are no easy means for making housekeeping simple and pleasant. The means exist—the appliances are easy to own and economical to operate. For instance, observe the ease with which a woman who has an electric refrigerator does her marketing—she buys in quantity and saves time and money. The electric vacuum cleaner, the washing machine, the electric range—to name only a few—are all labor saving appliances appreciated and utilized by the modern woman. Visit your electrical dealer and ask him to show you the newest electrical devices which have given a "new deal" to women.

THINK AHEAD!

Money is saved in the household by buying VALUE, not PRICE.

Every year coal is used— yet too few urge buying the winter's supply early in the Summer—a time when it is always cheaper, because it is out of season.

Early buying of fuel is an annual economy. More than that, you get a good preparation by taking it off of the car, but best of all is that satisfaction you are going to feel when the first snappy days of Autumn arrives and find your basement filled with the best kind of fuel.

Why not give us your order now and avoid any uncertainty of supply duringthe fall and winter months. You may have your choice of the following kinds:

DUNDON — MANHATTAN — AND PIONEER POCAHONTAS AND NO. 2 COKE—SEE US.

Our elevator will pay you the highest market price for your grain at all times. We have feeds of all kinds.

Was Out Bid

The young fellow who lost his pocketbook containing $600, at the dance, got up on a chair and said: "I will give $50 to the man who finds it." Some fellow back in the crowd said: "I'll give $75.00."

There would have been no NEED for a REWARD nor for the Smart Alex to have raised the bid, if the young man had deposited his money at our Bank and carried a check book for nobody would have bid $75 for that. It is the SAFE way to handle money. We invite YOUR account.

Memories of That Five Leafed Ivy Vine

Most of the residents of our little village and vicinity recall the little brown cottage that stood on River Street, near the little old St. Joe River, and was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Murray and daughters, and will recall the lovey Ivy Vine intertwined with pink roses, that covered the north side of the cottage. How much in early days it was admired. In the following poem, written by Mrs. Mabel Murray Erick, as "A Tribute to her Mother," she gives us the story of that Ivy Vine:

FIVE LEAFED IVY

Just a bit of Five Leafed Ivy,
But what memories you recall;
Whene'er I catch a glimpse of you
Clinging closely to the wall.

For I was but a little lass,
One beautiful spring day,
In the woodland mid the flowers
With my playmates gay.

When my Mother chanced to see you
In your bed of mossy green,
So mid the treasures in our basket
She tucked you in between.

There carefully she placed you
Near our cottage by the stream;
The little house where I was born
In those days of golden dreams.

In the cool and shady north side
Beside the chummy roses, roses pink;
Nearby the well of sparkling water cool
Where many came to drink.

Although many years have come and gone
And her hands are now at rest,
Each year you seem more beautiful
To the many you have blessed.

Your dainty tendrils in the spring
Seem like an etching rare;
And throughout the summer days
You've formed a shelter there.

Where squirrels scamper mid the vines
Anr birds sing a roundelay,
And chatter daily all day long
As children do at play.

I don't know when I love you best
It's very hard to say;
You're so lovely when the roses bloom
And from the house top o'er you sway.

While just beneath your leaves so green
The ground is covered quite
With lilies of the valley
And wild violets, blue as night.

And sometimes ferns have flourished there
Beneath a window sill,
While a clump of white spirea
Seems the picture frame to fill.

Quite recently I gazed in awe,
At the splendor of the scene,
For Jack Frost had by his magic touce
Changed the Ivy leaves of green,

To colors of the richest reds,
From bright to tawny hue;
And peeping forth just here and there
Berries, of grape like blue.

And, as I gazed in admiration,
At what might test an artist's skill
A Blue-jay perched on the edge of the roof,
And caused an added thrill.

He tarried but a moment
Ere he resumed his way.
But he left me a beautiful message
The black and white, the blue and gray.

Above these wonderful autumn leaves,
And I seemed to understand
'Twas a picture sent to teach more love
For God and Home and Native Land.

It is said that recognition of Soviet Russia is near, so near in fact that the name of the first ambassador to the reconstructed land of the former czars has been mentioned. Communism is a hard thing for the average American to swallow, and recognition of the Soviet Republic meas that the pill will have to go down, in spite of aforetime protests. The present is an appropriate season for anyone to try almost anything. Perhaps Russia's claim to notice is no more scandalous than the claims of other lands respecting the payment of their just debts.

A former bank president has been acquitted by a jury of cheating Uncle Sam out of about a million dollar income tax. Thus the matter is disposed of finally, and what he did was right. The government made a mistake in asking for so much. Let it be hoped that a judge, jury and good lawyer will arise, who will be able to read errors into the tax collector's demands upon those at the foot of the list.

William the Conqueror sailed across the channel from France, cleaned up the English, took over the running of the country for keeps. England dislodged France from her holdings in North America. France helped the United States win freedom from England. The English and Germans trimmed Napoleon at Waterloo. The Americans, French and English made things hot for Germany in the World War. According to latest reports, France is trying to form a coalition with England to whip the American dollar. Why look for amusement in such simple things as jig-saw puzzles when there are international relations to figure out?

The names of three Washington men are said to be on the roll of those hoarding gold. Who would have supposed that there were that many persons in the capitol city who preferred private gain to public welfare?

The string of states voting down the Eighteenth Amendment continues to lengthen. Future historians, however, will have the task of deciding whether the wet vote of the present time indicated a wholesale desire to get soused, or simply disgust with the bootlegger.

THAT VACATION

That vacation you are planning is like your purse. You can only get out of it what you put in it.

Your week or month away from familiar scenes and duties should be as carefully planned as any other part of the year's work. Remember, you are going to vacate. That means to vacate the mind of its worries and obligations, to vacate the familiar tasks of the hands and feet, to vatate the work-a-day haunts of the year. If you live inland, visit the sea. If you live near the coast, visit the mountains. Get away from everything that is familiar, if you can.

The place in which you decide to spend the vacation is as important as the mood in which you decide to spend it. Two people start out on their vacations. Both go to the same place, traveling on the same route and stay the same length of time. One will have a splendid time, meet charming people, enjoy beautiful weather and find fun in every crowded minute. The other will be bored to death, curse the rotten weather, and wish all the time he were somewhere else. The second vacationist put no soul into his outing. He had no plan. He hed nothing to give and so found nothing to take.

Pleasure on your vacation comes, oddly enough, from the work you put into it. Know where and why you are going to the particular place you have chosen. Fill every minute with activity, but with the kind of activity not native to the year's routine work. The benefit to be derived does not require expenditure of money.

Go to it with a purpose. Refresh your body and stimulate your mind. Feast your eyes on new scenes. Broaden your sympathies by new contacts. Vacation means recreation, and recreation is really recreation.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

IN THE days when Marco Polo travelled, trade between East and West was largely for the sake of luxuries and chief of these, were the spices and condiments which acted both as preservatives of food and as disguises to "high" flavor.

Today's simplicity of seasoning is made possible by our understanding of spoilage and how to prevent it by proper refrigeration. This care must be continued in production, shipping, retailing and finally in the home. It is most important that milk, eggs, butter, meats and fish be kept cold or else they should be bought frequently in small quantities.

Midsummer vegetables for salads are plentiful. Be sure to marinate them in a dressing of olive oil, seasonings and lemon juice or vinegar. The small fruits and cantaloupe and watermelon are abundant this week.

NEW STAR ROUTE TO AID SERVICE

Fort Wayne to St. Joe Line to Open

A new star mail route with two round trips daily between the Ft. Wayne post office and the post office at St. Joe, with stops at Spencerville and Grabill, will be started Monday, Superintendent of Mail Godfred J. Gladbach announced Tuesday.

The new route is made necessary by a change in time of Wabash trains which formerly handled mail between Fort Wayne and the other three offices.

The morning mail will leave Ft. Wayne at 6 A. M., arriving at St. Joe by 7:20 A. M. The return trip to Fort Wayne will be started at 8 A. M. from St. Joe, with the mail arriving at Fort Wayne by 9:20 A. M., in time for some morning deliveries.

Afternoon service will be started from the Fort Wayne post office at 3:20, with delivery at St. Joe by 4:50 P. M. On the return trip mail will leave St. Joe at 5 P. M. and arrive in Fort Wayne at 6:20 P. M.

"The two daily round trips between Fort Wayne and St. Joe will replace the single mail delivery which Grabill, Spencerville and St. Joe received through railroad handling of mail," Mr. Gladbach said.

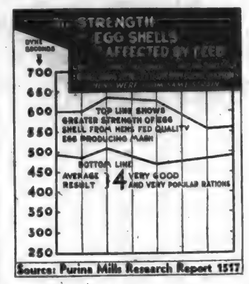
EGGS OF QUALITY NEED A QUALITY BASE

Hens Can Produce Better Eggs on Better Feeds.

An all-mash feed containing everything, even "sunshine," makes it unnecessary to bother with scratch grain, oyster shell, grit, green feed or cod liver oil. It takes all the trouble from chicken feeding, and is foolproof. That is the latest accomplishment of the Research Staff of poultry experts at Purina Poultry Farms, Grays Summit, Missouri.

"Feeding all-mash egg chowder has many advantages," says E. B. Powell, manager of the 330 acre Purina Farms, "Since only one feed is given, the hens have no chance to choose and uniformity in the egg quality results. The quality of the product is definitely controlled. When the mash-plus-scratch grain system is followed, the proportion of mash to scratch eaten by the hen varies from day to day with individual hens. Some hens pick corn out of the scratch grain, while others prefer wheat. As a result, yolk color and other qualities of the egg are not uniform."



It is extremely important that a ration which produces eggs of the highest quality also keeps the birds in shape to stand the strain of heavy laying.

An interesting experiment, conducted over a period of five years and including the product of more than three thousand birds, demonstrated the definite improvement this all-mash feed produced in egg shell strength. As the eggs came from the experimental yards, they were marked with the date, the pen and hen number and the number of the feed combination the hens received. They were then cooled and carried in an insulated case from the Experiment Farm to the Purina Research Laboratories to be subjected to a dozen exacting tests for quality. The weight of the egg, its shape, the color and breaking strength of the shell, viscosity of white, yolk size and firmness, yolk color, uniformity of yolk color, flavor and nutritive value were measured. Their vitamin content was tested by scientific feeding to white rats.

"All of these qualities are factors in determining the value of an egg," says Mr. Powell, "and all of them are influenced more or less by the feed. Premium prices are paid for uniform eggs weighing 24 ounces or more per dozen. Strong, dense shells prevent breakage in handling and shipping, and lower the rate of escape of water and carbon dioxide gas from the egg, thus increasing keeping quality."

Whites which are thick and firm and yolks which stand up well are more attractive when the eggs are fried or poached and have a more appetizing appearance when served. The public prefers a pale yellow yolk, and the color of the yolks should be uniform.

Eggs are highly valued by the public for their content of vitamins, especially vitamin A, which promotes growth and prevents colds and respiratory disease, and vitamin D, which is the sunshine vitamin and aids in assimilation of lime and building bones. The amount of these vitamins in the egg depends on the quantity supplied in the feeds. It is easy to build up trade with customers if they can be assured that the eggs they will receive will be unusually attractive, wholesome, and high in vitamins.

FRED THORNTON DIES AFTER SIX YEARS ILLNESS

Frederick Maynard Thornton was born January 9, 1883, in Edwardsburg, Mich., the son of Alfred and Mary Ursula Thornton. His hildhood and early youth were spent in the village of Edwardsburg.

In 1904 he entered the service of the Baltimore & Ohio Railway at Alida, Indiana. Having removed to St. Joe in 1914, he was united in marriage in July, 1915, with Miss Mabelle Shunk of San Diego, California. To this union were born two children, Geraldine and Charles, who with the widow survive him. He is survived also by three sisters, Mrs. L. E. Haynes, of Battle Creek, Mich.; Mrs. E. E. Rowe, of Forest Park, Illinois; and Mrs. G. A. Wetherald, of Toledo; and two brothers—R. B. Thornton, of Charlotte, Mich.; and Herman, of Oberlin, Ohio.

Death came Thursday, July 13, after about six years of illness, while in the prime of life, at the age of 50 years, 6 months and 4 days.

The funeral services were held from the Lutheran Church, Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, conducted by a brother-in-law, Rev. G. M. Richter of Lindenwood, Ill., and the pastor, Rev. A. H. Fabianske. W. H. Miser of Albion funeral director with burial in Riverside cemetery.

They Softly Walk

They are not gone who pass
Beyond the clasp of hand.
Out from the strong embrace,
They are but come so close
We need not grope with hand
Nor look to see, nor try
To catch the sound of feet
They have put off their shoes
Softly to walk by day
Within our thoughts, to tread
At night our dream-led Paths of sleep.
—Author Unknown.

TO OUR FRIENDS

"I'd like to be the sort of friend
that you have been to me;
I'd like to be the help that you are always glad to be;
I'd like to mean as much, each
minute of the day,
As you have meant, dear friends
of mine, to me along the way.
And that is why I'm wishing now
that I could but repay
A portion of the gladness that you've strewn from day to day.
And could I have just one more
wish this only would it be—
That I might be the sort of friend
that you have been to me!"

Out of town guests attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson of South Bend, Mrs. F. E. Bryson and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. DeMusey of Elkhart, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Stutzman of Charlotte, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wilkinson of Mishawaka and Verna Claire of Edwardsburg, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Bennett, of McComb, O., Rev. and Mrs. G. M. Richter of Lindenwood, Ill., Rev. and Mrs. C. O. Johnson of Montpelier, Ind., Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Mumma of Harlan, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Wm. Culbertson and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Miser and family of Garrett and Mrs. O. D. Baker and daughter of Bluffton.

World's Fair Crowds Find Restful Spots

GEORGE–WAGONER WEDDING APRIL 29

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wagoner of 715 West Wildwood Ave., Fort Wayne, announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia Ruth, to Theron E. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. George of Auburn. The wedding took place in Huntington April 29, 1933, with Rev. C. F. J. Wirsing, pastor of the St. Peter's Lutheran Church, performing the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from South Side high school and is a member of Eta Alpha and Pai Chi sororities. Mr. George, following his graduation from Auburn high school, attended Tri-State college and is now associated with his father in business in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. George left Sunday for a trip on the Great Lakes with visits in Detroit and in Canada and after September 1 will be at home in their newly furnished home at 612 North Main St., in Auburn.

FREE ENTERTAINMENT PROVES TO BE POPULAR

Yes Sir, St. Joe will continue to have free entertainment on each Wednesday night on her streets. The talking picture programss are over but features of every kind will be secured by the committee in charge, for your entertainment during the summer months.

These programs are different than have ever been put on before and the business men hope that the people will remember to make St. Joe their trading center on every Wednesday night.

Harvey and Harry, WOWO artists, gave a splendid musical program last week, and this week promises to be equally as good.

SURPRISE DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey were very pleasantly surprised when a number of relatives came in Sunday, July 9th to help them celebrate their forty-second wedding anniversary.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kinsey, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jenkins and granddaughter, Mrs. Fraces Barnhart and so, Loren, Mrs. H. L. Kinsey and family of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Willett and family of Hicksville and Mr. Charles Kinsey of Auburn.

Mrs. Isa Ernest and daughter, Hazel, of Jackson, Mich., are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. George Tustieon and family.

THE DIARY OF A HOUSE FLY

In most well regulated families, the house fly is detested more than any other "pesticating pest."

To give you an idea of the life a fly lives, we herewith reproduce a diary of one of the little creatures that visited our office Monday of this week:

MONDAY

Have found a dandy boarding place. Mrs. Jones sure sets a fine table. Had chicken for dinner yesterday. Afterward took a bath in the milk and dried myself in the sugar.

TUESDAY

Living like a king. Went skating on a slab of butter today. Played with the baby awhile and then took a nice nap in the cooky jar.

WEDNESDAY

I had a narrow escape today. I woke Mr. Jones from a nap by taking my daily exercise on the tip of his nose. He chased me all over the house with a swatter, but I got away.

THURSDAY

I had a fine time all day today. I had a fine physical workout in the cottage cheese this afternoon and got into a good sweat. It sure was great sport sliding down the little lumps of cheese. I felt like a million dollars afterwards and then played tag with Mrs. Jones. That woman can get madder than any person I know.

FRIDAY

After being housed all week, I've come outside for a little airing, but I find the indoors nicer, more places to sleep and loaf and more people to play with.

SATURDAY

Out of luck. Mrs. Jones bought some new window screens and fly swatters and then chased me outdoors again. I'm starving to death. I hate those good screens she bought.

SUNDAY

A lot of folks planned to go to the lake today, so I too decided to go. Thought I could get a good feed. Then I concealed myself in one of the baskets, and now I am back home enjoying myself. I am on the inside of things now

THINK AHEAD!

Money is saved in the household by buying VALUE, not PRICE.

Every year coal is used— yet too few urge buying the winter's supply early in the Summer—a time when it is always cheaper, because it is out of season.

Early buying of fuel is an annual economy. More than that, you get a good preparation by taking it off of the car, but best of all is that satisfaction you are going to feel when the first snappy days of Autumn arrives and find your basement filled with the best kind of fuel.

Why not give us your order now and avoid any uncertainty of supply duringthe fall and winter months. You may have your choice of the following kinds:

DUNDON — MANHATTAN — AND PIONEER
POCAHONTAS AND NO. 2 COKE—SEE US.

Favorite Writer

When asked the name of his favorite writer, the lad replied "MY DAD." He writes CHECKS."

And the boy didn't miss it a mile, either. It is pretty HANDY to have a DAD who can write checks. No wonder Dad was the boy's favorite author. There's nothing much better than a check on the Bank especially our old, reliable institution that has met its obligations promptly in the past years —Confidence is the one great factor in the modern day of success.

The children range in ages from 17 to 7.

A large shepherd dog owned by Verne Fields of near Lagrange, earned his board and keep for a long time, when he saved $1,000 worth of cattle from being burned to death in the barn. Men were unable to drive the milch cows from the barn and because of the heat were compelled to leave, but the dog rushed in and with its snarls and bark, succeeded in getting them out of the burning structure. The cattle were valued at from $60 to $75 a head.

Enjoy the Party

. . . . BUT PREVENT THAT 'NEXT MORNING' HEADACHE

Don't get the "jitters" after a big evening. Take a harmless Epicure and wake up fresh as a daisy. No need to worry about a splitting headache, upset stomach, and generally "low" feeling the next morning. You can enjoy life, eat and drink the things you like, overindulge if you will. But take an Epicure before you retire. During the night it counteracts the effect of rich foods and strong beverages. It corrects and prevents acidity, soothes and tones the stomach tissues, promotes bowl and intestinal health. This triple, balanced action prevents distress—safely. Should you forget, and distress develop, take an Epicure immediately for quick relief.

ACCUSED OF STEALING CAR AT HOLGATE, OHIO

Terry Traxler, 28, of Newville, was taken into custody Monday night at his home on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to Dr. W. V. Stevens of Holgate, O., on July 17.

Traxler is alleged to have been engaged with Olan Shank and "Red" Davis, who were arrested at Camden, Mich., July 17 after a series of hold-ups and an automobile theft and are in the Williams county jail at Bryan, O. Shank formerly lived in Wilmington township, DeKalb county, but recently had resided with his parents at Columbia, O. Davis' home is at Butler. Traxler, who has a wife and four young children, served three years in prison in Nebraska for a hold-up.

The arrest of Traxler was made by Sheriff John P. Hoff, his deputy, Herbert N. Grimm, and Chief of Police Chas. Davis of Auburn. They acted on information given by Shank and Davis as to the identity of a man who stole a Ford V-8 coupe belonging to Dr. Stevens at Holgate. The physician was in his office and when he saw the thief get into his car he ran out and jumped onto the running board. The thief made a motion towards his hip pocket and the doctor thought he was reaching for a gun, so he got off the car.

The thief drove away and he was followed by Shank and Davis in a car stolen from Kenneth Frick of Kendallville. Dr. Stevens and a garage man started in pursuit, but Shank and Davis refused to let them pass their car. Finally Shank and Davis stopped and forced Dr. Stevens and his aid to do likewise. Then Shank and Davis threatened the pursuers with guns and ordered them to turn back. Having no weapons, Dr. Stevens and the garage man complied. The stolen Ford was afterward found in a thicket along the river near Defiance.

Traxler denies strenuously that he was along with Davis and Shank or had anything to do with the crime. He declares he can account satisfactorily for the time he was supposed to be committing the theft. The indications are that he will resist extradition to Ohio.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

HOME BUREAU

The Concord Home Bureau met at the home of Linnie Thorpe July 21st for an all day meeting. A bountiful pot luck dinner was served at the noon hour. The hostess was assisted by her committee, Nevada Wyatt, Bird Nicholls, Eva Wasson, Inez Shields and Arline Koch in preparing the dinner.

The meeting taken place at the usual hour 1:30 P. M. was opened by the singing of several songs. The Lord's Prayer was repeated by all; secretary's report of last two meetings was read and approved. Twenty-nine members responded to roll call with Bible verses. We then had a scripture reading by Nevada Wyatt, followed by a prayer by Gertrude Borthwick; Pluma Hamilton read a very interesting paper on "Religious Training in the Home;" several contests were given by Katie Storer and Arline Koch which proved to be enjoyable as well as instructive to all. Two new members, Kathryn Jump and Inez Chapman were taken into the club. One guest was present. The meeting was closed with a song. The August meeting is to be held at the home of Marie Aking.

—Club Reporter.

R. H. C.

The R. H. C. held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Lizzie Hart. After the business and social hour the hostess served home made ice cream and cake. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, August 2.

CULTURE CLUB

The Ladies Culture Club held its annual mid-summer meeting on Wednesday evening, July 19, at the home of Mrs. L. D. Young, of Hicksville, Ohio. After the business had been disposed of and the reading of the year's work, they all were seated in the dining room enjoying a pleasant social hour partaking of a bountiful variety lunch.

FARM BUREAU

A most delightful meeting of the Tri-Township Farm Bureau was held on the Byron Widney lawn Wednesday evening. Speakers for the evening were County Agent Myers, Stanley Means, Frank Baltz, Rev. Cripe and Senator Larry Brandon. Byron Widney, Ed Storer and Clarence Killian composed the arrangement committee, they were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Morr. Ice cream and cake were served.

NIGHT HORSE RACES

For the first time in over twenty years Fort Wayne is to have a horse meet. July 25, 26, 27, 28 are the dates set for the races and will be run under the glaring floodlights at night at the Fort Wayne Speedway. Hundreds of high bred horses are being attracted to the Fort Wayne races and many of the grand circuit horses are encamped in the stables at the track.

TABULATING GROSS INCOME RETURNS

Indianapolis, Indiana, July 26. Encouraged by widespread public response to pleas for co-operation in connection with the gross income tax law, Clarence A. Jackson, director of the gross income tax division, today was preparing to make an early estimate of the probable annual yield from the law.

Scores of thousands of returns, many of them still uncounted and untabulated, were received from July 1 to July 15. The total collection for the first taxpaying period as well as the total number of returns are now being compiled.

Jackson estimated that fully 85,000 Hoosier residents filed returns showing tax of less than $10 due. Such returns were not required under the law but were requested by the gross income tax division so that an accurate estimate of the annual yield could be obtained.

Within the next few days, as soon as all returns are tabulated, estimates showing the probable amount of money to be returned to school units throughout the state will be prepared. These estimates will be forwarded to the budget makers so that they may calculate accurately the necessary tax levies to insure operation of the schools Jackson said.

TAX BOARD AP- POINTEES COMPLETED

Organization of the DeKalb county tax adjustment board of 1933 was completed Saturday afternoon with the appointment of seven members. The new law provides that the judge of the circuit court select six of these members. Judge William P. Endicott made the following appointments: Warren Lige, mayor of Auburn; Harry M. Brown, member of the Garrett school board; Stanley C. Devitt, trustee of Wilmington township; C. H. Heinzerling of Garrett, Elmer D. Case of Fairfield township and John Zimmerman of Auburn.

The county council selected F. R. Bowman of St. Joe as its representative on the board. The board will meet on the third Monday of September for the purpose of reviewing the budgets of all taxing units of the county. It is authorized to make reductions, but can grant increases of the levies above the legal maximum only for emergencies. The limit of levies is $1 on the $100 valuation in cities.

NEED MORE CARS

The B. & O. work train has been busy here this week unloading stone and cinders on the tracks east of the river. All along the line, cars are being unloaded with this class of company material, in order to meet the demands for coal cars.

SCHOOL REUNION AT CHEESETOWN

Next Suday, July 30, will be a gala day at the Cheesetown school house, when all the old students, will meet for their annual reunion. A basket dinner and program in the afternoon will provide entertainment for all. Abner Trostel is president and Mrs. Pluma Hamilton secretary and treasurer.

TRADE RESIDENCE PROPERTIES LAST WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty traded their residence property, just west of the old White hotel, last week, to the Auburn Building & Loan, for the property formerly owned by Ed Miser, on Widney Avenue, or better known as the Bowman property.

In about two weeks the Leightys will move into their new home, after about twenty-five years on the main street of St. Joe. Their new home will be very commodious for the two, a porch will be built across the east side of the house and will make comfortable summer quarters.

S. H. Maurer handled the trade.

WILL GIVES PRO- PERTY TO WIDOW

The late Frederick Maynard Thornton of St. Joe, by his will admitted to probate in the DeKalb circuit court Monday, bequeathed all his property to his wife, Mabelle Thornton, and nominated her for executrix. The will was signed April 5, 1927, with Edward N. Miser, Mrs. Mae Miser and Howard S. Grimm as witnesses.

2,000,000th Visitor

ST. JOE VALLEY BANK CLOSED MONDAY

With the expiration of the charter of the local bank on July 24, 1933, they ceased to be a St. Joe Valley Bank, and the banking department took charge of the operations on Monday morning.

After fully considering the matter of obtaining a new charter the board of directors decided that under the present unsettled conditions, it was not advisable to apply for one.

Possibly it will require a week to examine the books and make a complete appraisal of all notes and mortgages.

A liquidating agent will then be appointed by the state to wind up the affairs.

All money deposited since February 28, will be paid the depositors on demand when the appointment of the agent has been made.

The officers of the bank were: Wm. Randall, president; E. R. Kinsey, vice president; F. R. Bowman, cashier. Board of Directors: W. H. Randall, Frank Butler, E. R. Kinsey, Ray Reasoner and R. R. Reidenour.

TO OUR FRIENDS

"I'd like to be the sort of friend
that you have been to me;
I'd like to be the help that you are always glad to be;
I'd like to mean as much, each
minute of the day,
As you have meant, dear friends
of mine, to me along the way.
And that is why I'm wishing now
that I could but repay
A portion of the gladness that you've strewn from day to day.
And could I have just one more
wish this only would it be—
That I might be the sort of friend
that you have been to me!"

Mrs. Thornton,
Geraldine and Charles.

Many Breeds of Dogs—How to Feed Setters

Nearly every human being is interested in dogs. No other animal is so friendly, so understanding, so pleasant to have about as a good dog. Many varieties of dogs have been developed. New breeds are announced nearly every few years. Older breeds are improved.

In the large dog shows often as many as a hundred different breeds are represented, varying in size from the giant Saint Bernard, weighing around 250 pounds, to the tiny Chihuahua. There are long-legged dogs, short-legged dogs, heavily furred, straight-haired, and some with hardly any hair at all. How to tell different dogs apart and to note the characteristics that differentiate one from the other is an interesting study. Through the courtesy of Purina Mills' Educational Division, we are able to present a series of most interesting photographs of breeds of dogs. In the accompanying illustrations are shown three types of Setters, among the most popular of our hunting dogs. The top illustration shows an English Setter, the center one, an Irish Setter, and the bottom a Gordon Setter.

The English Setter is the largest and strongest of the setters. His entire make-up shows power to gallop with ease through a hard day's work. Color may be any combination of black, white, tan, orange, or lemon.

Irish Setters are a little more high-strung in disposition. When well-trained, they are unexcelled as hunting and field dogs. Their color is a rich golden chestnut, no trace of black.

The Gordon Setter in the bottom illustration was originally more delicate in structure than either the English or Irish Setter. He has now been bred to a sturdiness necessary for a hunting dog. The males will reach a meight of 22 to 25 inches; females slightly less. His color is coal black with tan markings of rich chestnut and mahogany red.

All setters should be kept hard and in good condition. It is bad practice to allow them to become fat and lazy The most effective method for keeping valuable hunting dogs in condition is to elliminate all chances for germ infection by controlling their feed sources. A standard dog food that comes in dry checker form, where every unit of nutrient is under perfect control both as to rich vitamin content and to freedom from contamination, is the method followed by the more successful dog owners. Dog food in checker form is less bother to feed keeps indefinitely without spoiling, and does not need to be supplemented with other foods.

In view of the amount of debate that is going on regarding the relative military strength of nations, it looks as though the familiar phrase "Hands across the sea" had been replaced by the words "Arms across the sea."

A Washington minister put a timely thought into his sermon when he said that when one is greeted with the salutation "How are you," the inquirer should not be taken literally. He is not asking for a discussion of your troubles.

A former cabinet officer and holder of high positions abroad makes a trip to the home town to see his dentist. The incident reminds a person of several things, one of which is that one touch of toothache makes the whole world kin. Furthermore, it may be well to recall the quotation to the effect that if a man can make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the wilderness the world will tread a beaten track to his door.

"If a copperhead, water moccasin or rattler bites you, treat it quickly." Sound advice, but what is a person going to do if the snake does not drink?

Although a great deal of investigation and research was necessary before the details of the code for the southern cotton industry could be fixed, the general terms of that document are simple. They embody proper working hours, a living wage, enough work during those hours to keep a man justly busy with profit to the employer, and no more work in a day than a jury of disinterested experts finds can be done well. Therein lies a solution of the labor problems not only of the textile industry, but of all other lines of industry as well.

A guest at a Washington hotel has a disagreement with the management over the price of a steak weighing less than half a pound, for which he was charged $1.25. During the discussion, he brings out the fact that he had just sold his own beef at two and a half cents a pound. In answer to his argument, it may be stated that if it were possible to slaughter a steer in the streets of Washington and eat the meat on the spot, the price of the steak would have been less, but that does not dispose of the matter. Making due allowance for expenses that are run up between producer and consumer, no one ever has been able to explain to the satisfaction of the farmer why the free and unlimited coinage of his wares into table products has to be carried out on the basis of sixteen to one.

With the Hollywood pay roll standing at about a million and a half a week, and with the florists trade running at approximately two hundred million dollars a year, the depression must have a bottom that is still somewhat remote.

Americanization classes for aliens are being held in Washington. They will be taught arithmetic, among other things. Why does someone not open a similar school for financiers of the sort who have been testifying before Senate committees? When it comes to the income tax they cannot count beyond ten.

Carnera, the new champion of the prize ring, is a member of the Black Shirts of Italy. He won the match with Jack Sharkey because he was the larger and stronger man, and packed an unscientific but walloping smash. Moussilini and the Black Shirts control Italy. Is it because they too are of the blind battering-ram type?

The Economic Coference at London is having hard sledding. The word from Washington is to keep it alive and working. Back in 1918, we had a song about a long, long trail a-winding somewhere or other. There was an end, and a favorable end, to the war trail. Sticking everlastingly to it may clear things up in London also.

Fatty Arbuckle, one of the greatest of the early screen comedians, died a short time ago in New York. After an unfortunate indescretion he vanished into the mist ahead of a shower of condemnatory stones. He might have been still alive, with heart unbroken, and amusing a pleased world, if there had been a great teacher opportunely at hand, to remark that the first missile should be cast by him who is without sin.

It is said that whiskey has to be three years old before it is fit to drink. There is not enough three year old whiskey in the country to go round, in case of emergency. Twenty states have voted down the Eighteenth Amendment. If the other sixteen register their disapproval of prohibition in an unexpectedly short time, nothing will be left but to fall back on the bootlegger, perhaps as a public-spirited dollar-a-year man, to help out the country in a pinch.

Mount Everest still raises its twenty-nine thousand foot crest in the air, a patch of ground never pressed by the foot of man, the latest British expedition having returned with its object unaccomplished. The story is much the same as that recounted by the parties that set out for the summit in 1922, 1924 and 1930. Storms and wintry conditions were too much for the explorers. Perhaps the cog railroad, built painfully foot by foot, will be the way out, or rather up, and a trip to the crown of Mount Everest may some day mean no more than a ride up Pike's Peak.

The business year of the government began on the first of July. Its plans for the coming twelvemonth cover a good deal of ground, and are not easy to understand in their entirety. Here and there, however, something stands out which is so plain that the wayfaring man, though a fool, need not err therein. For instance, there is the determination that bankers shall not speculate with the money entrusted to their care by depositors. If that can be accomplished, with everything else going into the discard, the Administration will not have labored in vain. The new year will inaugurate a closer control of industry. How far that control can go, and how far it will have to go, are matters of conjecture. Will a heavy socialistic hand be laid upon the business of manufacturing? What must be done in order that wages may be kept up and work provided? Is a curb to be placed on the amount produced? Just now, the only purpose that a gold dollar serves is to land its possessor in jail. What will be the condition of the currency at the beginning of the fiscal year in 1934? Much studying and suggesting have been done during the past few moths. What was determined upon is now to be put to the test. Those who live until the first of next July will be likely to have more to say about the year now beginning than about the year that closed with the last days of June. The new and untried is about to be put into practice.

The word "its" is not found in the Bible, and Shakespeare used it no more than once or twice. People who are hard up for words need not be discouraged. They can get along somehow.

The King and Queen of England were married forty years on the 6th of July. It would be interesting to know all the things that they had disagreed about during that time, but the story, although interesting, probably would not disclose anything differing materially from what is passed back and forth now and then across the garbage collector's breakfast table.

The fact that Senator Borah has been operated on for a typical old man's disease, recalls the fact that he was born in 1865, and the further fact that he is getting well rapidly is in line with other events in his life. He is one of the men whom nature selected to come out on top. Mr. Borah is not a Democrat, and he is not particularly popular with the Republicans, but he bears his sixty-eight years easily, and it will take more than the surgeon's knife to put him down.

The campaign of the government to secure the return of gold to the Treasury continues, but is not being carried on with high handed force. About two hundred have declined to turn in their stores of the good yellow metal. Gentle measures still prevail, and there is wisdom in such a course. It is well to continue collection plate methods until such plans fail. If the club of prosecution is used there will be resistance, and the courts may hold that the gold return edict cannot be sustained at law. Those who have parted with their coin have received paper that seems to do fairly well. Perhaps it is the duty of the good citizen not to force the government into what might be a very fortunate position. Things more valuable than gold have been surrendered to promote the general welfare.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

IN THE days when Marco Polo travelled, trade between East and West was largely for the sake of luxuries and chief of these, were the spices and condiments which acted both as preservatives of food and as disguises to "high" flavor.

Today's simplicity of seasoning is made possible by our understanding of spoilage and how to prevent it by proper refrigeration. This care must be continued in production, shipping, retailing and finally in the home. It is most important that milk, eggs, butter, meats and fish be kept cold or else they should be bought frequently in small quantities.

Midsummer vegetables for salads are plentiful. Be sure to marinate them in a dressing of olive oil, seasonings and lemon juice or vinegar. The small fruits and cantaloupe and watermelon are abundant this week.

A CALENDAR OF CHICK MANAGEMENT

First Seven Days Are the Most Important.

What to do with the young flock day by day aside from feeding and watering is the subject of a calendar of chick management prepared by the Educational Division of Purina Mills. Combined with the use of properly blended rations, the following will be of greatest help toward keeping chicks alive and healthy and making them grow rapidly.

These steps in management as outlined by the staff experts cover the most critical period—the first seven days.

Courtesy: Educational Div. Purina Mills.

Two weeks before chicks come—

Scrub brooder house thoroughly with soap and water; disinfect floor and sidewalks with Cre-so-fec; move to new or clean ground.

Three days before chicks come—

Start brooder stoves to see that they are working properly; regulate thermostats.

First three days—

Leave chicks in boxes in a warm darkened room for a short time until thoroughly quieted down.

Use high-grade straw or peat litter one inch deep; cover with pink building paper or burlap sacking to keep chicks from picking up litter.

Keep brooder temperature at 90 to 95 degrees with thermometer bulb 3 inches above floor just outside edge of hover; keep out drafts, but supply fresh air.

Make guard to hold chicks near the heat. Can use one inch mesh wire one foot high encircling the brooder about 15 inches from the edge of the brooder. Cover wire mesh with muslin or drape burlap sacks to shut off floor drafts.

Provide one inch of feeding space for each chick, or one hopper two feet long for each 50 chicks.

Provide one drinking vessel 10 inches in diameter for each 50 chicks, using type that will prevent chicks getting wet. Set them on low platform. Disinfect daily.

Clean out the mat of droppings under the brooder every morning and add fresh litter or rake remaining litter over cleared area.

4th day—

Remove paper or burlap covering litter.

5th to 7th day—

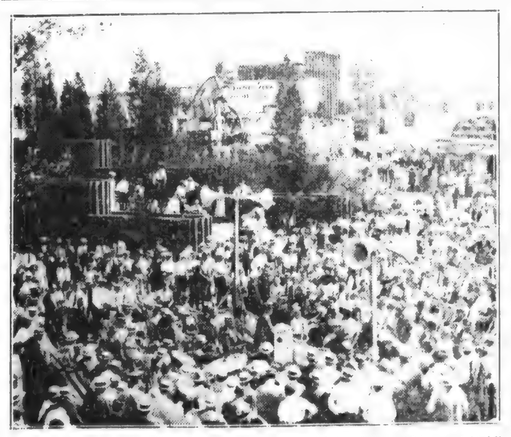
Maintain temperature at 90 degrees; gradually lower to 85 degrees by the 14th day.

What to do to bring your chicks through the next important weeks will be the subject of our next article.

Records Smashed by Fair Crowds

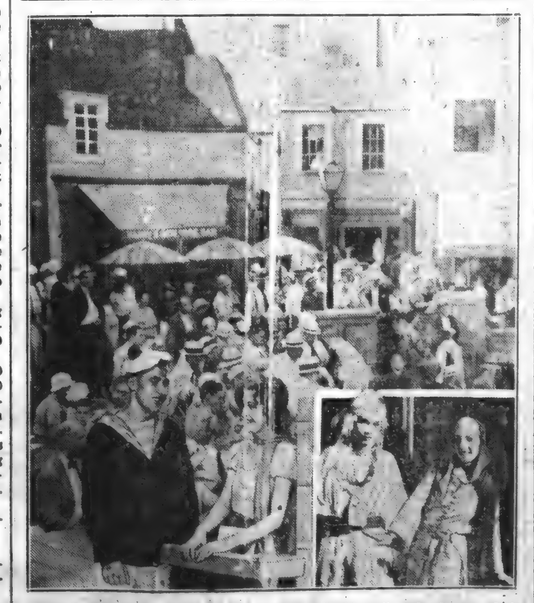
All attendance records have been shattered by A Century of Progress—the Chicago World's Fair. Here is a typical daily scene of crowds parading down the colorful Avenue of Flags—a scene in which visitors from all the world participate. Eighty-two miles of free exhibits are located in the Exposition.

Millions Find Joy on Fair Isle



The millions of visitors to A Century of Progress—the Chicago World's Fair—find a multitude of joys on Northerly Island. Here is a typical daily crowd passing the Electrical Building on the way to colorful Enchanted Island—the million dollar playground for boys and girls. For the 50-cent admission 82 miles of exhibits can be seen at the Fair.

Streets of Paris Bring Fair Crowds



Gay Paree with its colorful Montmartre and side-walk cafes is one of the popular spots at A Century of Progress—the Chicago World's Fair. In the corner picture are two dainty dancers from Morocco, just across the way from Streets of Paris. There are 82 miles of free exhibits at the Exposition.

With the rain Sunday night and Monday the temperature dropped 33 degrees, or to 69.

New Discoveries in an Old Business

Long before farmers realized it, egg handlers were convinced that the kind of feed the hens received had a marked influence on the quality of the eggs produced. Since the egg is made from feed, it is only natural that the character of the finished product should be affected by the kind of raw material used.

To find a complete ration which would produce the finest quality of eggs and at the same time meet the practical requirements of egg production has been the object of five and one-half years of research at the Purina Experimental Farm and Purina Biological Laboratories. The result is a new quality egg producing mash, recently announced.

The hens themselves were made to tell by the kind of eggs they produced just what ingredients and how much of each should go into this new quality egg producing feed. The experiments were started with 20 pens of pullets early in 1927. Month after month these tests, trying out every practical combination of feedstuffs, were continued. In all, 3,500 hens were used. At first the trials were limited to hens in laying houses. Later, some of the birds were kept in laying batteries.

An example of one of the practical results of the tests to produce high quality eggs is shown on the chart. The breaking strength of the shells of eggs produced on the quality egg producing ration is compared with the breaking strength of average eggs produced by hens fed on other rations considered very good from a nutrition standpoint and very popular with poultrymen. The quality egg producing mash developed at the Experiment Farm produced eggs which were stronger shelled by from 13 to 30 per cent. Other improvements brought about by this mash were uniformity of yolk coloring, and improved taste and nutritive value of yolk and white.

The quality egg producing mash is particularly useful (1) for commercial poultrymen selling high quality eggs at a premium to exacting consumers, (2) operators of hen batteries and (3) for owners of backyard flocks.

VOL. XLVII — ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1933 — NUMBER 31

MERRITT BARNEY KILLED BY TRAIN

The report of the Coroner B. O. Shook of Spencerville, of his inquest into the death of Geo. M. Barney of Hicksville, O., at the Beaber crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio two miles east of St. Joe Thursday morning reveals that Barney committed suicide.

The testimony of six witnesses was taken by the coroner. They were Ila O. Shilling, Edna Trostel, Floyd Ridgway, Calvin Laux, Chas. Harter and Glenn E. Cole. Ridgway is the section foreman and the other men work under him.

The section men testified that they saw Barney sitting in his truck on the west bound track at the Baker crossing three miles east of St. Joe and they found that he had stopped and set his brakes. The railway employes were on a motor car and as they approached the crossing they slowed down and asked Barney if his car was stalled. He said, "What's that to you?" Ridgway asked him to start his engine and get off the track, as it was time for west bound passenger train No. 7. He refused to start his engine and the section men therefore pushed his car off the track.

The men proceeded east on the motor car and they saw Barney back his car onto the track again. The men returned and again pushed his car off the track. Ridgway said to him, "Polly, it's time for No. 7 and we're going to get you off the track." He again ratused to start his motor. Harter reached into the cab of the truck, turned the key and put his foot on the starter. Barney refused to release the clutch, so the section men again pushed the truck off the track. He then started the truck and ran it down the road about 75 feet. The section men set their motor car in the road so he could not drive onto the track again. However, the mail man arrived and they had to move the motor car to let him pass. Barney also got out of the way of the mail man and drove north. That was the last the section men saw of him. They heard the train give the distress and danger blast and saw it stop. They went to the Beaber crossing, three-fourths of a mile west of the Baker crossing, where Barney was killed.

Mrs. Shilling testified that she was standing about 200 feet from the Beaber crossing when she saw a truck drive onto the west bound track. Later the machine was backed off the track. Five minutes later she observed the same car on the track again, and it had stopped.

Mrs. Shilling heard the fast train whistle as the truck was being run onto the track. Barney was watching the approaching train. The next instant she saw the collision and the wreckage fly.

Edna Trostel observed the section men's experience with Barney at the Baker crossing and corroborated their evidence.

It is believed Barney was despondent because of ill health. He was suffering from a goitre. He was sixtyone years of age and was employed as agent for the American Railway Express Co. at Hicksville.

George Merritt Barney was born at Spencerville, January 19, 1871 and died July 27, 1933, at the age of 62 years, 6 months and 28 days.

Practically his entire life was spent in the community where he was reared, with the exception of five years, spent at Hicksville as express agent.

He was associated with his father in business for many years. He established the local telephone exchange.

He was married to Belle Turriton of Hicksville and to this union one daughter, Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, was born, now a resident of Spencerville. Besides the immediate family, he leaves one sister, Mrs. Violet Johnson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the Walter funeral home at Spencerville, privately, conducted by Rev. V. O. Harrold, pastor of the St. Joe M. P. Church, with burial in White City cemetery.

WANTS 10,000 FOR INJURIES IN FALL

A demand for $10,000 damages is made by LeRoy Zimmerman in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court against the town of St. Joe, Marion C. Blue and M. Elnora Blue.

The plaintiff says that the town permitted the defendants Blue to make an excavation in the parking in front of their property on Fifth Street in St. Joe. The hole, he says, was 2½ feet wide, 3½ feet long and 3½ feet deep.

It is claimed by the plaintiff hat there were no safeguards about the hole and that he slipped on the icy sidewalk the night of Decemer 22, 1932, and fell into it. He states that ligaments were torn from his shoulder, that a rib was broken and that his abdomen, head and neck were injured. He adds that he spent $260 for surgical and other treatment of his injuries.

The attorney for the plaintiff is Russel R. Ridenour.

OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF SPANISH WAR VETERANS AND AUXILIARIES, PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

ALLEGED DRUNKEN DRIVER ARRESTED

Frank "Casey" Williams of Spencerville, was placed in the county jail Sunday night by Sheriff John P. Hoff to answer a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated.

The affidavit was signed by Irene Forbes of Auburn. She said that while she was driving her car on state road No. 8 she noticed a car approaching that was not kept on the proper side of the highway. She turned to the extreme side of the road, but she said Williams' car struck her machine, damaging it. She turned about and followed Williams to near St. Joe, where at the George Baker farm his car run out of gas.

The Forbes car came on to St. Joe, secured the services of Nick Ridlen, a member of the county vigilance committee, and going back to Bakers found that Williams had gone. He proceeded to Spencerville, found his man by being identified and he was taken to Auburn at once where papers were made out before Richard W. Sharpless, prosecutor.

Frank "Casey" Williams of Spencerville, entered a plea of not guilty when he was taken before Judge Endicott Tuesday on a charge of driving drunk. Irene Forbes of Auburn, filed the affidavit, alleging that Williams was under the influence of liquor while driving on state road No. 8 Sunday. Bond was fixed at $500. Williams admitted he had no driver's license and another affidavit for this offense will be filed against him.

CHEESETOWN SCHOOL REUNION HELD SUNDAY

The 4th annual school reunion was held Sunday. Despite the warm weather a good crowd gathered at the noon hour and enjoyed a big dinner.

The afternoon was spent mostly in visiting and listening to the talks of men who in their youth were "well behaved school boys."

The officers for next year are: president, Mark Murphy; vice president, Will Hamilton; secretary and treasurer, Abner Trostel.

Those who attended away from this community were: Mr. and Mrs. Fay Wilmot, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Coburn and Roscoe Coburn of Fort Wayne, Mr. Evans Dermott of Coldwater, Mich., Mrs. Rose Wilmot Geauque and son, Charley Thayer and Mrs. Mary Jackson, of Hicksville, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Abel of Montpelier, O., Mrs. Blanche Abel Tommilson and son of Goldwater, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and children of Cedar, Mrs. Georgia Coburn Withrow and son, and Mrs. Bertha Coburn of Garrett.

The music consisted of piano solos by Charley Thayer, and songs by the quartet composed of Mrs. Bertha Coburn, Pluma Hamilton, Roscoe Coburn and John Wodcox, with Audrey Wilmot, pianist.

The next reunion will be Sunday, July 29, 1934.

Closing prayer, Rev. Roberts, of Garrett.

The annual all-day meeting will be held Sunday, August 27, at St. Joe.

A slight shower Tuesday afternoon cooled off the atmosphere, but of course, more rain is needed and welcomed.

TERRY TRAXLER, 28, MUST STAND TRIAL

DeKalb County Man Fails To Convince Judge Endicott That He Did Not Steal Auto

"The courts must work together in cambating the wave of crime," Judge Endicott commented Saturday in ordering turned over to the sheriff of Henry county, O., Terry Traxler, 28, of Newville for trial on a charge of stealing an automobile.

Traxler attempted to establish an alibi, but he was positively identified by three men who said they saw him at Holgate, O., on the day the theft was committed. By the testimony of Traxler's wife, Lucille, it was shown that Olan Shank and Everett "Red" Davis had called at his home only two days before the crime was committed and had remained all night. Shank and Davis are in the Williams county jail at Bryan O., awaiting trial for a hold-up.

Traxler and Davis served three years in prison in Nebraska for stealing an automobile. Traxler is the father of four children ranging in age from five to nine. His father retained Attorney H. C. Springer of Butler, to defend his son in Judge Endicott's court, where Terry was arraigned on a fugitive warrant.

The car was a Ford V-8 coupe and it belonged to Dr. W. V. Stevens, a veterinarian at Holgate. He testified that he was in his office in the late afternoon of July 17 when he observed 2 men in a car across the street and another man beside the car. His own machine was in front of his office. He went into a rear office and when he returned he started out the front door. "I heard my car being started and I went up to it and asked the man in it where he was going. He said nothing, but reached towards his hip pocket and drove away."

Point to Traxler

R. W. Sharpless, prosecuting attorney asked Dr. Stevens if the man who took his car was in the court room and the witness pointed out Traxler. On cross-examination, Dr. Stevens said he noticed the thief's eyes and hair particularly, but he didn't remember whether he had a moustache. Traxler wears a small moustache. Dr. Stevens also observed that the thief wore a blue shirt, dark trousers and no hat.

Howard Mann, who said he was a produce man, was sitting in front of Dr. Stevens' office when he observed a man walk towards Stevens' car and he pointed out Traxler as this man. He didn't notice the man had a moustache, but he had a dark crop of whiskers.

Robert Warren, a Holgate restaurant employe, told the court that a man whom he identified as Traxler and another man on July 17 called at the restaurant and got sandwiches and coffee.

John Bortz, who operates a cigar store and pool room ocross the street from the Stevens office, testified that he got a side view of the man who stole the car and he thought it was Traxler.

The defendant's attempt to establish an alibi was supported by evidence given by his wife, his brother, Hugh Traxler, Clarence Baron, former trustee of Newville township, and Harold Richmond. Mr. Baron said he talked with Traxler in front of the Newville restaurant soon after 5 P. M. on the day of the theft. Richmond reported having talked with Traxler while the latter was hoeing potatoes on the older Traxler's farm near Newville late in the afternoon of July 17.

Knew Nothing of Revolver

Traxler's wife testified that her husband ate dinner at home at 11 or 11:30 on July 17 and then went to his father's place to hoe potatoes. He retured home at dusk. On cross examination Mrs. Traxler admitted that Shank and Davis were at her home on Saturday night before the Holgate affair and had remained all night. She said they wanted her husband to go along with them, but that he refused. They had been there before, she said.

The testimony revealed that Deputy Sheriff P. M. Fletcher of Williams county and another man called at the Traxler home Friday evening, July 28, to get Shank's effects. Mrs. Traxler admitted that she gave the visitors a suitcase belonging to Shank, but she denied that she gave them a gun that was hidden behind some phonograph records. When she was shown a box of shells and a revolver by the prosecuting attorney that it was claimed she had surrendered, she denied ever having seen them before.

Hugh Traxler simply testified that he had seen his brother the morning of the 17th and that he wore a moustache.

The defendant himself then took the stand and insisted he hoed potatoes all afternoon on July 17 at his father's farm. He said he wore a blue shirt and overalls. eH talked to Richmond at the potato patch, he said, and after leaving there he talked with Mr. Baron at Newville. He was emphatic in his declaration that he wasn't at Holgate that day, or on any day this year. He insisted he never saw the state's witnesses and did not steal Dr. Stevens' car.

With reference to the visits of Shank and Davis to his home, Traxler said they wanted some place to stay and would pay for their lodging, but that the next day he ordered them away. He didn't know whether they left a gun in his house or not.

Judge Endicott, after the evidence was concluded, declared it was clearly his duty to send Traxler to Ohio for trial. He said he was sorry for Traxler's family, but that his effort to establish an alibi was not impressive.

Traxler was taken to the Henry county jail at Napoleon, O., at once by Sheriff Geo. Bowerman and Deputy Sheriff L. E. Sider. Sheriff Fletcher of Williams county also was in court for the hearing.

OLD AGE PENSION TO BENEFIT 74,000

Indiana's old age pension law which become effective January 1, 1934, will benefit 74,000 persons, it was estimated today by Otto P. Deluse, Indianapolis, former national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

It was largely through efforts of the Eagles that Indiana became one of eight states to enact old age pension laws this year.

Deluse said that 19,100 Hoosiers were eligible for the pension but that experiences of other states indicated not more than 14,000 would participate.

Only persons 70 years or older are eligible for the pension which is limited to $15 a month. Costs will be divided by the state and counties.

Estimates by counties of the number of persons eligible include: Adams, 100; Allen, 885; DeKalb, 150; Huntington, 175; Jay, 86; Kosciusko, 165; LaGrange, 83; Lake, 1,568; Noble, 135; St. Joseph, 960; Steuben, 76; Wabash, 152; Wells, 113, and Whitley, 96.

COUNTIES FACE NEW TAX LOAD

Indiana's crucial tax picture will assume a new angle within the next few months when each of the 92 counties will be faced with the burden and cost of the registration of voters.

Surveys and estimates have shown that county tax levies for 1934 will have to be increased 2 to 5 cents to meet the expense. In Marion county, for example, estimates have varied from $100,000 to $225,000, for the cost of permanent registration which would mean an increase in the tax rate of about 3 cents.

Administration of the registration is vested in the county clerk who must also keep the records. With the first registration period in January, clerks over the state are being visited daily now by salesmen representing index and filing firms.

The 1933 legislature enacted the registration law at the request of Governor Paul V. McNutt. Democratic leaders, believing they would gain a substantial advantage in future elections by such a law, rushed it through the legislative mill.

Permanent registration in other states has proved expensive. In Cincinnati, O., the cost was 80 cents per voter. Admitting that the figure might be lowered in Indiana, it will still cost the 92 Hoosier counties approximately $1,000,000 in 1934 to carry out the desires of Governor McNutt and the 1933 legislature.

Twice before in recent years legislatures had passed registration acts only to have them vetoed by Governor Harry G. Leslie on the grounds of the cost such a law would impose on Indiana taxpayers.

The President's reception of an envoy from the Emperor of Ethiopia did not attract marked attention, yet it might be a good plan to recall a fact or two from Ethiopia's history. She was a powerful nation as far back as King Solomon's time, a couple thousand years before the people of Europe, clad in wolfskin breechclouts, were skipping thru the forests in an attempt to get away from the Roman legions under Julius Caesar. If an ancient heritage means anything, Ethiopia is entitled to look on Germany, England and the United States as families that have just moved in.

VOL. XLVII ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1933 NUMBER 32

LINE UP WITH THE N. R. A. PROGRAM

The national recovery plan goes into effect with thousands of advance adherents, an impressive list of employers who have voluntarily accepted the conditions suggested by the President, and are increasing employment or wages or both to raise the buying power of the nation. It is announced that at least 500,000 persons will be given employment during the current month as a result of these pledges, and it is hoped that this will break the vicious deflation circle and rehabilitate the demand for consumers' goods so that more and more employment can be offered until every competent person seeking employment is back at work.

Such a condition is eminently desirable and due credit belongs to the employers who contribute thereto.

At the same time there can be no just criticism of the many employers who find themselves literally unable to accept the plan except on the basis of operating deficits which they could not long sustain.

To just what length the small town merchant is expected to go, is yet to be learned. In St. Joe the merchats have agreed to operate their stores on the shorter hours suggested by the code. On Monday, Tuesday, and Friday the groceries and hardware open at 8 and close at 6; on Wedesday and Saturday open from 8 to 10 and on Thursday open from 8 to 12, noon.

Of course these hours are satisfactory to some and objectionable to others.

It is expected however, that every merchant and individual line up with the N. R. A. idea willingly and of course St. Joe is just as patriotic as any other section of our nation.

TO SETTLE ACCOUNTS

All persons knowing themselves to be indebted to Dell Draggoo, Concord, Ind., in any manner, whatsoever, are hereby notified, that unless said indebtedness is satisfactorily settled for on or before September 10, the same will be left for collection. To save expense, please give attention to this notice at once.

3212. Dell Draggoo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and Mrs. Alice Copp were in Fort Wayne Tuesday.

W. G. Harman, of Fremont, was in town Sunday after a load of his butchering tools.

Paul Clark, wife and son, Ronald, of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. John Doll of near Spencerville, were Sunday guests in the J. R. Shilling home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox and son, Malcolm, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Woodcox and family, of Angola, spent Sunday at the Irish Hills, where they met their daughter, Mrs. John Scrivo, and husband from Detroit.

An application of road oil was applied in front of the Leighty orchard residence, this week, to curb the dust. The excessive traffic on this road north of town, caused the dust to become a menace to this fine country home.

The annual home coming of the members of the Churches of Christ in DeKalb county in honor of Dr. Charles Reign Scoville and his wife, held on the Scoville farm half way between Newville and Butler on Sunday was largely attended. Dr. Scoville, one of the outstanding ministers of the church and an evangelist of nation-wide repute, delivered two of the addresses, morning and afternoon. Mrs. Scoville, who accompanies her noted husband on his evangelistic tours, sang at the meeting. Whenever Dr. Scoville and his wife return to Newville once a year, it is an occasion for a great demonstration by his friends and members of the Churches of Christ in DeKalb county. At noon a basket dinner was served in the grove on the Scoville farm.

STATE ORDERS LIQUIDATION OF BANK

The directors and stockholders of the St. Joe Valley Bank, were greatly shocked when the state banking department issued the following statement tothe bank as "In an unsound or unsafe condition and further is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency," because the value of the assets as reported by the appraisers and the current earnings were in excess of liabilities of the bank. This decision is another of the mysteries that attaches itself to public regulations.

Along with this same notice came the appointment of Frank M. Brandon, of Auburn, as having charge of liquidation, and he qualified by posting bond. He was also appointed to liquidate the Ashley State bank at Ashley and the Farmers State bank of Hudson, Ind.

Walter D. Stump of Auburn, was selected as attorney by the same department and Mr. Brandon.

The Hudson bank was closed in June of this year, the St. Joe Valley bank suspended business a few days ago after operating under restrictions since the banking holiday last March and the Ashley bank has been closed for two years.

Notices that the state had taken over the banks were filed in the DeKalb circuit court and upon the officers of the banks. Those interested have the right to apply to the circuit court within ten days for an injunction against the state. The state may authorize any bank to resume business if found advisable.

Mr. Brandon is well qualified for the position to which he has been appointed. He served under three state banking commissioners as a bank examiner. Seven years ago he went to Niles, Mich., to become president of a national bank. Before being appointed as a bank examiner he wes assistant cashier of the Auburn State bank for a number of years.

ST. JOE BOY IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Saturday evening, Homer Woodcox figured in an auto accident at the Sponhour Corners, 4 miles west of Spencerville. Homer was gong north at this point and Raymond Foltz was driving west, when the two cars clashed. The Foltz car was completely wrecked while the car Homer was driving was damaged to the extent of about $30.

Foltz was badly shaken up, while Homer was cut about the nose and his lady friend, Miss Ruth Federspiel was cut about the head.

The Koch reunion will be held Sunday, August 20, at Eckhart Park, Auburn.

Eloise Coburn accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Homer Miller, of Hicksville, to Crooked Lake, where they spent the past week.

WO-HE-KA NEW NAME FOR CAMP

Thirty-eight attended the School Camp sponsored by the Lutheran Churches of Butler, Harlan, Spencerville and St. Joe at Hamilton Lake last week, July 31 to August 5. The program was conducted so that the spiritual, physical, mental and moral phases of life received attention.

The new name, Wo-He-Ka, is made up of the first two letters of Worship, Health, Camp, with the last word spelled with a K instead of a C. It is hoped to establish this camp after its name on the basis of worshipping God with health in body, mind and soul.

Hymns and Social Relations were taught by Miss Ruth Heestand of North Manchester, Indiana, while Rev. Fabianske of Spencerville conducted prayer, memory and Bible classes. Mrs. Fabianske taught a class in Camp Craft.

Every one participated in the work through out the day. At meal times camp songs were the vogue. Especially were morning watch and vespers particularly impressive. One person said of a vespers: "It is the most impressive service I have attended."

A new camp song had its beginning in this joyous week.

Each year an "All Camp Girl" and "All Camp Boy" is selected. This year the honors went to Eloise Sechler and Richard Davis both of St. Joe.

Mrs. Knepper, of Butler, Mrs. Scott Scholes and Mrs. Frances Barnthouse, gave their time to the preparing of the meals while the campers over seen by Margaret Hamilton conducted the work in the dining room.

The ringing of bells, building of camp-fire, and exercises were cared for by Virgil Kimes of Spencerville.

Campers came from eight different towns. The following are those who attended: Howard Knepper, John Osborne, James Monroe, Jack Goodwin, James Hamilton, Richard Davis, Robert Croninger, David Murphy, Robert Dielman, Franklin Sechler, Richard Boterf, Robert Boterf, Louise Sechler, Helen Tustison, June McConehey, Marian Osborne, Jean Ridgway, Edythe Stewart, Ersa Reidenbach, Helen Lucille Chapman, Minta Davis, Marcella Wiers, Mary Dressel, Barbara Stroh, Helen Goodwin, Marian Haynes, Madge Haynes, Christine Zonker, Josephine Gorrell, June Herrick.

MRS. BARNEY GETS EXPRESS AGENCY

Mrs. Belle Barney has received the appointment as agent at Hicksville for the American Railway Express Co., last week, the vacancy being caused by the death of G. M. Barney, who held this job for the past five years.

A petition was circulated at Hicksville, bearing several hundred names, expressing their desire of her appointment, and complimenting upon her ability to serve the people, led the company to her appointment.

SCHOOL TO OPEN SEPTEMBER FIFTH

Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, annouces that the opening day of the fall and winter term in the district schools of the county will be Tuesday, September 5th.

However, the pupils will meet their teachers in their respective rooms on Friday morning, September 1, for enrollment and organization.

Local Teaching Force

The organization of the Concord Township School term is now complete, and Trustee O. K. Shull gives out the following information:

J. B. Muhn, Principal.
W. B. Cox, History, Science.
Helen Ditmars, English, Home Economics.
Mr. Gerdes, Commercial, English, Physical Training.
Priscilla Borthwick, Mathamatics.
Martha Miser, Grades 1—2.
Harriet Oberlin, Grades 3—4.
Cleota Morr, Grades 5—6.

The four bus drivers covering the territory will be: Harry Smith, Concord route; Charles Cochran, Saylor route; Donald Kinsey, Newville route, and H. K. Schondelmayer, Orangeville route.

Frank Curie will serve as custodian of the school property.

Three Schools Close

The Bear Creek school in Jackson township, the Kelly school in Smithfield township and Houlton school in Franklin township will not be reopened this fall in accordance with a recommendation of the state board that schools with an attendance of less than 15 be abandoned. This will result in reducing the number of teachers by 3 and the total number will be 86 this year instead of 89. The pupils in the closed buildings will attend elsewhere in the respective townships.

Institute Plans

The teachers have all been employed by the township trustees. The annual institute of the teachers will be held at the court house Wednesday and Thursday, August 30 and 31. Wm. Rainey Bennett, of Elgin, Illinois, preacher and lecturer, will be on the program the first forenoon and Miss Martha VanMeter of the state anti-tuberculosis society will lecture the first afternoon. Dr. F. C. Tilden, head of the department of comparative literature at DePauw University, will lecture Thursday morning and again in the afternoon. Dr. Wm. R. Davis of the Michigan state department of health also is on the program for Thursday afternoon.

FIRE IN THE LEIGHTY RESTAURANT

Monday afternoon late, about 4:30 o'clock, smoke was discovered in the Leighty Dew Drop Inn, as Harry Hursh was passing. Alarm was given, an entrance was gained at the rear and a paper carton was found smouldering.

Mr. and Mrs. Leighty were at Auburn at the time of the fire and upon their return home it was explained that Ed had been burning the trash in the back yard since noon and the carton had probably caught on fire. Not noticing anything the carton was placed in its usual place for the throwing of the waste paper and trash about the store.

The damages were slight.

Lighting is only a small part
. . . he runs the whole house!

MANY PEOPLE think of Electricity as a lighting service only . . . It is easy to forget that it is a home-maker's first aid in many, many tasks and that ELEC at the helm drives household drudgery away. Electricity makes our toast in the morning. It sweeps the rugs. It washes the clothes. Then it irons them . . . Entertains us with the radio . . .

If we itemized your Electric bill, you would then see that lighting is only a small part. Considering the time and labor it saves you, what money you spend brings greater return in comfort and convenience?

A MOTHER'S COURAGE

Mrs. D. W. Hinds

Our preparation for a picnic lunch were suddenly interrupted by loud shrieks. Eyes focused at once in the direction from which the disturbing sounds came, and we saw Mrs. Vance's youngest son, Gerard, aged five, stretched prone on an overhanging limb. Although in no immediate danger, he had become frightened.

Of the four parents gathered in this brook-side grove, for an outing, Mrs. Vance was apparently the least alarmed. Rising calmly, she placed herself directly under her son and quieted his fear. After assuring myself that my own boys were safe, I could not help marveling at her courage. "Don't be frightened, Son," she said, "Mother is standing directly under you. Just hold on tight; you won't fall."

"Look, Mama!" cried Charles, her older boy, who was on the same limb but near its extreme end. Perched there astraddle, he looked down at his mother with pride. "It's all right, Mama," he assured her. "It won't break."

Mrs. Vance asked calmly, "Did you examine the limb before going out there, Charles?"

"Yes, Mama, it's a growing limb and it's not cracked."

"Are you certain it will hold the weight of both of you?"

"Sure, look how strong it is," beginning to shake it with this weight.

At this undue shaking of the limb the younger boy began crying again.

"That will do, Charles," said his mother, "you sit still now, for I think Gerard would like to come but where you are." Turning again to the frightened boy, she asked encouragingly, "Don't you want to go on out where Brother is, Son? Mother will walk along under you."

Encouraged thus, Gerard crawled out cautiously to within a few feet of his brother. His mother praised him and he was very proud. However, unable to negotiate a turn, he was compelled to make the return trip backwards. This, under directions from his brother and encouragement from his mother, he accomplished happily.

Seldom had I seen such an example of courage and common sense. True, we, mothers, usually show courage in face of grave danger but in these smaller matters we often use but little judgment. After the boys were once more on the ground and had gone off to wade in the brook I questioned Mrs. Vance. I desired to know how she had attained such perfect poise.

"Do you always encourage your boys to climb?" I asked.

"Boys don't need any encouragement to climb," she answered. "They are going to climb whether I like it or not, for I can't be with them always. What I want them to learn is sane caution instead of fear. Children are born, you will remember, with an instinctive fear of falling and of loud noises. If I can teach them to meet these inherent fears with intelligent courage they will be less apt to get hurt in the future, for they will learn to take care of themselves."

Mrs. Vance was correct. Just as children are born with an instinctive fear of falling, which, when met with courage develops self-preservation, they are also naturally equipped with boundless energy and curiosity in order that they may develop physically and mentally. These natural tendencies should not be prohibited, but guided. Only a firm faith in God, however, can insure for us the courage necessary to meet this and other trying periods of development with poise.

VOL. XLVII — ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1933 — NUMBER 33

E. R. KINSEY DIES SUNDAY

Succumbs to Heart Attack About Two O'clock Following His Dinner

SICK SINCE IN THE SPRING

With the sudden, though unexpected death of Elza R. Kinsey, local Hardware and Furniture Dealer and Undertaker, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, St. Joe lost one of its most progressive and influential young business men, after suffering a nervous collapse and severe heart attacks for the past months.

He had been taken to the table for the noonday mealand enjoyed a good dinner. He was returned to his bed ad Mrs. Kinsey had gone upstairs to rest. Without warning he passed away. His illness began about February first.

Elza R. Kinsey was born in St. Joe, Indiana, April 12, 1891, and departed this life Sunday, August 13, 1933,at the age of 42 years, 4 months and 1 day. When but a Junior in the St. Joe High School, his father, August Kinsey died and he immediately took over his business, which he had conducted successfully ever since.

On August 28, 1910, he was married to Miss Mayola Pepple, who lived two and one-half miles north of Concord. To this union were born 2 sons, Elza DuWayne and Earl William. When a young man of 21 years he united with the St. Joe Methodist Protestant Church under the pastorate of Rev. J. C. McCaslin.

Besides his immediate family there are four brothers and four sisters living: Charles Kinsey of North Baxter Street, Auburn, George and LeRoy Kinsey and Claude Mason of St. Joe, Mrs. Violet Chapman and Mrs. Pearl Williams of Spencerville, Mrs. Myrtle Baxter of Butler and Mrs. Mabel Quinn of Fort Wayne. A brother, Frank, and a sister, Mrs. John Dove, are deceased.

Mr. Kinsey was a member of Mentor Lodge No. 591, I. O. O. F. of Auburn, the Masonic Lodge at Spencerville and the K. of P. Lodge at St. Joe.

He was a man of many friends, possessing a pleasing and sympathetic nature, making him fit into his profession as undertaker. Due to this his friendship was widespread and lasting. As a business man in St. Joe, he was always a loyal booster, and gave to our community a three fold business that was a credit to himself.

His congenial greeting of "Hello there, how are you" will indeed be missed about our little town, but he leaves two fine sons who can fall into line, and carry on successfully the business that has been left to their charge.

Possibly Elza realized that his condition was serious and that his stay here was uncertain, because he had his arrangements fully made for his departure, and as near as possible Mrs. Kinsey carried out his requests.

Wednesday forenoon at 10:30 the body was removed to the M. P. Church where friends could view, until the funeral hour, which was 2 o'clock. Burial was made in the K. of P. cemetery.

The services was conducted by the pastor, Rev. V. O. Harrold, assisted by Rev. C. W. Moore, of the Newville U. B. Church.

John Dilley and Curtis Northrup left Wednesday morning early to attend the Century of Progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schmalzried, of Bippus, Ind., were guests of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price from Friday until Monday. Sunday they all attended the Dill reunion at Bryan, Ohio.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

The Newville Chautauqua is on this week.

Miss Inez Kinsey accompanied her brother, Harry Kinsey, and family, of Hamilton, to Jackson, Mich., Tuesday, where they were guests of their brother, Walter Kinsey.

Elmer Inlow is suffering considerably with his eyes. Saturday he was grinding plow points and pieces blew in his eyes. The steel pieces were removed but the fine carbon dust remains.

Miss Minie F Thomas, of Omaha, Nebraska, spent the past week visiting her cousin, Mrs. Jacob Krabill, north of town. Miss Thomas is the daughter of the late Charles L. Thomas, reared in Newville, Ind., but moved to Omaha in 1881.

Frank "Casey" Williams of Spencerville, was taken to the state farm Friday by Sheriff John P. Hoff, to serve thirty-five days for drunken driving. His arrest was due to a collision on Road 8, north of St. Joe, on July 30, in which the car of Irene Forbes, of Auburn was damaged, and she filed an affidavit.

Three bushels of assorted pickles were removed from the field of O. E. Inlow, east of town on Friday night. It was late when they finished picking and sorting, and thinking the evening dew would freshen them up, they decided to leave them in the field until morning for delivery, but only half of the picking remained.

4-H CLUB GIRLS DISPLAY SATURDAY

The County 4-H Club Girls will exhibit their project work at the court house assembly room Saturday afternoon, August 19, at 2:00 o'clock, D. S. T. Ribbon prizes will be given to the best work done. Money in the form of a round trip ticket to the World's Fair or a trip to the club camp next summer will be given to the first prize winners.

Also at 3:00, D. S. T., some of the girls will present a playlet "The Century of Progress in Costume," which will, in part, be a dress revue of the garments made by the clothing club members.

Every one is invited to see the exhibit and playlet—no admission will be charged.

At 4 o'clock, D. S. T., the girls will have a picnic at Eckhart Park.

YEARLY MEETING AT ST. JOE, AUGUST 27

The annual yearly meeting of the Churches of Christ, of DeKalb County, will be held at St. Joe Gymnasium, Sunday, August 27, morning and afternoon, with a pot luck dinner at noon.

Grant W. Speer, of Toledo, a former Hicksville pastor for several years, will be the speaker for the two sessions.

The public is invited.

SECHLER FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

The forty-third annual reunion of the Sechler family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Monroe on August 13, at which there were 85 present. After all had done justice to the bounteous pot luck dinner, a short business session was held, presided by Frank Baltz, vice president. The secretary report of 1932 was read and accepted. The reunion will be held next year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sechler. The officers elected were: Leon Sechler, president; Frank Baltz, vice president; Lucille Curie, secretary, and Sam Mumaw, treasurer.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Flossie Mavis and Josie Baltz. We were pleased to have with us Joel Leininger and daughter, Eurena, and neice, Miss Beulah Leininger, and Foster Gerhard of Weatherly, Pa., and Miss Minnie Thomas, of Omaha, Nebraska, and Rev. and Mrs. Fabianske of Spencerville. Each gave a very interesting talk, after which Mrs. Fabianske gave two readings which were enjoyed by all. At the close of the program all bowed their heads in a prayer led by Rollie Moffett, in the memory of Charles H. Curie, who passed away January 10, 1933.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in visiting and renewing acquaintances. Late in the afternoon folks left for their various homes wishing that reunions could be held more than once a year.

NOT OVER $200.00

Gov. Paul V. McNutt expects the state will be able to pay on January 1 approximately $200 of the salary of each school teacher in Indiana. Although he would make no definite estimate, the state chief executive intimated local school officials might expect approximately the same amount in a payment next July. The amount of the July payment will depend, the governor pointed out, on receipts at that time from the gross income tax source or revenue for school purposes. Under the new school regulations passed by the last general assembly, the state may assume up to $600 a teacher.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Armstrong attended the Wilson-Armstrong family reunion held at Riverside Park at Antwerp, Sunday, August 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koch, Mrs. Alice Copp, Mrs. Loretta Hull and Mrs. DeLora Curie, called on Mrs. Hattie Widney at the Garrett hospital Monday evening, and found her improving nicely.

Mrs. Ora Baker and daughter, Violet, of Bluffton, spent the past week here with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baker. They accompanied Mr. Baker home Wednesday, after attending the funeral of E. R. Kinsey.

Mr. and Mrs. David Furnish and daughter, Isobel, of Detroit, came Saturday. Mrs. Furnish and daughter remained for two weeks visit with her parents and other relatives. Mr. Furnish returned to work.

Mrs. Daisy Woodcox arrived home Saturday from Garrett, where she had been staying with her sister, Mrs. Jack Kennedy, for several weeks, taking treatments. She is improved in health and is able to be about the house and assisting some with the work each day.

It's a foregone conclusion, and we don't know that they denied the fact, that Viola Coburn and Max Dressel are married and have been for a year or so. It's their own business, but we just felt it our duty to tell their friends so they could join The News in extending congratulations.

Frank Loftus, who displays ability of a genius, made a finger ring Monday at the Hankey Garage while loafing there that displays considerable natural talent and ability along that line. He took a teaspoon to supply the metal and shaped it perfectly, welded and polished, and brazed on an initial "G."

No beer garden or dance hall will be permitted to operate at the municipal airport at Fort Wayne according to Paul Guild, vice president of the aviation commission, at least until some of the more important needs have been met at the port. Attorney Howard Benninghoff had received an opinion from Paul Fry, the state director, that it would be possible to grant a license for selling of beer.

THE HOBOES CODE

The hoboes in convention at Chicago Sunday night, adopted a code of fair play as follows:

Hoboes will not wash dishes in a restaurant or work otherwise in a restaurant for a meal. No real hobo ever took a job away from a man with a wife and children.

Pay for cleaning snow and ice off sidewalks shall be no more and no less than 50 cents an hour.

Pay for shoveling coal shall be 50 cents an hour.

Boes may chop wood on farms in exchange for a bed in the barn or a meal, but they shall not chop all day just for this because it would compare to coolie labor.

As a rule hoboes are not looking for work of any kind. They are looking for a hand-out from the fellow who does work. Out of the scores of travelers calling at St. Joe during the past year, only two men calling at the editor's door asked for work, and we were so astonished that we asked what was the matter with them, as they were unusual travelers. While they could not be classed as hoboes, they said they were always in the habit of paying for things they received. Unusual indeed.

FATHER OF ADDIE KOCH DIES AT AVILLA

C. E. Thorpe, 74, father of Mrs. Addie Koch, died Wednesday afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Lela Yeiser at Avilla, after an illness extending over the past year. Mr. Thorpe had spent the time with his two daughters.

Funeral services were held at the McClellan funeral home in Aville at 2:30 P. M. (DST,) Friday and burial was made in the St. Joe cemetery.

Two sons, Chas. C. and Joe E., live in Toledo, where Mr. Thorpe worked for many years, or up to the time of coming here in the spring. Chas. was appointed administrator of the estate and in visiting here Sunday, he assigned the Ford automobile to her, as was planned by the father.

SHANK GETS A 10 TO 25 YEAR TERM

Olan Shank was taken to Columbus, last week on Monday to start serving a 10 to 25 year sentence, being sent from the Williams county court.

Shank and Raymond Williams were charged with this crime, being indicted by the grand jury in September, 1931, and Williams was arrested shortly after that and entered a plea of guilty. He was paroled and placed under probation. The indictment against Shank stated that he had compelled Clyde Stedke to hand over $100 from the Kroger store. Shank, 24, who formerly was of Butler, has been involved in a number of gasoline station robberies and was recently caught at Camden, Mich., by state police after robbing the Johnson gas station on Route 20. In addition he is accused of having taken part in a gas station robbery near Ft. Wayne, and the stealing of a car at Kendallville.

INJURES FOOT WHEN PORCH SWING FALLS

Mrs. Wm. Randall is laid up with an injured foot caused by the porch swing hook straightening out and letting the swing down, causing the above mentioned injury Saturday evening. Mrs. Geo. Tustison, Mrs. Herbert Curie and Mrs. Randall were in the swing at the time. The injury is very painful, but not serious, and she will be laid up for several days. Medical aid was called at once.

GIVEN BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

The 21st birthday of Robert Sechler was celebrated as a surprise Friday night at the Ralph Sechler home, when 22 members of the young people's class of the Lutheran Sunday School came in on him. Ice cream and cake were served and a good time was had by all.

Roy Keller made a trip to Cleveland with melons Saturday, accompanied by Walter Stewart. The first trip for the season.

NEW CAR SALES IN DEKALB COUNTY

Here's encouraging news from the state bureau of motor vehicles. During June, 1933, DeKalb county automobile dealers sold 90 new cars as compared to 23 new cars sold during May, 1933.

Registrations of new cars are one of the surest indicia of improved business conditions, according to Frank Finney, head of the bureau of motor vehicles.

For the state as a whole, 6,904 new cars were sold in June. This compares with 2,669 new cars sold in May. In June, 1932, only 3,475 new cars were placed in the hands of owners by all automobile dealers in Indiana.

KILL BEES AND TAKE THE HONEY

Bees are as essential to an apple crop as spraying for elimination of pests, consequently the Leighty orchard has always kept a good quantity of bees. Last Wednesday night someone entered the orchard and killed the bees in three hives by smoking them out and relieved the hives of about 200 pounds of honey.

Deputy Sheriff Grimm was sent to the orchard Thursday morning to make an investigation and collect evidence that might lead to the conviction of the offenders.

STATE LINE ROAD CARE IS PLANNED

An agreement whereby Allen county, Indiana, would maintain approximately six miles of what is known as the State Line Road extending along the Indiana-Ohio state boundary between Allen and Paulding counties was sought last week at a meeting of commissioners of Allen, Paulding and Defiance counties.

The road is a gravel and crushed stone highway connecting the Lincoln highway and road No. 24. It is approximately 18 miles long.

The plan is for Allen county also to maintain two and one-half miles of the road north of the Maumee river. Defiance and Paulding counties also would be charged with maintenance of portions of the road.

The conference was held at the corner of Defiance and Paulding county lines on the road. Commissioner William Hirzel represented the Defiance board.

DANGER SIGNALS PART OF TRUCK EQUIPMENT

Arrest of drivers of trucks not properly equipped with red flags and flares, fuses, or bomb-torches has been ordered of State Police officers by Al Feeney, Indiana Department of Safety Director.

A new Indiana law requires that all trucks operating on the public highways must have flares, fuses or bomb-torches to be set out 300 feet ahead and 300 feet behind any truck which becomes disabled at night on the highways and is not able so pull off the right-of-way. Red flags must be displayed on the rear of trucks whenever a cargo extends in such a way as to constitute a danger.

DIES AT MASONIC HOME

Harry Richwine, whose death occurred at Franklin, Ind., last Saturday, was a well known citizen of Auburn, from 1896 to 1913. He went to Arizona, where he engaged in successful business pursuits, until failing health caused his return to Indiana, in 1931. He made his home here, with his sister, Mrs. Meade Baker, until last May, when he entered the Masonic home at Franklin, for hospital care.

Science Develops New Method of Raising Calves

Nature's way of raising calves has not changed in thousands of years, but a noteworthy advance has been made recently in the method used by successful live stock breeders.

The new method has these advantages:

1. It matures calves earlier, turning them into milk cows when at least three months younger than so-called "normal" heifers.
2. It builds calves with larger, more rugged frames and less calf fat.
3. It practically eliminates scours.
4. It requires less labor than bucket feeding.
5. It costs less than feeding milk.

Years of investigation with hundreds of calves at the Purina Mills Experiment Farm at Grays Summit, Missouri, led to the development of a calf meal formula as much like cow's milk as practical. It has the right combination of ingredients to give calves a better start and to grow larger, more rugged bodies. It consists of dried skimmilk, blood flour, linseed flour, bolted corn meal, wheat flour, corn gluten meal, ½ per cent iodized salt and 1½ per cent calcium carbonate.

As a new step in calf-feeding progress, this meal is now pressed into cubes or checkers. In this form it is easy to handle and waste is prevented. It does not "ball up" in the calf's mouth, as ordinary meals do.

The chart shows the average growth curve of all heifers which have completed 16 weeks on this checkered calf feed in an extensive experiment which has been in progress at Purina Mills Experiment Farm since June, 1930. The second curve is the normal growth curve for Holstein heifers fed on whole milk as determined by well-known dairy authorities.

At 16 weeks of age, these calves fed the new way average 277 pounds against a normal weight for whole milk calves at the same age of 237 pounds.

While the calves receiving the calf checkers were heavier than the so-called "normal" for their age, they did not carry any surplus flesh, and were free from pot-bellies, which, in turn, enabled them to develop a good spring of rib. Their size was all growth and development and not fat. This is the reason they grew out into such excellent heifers for an early freshening date.

Besides greater growth and earlier maturity in the calves themselves, this new method saves much labor. No trouble from scours has been experienced after taking the calves off of milk in nearly three years of feeding of checkers at the Experiment Farm.

In 1871, an Ohio man claimed to have discovered that hard times occur in cycles of 16, 20, 18 and 20 years. Under that hypothesis, and with the panic of 1857 as a starting point, he foretold the pinching years of 1873, 1893, 1911 and 1931. A different cycle for the prosperous years indicated plenty of ready money in 1918, for example, and in 1935. The way in which the course of events has confirmed his prophecy for more than 60 years, forms the basis for a well-justified hope that business is on the up-trend.

A proprietor of a Washington gymnasium, who believes in direct mail advertising, sent out letters to prospective patrons informing them that what was needed to keep a healthy mind in a healthy body was exercise in the sunshine. On the day when the letters were received, the thermometer stood at 120 degrees in the sun. The communications therefore did not make a very strong appeal. Up to this point, the story is a joke. The practical application of it is that when one is about to institute an advertising campaign, he should take advantage of the experience of the proprietor of thelocal paper, and let him handle the publicity business in accordance with his sound judgment.

CEDARVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Garman were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Myers, August 6.

CHICK GAINS DEPEND ON PROTEIN SOURCES

The first six weeks are important in the life of the chick. It is during this period that it gets its real start in life. Poultrymen used to be satisfied with a development of around two-thirds of a pound during the first forty to forty-five days after hatching.

Science, however, has been gradually edging up the handicap for the greater profit of poultry owners. Now, by the proper blending of protein sources, by the proportioning of nutrients from various field crops and concentrates, chicks can be made to average more than a pound in six weeks' time and can be raised to that weight at a cost less than was formerly paid for lighter-weight birds.

"It is all in the rate of gain that a chick can draw out of its feed," say the feeding experts of the research staff of Purina Mills. Careful tests, conducted on many thousands of chicks on their own practical poultry farm, make it possible for these experts to assure poultrymen that similar results can be theirs under proper conditions of feeding and management. A typical growth chart from their files shows chicks of the same parentage and fed rations of the same chemical analysis varying widely in weight at the end of the first six weeks feeding period. With all conditions the same, except the proportioning of proteins within the feeds themselves, the best feed showed as much as 75 per cent weight advantage over the ordinary ration constructed on the old principles of mixing according to chemical analysis.

The proper rate of gain today is no longer two-thirds of a pound at six weeks of age, but one and one-tenth pounds or better. Poultry owners who can show such development in their chicks can face the important year of 1933 with more confidence that theirs will be a profitable season. The differences are due to the fact that each protein unit, considered as a building stone, is present in the right amount so that the chick's body can construct new tissues more effectively than if furnished too much of some materials and not enough of others. Besides the difference in gains, the chicks fed A and B rations in these experiments showed much better feathering and general development than those receiving ration C. The ingredients of this poorest ration were, incidentally, the highest priced in the commercial market, yet results were totally out of line. It isn't price and it isn't analysis that makes a good feed.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

EACH week seems to bring some outstanding food feature and this week apples have bid for first place. These summer apples make delicious tart apple sauce, pie and baked apples. Spiced apple sauce, molded with gelatin and served with whipped cream, or whipped evaporated milk makes a delicious dessert.

The recent hot weather has unfavorably affected much of the garden produce but there are still many excellent choices especially among salad vegetables. For garnishing the cold plate and salads green and stuffed olives take first place.

The Quaker Maid Kitchen supplies the following menus:

Low Cost Dinner
Swiss Steak Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Onions
Bread and Butter
Peach Shortcake
With Whipped Evaporated Milk
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Pot Roast of Beef
Hashed Brown Potatoes
Green Beans Sliced Tomatoes
Bread and Butter
Apple Pie Cheese
Coffee (hot or iced) Milk

Very Special Dinner
Jellied Bouillon
Celery Olives
Baked Ham Scalloped Potatoes
Broccoli
Rolls and Butter
Jellied Apple Sauce Whipped Cream
Coffee (hot or iced) Milk

All-Mash Feeds for Backyard Flocks

Courtesy-Educational Div. Purina Mills

The use of an all-mash ration enables the man with a backyard flock to reduce materially the bother and expense of caring for his birds, according to the poultry experts in charge of the Purina Mills Poultry Farms at Grays Summit, Missouri.

With the all-mash method, the hens are not required to pick a part of their feed from among the filth of litter on the floor or from soil contaminated with diseases and parasites. Besides reducing the labor and time required, less experience is necessary with this method, making it especially adapted for use by beginners. There is no guess-work as to the proportions of scratch grain the hens are receiving. The feed combination eaten by each hen is definitely controlled and is uniform, making for uniformity in the eggs produced. The timid, as well as the bossy hens, get their fill of a completely balanced ration, and the mobbing usually prevalent when scratch grain is fed is avoided.

Seeking to find a ration that would produce eggs of uniformly better shell strength, firmness of white and yolk, flavor and food value than ordinary fresh eggs, as well as maintain production and the health and vitality of the birds, the Research Division of the Purina Mills Experiment Farm spent five and one-half years, feeding and checking results on more than 3500 hens, in an investigation of efficiency of all-mash rations. This research enabled their scientists to recommend a new all-mash formula for poultry raisers. How these men weighed and calculated these results of their hundreds of trials is a story worthy of a Paul de Kruif, author of "Hunger Fighters," the book that attracted world wide attention because of its recognition of the patience and untiring efforts of scientific men.

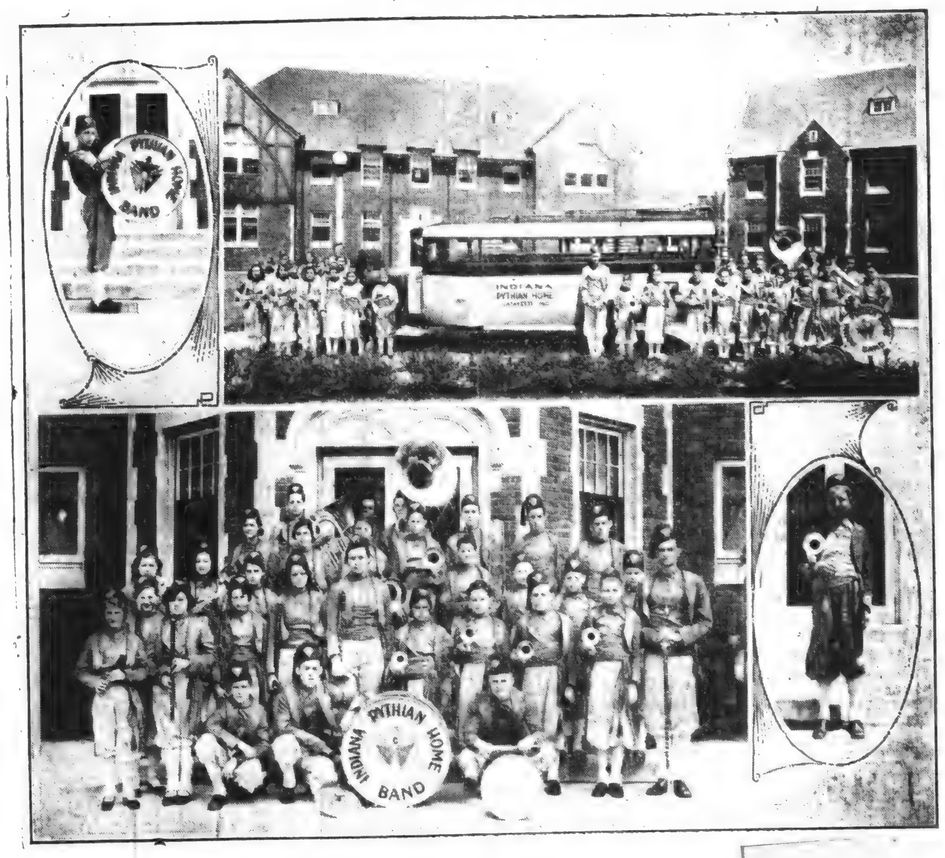
GREAT MUSICAL TROUPE VISITING ST. JOE

K. of P. Home Band, Wednesday, August 30, at 2:15 p. m.



Forty-two cities and towns in northern Indiana will be visited by the Indiana Pythian Home Band on a six hundred mile booster trip, August 28th to September 2nd inclusive. The band is composed of thirty-two boys and girls from the children's home maintained at LaFayette by the Knights of Pythias of Indiana and will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Crooker, Superintendent and Matron of the Pythian Home.

St. Joe will be visited by the band on Wednesday, August 30th. The band will arrive about 2:15 P. M. and will give a concert under the auspices of St. Joe Lodge No. 400, Knights of Pythias. The local lodge is arranging for the band to play at a convenient location and the public is invited to enjoy the concert.

The band was organized four years ago by Prof. L. B. Elmore of LaFayette, who has trained and developed the children into a very proficient musical organization. He will direct the band in all its concerts on this tour. Mr. Elmore was Grand Chancellor when the Pythian Home was dedicated at LaFayette on August 10, 1927. Mr. Crooker became Superintendent of the Pythian Home on March 1, 1932. Previously he served for 10 years as Grand Lodge Trustee and had been a member of the Board of Directors of the Home since the establishment of that institution.

The trip will be made in a special bus owned by the Pythian Home and used during the school year to transport the Pythian Home children to the LaFayette public schools which they attend. A compartment has been provided on top of the bus for the band instruments.

Plans have been completed for concerts each forenoon and each afternoon in the towns and cities reached on the trip, under the auspices of the lodges in each place. Special noon hour concerts will be played each day with a complete concert porgram each evening.

The Pythian Home at LaFayette was established by the Knights of Pythias on December 1, 1927. It has the distinction of having been built without incurring one dollar of indebtedness and from the fact that all funds to build it and equip it were raised before the first spade of earth was turned. The total investment at this time is about $350,000.00.

Funds for the erection of the buildings were raised in a campaign to build it in one day, meaning that the funds were largely raised through personal donations of members of the lodges over the state based on the equivalent of one day's income. The Home consists of three large buildings, one each for boys and girls and aged people. The site comprising a farm of 135 acres was presented to the order by the citizens of LaFayette.

The Home is occupied at this time by 62 aged members of the lodges of the state, 25 wives and widows and 66 orphan children.

CLAM DIGGERS ARRESTED FAILED TO HAVE LICENSE

Floyd Gibbons, Lloyd James and Don Litwiler, of Delphi, Ind., were placed under arrest Saturday afternoon by Game Warden Earl Grossman of Kendallville charged with taking clams from the river, north of St. Joe, without a license. They were taken to the court of James L. Griffin of Auburn for arraignment.

The men told Prosecuting Attorney R. W. Sharpless that they had been sent by a dealer from Delphi to fish for clams, the shell of which were to be used for the manufacture of buttons. The three were unaware that a license was required. The prosecutor let the men go on their own recognizance after they promised to pay the $2 license fee required. Had they been sentenced they would have had to serve ninety days in jail. Rather than have the men board at the expense of the county they were released to the game warden who will see that a license to fish for clams is secured.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR BARBER SHOPS

When the patron visits the ordinary Hoosier barber shop after the first of September, he will almost imagine he is in a strange land.

The new barber law, effective September 1st, will be responsible for the many changes. All barber shops and beauty parlors in the state will be required to comply with the regulations of the new law.

The greater portion of the barber law concerns regulations and provides for inspection of the barber shops and beauty parlors.

Some of the changes in barbering practices which will be brot about will include:

A freshly laundered towel for use on each patron.

A head rest on each chair with a re-laundered towel or a sheet of clean paper for each patron.

A fresh neck band around each patron so that the hair cloth does not come in contact with the neck or skin of the patron's body.

Forbidden in the practice of barbering after September 1st will be the use of styptic pencils, finger bowls, sponges, lump alum or powder puffs. The law provides that even the possession of these accessories in the barber shop shall be prima facie evidence that they are being used in the practice of barbering.

One of the most important health regulations imposed upon Indiana barber and beauty shops by the new law pertains to sterilization of barber tools. When the law goes into effect it will be considered a violation of the regulations to use on any patron, razors, scissors, tweezers, combs, rubber vibrator disc, used on another person unless they have been sterilized in boiling water at least twenty minutes between customers. The barber law, however, provides for other methods of sterilization such as two per per cent solutions of carbolic acid.

All engaged in the barbering or beauty profession wil be required to register his business. Each member of the profession will be required to obtain a certificate from a physician that he is free from any contagious, infectious or communicable disease. Tubercular and Wasserman tests will be required of the profession before licenses are granted.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hamilton, of Lincoln, Nebr., are here visiting in the homes of O. K. Shull and Wm. L. Hamilton. They are also stopping at the Century of Progress.

TO OUR FRIENDS IN ST JOE AND SURROUNDING COUNTRY:

Fully realizing that the best must be made of hard situations we desire to tell you that it is our intention to carry on, to the best of our ability, the business established by E. R. Kinsey.

It is our purpose to give to you the same whole-hearted, untiring service that you have had in the past.

Especially do we want to serve you efficiently when death enters your home.

As you know our equipment is complete and our funeral parlors offer every convenience. For the present we have arranged to have en experienced, well known mortician to do our embalming.

Just as soon as DuWayne Kinsey can complete the course required to be a licensed embalmer this part of the work will also be cared for by us.

We sincerely thank you for your expressions of sympathy and we ask for your friendship and help in the future.

Mrs. E. R. Kinsey,
DuWayne Kinsey,
Earl W. Kinsey.

MAIL CONTRACT LET TO CLAYTON SMITH

A contract for carrying mail on a new star route between Fort Wayne and St. Joe, with stops at Grabill and Spencerville has been awarded to Clayton Smith of Rural Route No. 1, Hicksville, O., in Newville township, according to Superintendent of Mails Godfrey Gladbach.

Mr. Smith will handle the route from September 1, 1933, to June 30, 1935, at a contract price of $1,197.75 a year. His schedule calls for two round trips daily, leaving Fort Wayne at 6 A. M. and 3:30 P. M., and arriving at St. Joe at 7:20 A. M. and 4:20 P. M. Returning to Fort Wayne he is scheduled to leave St. Joe at 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., arriving at Fort Wayne at 9:20 A. M. and 6:20 P. M.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to our friends and neighbors, who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our beloved Husband and Father, also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and Sons.

GRIST MILL HAS BEEN SOLD

The St. Joe Grist Mill has been sold by Wm. L. Hollabaugh to Mr. F. G. Gauntt, of Fort Wayne, and possession was given by Mr. E. W. Woods, who has been operating the mill since February. The mill will undergo a complete change. Mr. Gauntt and wife have moved into the Wm. Pepple home.

Rev. C. O. Johnson, a former M. P. pastor, was assigned to the St. Joe M. P. Circuit by the Annual Conference, Monday morning in session at Marion camp grounds.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF DEKALB COUNTY CHURCHES OF CHRIST TO BE HELD AUGUST 27

The organization of the first Church of Christ dates back to 1837 at Coburntown. At this place the first settlements were made along the Historic St. Joe River. The selection of the site for this year's meeting is a peculiarly appropriate one. For it calls the struggles of those early days.

Practically all of these pioneers have long since gone. Nevertheless their sturdiness and virility mount and overcome hardships and inspiration to the present generation in its facing of trying economic adjustments in this modern day.

Miles by boat or tedious journeys through the woods made religious services precious to them.

This annual meeting will be held in the fine St. Joe High School, with Bible School starting at 9:30 C. S. T. Preaching at 10:45 will be followed by a basket dinner. Coffee will be furnished. The noon day meal will then be followed by the commuion and preaching services at which Grant K. Spear, pastor for many years in Toledo, O., will be the speaker.

The public is most cordially invited to come and enjoy the day with their friends.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

FARM BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Marie Akins, Friday, August 18th. The meeting was called to order by the president. Mrs. Beulah Coburn led in the singing of several songs.

The club creed was read in concert after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated by all. Twenty-eight members responded to roll call with their favorite poem.

The quilt block demonstration which was to have been given by Diadem Bone was given by Doris Yeiser, Mrs. Bone being absent. Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick gave a short talk on "Side-tracking the Fastline," which proved to be very interesting to all. She also, by request of the club, favored us with the number in which she won in the public speaking contest given at the Farm Bureau picnic at Auburn August 9th.

The flower collection amounted to thirty-nine cents. The hostess assisted by her committee, Anna Tustison, Katie Storer, Inez Chapman, Hulda Reasoner and Myrtle Pugsley served refreshments consisting of home made ice cream with fresh strawberries, cake and coffee. We had two guests and two children present.

Don't forget the weiner roast which is to be held at the home of Pluma Hamilton Thursday evening, August 31st.

R. H. C.

The members of the R. H. C. were very pleasantly entertained at Mrs. Hazel Warshler's Tuesday afternoon. There was one guest, Mrs. Chas. Coburn, of Fremont, Mich. Mrs. Berniece Wilder furnished entertainment at the social hour. The hostess served a delicious luncheon including a "big feed" of melons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stout of Ft. Wayne were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mrs Alice Copp.

SAVING LABOR IN CALF FEEDING

Dairymen can save a great deal of labor and eliminate a messy, disagreeable chore by using up-to-the-minute methods of calf feeding, states a special circular just released by the Research Staff of Purina Mills Experiment Farm. Besides saving time and trouble, better calves can be raised and at less cost than by the methods formerly considered good.

Essentially, the new feeding plan consists of calf meal which has been pressed into cubes or checkers and fed with grain, hay, and water, but no milk after the fourth week. All that is required is a few minutes a day once a day to put the calf checkers into the troughs and mix the new feed with what is left in the feeder. The calves feed themselves at will. The plan is almost as easy as letting them run with their dams.

By this means, the heating of water or milk, the mixing of gruels, the effort to keep the temperatures uniform, the feeding from buckets twice a day, and the washing of dirty buckets are all avoided. Also, fussing with loose calf feed which may become soggy and sour, and cause indigestion and scours unless very carefully handled is avoided.

To teach the baby calf to eat this dry feed, it is only necessary to put it with older calves already eating, the Experiment Farm report adds. If there are no older calves, a few calf checkers should be crushed and held in the calf's mouth for a few minutes, or a few checkers can be thrown in the bucket after each calf finishes its milk until they get used to it. At the same time keep checkers in a trough before the calves. They will nibble at the checkers out of curiosity. Before they realize it they will be fully accustomed to the new method of feeding, and in gains and general appearance will soon surpass their bucket-fed brothers and sisters.

ST. JOE BOY IN PORT ANGELES, WASH.

Russell Borthwick writes his mother a few days ago, and portions of his letter were handed us for publication. Here it is:

Port Angeles, Wash.
Aug. 8, 1933.

Dear Mother:

"Well I am in another port, 'Join the Navy and see the west coast,' was in here three or four days last year, I remember going over here to work out for football. It isn't much of a town, a high mountain ridge right behind it, and the Straits in front of it.

"I left the ship at Seattle and went to the rifle range for two weeks, and met it at Tacoma. I went out with the ship's rifle team to shoot in the Battle Form matches. We were third, twelve points below the U. S. S. Maryland, the winner. I shot nearly every day I was out there, and we shoot those big army rifles, so don't think they don't kick. They are somewhat different from the small guns around there. They have a rear peep sight and you sight the bull's-eye on the front sight centered in the peep. It sounds very easy, but it isn't every one who can hold it there, and squeeze the trigger.

"I saw some motorcycle races this afternoon, and some race-boat races., The Tennessee came out first in the latter against the Nevada, Colorado and the New York.

"I got that tie you sent, and thanks a lot, I like it, but I wont get a chance to wear it until we go to the yards again, because my "civies" are at Brenenton.

"Well I'll write again when my ship drops anchor in another port. Don't worry. Tell every one I said Hello."

Your loving son,
Russell.

WHAT OUR SCHOOL COSTS TAXPAYERS

The annual statistical report just prepared by Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, discloses a wide variation in the cost per pupil of operating the township schools of the county last year.

The number of pupils in daily attendance and the facilities offered have much to do with the cost of operation.

Concord township had a total cost of $4,402.89 for 114 pupils in grades 1 to 6, or an average of $38.62; and a total of $7,785.78 for 124 pupils in grades 7 to 12, or an average of $62.75.

Spencer's 79 pupils in grades 1 to 6 cost $52.08 each, a total of $4,114.39; and 65 pupils in grades 7 to 12 cost $129.68 each, a total of $8,436.01.

Newville had 79 average attendance, costing $4,139.88, an average of $52.40.

Jackson, grades 1 to 8, spent $9,276.72 for 171 pupils, an average of $53.93.

The financial status of the schools follows:

Concord, assets, $73,394.82, liabilities, $29,775. The latter include $800 unpaid salaries, $100 transfers, $500 for supplies, $7,500 temporary loans and $500 interest.

Spencer, assets, $62,412.71, liabilities, $1,605.65.

Newville, assets, $20,550.38, liabilities, $1,543.34. The latter consist of unpaid transfers.

Jackson, assets, $21,962.02, liabilities, $3,450. The latter include $3,450 unpaid transfers.

*Based on the latest retail registration figures from R. L. Polk & Company (all states for five full months). Since January first Chevrolet has sold in excess of 370,000 passenger cars and trucks.

People have come to expect Chevrolet to lead the world in automobile sales. But this year, Chevrolet has done even more than that. According to the latest available figures, Chevrolet alone has sold almost as many cars this year as the rest of the low-price field combined!

When a car looms above its field like that, there can't be any argument about it. It must be an all-round better buy. And that's exactly what Chevrolet offers you. Fisher bodies with the new ventilation system and the strongest and quietest body construction of the day—solid steel over a sturdy hardwood frame.* A valve-in-head six engine, unapproached for economy . . . Cushion-Balanced to blot out vibration . . . full of snap and vigor—altogether the most efficient engine in the low-price field.

Then there's Syncro-Mesh with Silent Second—the Starterator—Simplified Free Wheeling, the Octane Selector, long, parallel-mounted springs—more advancements than we have space to describe. And Chevrolet prices are as low as $445.

Don't guess—buy from the leader. Get a car that has been proved sound and dependable by more owners than any other automobile you can buy.

The state line road from the Hurni Corners, 5 miles east of St. Joe, south to the Spencerville road is being graded and put in shape for gravel by the county road department, a road that will be much traveled. But few roads remain in a condition that is impassable in DeKalb county.

The postmasters are compelled to take a vacation of three days per month without pay for July, August and September, and only Monday of this week did this order take effect in St. Joe because the department was undecided just how they should observe the order. The postmasters wanted to close up for three days and of course this would not work. Each postmaster was left to fifure this out for himself, so St. Joe is closed each day from 12:00 to 1:30. This is the way to reduce expenses of the postal department.

The Newville Township Home Bureau held its August meeting at the home of Mrs. Jessie Fuselman at Newville. Seventeen members were present. BARNEY OLDFIELD OUT FOR NEW RECORD

At Indiana State Fair September 2

Barney Oldfield, famous maestro of the speedways, has signed a contract with Indiana state fair officials to attempt a new world's tractor speed record.

The first tractor race ever held in Indiana will be run at the state fair track September 2. Barney Oldfield will drive the air-tired Allis-Chalmers tractor which holds the present A. A. A. record of 35.405 miles per hour.

Just 18 years ago Barney Oldfield last thrilled the crowds at Indianapolis state fair in a match race with Ralph De Palma. At the annual Indianapolis Speedway Race, he is always a colorful figure—with his genial disposition and cigar tilted at the Oldfield angle. His name comes to mind whenever racing is mentioned.

The "Iron Horse" which he will drive is bringing in a new era in farm machinery. Its records, greater highway speeds, and usefulness as an all-purpose farm machine are made possible by the new Firestone low pressure tractor tires which enable it to pull three 14 inch bottom plows at the amazing speed of five miles per hour. The tires require only 15 pounds air pressure, allow large surface contact, give plenty of traction and years of service, reduce fuel and maintenance costs, and add riding comfort.

Two other tractors piloted by local drivers will compete against Oldfield.

And now we have just around the corner our old friend, High Cost of Living.

The real test of the new deal will come when Mother decides to take a forty-hour week.

There's no use trying to understand a world in which people cheer up because they are privileged to pay more.

It must annoy a woodsman, after swinging an ax all day, to hear his dollar called a dole.

Maybe quiet men are strongest. The best stomach is one that never lets you know it is on the premises.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

The Blue Eagle has claws. That is the intimation in recent utterances of Administrator Johnson, aggressive head of national recovery drive. Businesses which display the blue eagle insignia without having signed agreements are in for trouble. So are businesses which fail to keep to the intent, written and implied, of the code. So, according to General Johnson, is anyone withdrawing the blue eagle from his place of business.

The flood of signed agreements continues. Even tho there must be a good deal of readjustment before certain businesses will be able to make NRA principles work, either under the blue eagle or in a trade code, there is almost unanimous sentiment in favor of Administration procedure, with promises to do everythig possible to help.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute, in a recent bulletin, offers the interesting possibility that greatest stumbling block in the way of a blanket code may be excessive taxation. High taxes, according to the Institute, are now causing the abnormal and dangerous spread between wages and prices. No matter how patriotic a business man is, he cannot raise wages and increase operating costs without sufficient additional revenue coming in. Hope of the government is that increased revenue will immediately follow the blanket code's operation.

Labor troubles likewise confront the NRA. Main center of disturbance is in Pennsylvaia coal fields where state troops have been called out and many mines shut down. A. F. of L. is conducting one of the greatest organization drives in its history; many employers are attempting to stick with the open shop or company union plan. Strikes and lockouts, if they spread, will be a tremendous blow to NRA success; official pleas to labor to cooperate have been made by the government.

Yes, business is still getting better. Here's a glance at a few of its many phases:

BUILDING — Home building showing rapid increase; far ahead of last year.

LUMBER—Production up.

AUTOMOBILES — Showing consistent gains in recent weeks.

BUSINESS FAILURES — In week ending July 27, were fewest for any full week this year.

COAL—Both soft and anthracite reported recent increases in production.

COPPER—Prices firm; advance expected shortly.

EMPLOYMENT — Gain for three months ending June placed close to 2,000,000.

CAR LOADINGS—Well ahead of previous years; railroad earnings rising.

The Department of Commerce anounced that steady expansion in industrial activity during July has pushed output to the highest level since the middle of 1930, and to 89 per cent of the 1923-25 average. There followed some indications of a seasonal leveling—which has been avoided so far this year—but there was no sign of an important break.

Large increases have been reported in heavy industries. These businesses are now awaiting public works activity as a major source of revenue and employment in near future. Consumer industries show steady improvement.

Dun and Bradstreet reports that the upward business tide has been but barely affected by the usual summer recession. Excellent sign is the steady appearance of corporation reports indicating fair and good profits; the crop for the previous three years was pretty sad to behold, with may entries in red.

Business revival starts in the east and then spreads westward, precisely as does depression. Pacific coast is the last to feel either; the Atlantic is the first. At present recovery is most potent in the New England territory. Woolen and cotton mills, and shoe manufacturers, are busier than for a long time.

Communities and other public bodies are discovering that public works fund, out of the $3,300,000,000 allotted, are not simply to be had for the asking. It has been decided that preference will be given to projects which tend to create other projects. The following stand high on the preference list: Waterworks projects necessary for a community's health and convenience; sewer projects of the same character, and the building of useful bridges, tunnels and highways.

Also considered, is the state of municipal or county finance when the body makes its application. Those with their finances in order will be most favored.

Private, as well as public, bodies may receive self-liquidating loans when the projects are to be devoted to public use, such as tunnels, dry docks, viaducts, canals, markets and hospitals.

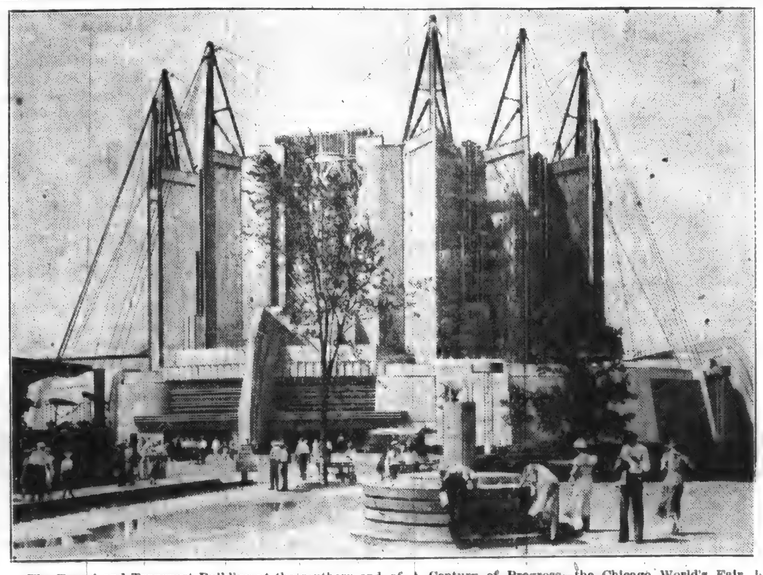
Story of Transport Thrills World's Fair Throngs



The Travel and Transport Building at the southern end of A Century of Progress—the Chicago World's Fair, is the mecca of thousands of visitors daily. Under its unique cable-suspended dome, and throughout its long exhibition halls are hundreds of displays dramatizing the story of man's achievements during the past one hundred years in transporting himself and his goods. All modes of travel are depicted, there being something of interest for everyone. The Travel and Transport Building is one of the many which are free to the public after the 50-cent gate admission is paid

ENROLLMENT DAY IS NEXT FRIDAY

Concord and Spencer township schools will open on Tuesday, September 5 and the largest enrollment in the history of the schools is expected. The buildings are being cleaned, repaired and redecorated and will be ready for opening day. The school year will be eight months long in both grade and high school.

All pupils are urged to be present on Friday morning, September 1st at 8:30 for enrollment. The hacks and busses will haul the boys and girls and it is very important that every pupil be present.

APPOINTED ADMINISTRATRIX

The widow of the late Elza R. Kinsey of St. Joe, Mayola Kinsey, has been appointed by County Clerk, Carl Walter, as administratrix of his estate and qualified by filing $20,000 bond, with I. R. Bowman and C. F. Kinsey as sureties. The estate consists of an estimated $10,000 in personal property and the heirs besides the widow are two sons, Elza DuWayne Kinsey and Earl William Kinsey. The death of Mr. Kinsey took place August 13. The legal notice of the appointment appears elsewhere in this paper.

HAGENBECK - WALLACE CIRCUS AT FT. WAYNE

The good old days are here again, as far as the small boy is concerned,—for, a circus is coming.

The Great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, second largest in the world, is announced for performances, in Fort Wayne, on Monday, September 4.

Hailed as the Highest Class Circus On Earth, the Hagenbeck-Wallace show boasts of countless new features this season, many of them importations from Europe and new to America. Clyde Beatty, world's greatest wild animal trainer, again, heads the list of stellar attractions. Twice daily, this fearless youth gives battle to forty, snarling, and ferocious lions and tigers, declared, the most dangerous, and breath-taking display of all time.

"Poodles" Hanneford, greatest of riding clowns, and the famous Hanneford Family of bare-back riders; the sensational Billetti Troupe of high-wire performers; "Bambayo," the Man from India; the Picchiana Troupe, thrilling spring-board acrobats; the Canestrelly Family, unsupported-ladder performers, and the Flying Hills and Clarkonians, famed troupes of daring aerialists, are, but a few of the one hundred acts and displays which go to make up the gigantic 1933 program of the Great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus this year.

Innumerable horse displays, trained wild animal numbers, herds of performing elephants, educated seals, and scores of thrilling ground and aerial displays, and a new version of, "Cleapatra, Queen of Egypt," lyrical pageant of ancient Egypt which opens the performances, will be additional features.

Performances are scheduled for 2 and 8 P. M., with the main gates opening one hour earlier in each instance, allowing time for leisurely inspection of the big double-menagerie, the largest on tour in the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Skinner, of Topeka, Kan., were Saturday night guests in the Chas. Koch home. They visited the Century of Progress last week also attended the Curle reunion Sunday held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein of Grabill.

GRIST MILL IS BEING REMODELED

F. G. Gauntt, of Fort Wayne, Ind., took charge of the St. Joe Flour and Feed Mill August 21, and is now thoroughly remodeling and programing the plant.

When completed will be equipped to manufacture a high grade of flour and feed and will cater to the wants of the farmers. Paying the highest market price for grain.

For many years Mr. Gauntt was in the manufacture of flour and feed mill machinery in Fort Wayne. During which time he planned and installed many of the best mills throughout the United States, all of which have been successful.

Few mill men have had as broad milling experience, therefore the future success of the mill is assured, which will be a great benefit to the people in this vicinity.

ENJOY A BIRTHDAY PARTY IN WOODS

Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull very pleasantly entertained at the home of their son, Carlton a few old friends of Mr. G. F. Hamilton, in honor of his birthday. Two large bonfires in the woods proved to be a good place to roast weiners, roasting ears and marshmallows. They also served buns, coffee and musk melons.

After supper short talks were given by different members of the party recalling some of the good times of their school days and before goodbye was said all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. John Ulm, Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hamilton and family, and Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull and family. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left Wednesday to visit the Century of Progress before returning to their home at Lincoln, Nebraska.

CONCERTS CLOSED LAST WEDNESDAY EVENING

Concerts in St. Joe the past season drew extra large crowds every night. No one knew what the program was to be but those in charge and the idea went over fine.

At the beginning of the season, talking pictures were used for two months, followed by miscellaneous programs until last week.

Those having charge have the appreciation of the public.

CARRYING CANE 100 YEARS OLD

Dennis Burley appeared on the streets Tuesday morning, carrying a cane and it was one that his father had used. In 1833, at the first old settlers meeting in DeKalb county, an ash log was taken from the first log cabin built in the county and made into canes, to provide a souvenir for each old settler present. The cane bears the date 1833.

This souvenir is prized very highly by Mr. Burley, in fact, he does not carry it much.

DISSEMINATION OF INFORMATION

The letter printed below, dated August 7, was sent to every employer by the National Recovery Administration:

TO ALL EMPLOYERS WHO are not working under codes approved by the President.

HOW DO YOU OBTAIN THE BLUE EAGLE?

A. By 100% compliance.

B. In case code has been submitted.

C. Through petition for relief.

Use one of these three methods:

A. Sign the President's reemployment agreement. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Put its provisions into operation. Sign the Certificate of Compliance. Hand it to your local postmaster who will post your name on the honor roll and deliver samples of the NRA Blue Eagle.

B. Sign the President's reemployment agreement. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Comply with its provisions as far as possible. Now, if a specific code has been submitted by your industry and its wage and hour provisions accepted by our deputy administrator, sign the Certificate of Compliance with this endorsement:

To the extent of NRA consent as annouced we have complied with the President's agreement by conforming with the substituted provisions of the code submitted for the ..... trade or industry.

Present this to your local postmaster who will post your name on the honor roll and deliver the NRA Blue Eagle.

C. Sign the President's reemployment agreement. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. If you find its provisions are mostly impossible, then prepare a petition to the NRA, asking for a stay or postponement of those provisions which would produce an "unavoidable hardship." Submit this petition to the trade association of your industry or, if none, to your local chamber of commerce, or such other commercial organization as can properly vouch for the facts. If officially accepted by one of the above, add the following to the face of your certificate:

Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approval by the ..... Trade Association.

Then the postmaster will authorize you to use the NRA Blue Eagle.

This last procedure may take some time and is, of course, subject to reversal when your petition is reviewed by the NRA.

Thanking you for your cooperation, we are

Very truly yours,
THOMAS S. HAMMOND,
Executive Director, The President's Reemployment Program.

BANK OPENS SATURDAY

Beginning Saturday, September 2nd, Frank M. Brandon, special representative for the department of financial institutions of Indiana, announced today that he would be at the local bank on Saturdays, all day. As he has Ashley and Hudson banks to liquidate, it will take time to set up the books so that he can divide his time among the three banks regularly. Further announcement will be made in The News when a change in schedule is put in force.

CHILD DIES

Dorothy Epler, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Epler, of St. Joe, passed away, Wednesday morning, after an illness commencing last Thursday, developing pneumonia. Fueral arrangements are not made as we go to press.

Grover Curie and family are now at home from Hamilton Lake where they spent the summer in the Curie cottage.

Automobiles Made While You Wait

One of the very unusual exhibits at the Chicago World's Fair is that of General Motors, housed in a vast building in which automobiles are made as vast crowds of visitors watch the process. The above picture is of special interest because the photograph was made by W. G. Stuber, president of the Eastman Kodak Company. He visited the exposition and toured the grounds as an amateur photographer.

There has been no general referendum, by which the people at large can give a secret and candid expression of their views, but the lack of open opposition, and the general display of the blue eagle tends toward the conclusion that the National Recovery Act is going over. Coupled with an open appeal to get in line for the country's good, is another appeal, not voiced, but inherent in the terms of the measure, and that appeal addresses itself to a man's natural desire to better his condition. As the President frankly stated, much work in the direction of recovery must be experimental in nature, and all experiments do not always progress favorably at every stage. If the working out of the recovery program calls for sacrifice now and then, as it is quite likely to do, or if immediate gain to the individual is not in sight, sailors who went abroad in the hope of personal gain will quit the ship. How numerous and powerful they may be cannot be foretold.

Perhaps the most serious menace to a carrying out of the recovery project as planned, lies in the fact that it is hard to convince a person that he should help a movement at a time when he may not think it best for him to do so. What will Congress do when it reassembles and assumes its prerogatives. Incidentally, the seriously conscientious objectors have not been heard from at all, up to the present date, and their strength has not been calculated.

The foregoing are general conditions which every effort of large dimensions must face. The wise will not fail to take them into consideration.

Irrespective of the suggestion that the N. R. A. cannot hope for complete tranquility in a world of trouble, the N. R. A. is moving on. The industries are coming forward with their codes. An expansion of banking credit is promised. An adjustment between supply and demand, and between profits and wages, is looked for. These are honest aims.

General Johnson is quoted as saying that his work will be over by the middle of November. At the opening of the World War, a prominent civilian stated that he would have the boys out of the trenches by Christmas. Subsequent events proved that there was a good deal of work that had to be done after that particular festival. General Johnson is not a civilian, and military men seldom are too optimistic about the exact day on which warfare will cease. Let us believe then that the General has made no mistake, and that by late fall, recovery may become a recognized fact.

The coming of a hurricane sweeping out of the West Indian ocean, was foretold by a line of storm signals which stretched from the Virginia capes to New England, and by means of radio, the warning word was flung afar over the face of the deep. Almost within the memory of men still following the sea, the first definite information respecting such a storm would have been the carrying away of a topsail, or something worse. On the wall of a building in the city of Washington is a tablet which reads: "Samuel F. B. Morse, artist and inventor, opened and operated on this site, under the direction of the Post Office Department, the first public telegraph office in the United States, on April 1, 1845." Morse combined in himself the attributes of the scientist and the dreamer, but it it doubtful whether, even when his dreams carried him into the limit he was prophet enough to foresee all the benign possibilities of communication in an instant of time between places a thousand miles apart.

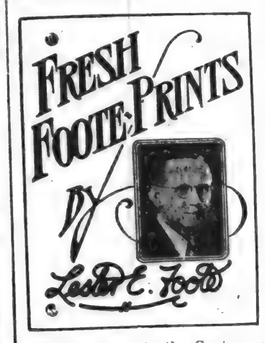
Sharing Mr. Roosevelt's burden of putting the country on its feet is a serious business. Entering into competition with Mr. Morse as a practical scientific benefactor of mankind is no less so. By way of a let-down, it is noted that the fashion column says that the colors of stockings will blend with costumes this autumn. If the stockings match the hue of the most prominent costume area presented to the eye, especially in evening dress, flesh-colored hose will be in order.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Mrs. Wm. Hough and son, Billy, of Columbus, O., are visiting Mrs. Inez Hadsell. Mrs. Martha Driver is also a guest. On Thursday morning Mrs. Hadsell and her guests motored to Muncie to visit her son, Paul Hadsell, and family, returing home Friday evening.

Thursday evening Mrs. Inez Hadsell and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hough and son, will go to South Bend and spend the night with Mr. Hough's mother, Mrs. Andrew Hough, who will accompany the party to Hammond for a day's visit and then to Chicago, where they will visit the Century of Progress, returnig home Labor Day.

FRESH FOOTE PRINTS



By Lester E. Foote

Here we are at the Century of Progress.

Don't be fooled. At the World's Fair, as elsewhere, not all the good things are free. However, most of the educational exhibits are worth-while and no admission charged.

The buildings are cleverly arranged so as to be to the best advantage to the fair. After you arrive at the fair grounds you will probably find your two most interesting features about two miles apart. After seeing your first feature and attempting to reach the second you will see so much that you will be delayed about three days and out about $20.00.

Take the children to toyland. You will enjoy this part of the fair, too.

Everyone likes Ripley's and the Mills freak shows—"Believe It Or Not."

After wandering around in the Streets of Paris for an hour or so we have no desire to visit Paris, France.

The Belgian Village is great. You will enjoy this picturesque place. No dirty shows. Just clean shows and entertaiment. Take the children.

Sally Rand isn't the only clothesless dancer at this big fair. There are dozens of them. "A fool and his money soon part," Yes, we were there too.

Most everyone has seen midgets but imagine seeing one hundred of these smallest adults in the world grouped in one colony right in the heart of the Midway.

Don't miss seeing the Seminole Indian Village, Darkest Africa, and the reproduced mining camp of the Forty-niners which is an exact reproduction even to the saloon with the exception of the whiskey—plenty of beer.

The "Sky Ride" is a real thrill but we found a one way ride worth more money than a round trip.

Sinclair's exhibit of life like motions of roaring dinosaurs that inhabited this world thousands of years ago is among the best of the free things and will only take a very few minutes of your time.

It only cost a dime to see the domestic animal exhibit which includes the world's largest cow, smalest horse, and a score of other unusual animals.

Exhibits showing the best from every state and from most any of the leading countries of the world may be easily seen by any one interested in seeing features of that kind.

Whatever be your trade, profession, business, or hobby you may find extensive lectures, literature, or displays to your full heart's desire.

Down near the South entrance we went "To Hell And Back Again For A Dime." We saw it free and promised to write nothing about the performance if we were not satisfied.

Those interested especially in the religious side of life will find instruction and suitable entertainment. The Christian Science folks have made special effort along this line.

Husky young men will haul you around in wheel chairs or rickshaws for one dollar per hour. Or if you prefer to rest, try an easy chair in the floraculture exhibit gardens.

The eats and drinks are the best and are priced as reasonably as they are at a county fair.

You needn't try walking back to your car. A Grayhound bus will take you back to your entrance gate for only ten cents.

Everyone wonders what will be done with the buildings after the fair closes in November. Practically all of the buildings are beautiful pieces of architecture. Some of them are built strong and permanently; others appear to be built just for the duration of the fair.

See the big fair in the evening with its gorgeous lighting effects.

A wonderful sound system furnishes modern and classical music on all the main thoroughfares.

Balloon rides, boat rides, and airplane rides are available for those who want to rest and at the same time get a general view of the fair, Lake Michigan and Chicago.

The parking problem is easy. Just drive your car up to a block or two from any of the entrances and park for twenty-four hours or less for seventy-five cents. If you don't want to pay so much just park a little farther.

GRANT SPEER OF TOLEDO MADE GOOD ADRESSES

The annual all-day meeting of the DeKalb County Churches of Christ, held in the Gym, Sunday, was expressed as being one of the most successful ever held. The Bible School session, conducted by Willard Hurni, was largely attended, and interspersed by two specials, a duet by Mrs. H. Like and Miss Helen Like, accompanied by Mrs. Lena Meek as pianist. The second number, by the Storer sisters, with Earl Kinsey as accompanist. The noon hour was a satisfying feature for the large crowd, who enjoyed the bounteous basket dinner, arranged by the ladies of the church, in the Domestic Science room. The special numbers preceding the sermon in the afternoon, were a song by the County Men's Chorus, two numbers by the Community Quartet and a solo by Minard Rose of Angola. Mr. Sherwood of Cedar Lake and Mr. W. B. Cox were accompanists for these specials. Mark Williams led the congregational singing. The attracting features of the day were the two splendid discourses delivered by Grant W. Speer, speaker of the day, from Toledo, O. His sound logic and inspirational eloquence reflected spiritual uplift to the congregation, which was held in profound attention. The sessions were conducted by Senator Larry Brandon of Auburn, who, with the other officers, was retained for the ensuing year.

BAND CONCERT

While K. of P. Home Band run behind its schedule Wednesday afternoon in givig its cocerts, yet a good crowd herd them at St. Joe.

THAT CROP FORCAST

The farmer and the grain dealer found one recent government report of great interest. It was the latest crop forecast. Highlight was the wheat crop would not be as short as expected, and prices dropped accordingly. Most remarkable revelation nowever, was that all grain crops will be extremely short. Total will be smallest in decades.

The farm relievers are faced with one very perplexing question—heavy hogs. The nation now has 1,000,000 expectant mother hogs, and if the birth rate is up to normal there will be a great oversupply. Probable solution will be to encourage the marketing of small pigs by paying a higher price per cwt., and by placing a stiff processing tax against heavy hogs. To bring supply in line with demand, it will be necessary to remove 500,000,000 pounds of pork products from the markets during the remainder of this year, and 2,000,000,000 pounds next year.

A 16,561,000-bale cotton crop was forecast for the South. It is estimated that this will be reduced to 12,814,000 bales by the destruction of 10,500,000 acres of cotton plants under contract with the Adjustment Administration.

Jiffy North of Butler is now serving 60 days for public intoxication. His frequent trips to the state farm seem to have no effect on his drinking.

Fay Reichelderfer wife, and son Frederick, of Dayton, Ohio, spent over Saturday night with Mrs. Mary Betz. On Sunday they attended the Betz reunion near Ney, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Glawe left Monday morning to attend the Century of Progress at Chicago. During their absence Mrs. Sommer is taking care of the restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sommer had as guests Wednesday night, Mrs. Emma Shrock and Mrs. May Miller of Topton, Pa., who were enroute home from a visit to the Century of Progress.

About 75 members of the Steward family met in a reunion at the Eckhart Park in Auburn, Sunday, with a basket dinner. The new officers are Arminta Steward, president and Cleo Reed, secretary-treasurer.

The class of 1933 of the High School and their friends met in the first reunion Saturday evening at the home of Miss Ida Reed. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf, Miss Vera Reed and James Reed and wife.

Fred Steward spent the past week with his uncle, Ont Wearley, in Toledo. He was accompanied home by Miss Miriam, Dorothy and Donald Wearley, who will spend the week here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wearley.

The Young Ladies Social Club met in a social meeting on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Ruby Kraft. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Bina Glawe, Mrs. Cleo Reed, Mrs. Ellen Hart and LeAnna Steward. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. LaVern Angel.

Enos Hannon, a veteran of the Spanish America War, aged 79, died on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Emila Gloyd. Mr. Hannon had made his home with Mrs. Gloyd for about two years. He leaves a brother and sister in Fort Wayne. The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the Walter funeral parlors, Rev. Howard Brown officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bowman, of Chicago, were at Fort Wayne over Sunday the guests of their daughters, and also in the John Benninghoff home near Spencerville.

George Berry arrived home Monday from Cleveland, O. George has been working as radio operator on a vessel sailing the lakes and only a few days ago his boat suffered quite an accident. As they were about to pass under a bridge, they signaled for the bridge to be raised, and for some reason it failed to raise and the boat passed through just the same, tearing the rigging completly off, and of course causing heavy damages. The boat will be delayed for weeks in making repairs and many of the crew were sent home.

Many from this place are attending the World's Fair at Chicago. Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall and son, Warren returned home Saturday; Mrs. Bert Fisher and daughter, Josephine spent over the week end; James Reed and wife and Miss Ida Reed will leave the latter part of the week for Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner and son, Robert, and Miss Irene Webb ieft on Thursday, and will also visit the former Miss Lillian Steffey at Hammond. Mr. and Mrs. George Beams are also Fair visitors this week.

HOURS OF HIGHWAY EMPLOYES REDUCED

Reductions in hours and increases in the hourly rate of pay of county highway employes are announced by the DeKalb county commissioners.

The board took this action to spread employment and increase wages in sympathy with the intent and spirit of the rehabilitation program inaugurated under the banner of the national recovery act, no county having yet been required to adopt special wage or time schedules.

All assistant superintendents, grader and tractor men, mechanics, truck drivers and foremen will work eight hours a day instead of ten, with a six day week as before. All single hand labor will work three days a week and eight hours a day. Teams and drivers will be on duty eight hours daily.

Men formerly scheduled at 35 cents an hour will get 43¾ cents, of $3.50 a day. The pay of 25 cents an hour men is raised to 31¼ cents, or $2.50 a day. Drivers of teams will get 50 cents an hour instead of 40. Drivers of teams mowing weeds will get 65 cents an hour instead of 50. Those who now receive 20 cents an hour for an 8-hour day will receive 25 cents an hour.

In emergencies longer hours may be worked at the same hourly rate except assistant superintendents, grader and tractor men, mechanics, truck drivers and foremen, whose total pay is not to exceed that of an eight hour day. All employes will go to and from work on their own time and will furnish their own trasportation when not convenient for the county to do so.

This schedule became effective Wednesday and will continue until a general code for counties is promulgated.

Grogg's Welders of Auburn lost to the St. Joe Merchants Sunday afternoon in a base ball game at St. Joe by a score of 18 to 3. The batteries for St. Joe were Kinsey and Collins and for Auburn, Donley and Refner.

W. F. Wilson, of Fayette City, Pa., brother of Mrs. Ada Berry and Mrs. Mary Betz, arrived here Monday evening, completely surprising the family. A son, E. M. Wilson, of Florida and a daughter, Mrs. E. J. Daughterty and family are members of the party. They are headed for the World's Fair at Chicago, and then on to Kansas City. It has been 16 years since they were here, and then were called here by the death of Mrs. Martha Sherer. They are visiting relatives all along the line of their trip. Mr. John Gardner, Jr., of Fayette City, Pa., is accompanying the party and doing the driving.

GET READY FOR SCHOOL

Approximately 30,000,000 children, ranging from near-graduates to kindergarteners, will converge on our streets and highways this September, all approaching central points. Through the summer they have been scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land; now they are to be mobilized, crossing our thorougfares or country lanes in long lines going to school or coming home.

It is the solemn duty of every motorist to see to it that these youngsters have a safe passage. By following a few simple rules, he can help cut down the toll of 3,400 children killed and 152,000 injured in 1932. Every motorist should remember to approach a school zone with care; to slow down at all intersections; to watch his speed on curves in the country. Above all, he should look out for the unexpected. Children who meet after two months' separation, become so absorbed that they forget about the danger of dashing into the roadway, darting from behind parked cars, or trying to retrieve a ball from under the fender of a moving vehicle. The motorist must do their thinking for them.

The reduction in motor accidents to children of school age in the United States, is the brightest picture in the safety movement, but there still remains much to be done to further reduce the number of tragedies—90 per cent of which are avoidable. Educators, school authorities and teachers constantly emphasize the dangers of modern traffic conditions, to the children. The one person able to bring about great improvement is the motorist. He should drive at all times as he would if his child were out in that crowd ahead.

OFFERS TO SELL SOW TO PRESIDENT

Nine-year-old Frederick Lyle Popple, of Mobridge, S. D., heard the government is anxious to reduce the hog supply and has written President Roosevelt stating he has a "nice, big fat sow." The boy's letter is as follows:

"Dear President:

"I heard that you are going to buy 5,000 pigs from the farmers because they have not enough feed. I have a pig that is about 1 year old. I am willing to sell. How much will you give me for her? She is a nice, big, fat sow. She has not had any pigs yet.

"This is one from a nice bunch of pigs. My uncle, Sam Turner, owns the mother and she is a dandy. She has ten to twelve pigs three times a year. My uncle Sam gave me this sow when she was about five weeks old. She is out in the country and may have no feed or water for her. She is at my Uncle, Joe Turner. I hope you will buy her at a good price. I sure want to sell her.

"I am 9 years old and need the money to buy a mare poney and want to go into the horse business. This is my own typewriter that I am using now.

"Answer soon."

THEIR FIRST REUNION

The first Tustison reunion was held Sunday at Lakeside Park, Ft. Wayne, with 65 relatives in attendance. Lee O. Tustison, of Defiance was chosen as president for next year, with Mrs. Emily Tustison-Hollabaugh as secretary-treasurer. The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Motherwell, of Denver, Colorado, formerly Olive Tustison, of New Haven. The event will be held annually.

NEW BUS DRIVER

Don Keller was awarded the contract for driving the Newville bus route, at a letting Friday night by Trustee Shull and his advisory board. Quite a number of bids were submitted. This route was let to Donald Kinsey some weeks ago, but he resigned the job, making it necessary for a re-letting.

ST. JOE

Basil Sheffer began work Monday in the Zonker Store, as clerk.

Wilbur Yeiser and family were at Peru Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Yeiser and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway and family are at Hobart this week, guests of relatives and attending the Fair at Chicago.

If its news, give it to us.

Monday, September 4, is Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Blue attended the fair at Iona, Mich., recently and visited in the Milo Cooper home.

Byron Widney, accompanied by Ella Keester, of Auburn, visited a cousin, Kimber Weldon, 8 miles west of Coldwater, Mich., Sunday. Mr. Weldon is quite poorly.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randall and Mrs. Iva Tyler were at Lake George Sunday, attending the Pincheon reunion. They were accompaied home by Mrs. M. J. Tully and daughter, Margaret, of Ligonier, for a week.

Mrs. Pluma Hamilton and Mrs. Lela Northrup spent from Friday evening until Sunday in the Lee O. Tustison home at Defiance. Sunday Wm. Hamilton and two children joined them for the day. Chas. Tustison, who is making his home with his son, is reported quite poorly.

Already 60 persons have filed their applications for old age pensions in DeKalb County. It is estimated that there are 150 in the county. Of those making application thirty-five were from men and twenty-five from women. The eldest is eighty-six and the youngest reached the minimum age of eligibility, seventy, on August 19. Twenty-two of the applicants are married and thirty-eight are single. Most of the latter are widows and widowers. To date 41 have applied at Angola.

Films for that camera can be purchased at News office, and you can also leave your films for developing.

FRESH FOOTE-PRINTS

By Lester C. Foote

Recent senatorial investigations proved that farmers are not the only ones who water their stock.

The same newspaper announcing a new barber code carried an ad offering Gillette safety razor blades at a substantial reduction. "It is an ill wind that blows nobody good."

In China the pullers of rickshaws must have a "pullers" license.

While looking over a New York City store's advertisement to find a bargain in shirts we noticed women's handkerchiefs priced at $60 per dozen and silk hose for women priced as high as $400 per pair.

At Muddock, Illinois, over 200 pounds of honey were removed from between the brick and the inside wall of the public school building.

If a child begins to become unmanagable, advises a Chicago expert, switch his attention. The Boston Herald adds: "Ah, how we do progress! That wasn't what they used to switch when we were a boy."

Missouri has an unusually good crop of apples this year.

Sixty-five degress below zero is the coldest weather ever officially recorded in the United States. This was during the winter of 1884 at Miles City, Montana.

For comparison we quote the statistics compiled recently by the United States Labor Department which are intended to show the average wages paid by various countries:

United States	$26.30 per week.
England	$11.37 per week.
Sweden	$10.20 per week.
Germany	$9.02 per week.
France	$7.25 per week.
Belgium	$6.21 per week.
Japan	$5.37 per week.
Hungary	$5.08 per week.
China	$1.31 per week.

We believe that inflation is coming and coming soon. We suggest that you buy your needs now and also, if you have any extra cash to buy now for speculation.

The country in general is alarmed about the possible spread of "Sleeping Sickness" which has caused the death of about fifty persons in St. Louis during one month. Physicians seem to be at a loss in fighting this dreaded disease. About one case out of every six has been proving fatal.

Pete Christopolis, the Omaha orphan who was to be taken into the wealthy Strengs family of New Jersey, proved a big disappointment to his new parents and they will probably return him to the Omaha orphanage. The lad got the big head.

It has been rumored that the Century of Progress would be continued in Chicago for another year but the President, Rufus C. Dawes, has announced definitely that the fair will close on October 31.

Perhaps Moses wrote the first code.

A new type of family reunion is planned by Dr. Jesse H. Briggs, of Churubusco, Indiana, for three thousand persons whom he attended at birth during his thirty years of practice. The date for the reunion has been set for September 17.

CURIE FAMILY REUNE NEAR GRABILL

The third annual reunion of the Christian Curie family was held on Sunday, August 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein near Grabill, Ind. After all had done justice to the bounbeous pot luck dinner, a short business session was held. The officers elected for 1934 were Frank Curie, president and Lucille Curie, secretary and treasurer. The reunion is to be held next year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in contests, singing old songs, and renewing acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Skinner, of Junction City, Kansas, were there and each gave a very interesting talk. Mrs. Skinner is the granddaughter of Laura Curie Whaley, of Topeka, Kansas. At a late hour in the afternoon folks left for their various homes, all deciding they had had a real good time.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moore, nephew Jr. Carmen, were week-end guests of Leon Kees and family.

The Quakers in session at Plainfield, Ind., last week passed resolutions in part as follows: "We protest against the un-Christian and un-American way in which our governor and president have both broken their oath of office, to protect and defend the constitution of the United States, by deliberately spending the time and money to further all plans and program of brewers and liquor interests in breaking down this same constitution."

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

The school term of 1933-1934 is now well under way with an increase in enrollment over previous years. A check up on attendance Tuesday showed thirty-five pupils in Miss Martha Miser's room, twenty-four of whom are in the first grade. Forty-four are enrolled in the third and fourth grades taught by Mrs. Harriet Oberlin. The fifth and sixth grades taught by Miss Cleota Morr number forty-eight. In Junior High School there are seventeen nerolled in the seventh grade, sixteen in the eighth grade and forty in the ninth grade. The Senior High School enrollment shows twenty-nine in the tenth grade, nineteen in the eleventh grade and sixteen in the twelfth. This makes a total of two hundred and sixty-four pupils enrolled to date.

Because of an increased enrollment it has been found uecessary to add a fifth school bus to accommodate the rural pupils attending the local schools.

The Commercial department which is in charge of Mr. Bruce Gerdes received some new typewriters on Tuesday of this week. Fourteen seniors are taking typing this year. Fifteen juniors are enrolled in the shorthand class. There is also a large class taking the one year course in bookkeeping.

Obituary

Dorothy Jane Epler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Epler, was born January 2, 1926, and died in her home in St. Joe, August 30, 1933, having reached the age of 7 years, 7 months and 28 days.

Dorothy leaves one sister, Troas, three brothers, Merl, Jack and Glen, and her parents to mourn her early departure. She also has a large number of more distant relatives and friends in whose memory she will long abide.

Dorothy was a very faithful Sunday School attendant. She will be missed from the Christian Sunday School which she loved to attend, especially that particular group of scholars of her age.

Her sickness lasted but six days, and her death was sudden and unexpected, leaving a broken home that nothing but God's presence can heal.

The funeral was held from the Kinsey Funeral Home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by J. N. Scholes, with interment in the K. of P. Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

It is our desire to thank the friends and neighbors for their expression of sympathy during the sickness and passing of our little daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Epler and Family.

The Monroe family reunion was held Sunday at the Verne Monroe home, north of town.

ROAD PETITION FILED WITH COMMISSIONERS

A petition for the paving of a highway starting at Corunna and running north to the Steuben county line just south of Helmer was filed in the DeKalb county commissioners' court Tuesday by Attorney Fred L. Feick of Garrett.

The petitioners are seeking a black top construction that will be an extension of state road No. 327, which extends between Garrett and Corunna, where it connects with Road No. 6. The petitioners hope to secure the co-operation of the county and the state.

KEITH WILMOT IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

The Hattie Widney truck loaded with produce was badly wrecked enroute to south side market, Ft. Wayne, Saturday afternoon, when a Chevrolet Coupe driven by Samuel A. Tompson of Ft. Wayne side swipped the truck, turning it over into the ditch. The driver of the truck, Harry Stone and Keith Wilmot, who was with him, were both injured. Mr. Stone receiving bruises on his head and body, causing him to become unconscious for a time. Keith suffered a lacerated tendon.

Both parties were rushed to the St. Joseph hospital where Keith underwent an operation and is yet in the hospital. Mr. Stone returned home the same evening badly bruised up. No blame is placed on Mr. Stone, he was on his side of the road going south. The Tompson car coming north at a rapid speed either had to hit another car in the rear on his own side of the road or swing over and hit the truck, which he did. The Tompsons were uninjured.

STEAL A STORE

Robbers backed a truck up to the back door of Miller's General store at Belleville, Ind., Thursday night and removed everything but the counters and shelves, state police reported Friday. Fingerprints left in the store were examined by Claude Dozier of the criminal bureau in an effort to learn identity of the thieves.

JOY FOR WAIF IN RANCH HOME

Lucky Youngster to Have His Chance in Life.

Of unusual appeal is this simple human interest story of a waif rescued from the harshness of the world, written by John Steven McGroarty, in the Los Angeles Times:

"From a certain institution which cares for orphaned children and takes in little human waifs, we have had good news, lately.

"The good news is that the institution has found homes for the waifs that have come to its doors. It is a salvage house which goes out and gathers in children who have been, from one cause and another, cast upon the mercy of the world. Darling little ones, so much like those whom the Wanderer of Galilee gathered about his knees, saying, 'Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.'

"Well, what this children's home that we are talking about does is that it calls in childless men and women and says to them, 'Wouldn't you like to have one of these adorable tykes in your home that now knows no no child's prattle and laughter?' And so the hearts of the childless men and women long for the babies and take them away with them to their homes. It is all very wonderful.

"But, what we started to tell you all in the Synagogue this blessed Sabbath morning is that when we looked over the pictures of the waifs who had been adopted into good homes, we came across a picture of one sturdy little fellow who had been adopted by a rancher. God knows who the little chap's father or mother is. But what difference did it make?

"The picture showed the boy on the ranch, sitting on a farm wagon holding the reins of the horses, and the old rancher sitting beside the boy and smiling proudly down on him. It was a picture so happy that it would almost make you cry just to look at it.

"No doubt other children adopted into good city homes are to be reckoned fortunate. But, this boy who was taken into a ranch home is more fortunate still. He will grow up to be a real man. The strength of the good earth will grow into the fiber of his soul and body. He will live with nature. He will know the delight of green things growing. Seedtime and harvest will be his. He will know what Lincoln knew when a boy and what Washington learned from sun and rain and forest trees.

"It is wonderful just to be a boy anywhere, but to be a boy with nature to companion and teach him is the most wonderful thing of all.

"God keep all boys, and all girls, too. But, you, little fellow out there on that ranch, God is very near you now, and he will have you in the shadow of his wing."
